

Russ-Peiping Conflict Aided Powers' Release

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's decision to release U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers probably was inspired at least partly by concern in Moscow over its increasingly bitter political conflict with Red China.

U.S. officials Saturday said the latest move in the complicated diplomatic game now being played between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev gives new evidence that Khrushchev wants to improve relations with the United States when he can do so at little expense or inconvenience.

Thus in recent weeks he obviously has favored an increase of top-level exchanges of ideas as exemplified by the visit to Kennedy of Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law.

The reasons Khrushchev wants to improve Soviet-U.S. relations are, (1) the widening rift between Moscow and Peiping holds danger of a future threat to Russia's power position, and (2) Khrushchev fears the consequences of a U.S.-Soviet nuclear war and hopes to avoid any such catastrophe.

Those reasons received high priority in administration quarters Saturday as experts on Soviet behavior puzzled over the answer to the question: Why did Khrushchev agree now to approve the swap of Powers for Red spy Col. Rudolf Abel?

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said "The growing tension between the governments of Red China and Russia would tend to make the Russians more friendly with us."

Government informants said Soviet leaders seemed anxious to get Abel back to Russia just as the United States was anxious to recover Powers.

One striking aspect of the deal is similar to that which has characterized other Khrushchev moves. It cost him nothing in terms of real Soviet aims.

Thus the really critical question in the policy considerations underlying Saturday's dramatic event is this: Does Khrushchev fear nuclear war enough, and does he think better East-West relations important enough to begin to make accommodations on major issues with the West?

Possibly he thinks nuclear war can be avoided with less upset to his grand designs. Perhaps he really

Secrecy Blankets Exchange, Return of U2 Pilot to U.S.

WASHINGTON (Sunday) (AP)—An Air Force transport plane from overseas landed at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., early today and two persons dressed in civilian clothes hurried off the aircraft — leaving spectators uncertain whether one was U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Air Force officers at Washington and the crew of the plane declined to discuss the identity of the passengers. The four-engine transport taxied up before the terminal building at Andrews. Two men in civilian clothes hurried down the steps, ran to a helicopter and were whisked away.

Spy Swap Hailed by West

LONDON (UPI)—Western Europe Saturday hailed the Powers-Abel exchange as a triumph of American diplomacy and one London newspaper said President Kennedy had handled the swap "with consummate theatrical skill."

Many Western European countries expressed belief the exchange would improve the international climate. The belief in Moscow among foreign diplomats was that the Soviets would reap a rich diplomatic and political harvest.

IN ROME, the Italian government went ahead with its plans to try Bulgarian 2nd Lt. Miluse Solakov on charges that he carried out a Powers-type aerial reconnaissance mission over NATO missile bases in southern Italy.

The British Foreign Office said it "welcomes" the release of Francis Gary Powers because of the possibility it will ease tensions. The London Evening News called it a political triumph for Kennedy.

It added that Powers could not be sure of the welcome he will get in America "because he confessed so busily at his Moscow trial."

Prominent Nevada Pair Lost on Flight

ELKO, Nev. (UPI)—E. J. Questa, president of the First National Bank of Nevada, and hotelman Newton Crumley were overdue and feared lost Saturday night on a flight from Palm Springs, Calif., to Elko.

Crumley, piloting his seven-passenger Aero Commander, had been due in Elko late Saturday afternoon.

$900 MILLION FOR L.B. Huge Development Outlined in I, P-T

Growing with the vibrancy of a teen-ager, Long Beach will take on height and breadth this year in a big way, reports Ken Chilcote, Independent, Press-Telegram business editor in today's Business and Realty Section. And, he continues, the city is glowing in health—economic health—thanks to the great construction program.

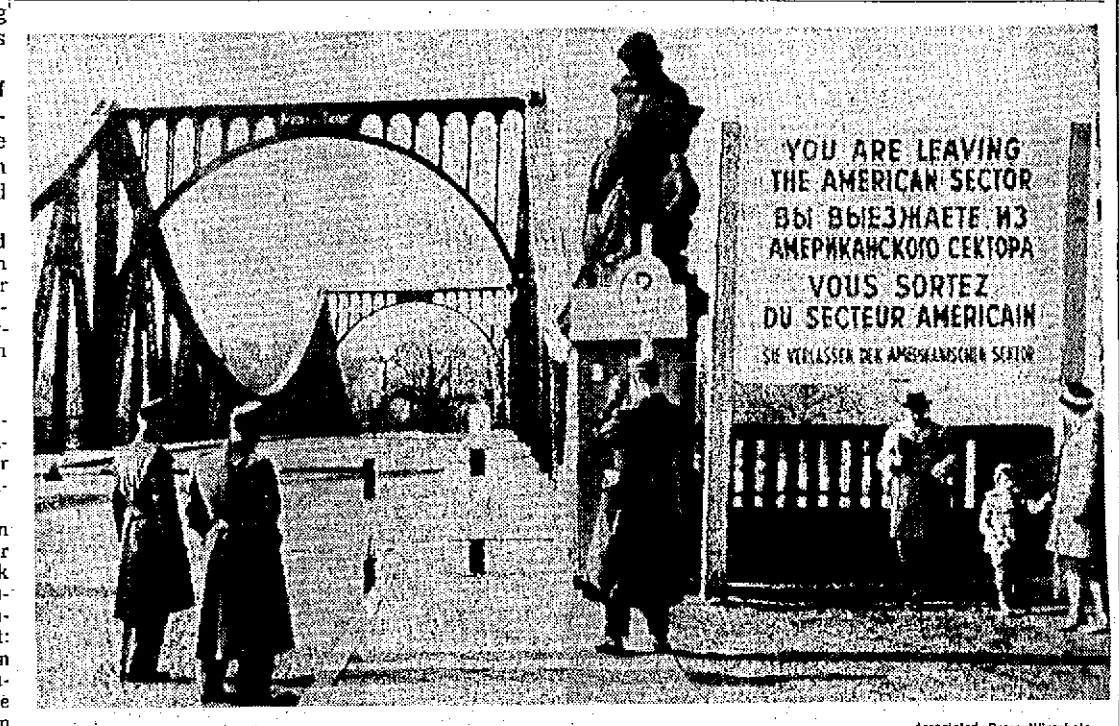

Private capital—not government aid—is behind this more than $900,000,000 outlay for developments in the Long Beach area. This bolstering of Long Beach economy already is being reflected in boosts in real estate values.

Illustrated in the section is the huge new project in the Port of Long Beach where 310 acres is being reclaimed from the ocean.

You will find listings of large luxury homes available in the Long Beach area on appealing terms; bits of chit-chat on business in the area and other stories on businessmen and their activities.

Whether you are hunting a home or interested in business, you will find interesting reading each Sunday in the Business and Realty Section.

The parents of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers left their Norton, Va., home by car Saturday night for a rendezvous with their son at an undisclosed location. A family spokesman declined to say where they were headed.

Germany Convicts Russ Spy

KARLSRUHE, Germany (UPI)—West Germany Saturday convicted a Soviet citizen of spying and sentenced him to four years in prison. The Soviet news agency Tass denounced the trial as "scandalous" and said guilt was never proved.

Valentin A. Pripolzev, 43, an engineer on a Soviet trade mission in Cologne, was found guilty of "treasonable activities and attempt to spy on state secrets." He was the first Soviet citizen to be sentenced by West Germany on spy charges.

FOUR DAYS ago the Soviet Union formally protested the scheduled trial in a note by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov.

Calif. Congressman, Wife Hurt in Crash

COBLESKILL, N.Y. (AP)—A California congressman was in satisfactory condition in a hospital here Saturday after his automobile struck a tree during a snowstorm.

Rep. Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera, Calif., a Democrat, and his wife were injured Friday night in East Worcester when their car skidded on a curve.

Crack Train Crashes Into Freight; 10 Injured

LIGONIER, Ind. (UPI)—A freight train jumped the tracks into the path of a New York Central passenger train speeding alongside it Saturday, injuring 10 persons and derailling 30 cars into a cornfield. There were no deaths.

Skindiver Lost Off Newport

NEWPORT BEACH (UPI)—A skindiver identified as William B. Betler, 25, of 10902 Devonshire Place, Garden Grove, was missing and presumed drowned Saturday night.

Two men who with Betler had rented skindiving equipment reported him missing. They said he had an hour's supply of oxygen when they last saw him.

A search of the surf was called off when the water became too rough.

Clearing Sky Seen Sometime Monday

More rain was dumped into Southern California during the night and even more is expected today.

But after that, the weatherman said almost confidently, "At last we can look down the barrel and see a little daylight."

Clearing weather was expected sometime Monday.

A laggardly storm front inched southward into the Long Beach area early today long after it had been expected originally.

That caused a drastic revision in predictions which had called for clearing weather today.

By midnight the total rainfall for the season had passed the 10-inch mark and the storm total was nearing 4 inches.

THE STORM front which moved through in the night was followed by another which was expected to strike Southern California late tonight.

An additional one to one and one-half inches of rain was expected to fall by early Monday morning. Some local areas were due for thunderstorms, the Weather Bureau said.

Floodwaters caused by the rain—which now has poured down in a marathon five-day performance—have left hundreds homeless and caused widespread damage.

AUTHORITIES stood by in flood-prone areas to help evacuate residents if necessary.

At least six deaths have been attributed to storm-caused accidents throughout the Southland and countless cars have been stalled. Small-craft warnings are up along the Southern California coast.

Storm-caused cable damage was blamed for a power failure that blacked out a Lakewood area for 41 minutes Saturday afternoon. The area affected is bounded by Deebayar Avenue and Klondike Street and by Carson Street and Del Amo Boulevard.

Gusty winds are expected to accompany the rains today.

ACTOR Richard Boone called in a construction company Saturday night to help protect his $100,000 canyon home from mudslides. The actor lost a home in the 1959 fire. He stood by his Spanish-type mansion in the Santa Monica mountains while workers piled up sandbags to

Bonn Set for Reply to Soviet

BONN (UPI)—The West German reply to the Soviet memorandum of Dec. 27 proposing separate Bonn-Moscow talks on Berlin will be completed next week, the Foreign Ministry announced Saturday.

The reply was discussed in detail during a two-day conference between Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and his ambassadors to Washington, London, Paris, Rome, NATO and Moscow. The meeting ended Saturday.

The cabinet was expected to consider the draft reply in its Wednesday meeting, and the parliamentary foreign affairs committee will study it Thursday.

HANS KROLL, ambassador to Moscow, was expected to return to Moscow early this week.

Kroll is known to favor direct Bonn-Moscow talks but he has been instructed not to interfere in the current round of diplomatic soundings being conducted by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson on behalf of all the Western powers.

'Worst' Blaze Hits Ft. Wayne

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The worst fire in Fort Wayne's history raged out of control in the downtown business section more than six hours Saturday before it was contained. Firemen said it could possibly last into Sunday.

Nine persons were injured, none critically, in the million-dollar blaze which started in a department store's warehouse store.

Hundreds of firemen and volunteers were called to duty as the flames spread through four large buildings.

L.A.C. Says: Where the Billions Will Come From

More than half of all the President's new $93-billion budget will be financed from income taxes on individuals. And the greatest amount will come from families in the lower-income groups. This is because they far outnumber those in the higher-income groups. The rich will be paying rates of up to 91 per cent of their incomes while the lowest tax-paying group will be paying 20 per cent of their taxable income.

Here is a chart from U. S. News showing how the various income groups will be paying income taxes for a family of four:

Income	Tax	Income	Tax
$ 5,000	$ 420	$ 25,000	$ 5,318
10,000	1,372	50,000	15,976
15,000	2,486	100,000	44,724

Taxes will take 91 per cent of all income above this highest figure.

This, however, is just the start of the taxes each of these families will be paying. In addition, they will be paying excise taxes on cigarettes, liquor, travel tickets, telephones and numerous other items. By the time they pay their local property, sales and state income and sales taxes the average family will be paying about 30 per cent of income in some form of taxes.

How far this spiraling taxation can go without a crash is worrying many people and organizations. The federal budget for the year starting next July 1 is 15 per cent higher than the 1960 budget just before the President took office. National defense expenditures are only 15 per cent above the 1960 budget. On the other hand, nondefense spending will be 37 per cent higher.

One gets an idea of how things have changed when we look back to 1927 when the total federal budget was $2.9 billion—about half of what we will spend this year on the farm program. During these 35 years our population has increased about 100 per cent—the federal budget will have increased 3,100 per cent.

Many people are complacent because they think rich men and the corporations are paying most of the bills. They are wrong. Corporation taxes are estimated at about $27 billion, or slightly more than half of the total paid by individuals. It must also be remembered that the 52 per cent of corporate profits taken by the government must first be made by charging this to the people for products made and sold. If all the income of the high-income groups was taken—after present taxes—it would not equal the increased spending of the Kennedy administration since it took office.

These are factors that should be considered by every family as they read of the increased welfare, foreign-aid and farm programs. The people are willing to pay whatever is necessary for national defense. But the greatest increased cost of the Kennedy program is for nondefense projects. We do not know what the limit may be—but at some point government can spend itself into bankruptcy just as can an individual or family.—L.A.C.

How Did U2 Come Down?

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
United Press International

What actually happened to Francis Gary Powers' U2 reconnaissance plane?

Powers, facing interrogation by the Central Intelligence Agency and military authorities, will be questioned most intensely on that point. The things the CIA and the Air Force want to know, observers believe, are:

How was Powers' plane forced down?

Do the Russians actually have an anti-aircraft missile that could have shot down Powers' U2 from an altitude of at least 68,000 feet?

Why was Powers flying, as he said at his trial, at 68,000 feet when the maximum altitude of his plane for such a mission was much higher?

Powers plane plummeted to earth 1,300 miles inside the Soviet Union on May 1, 1960. The Soviets claimed triumphantly that the spidery, long-winged spy plane had been felled by "the first shot" from a "remarkable new rocket."

U.S. military men were skeptical. They were reluctant to be quoted, but the most widely published explanation attributed to them was that Powers' plane probably experienced engine failure, a so-called "flame-out," and he descended to a much lower altitude, perhaps 35,000 feet, to restart his engines. At that level, the U2 may have been struck by a rocket or perhaps even fire from an interceptor, observers said.

Powers, himself, never has said specifically what happened to his U2. He said at his celebrated Moscow "show trial" during August 1960, that his U2 was struck down from an altitude of 68,000 feet. He avoided saying it was hit by a rocket.

Under questioning by chief prosecutor Roman A. Rodenko, Powers said he was flying at 68,000 feet.

Rodenko, asked the leading question of whether it was at that altitude that Powers had been "shot down by a rocket."

Powers replied:

"It was at that altitude that I was struck down by something. I have no idea what it was. I did not see it."

The pilot's father, who attended Powers' trial, said at a New York press conference Aug. 25, 1960, that his son "didn't believe he was shot down." He refused to confirm the theories that his son dropped to a low altitude to try to restart his plane's stalled engines. He said only that Powers "did not land the plane."

Whether Powers' reference to 68,000 feet was a revelation of fact or whether he merely was telling his Soviet judges what they wanted to hear remains unknown.

Astronaut's Take-off Now Set for Feb. 14

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Encouraging tests on a newly repaired rocket Saturday gave scientists a tentative "go-ahead" for another attempt to launch America's first astronaut into orbit Wednesday.

Informed sources said top officials of the nation's $400-million Mercury man-in-space program had overridden efforts by at least one organization to remove the balky Atlas booster and substitute another for the orbital flight of John H. Glenn Jr.

Repairs on the rocket, Atlas No. 109-D, were completed this week and scientists took careful aim on a Valentine's Day firing date for the rocket flight that should send the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel on a three-orbit trip.

But reports persisted that the manned orbital flight, postponed seven times in the past two months, may yet slip "another day or so."

Half of the previous delays have been called during the final four days of checks on the 93-foot combination of Atlas booster and Mercury space capsule. Saturday, scientists started another of the four-day periods.

Also looming as a threat—perhaps more seriously than at any previous time during the past two months—was the weather. During the past week torrential rains and high winds have raked the cape.

Glenn himself, anxious to get started on the 81,000-mile journey—remained on the cape, running through simulation tests and keeping a close eye on preparations.

Gulf Oil Prepares for Tests in Oregon

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Gulf Oil Co. of California said Saturday it is opening an "exploration office" here, with a two-man staff.

Indications are that Gulf might drill for oil in western Oregon this year.

School Board
Yields in Row

CUERO, Tex. (AP)—The Cuero School Board has decided it's all right for girls in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades to wear slacks to school in cold weather.

An unusual January freeze in deep South Texas set off a month-long dispute between parents and the board. It ended Friday when Supt. John Barnes announced a change in rules.

Previously the schools allowed girls in the first three grades to wear slacks whenever they chose. Girls in the next three grades, however, had to wear a dress over slacks and remove the slacks upon reaching school.

prevent any possible slippage. Swimming pools throughout that area were filled with mud. Many canyon roads, such as Coldwater and Topanga were closed by slides.

By late Saturday, Ventura County had been hit hard by the storm with at least six inches of rain reported at all stations and as much as a foot of rainfall at some points.

Floodwaters forced evacuation of hundreds of persons from their homes in the county and closed roads.

WATER up to four feet deep was reported in the Nyeand Acres area near Oxnard, and residents of the Live Oaks area in the Ventura River Valley were threatened with possible isolation after the Santa Ana Road bridge was cracked by high waters.

Mitilija Dam in Ventura County overflowed Saturday for the first time in years.

Three homes in Encino were reported sliding slowly down a hill.

Driving conditions in the Long Beach area were made hazardous by poor visibility and a rash of minor accidents was reported. No streets were blocked off, however.

SUPERVISOR Warren Dorn urged persons to stay away from mountain areas and flood-control channels. Dorn is chairman of the county's three emergency departments. He said mudslides and rain-swollen rivers and flood channels are dangerous in some areas.

A dam in Frazier Park, eight miles west of Lebec on U.S. Highway 99, the Ridge Route, north of Los Angeles, was reported on the verge of washout. About 25 families were evacuated and twelve homes under construction in the area were endangered.

Wheelchair Patient Hit, Driver Flees

A wheelchair patient at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital was injured critically Saturday when her chair was struck by a hit-run driver, Downey police reported.

Officers said Erva Eleanor Smith, 46, was in a crosswalk on Imperial Highway at Horton Avenue on her way to another part of the hospital when she was knocked from the chair and suffered a broken pelvis.

Arrested at his home around 4 p.m., two hours later, and booked on suspicion of hit-and-run driving was Ismael Mendoza Mendoza, 30, of 8732 Stewart and Gray Road, Downey. He is an employee of the hospital, police said.

Witnesses told officers that the victim was hurled from the chair when the vehicle struck it and that the chair lodged under the back bumper of the car. The suspect stopped, pulled the chair out from under his car, and drove off, officers stated.

Designers Complete '66 Fair Plans; Envision Landmark to 4 Freedoms

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS
The dream of a World's Fair in Long Beach in 1966 has reached the drawing boards, president Nelson McCook announced Saturday.

A team of designers has completed drawing board conceptions of how the fair may appear, when built on new Pier J in the Long Beach Harbor. The designs are keyed to the announced theme of the fair — "Planet of Man" — the "Planet of Man" — and the contemplated buildings are of the type that will become permanent additions to the city.

The keynote of the fair is expressed, McCook said, in a four-spired tower. Architects have designed this to rise 700 feet above the harbor, on the southeast tip of Pier J.

Each of the four spires represents a freedom — freedom of speech, freedom from want, freedom from hunger and freedom of religion.

"It is our hope that this tower will become as much of a landmark for the West Coast as the Statue of Liberty is for the east," McCook said.

Architects and designers of the Aetron Corp., who made the drawings released by McCook Saturday, envisioned the tower as rising from a great fountain, at one corner of a huge triangular show building.

Underneath it would be a giant, two-story aquarium.

Five domes rise from this triangular building. To the west, the designers contemplate an outdoor amphitheatre.

The inner side of Pier J, for which preliminary construction work is now under way in the harbor, is contemplated as a site where ocean-going liners may moor and debark their passengers directly on the site of the fair.

As with the Seattle Century 21 exposition that opens this April, the designers envision a monorail or similar transportation system, running from downtown Los Angeles directly into the pier. Three helicopter sites are envisioned at various complexes on Pier

J, which will be linked to the new Pier II and to established Pier A.

The design of the fair, as it is now envisioned, contemplates using an extension of Pier A, jutting southeast from Pierpoint Landing, as the amusement center. An international exposition is planned for Pier H.

McCook emphasized that the artist's conceptions now created are not necessarily the final plans.

"With several years in which to complete the detailing of this exposition," McCook said, "the plans we now have represent only a good start. They are subject to continual improvement."

Teen Model's Dream Dies in Sordid Raid on Photo Ring

By SHERM WILLIAMS
A platinum-blond teen-ager — just budding into womanhood — sobbed her dreams away Saturday night in Juvenile Hall.

She cried for her mother, booked, then released on bail on charges of contributing to her daughter's delinquency.

And she wept for the modeling career she had wanted so badly that she had posed for nude and, vice officers say, markedly lewd photos.

The girl, her mother, Mrs. Katherine Roberts, 37, of 6025 Quinn St., Bell Gardens, and four other persons were arrested Friday when sheriff's vice officers smashed an alleged pornographic-photo ring.

ALSO ARRESTED were Sharon Sue Morrow, 18, of Montebello, William Francis Miller, 54, of Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Andro Mardesich, of 334 17th St., San Pedro. Mardesich is 53, his wife 42.

Officers confiscated 5,000 photographs and negatives and 12 reels of allegedly obscene movies in the raids in San Pedro, Bell and Bell Gardens.

The name of Mrs. Roberts' daughter was withheld because of her age.

Deputies said the young girl told them it began with her dreams of becoming a famous model. The dream was nurtured, she said by Miller.

TWO WEEKS ago a couple returned from an outing in San Gabriel Canyon and reported seeing a sex orgy being photographed in the woods. The couple took down an auto-license number and officers traced the car to Miller.

He was arrested at his home. Miss Morrow was with him. Miller who had a previous arrest in connection with the preparation of lewd films, and Miss Morrow, told officers that the Mardesichs and Mrs. Roberts were involved in the ring.

The Mardesichs were jailed on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and sex perversion. Mardesich also was booked on suspicion of preparing obscene materials.

MILLER, THE girl told officers, after winning the confidence of her mother, convinced them both he could help her become a model.

The mother, like the daughter, has platinum-blond hair. The girl looked older than her 16 years when arrested. The makeup on her face showed the almost tortured effort of a girl trying to arrive at a professional model's sheen.

THEN, SUDDENLY, tears came. The makeup was washed away.

A shy girl, struggling with sobs, told juvenile officers about her dreams. She asked "She didn't realize," a deputy said. "She just didn't know."

Outline Issues on Ballot

By BOB HOUSER
L. P. T. Political Editor

Pros and cons of ballot measures in the Feb. 27 municipal election will be discussed at a public meeting of the League of Women Voters at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Community Hospital Auditorium, Termino Avenue and Pacific Coast Highway.

Loren W. McCannon, assistant city manager, will explain the ballot measures. League members will present pro and con arguments on each proposition. A question-and-answer period will follow.

Mrs. David Mealiffe, voters' service chairman, will moderate. Members of the speakers' bureau under direction of Miss Marjorie Dougherty will participate. They include Mesdames Arthur Kempster, Charles Blevins, Alfred Strum, Ralph Gordon, Frank Ochoa and Harry Simon.

SEAL BEACH GOP

Dr. John R. Van de Water, associate professor of industrial relations at UCLA, will speak at a Saturday Lincoln Day luncheon of the Seal Beach Republican Women's Club in the Santa Ana Elks' Club, 212 S. Mabury St.

The speaker is an attorney, labor relations consultant and author and has lectured on cold-war strategy in the USAF Air War College.

Mrs. James S. Gallagher, Santa Ana, is general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Jack T. Cairns, Seal Beach. Mrs. Major Johnston, Seal Beach, is ticket chairman.

HUNTINGTON BEACH

John McGrew, GOP candidate for Congress in the West Orange County 34th District, will speak at the Huntington Beach Federated Republican Women's membership tea, 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 21 in Lake Park clubhouse.

Terry Jones, of GOP Central Committee headquarters, will speak at the first meeting of a five-session workshop at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 26 in the recreation center. Westminster Federated Republican Women will join the Huntington Beach club in the study sessions.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Algerian Terror Attacks Kill 13

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—French security forces Saturday arrested 21 suspected members of the Secret Army Organization and seized a small arsenal of weapons in a house-to-house search through the teeming European workers' district of Bab-El-Queid.

But terrorists continued to take a heavy toll across Algeria. At least 13 persons were killed and 59 wounded in scattered attacks, raising the unofficial toll since Jan. 1 to 736 dead and 1,302 wounded.

The worst incident was in the port city of Bone in eastern Algeria where two plastic bombs leveled the prefecture offices. Thirty-seven persons, including 24 children drawn into the street by the first explosion, were injured, some of them seriously.

Romney to Seek Governorship

DETROIT (AP)—George Romney declared himself a Republican candidate for governor of Michigan Saturday, but refused to be drawn into a discussion of any possible presidential hopes two years hence.

Romney said he would request a leave of absence Monday as chairman and president of American Motors Corp., a $150,000-a-year job, to seek the $25,000 one now held by first-term Gov. John B. Swainson, a Democrat.

Charles Laughton Cracks Collarbone

NEW YORK (AP)—A cracked collarbone suffered in a bathtub fall in Flint, Mich., has actor Charles Laughton in the hospital here.

A spokesman for the Hospital for Special Surgery, where Laughton was moved several days ago from a hospital in Flint, said Saturday Laughton was doing well but was in considerable pain.

His collarbone is fractured, but the fracture "is not severe and there was no displacement," the spokesman added. He said it was not known how long the actor must remain in the hospital.

Laughton was on tour in his one-man show of readings when the accident occurred.

Gunmen Slay Patron, Whip 7

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two bandits—cursing and shouting obscenities—held up a restaurant early Saturday, shot a patron to death and pistolwhipped seven others.

The gunmen abducted two women patrons and forced them to accompany them when they fled, but released them a short time later. Police said the gunmen got away with $6,000 in cash and jewelry.

The dead man was Armand Rivard, 42, a circulation department truck driver for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner. He was shot in the back without provocation, police said.

Freighter Goes Broadside

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Ocean swells from a Pacific storm halted efforts Saturday to refloat the grounded Chickasaw and forced the vessel broadside to the beach.

The 439-foot vessel went aground on a reef off Santa Rosa Island during a heavy rainstorm Wednesday. The island is about 25 miles west of the California mainland. Breeches buoys have been strung to take off the ship's four passengers and 45 crew members if necessary.

RFK Relaxes in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Sunday) (UPI)—Robert F. Kennedy relaxed today in this western outpost in the shadow of Communist China after a busy weeklong visit to Japan where Communist efforts to ruin his good will mission flopped.

Kennedy flew in here Saturday, more than three hours behind schedule because of bad local weather conditions. His late arrival caused postponement until today of his scheduled courtesy call on the governor general of this British crown colony.

Jayne Limps Aboard Airliner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jayne Mansfield limped aboard an airplane with her husband, Mickey Hargitay, Saturday en route from the Bahamas, where they spent a night marooned on an ocean reef.

They planned to fly to Dallas, Tex., to see their three children and her parents. The actress said she felt shaky after the Wednesday night ordeal that followed a boat accident. She suffered from insect bites, exposure and shock.

Guards' Slaying Stirs Furor

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Two Koreans caught in a restricted zone were shot and killed by U.S. security guards, bringing denunciations Saturday from Seoul newspapers.

A U.S. Army announcement said U.S. soldiers acted in line of duty Tuesday, when the shootings took place. The Army said one Korean refused to halt after repeated warnings and the other tried to escape while being searched for weapons.

Mao Sets Up 'Showdown' With Russia

LONDON (UPI)—Red China's Mao Tze-tung is organizing a major congress of Afro-Asian Communist leaders that may trigger a showdown with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev over his "soft" brand of international communism, Western experts said Saturday.

The congress has been called for March 5 in Peiping—the same day the Soviet Communist Party's ruling Central Committee is scheduled to meet in Moscow.

DIPLOMATIC dispatches reaching here Saturday said leaders from Communist parties throughout Asia and Africa—as well as some Europeans—have been invited to attend the Peiping congress.

Both congresses were reported to have put the explosive Sino-Soviet ideological dispute on their agendas.

Mao apparently intends to enlist the open support of other communist leaders, especially in Asia and Africa where Red Chinese influence has been very active lately.

The meetings were therefore believed to be preparing for a climax in the Sino-Russian dispute which could set the scene for a major showdown.

MAO, WHO has been seeking support in Asia, may get it from the Communists of North Korea, North Viet Nam, Indonesia and Japan. Indian Communists are divided because of Red China's aggression. Outer Mongolia recently came out in support of Russia.

Red China also may find support among Africans.

83-Year-Old Woman Robbed

An 83-year-old woman lost at least $15 to a purse-snatcher Saturday, police reported.

Mrs. Ada M. Bachelder, 129½ Prospect Ave., told officers she was walking west on Division Street east of Prospect Avenue when the thief, described as a red-haired youth wearing a dark jacket, grabbed the purse from her arm and fled. She was not injured.

Off-Broadway Stage Needs 19 Actors

Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lima Ave., will hold readings at 2:30 p.m. today at the theater for parts in "Mr. Robert."

Eighteen men, 20 to 40 years old, and one girl to play a Wave, are needed.

Jerry Lewis Was Poorer, Now Gets $50,000 a Week

By JOHN DIXON
(L. P. T. Staff Writer)

LAS VEGAS — Cinderella was a piker compared to Jerry Lewis.

In Newark, N.J., his family was so poor he had to wear a beat-up sweater to the high school prom. "I was the only one without a suit. I wore the sweater inside out. It looked better that way."

And now, at age 35... —Jerry Lewis has a seven-year, $10-million contract with Paramount. "The biggest talent transaction in Hollywood history."

—His Al Jolson-ish version of "Rock-a-bye Your Baby" has sold a million Decca records. "They gave me the best deal ever made for a record artist—10 per cent."

—He is paid $50,000 a week to play at Vegas' Sands Hotel. "The biggest check anyone's ever had here except for Frank (Sinatra), who gets the same price."

—Jerry has met four presidents ("President Kennedy is a good friend"), marketed "Adventures of Jerry Lewis" comic books, established five corporations.

What makes Jerry run? "A fellow can do anything he seriously wants to do," Lewis profounded in his Sands dressing room between shows. "You believe in yourself, you work, you succeed. I'm not ashamed of dedication."

"I've written, directed, acted, danced, worked with electronics—because they interest me. I KNOW they are within my capacity."

"I love to perform. I have fun giving others fun. What success I've achieved comes from the Man Upstairs—he's been giving me direction."

"You play up to people, not down. You owe them that respect. There's no vulgarity in my shows. I'd quit before I would be dirty."

"I have no admiration for Hollywood people who aren't respectful, and there are many. I put on a show that my kids can attend."

"My family comes first," Jerry solemnly professed while he pointed to his wife, Patti, and five sons, whose pictures wallpapered his recuperation quarters. "My job is to make my sons the best possible citizens. My business comes second."

"I'm 'daddy' at home, not

Mail Train Jumps Rails; Seven Hurt

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (UPI) — Seven mail clerks were injured and the Santa Fe main line was blocked Saturday when an express train was derailed about 10 miles east of here.

Four diesel units and 13 cars of an eastbound train left the tracks. The cars were criss-crossed on the tracks.

The Super Chief and El Capitan were stranded in Williams. Railroad officials said a new section of track would be completed by early today, allowing traffic to continue.

The injured were identified as Arthur Winters, 41, Kingman, Ariz.; Frank Gallegos, 30, Edward Hook, 56, Walter Hiteshue, 57, Orazio Garcia, 28, Jose Romero, 25, and Charles Knight, 60, all of Albuquerque, N.M.

First reports were that nine persons had been treated.

Smallpox Inoculations Due for Leopoldville

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — Medical authorities announced plans to vaccinate the entire population of Leopoldville against a smallpox epidemic despite African superstition.

Authorities said since Jan. 1 there have been 53 deaths. 16 of them in the past two days. About 90 per cent of the fatalities were children under 12.

A total of 213 cases have been reported this year, officials said.

JERRY LEWIS
A Million Records

Jerry Lewis. My sons come into the den and tell me, Daddy, Jerry Lewis is on television."

Jerry is a do-gooder. "If I didn't give something to someone every day of my life, I couldn't sleep. It gives ME great pleasure."

He once gave his $250 suits to his valet, but they changed the valet's personality. He could no longer put his heart into service. In their younger days, Sammy Davis Jr. and Tony Curtis wore Jerry's hand-me-downs.

The bellboys love Lewis in Vegas. "He's just as funny off stage as on." And he loves them. "I'm hurt all day if they don't speak to me."

The customers on the casino's roller coaster love him most of all when he storms the blackjack tables between performances "to give the players a very good deal."

The big spenders at the little tables in the Copa Room love him for 23-spotlight jokes like these:

"Eighteen years ago I wed this little Italian girl. I don't like to say what I am, but I feel the same about Nasser as she does about Elliott Ness."

And... "My aunt went to see Exodus. She was so affected by it she had her old nose put back."

Jerry Lewis is articulate, sensitive, has a nonstop attitude toward life, a bleeding ulcer and heart trouble.

He's been commanded by his doctors to trim his activities. "But you know me. I do a song and dance every time the light goes on when I open the refrigerator."

He's put on more than 100 benefits a year. "I don't call it work doing something I love. Even hard work, if you like what you are doing, never hurt anyone."

What's ahead?

His Sands stand closes Feb. 21. "Then I've got a movie to make. I'd like to do a Broadway show. I've had offers. And directing I like. I've been preparing for a long time."

Retirement? A millennium away.

Welch Calls Integration Red-Inspired

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Robert Welch, president of the John Birch Society, charged Saturday the campaign for integration in the South was "Communist-inspired and influenced."

However, he said in an interview, he wanted to make it clear many sincere persons supported integration.

Welch, asked to comment on the society's campaign to impeach Chief Justice Earl Warren, said "Warren wants to break our republic down to a democracy."

"We are not engaged in a campaign of personal vilification," Welch added, "we just want to point out that Warren has flagrantly violated his oath of office."

Welch was here to address the City Forum Club.

He called 40 per cent of the John Birch Society members were Catholic and said he was misquoted in saying "one-half of 1 per cent of Catholic priests are Communists."

Ticklish Grilling for Abel

By United Press International
When Rudolf Ivanovich Abel gets back to the Kremlin, he may face a ticklish question about his expense account. Namely, what happened to $5,000 he was supposed to have used for a pay-off in his espionage work in the United States but buried instead?

The budget director of Russia's espionage service may also want to inquire about how the balding "master spy" absent-mindedly gave an American newsboy one of his hollowed-out nickels used to conceal microfilm.

SUCH ANTICS do not quite fit the dime-novel stereotype of a trained and devoted secret police colonel running a spy network that collected U.S. defense and atomic secrets.

The mild-mannered man who was exchanged Saturday for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers first entered the United States illegally from Canada in 1948. He set up headquarters in Brooklyn, running his spy organization from a photographic studio.

It was in 1957 that Abel had his first confrontation with U.S. law. He was seized and sent to the alien detention center at McAllen, Tex., for having entered the country illegally.

A search of his modest, unpretentious rooms sent agents rushing to telephone Washington. They had found a cache of spy tools.

HIS TRIAL took place in mid-October 1957, on three counts. One count could have carried the death penalty, but Abel was sentenced to 30 years.

'JUST ANOTHER JOE'

Powers' Life Ruled by Love of Flying

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Fate has funny whims, sometimes, and in the case of Francis Gary Powers there were two decisive ones.

Both were airplane rides. The first came when Powers was 14 years old. It made a brown-eyed, dark-haired boy see the true ambition of his life.

The second was at the age of 30. It made a good-looking, well-built man an international figure—and the center of a new storm of bitterness between the free world and the Communist.

Had it not been for that fateful first flight, Powers might have lived out his life as "just another Joe," known to few.

Powers, the son of a coal miner and onetime coal miner, grew up on a farm between Pound and Clintwood, Va. He loved to ride horseback and he loved the outdoors.

WHEN HE WAS 14, he paid $2.50 to take a ride with a woman pilot flying passengers on aerial joyrides from an airport at Princeton, W. Va. The boy got the greatest thrill of his young life. He got something else, too. When he reached home he blurted: "Daddy, I like it up there. It does something to you. It gives you something. Some day I'll have to go back up there and find out what it is."

Before he could do so, however, he had some growing up to do. And this he did, just about like any other boy.

He went to high school across the Virginia line in Grundy, played in the line on the football team, worked as a lifeguard, served on a firefighting patrol and was graduated 22nd scholastically in a class of 69.

Powers spent the next four years at Milligan College, Johnson City, Tenn., and again graduated 22nd, in a class of 59. The only other note he achieved was as a pretty fair sprinter in track meets.

THE OUTBREAK OF THE KOREAN WAR came at the end of his college career in 1950 and Powers enlisted in the Air Force. In time he became a second lieutenant and jet fighter pilot, but saw no action.

For the next few years there were only three events of any consequence. He was married in 1954 to the former Barbara Moore of Albany, Ga. In 1956 he took a civilian flying job and was sent to Turkey, ostensibly to fly a "weather research" plane. In May 1960 he was downed in Russia while flying a U2 reconnaissance craft.

Amid the hubbub over the incident, his friends and acquaintances through the years were pressed for their recollections of Powers. They could remember no anecdotes, nothing special. He was polite and pleasant, they said, but quiet.

Powers Spent Prison Time in Reading, Playing Chess

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers apparently spent a great deal of time in his Soviet prison cell playing chess and reading the books he wished he had read "in his younger days."

In an interview broadcast by radio station WGH here Saturday, Powers' father, Oliver Powers, discussed the contents of the more than 36 letters he received from his son during the spy pilot's 21 months in confinement.

According to Powers, his son shared a Russian cell with another prisoner—a Lithuanian who his son said spoke four languages. In his letter, the imprisoned pilot told his father he was trying to learn to speak Russian.

THE ELDER Powers quoted his son as saying he spent

U2 Pilot Attacked as 'Weak'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A former national commander of the American Legion Saturday said he still thinks Francis Gary Powers "served his country badly" and is a "weak American."

The legionnaire, Newburgh, N.Y., attorney Martin M. McKneally, applied those labels to Powers after his spy trial, and reassessed his position Saturday when questioned by a reporter.

"He disowned his mission," McKneally said. "He said things prejudicial to the interests of his country. As a matter of fact, it's interesting to note that Col. Rudolf Abel said nothing."

McKNEALLY said Powers' mission was an honorable one. "I was one American extremely happy to think that our administration was using all of the methods that it could find to locate strategic bases of the enemy," he said.

McKneally, head of the legion in 1960, said he would have to study the record before expressing an opinion on whether Powers should be charged with misconduct.

"I have no right to rule on the merits of trading Powers for Abel," he continued. "A fruitful relationship between Russia and the United States is being hampered by fundamental differences in ideology and the Soviet's imperialistic designs, and Powers' release will not affect the situation one jot."

McKneally said "a very large number of people" feel as he does about Powers' testimony.

Indonesia Air Force Officers in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Air Vice Marshal Umar Dani of Indonesia arrived in Moscow Saturday night, apparently to negotiate an increased supply of military equipment to help in possible operations against the Dutch in West New Guinea. He was accompanied by a group of Indonesian officers.

ANYBODY FOR ICE CREAM?

Straw hats and striped coats are order of the day for (left to right) Elliott Kirby, Al Huckaby, Lee Woodruff and Ken Wilson, warming up for annual barbershop singing show at Auditorium Feb. 17.

Barbershop Singers
to Vie Here Feb. 17

The Forte-Niners of Hayward, Calif., hailed as the "best in the Far West" and with a title to prove it, will headline the annual Harmony Fete in Municipal Auditorium's big Convention Hall Feb. 17.

Staged by the Long Beach chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, the 2½-hour program of song and comedy will get under way at 8:15 p.m.

The Forte-Niners won the championship of the Far Western District of the society at the convention in San Diego last October. The Far Western District includes California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Hawaii.

FIVE OTHER top-ranking quartets will match high and low notes with the Forte-Niners in the annual show. They are the Chordsmen of Whittier, the Devilaires of Glendale, Ariz., the Manhattans of Manhattan Beach, the Toni-Chords of Salt Lake City and the only girl quartet in the show, the Galaxies of Los Angeles.

In addition, the 30-voice male chorus of the Long Beach chapter and the 28-voice female chorus of the society's sister organization, the Sweet Adelines, will sing a number of songs.

PROCEEDS FROM the program will go toward sending deserving high school music students to Arrowbear, a summer music camp operated by Fred Ohlendorf in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Tickets may be obtained either in person or by mail from Russ Cunningham, 2377 Pacific Ave., Long Beach 6, for phoning GARfield 4-8113.

AF Will Close Officer School at Lackland Base

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force is preparing to close its administrative officer candidate school, which has turned out more than 40,000 second lieutenants.

It has operated the school at Lackland Air Force Base here since 1946. The Air Force moved the school to Lackland from Miami Beach, where it first opened in 1942. Officials said enlisted men seeking Air Force commissions must go through an airman education-commission program after the school is shut down about the middle of 1963.

Under the substitute program, candidates with 30 hours of college credit in selected subjects, such as engineering and technical fields, may compete for 400 places. The 400 will attend selected colleges at Air Force expense to obtain degrees, and receive 12 weeks of instruction at Lackland's Officer Training School.

Valuable Poodle Reported Stolen

A valuable toy poodle was stolen about 2 a.m. Saturday, Miss Opal Chalmers, of 1704 Molino Ave., reported. Miss Chalmers said her dog, Rom-anoff, was taken from her car in front of Java Lanes Bowling Alley, 3800 E. Pacific Coast Highway. She described the dog as small, black with silver whiskers, male, and 3½ years old. She said the dog is worth $150 and a reward will be given for information of its whereabouts.

CASE OF THE MISSING WHISKERS

Air Force Seeking Mothballs, Needles in Space

By FRANK CAREY
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, often harassed by public reports of flying saucer sightings, now has a mystery of its own making on its hands — the case of the missing whiskers.

The riddle grew out of the Air Force's recent unsuccessful attempt to spread a highly porous, belt of 350 million hairlike copper fibers — something like week-old whiskers — 2,000 miles about earth. The experiment was designed to study the possibility of a new, highly versatile jam-proof long-range radio communications system.

The test, called "Project West Ford," kicked off an international scientific argument months before the 75 pounds of tiny fibers — imbedded in mothballs inside a small canister — were shot aloft by a powerful rocket last Oct. 23 from California.

MANY American, Russian and other scientists voiced fears the experiment might interfere with optical and radio observations of the stars, or even manned and unmanned space flights.

The fibers, only 3/4ths of an inch long and much finer than human hair, were supposed to have been dispersed in space as the mothball chemical gradually evaporated, just as mothballs do in your clothes closet.

The idea was to form a belt of these soft fibers, or whiskers five miles wide and 25 miles thick around the globe, with individual fibers ultimately separated by a distance of a quarter of a mile to reflect radiowaves from earth.

In the past, the fibers have been described as needles — possibly because the Air Force dubbed the venture "Project Needles" in its early stages before scientists finally came up with the fine, soft fibers which bear little resemblance to rigid needles.

But — While the mothball package was released from the canister as planned, the copper whiskers, so far as can be determined, never were dispersed. There is evidence, however, that the package — contrary to plan — broke up into at least a half-dozen fragments which are now in orbit some 2,000 miles up, and hundreds of miles apart along the 40,000 mile long orbital pathway.

SO, AS A private-eye detective on a television show might say, the caper boils down to this:

(1) Did the mothballs fail to evaporate or (2) did the mothballs cooperate all right, only to have the whiskers themselves — for reasons yet unknown — remain locked in tight clusters which still could orbit the earth?

A further riddle is why the mothball-and-whisker package broke up into fragments.

The Air Force already has under study the possibility of making a new attempt to spread an experimental copper belt.

Soon after the launching, the M.I.T. scientists began patrolling the skies with three powerful radars.

Finally, on Nov. 3 — 10 days after the launching — M.I.T.'s radar picked up a small object orbiting about 2,000 miles up, at all: no sign of any dispersed fibers; not even a sign of the canister as a whole. All evidence suggested it was the lost package.

SEARCH ON FOR NEW TEACHERS

City's 'Talent Scouts' Off on Nationwide Hunt

By ROBERT WILCOX
Suitcases in hand, three "talent scouts" left Long Beach recently on the first leg of a carefully plotted nationwide search.

It was the signal that the hotly competitive spring quest for top teachers is in full swing.

In two weeks the "scouts"—all administrators traveling individually—will have talked to 1,000 seniors at 25 colleges from Ohio to Oregon.

During the sortie they hope to bag about 100 out of some 400 new teachers the Long Beach Unified School District will require next September.

DOGGING their footsteps, or perhaps ahead of them, will be similar minions from dozens of other Western school districts equally determined to nab the cream of the nation's 1962 crop of instructors.

Although the search is conducted in the interests of better education, the infighting can get fierce over outstanding prospects, each of whom may be considering offers from perhaps a dozen school districts.

Some representatives carry "quick sale" powers. ("Here's the contract, sign it.") must be approved by the Board of Education and who must stick to the district salary scale in negotiations.

Or the wavering prospect, in rare cases, may get an "out-of-thin-air" salary enhancement.

NEITHER of these tactics is available to the Long Beach emissaries, whose "catch"

(The stock Long Beach play is: "Think it over. Don't sign with anyone else for a week. Then let us know.")

Perhaps the greatest Long Beach selling lure, besides the district's reputation, is a series of pamphlets and brochures mailed to prospects ahead of time.

UNCHANGED since the early '50s is an appealing number entitled "You can REALLY LIVE and teach in Long Beach, California." Then there's the more recent two-color poster with a palm-bordered, ocean-foreground view of the Long Beach skyline and the simple question: "How Would You Like to Teach Here?"

The results of the three-pronged quest for the top 20 per cent of the nation's teaching graduates will start coming to the Board of Education next week with a host of names and records to process for approval or disapproval. But the success of the venture will be measured later on the performance of the instructors.

One test will be how many stay with the district. At the present time a remarkable two-thirds are accepted for tenure after three years.

DESPITE the nationwide recruiting (and there probably will be more sorties this year), the Long Beach district still hires most of its teachers locally.

Descanso Camellia Show Set

L. P. T. Los Angeles Bureau

The eighth annual Camellia Show at Descanso Gardens in La Canada will be held Feb. 24 and 25, according to Dr. William S. Stewart, gardens director.

Six member units of the Los Angeles Camellia Council will co-sponsor the 1962 show. Mrs. Caryl Pitkin of San Marino is council president.

The co-sponsors are Los Angeles Camellia Society, Temple City Camellia Society, Southern California Camellia Society, Orange County Camellia Society, Pomona Valley Camellia Society and Pacific Camellia Society.

WILLIAM F. GOERTZ of San Marino, show chairman, said anyone may enter camellias for competition with as small an entry as a single camellia being acceptable. Entries will be taken Saturday, Feb. 24, between 6:30 and 10 a.m. Judging will be from 10 a.m. to noon on that day.

The gardens will be open to the public from 6:30 a.m. to dusk on the opening day of the show and from 8 a.m. to dusk on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Descanso Gardens, a facility of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboretum and Botanic Gardens, is at 1418 Descanso Drive, La Canada.

MARINA ATTRACTS TEACHERS

One of the spots out of city teachers like to visit when they teach and live here is the Marina. Sandra de Boer (left), of Long Beach, who teaches at Gompers, took Karen Guse from Illinois and Jonelle Fitz (right), from Pennsylvania, on a Marina tour. They were photographed in the Marina office. Miss Guse teaches at Holmes School; Miss Fitz at Gompers.

Home Gardeners Invited to Attend Demonstration of Tree Pruning

Home gardeners are invited to attend the third annual tree pruning demonstration next Saturday at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia.

Don Woolley, chief horticulturist at the arboretum, and William (Doc) Thompson, horticulture instructor at

Mark Keppel High School, Alhambra, will demonstrate pruning at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Each demonstration will last about an hour. There is no charge.

The two horticulturists will explain how to prune a young tree so it can develop the "strongest form to hold maximum production, and how to prune established trees to make it worthwhile to have fruit trees in the home garden.

Dr. William S. Stewart, director of the arboretum, said that in the event of inclement weather, the demonstrations will be postponed until Saturday, Feb. 24, at the same hours.

Dr. Stewart said that during February, the arboretum floral section should bring out blooms on tritids gladiolus, gazanias, felicia, arctotis and cape marigold. Blooms should appear on acacia, eucalyptus and cassia trees.

Lunar Vehicle Tires Developed

By LEE CRAIG
Military-Aviation Editor

A 16-foot tire like no tire design ever seen on earth has been developed to carry the United States' first lunar vehicle for an exploration on the moon.

Produced by Goodyear, this tire—largest ever made—is a rubberized fabric doughnut, supported by an intricate lacing of polyester cord spokes and strung from a lightweight aluminum or fiber glass disc to which the axle will be attached.

Weight of the vehicle's two huge tires and wheels has been limited to 125 pounds each. The world's largest "earth" tire, 10 feet in diameter, weighed 3,200 pounds.

The moon tire has been designed to operate with only a half pound of pressure per square inch. It will "envelop" such obstacles as six-foot boulders, jagged rocks or even volcanic glass, any of which may be found on the moon, according to present theories.

Aerojet-General Corporation, which originally developed JATO rockets (jet assist take-off) to provide extra push for heavily laden aircraft, has turned these units around to give JASTOP, jet assist stop.

Tests of the new application prove that it could be of value on wet or icy runways and for quick stopping in emergency landings on short, inadequate runways.

In nearby Hawthorne, Northrop's Norair division is working on a 1,200-pound satellite motion simulator so finely balanced that a fly landing on it would cause it to tilt.

The device will give engineers one of the most advanced instruments of its kind for developing and evaluating spacecraft control systems under conditions dynamically similar to those encountered in space.

The simulator consists of a round platform supported on a 10-inch-diameter spherical gas bearing—accurate to within 50 millionths of an inch—which literally floats on a film of gas about one-thousandth of an inch thick.

Thus the platform is free to rotate about any of its three axes with a near-frictionless motion, closely approximating that of a vehicle in space.

FIRST MOON VEHICLE?

The first vehicle the United States places on the moon's surface may look something like this model equipped with "moon tires." The actual moon tire would be 16 feet in diameter and weigh only 125 pounds.

Kennedy to Greet Saud in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will welcome King Saud at Andrews Air Force Base when the Saudi Arabian monarch arrives Tuesday for a Washington visit of less than 24 hours.

The king has been resting at Palm Beach after medical treatment in the United States.

New Fake Wrinkle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new wrinkle in counterfeiting—faking a well-known hair dressing—was discovered by federal agents. Deputy federal marshals and agents of the Food and Drug Administration raided a garage at nearby Clinton, Md. They said they seized 4,800 bottles of cheap hair dressing which allegedly were to be relabeled as a more expensive dressing and sold to unsuspecting barbers.

SERIOUS STUDY

Four-year-old Linda Mayes, portraying Martha, and Brent Williamson, also 4, study material to be used on the Long Beach playgrounds in celebration of Washington's birthday February 22. Martha is wondering how it would have been in those days without public playgrounds.

Goodyear to Make Tires of Polyester

DETROIT (UPI)—Tires fabricated for Goodyear, made of polyester, the new synthetic fiber being used in clothes, will be placed on the market late this year.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner... an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX textured Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Over 500,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 5,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor—at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by Talbert Painting Co.—licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low—convenient terms can be arranged. ADMIRING HERMAN H. RIDDER perpetual trophy won by Marine Air Control Squadron 18 for all-around excellence are, from left, Brig. Gen. Louis B. Robertshaw, commandant, Marine Air Reserve Training, Glenview, Ill.; Maj. Donald F. Davis, commanding officer Marine Air Control Squadron 18; Gunnery Sgt. Maj. Matthew Waidelich and Col. Vance H. Hudgins, mander of Marine Air Reservists in the Southland. The trophy was presented at a review of reservists Saturday at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Ridder Trophy Won by Air Control Unit

The Herman H. Ridder perpetual trophy for all-around excellence was presented Saturday to Marine Air Control Squadron 18 at a "working" review of four reserve outfits at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Three hundred men stood at attention as Brig. Gen. Louis B. Robertshaw, commandant of Marine Air Reserve training at Glenview, Ill. (Ill.) NAS headquarters, handed the award to Maj. Donald F. Davis, commanding officer of MACS 18.

The nation's 17 air reserve commands were in year-long competition for the trophy high in the competition, mak-posted in 1949 by the publisher of The Independent.

The citation accompanying the award to MACS 18 said it was "for displaying highest professional capabilities in coordinating air control inter-cepts, and equipment maintenance, and equipment maintenance."

WHICH ARE SMARTER—DOGS OR CATS?
(Asked at Fifth Street and Pine Avenue.)

DORA NORCROSS, 2000 Knoxville Ave., homemaker: Dogs, I think. When I visit homes where there are dogs, the dogs seem to know what is being said.

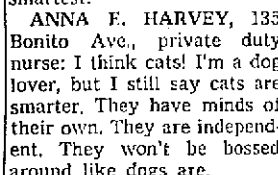

ELEANOR NORCROSS, 6310 Lewis Ave., homemaker: I have two dogs, so naturally I think they are the smartest.

GRACE BLUMBERG, 5959 E. Ocean Blvd., homemaker: Dogs. They are so faithful, and not so independent as cats. I have had one dog.

ANNA F. HARVEY, 135 Bonito Ave., private duty nurse: I think cats! I'm a dog lover, but I still say cats are smarter. They have minds of their own. They are independent. They won't be bossed around like dogs are.

DAN CAVANAUGH, 5391 Adeline Ave., Garden Grove, finance company assistant manager: Cats. Because they can take care of themselves better than dogs.

Senate Quiz Drops Red Questionnaire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senators conducting an inquiry into alleged military censorship have discarded a controversial questionnaire on Communism and may well abandon all such group testing, informed sources said Saturday.

They said the questionnaire, which created a furor after secretly being given to some Marines and airmen here, was now useless because of publicity.

Members of the subcommittee are expected to meet this week to discuss the controversy created by the Marine quiz and to decide where to go now in light of President Kennedy's action invoking executive privilege and directing State and Defense Department reviewers not to answer on specific speech deletions.

Undersecretary of State

George Ball was said to be eager to appear to outline the State Department's policies. The department's role in censorship has been sharply attacked by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who claims speech changes reflected a "no-win" policy in the cold war.

Thurmond also wants the subcommittee to continue with the military phase of the censorship inquiry. Several witnesses are still to be heard, including Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff.

JFK Appears Victor in Power-Test Clash

By HARRY SHARPE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy clashed head-on with Congress last week in a test of executive power as old as the republic, and apparently won.

He also hinted strongly that he soon will order resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing, and he set up a U. S. military command in Communist-menaced South Viet Nam.

In the dispute with Congress the issue was this: Can a government official—in this case Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara—refuse to hand over secret information demanded by Congress? And how far can Congress encroach on the executive branch in extracting such information?

All chief executives since George Washington have faced the same problem.

The President, backing McNamara to the hilt, invoked the historic doctrine of executive privilege to deny the Senate preparedness subcommittee the names of Defense and State Department censors who purged specific military speeches of remarks allegedly damaging to administration foreign policy.

He said neither he nor McNamara could accede to "harassment of individuals who are only carrying out the policies dictated by their superiors."

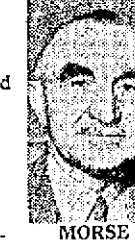

The subcommittee, with Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., the sparkplug, is probing alleged administration gagging of some service officers who purportedly went to questionable extremes in denouncing communism. THURMOND Some officers also have been accused of playing partisan politics.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., upheld the President's stand. But the Senate has the power to overrule him in which event there could be a court test.

Thurmond, who also has charged the State Department with not wanting to win the cold war, said he would have more to say later. Stennis meantime promised angry senators a full explanation of a Communist ideological quiz given 30 U. S. Marines, without the subcommittee's consent, by two Thurmond aides.

Marine Corps Commandant Gen. David M. Shoup protested that he was not consulted in advance and was denied a copy of the questionnaire. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., headed a Senate bloc demanding that this "gestapo procedure" be fully explained.

Thurmond counter-charged that the Defense Department had put the quiz in the worst light to besmirch and discredit him and "to take the heat off." But "the heat is on," he said, "and it's going to stay on. We are not going to be deterred from this investigation."

The senator accused news media, including the New York Times, the Washington Post, National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System, of one-sided coverage of the incident. He said he planned "some steps" to insure fairer coverage if action was not taken to improve TV coverage of the subcommittee's activities. He repeated that he will go before the Senate if necessary to bare the facts for the press and the public. "Nobody's going to muzzle me," Thurmond added.

The President told a press conference he would know within a month whether nuclear weapons tests would be resumed and would inform Americans in advance. He said a potentially dangerous situation had been created by Russia's secretly prepared series of 40 to 50 tests last fall while Moscow mouthed test ban proposals at Geneva.

Kennedy said this involved development of anti-missile-missiles and other critical questions, "and while we are amply strong for today and tomorrow, we must consider the future."

He and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan proposed to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev raising the impending Geneva disarmament conference to the foreign ministers' level in an effort to halt the test race. They also announced that Britain was making Christmas Island in the Pacific available for American tests while Britain will soon conduct underground tests at the U. S. Nevada proving ground.

The United States Friday fired its 13th underground test since Russia broke the voluntary test ban moratorium last year.

Responsible officials said the President was trying to maneuver Khrushchev into a box on the atmospheric test problem in an effort to achieve a real breakthrough toward an effective and well-policed test ban. They said Khrushchev most likely would cry "black-mall" when the pattern becomes clear. But Kennedy's course will underscore Russia's responsibility if the race continues.

The President established the South Viet Nam command as the most effective way to help the Asian country preserve its independence. No American troops will be committed, the Defense Department said, but the command will carry out certain operational responsibilities aimed at bolstering Viet Nam strength. Secretary McNamara is in full charge of the buildup. One defense official said the anti-Communist war was "one the West cannot afford to lose." In other news spheres the United States orbited a Tires weather satellite to help chart astronaut John Glenn's hoped-for journey into space this Wednesday. The President meantime asked Congress to create a corporation to finance private ownership of a communications-satellite system.

Argentina, under pressure from its military, joined other Latin American nations in breaking diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba.

Within hours the suburban home of a U. S. embassy official was fire-bombed. Castro charged Argentina had bowed to Kennedy pressure.

In Saarbruecken, Germany, at least 299 coal miners perished in a mine explosion.

Pilot's Swap, Trip Covered With Secrecy

exchange, word of the swap reached President Kennedy. The chief executive had slipped up to the living quarters in the White House an hour before to await the flash from Berlin.

Until then, he had been attending a gay black tie White House dinner-dance.

NEWSMEN routed out of bed by Press Secretary Pierre Salinger got the word of the exchange.

The Soviet government announced to the Russian people by radio Moscow that Powers was freed in the hope of improving Russian-U.S. relations. But so far as the people were concerned, it was a one-sided gesture. Nothing was said about Col. Abel, since the Russians never admit that they have any spies operating in other countries.

The transfer was weeks in the negotiating stage. Apparently only officials at the highest level knew that fruitful dickering was under way.

ONCE THE negotiations reached the point where success evidently was sure, Kennedy signed a commutation for Abel and sent it to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, where the Russian was imprisoned. It was to take effect only when the prisoner exchange took place.

Reliable Soviet authorities said that Powers had been removed last Thursday from a prison at Vladimir, 110 miles northeast of Moscow.

Just how Powers reached the Berlin border was not brought out immediately. But U.S. sources said Abel was flown from Atlanta Wednesday, and wound up in Berlin Friday.

Freed far sooner than he apparently had dared hope, Powers quickly was whisked away from the Berlin bridge in a convoy of cars. He was rushed to a plane and soon was on the way home by air, to a reception to be shrouded in secrecy, and uncertain official warmth.

Abel disappeared behind the Iron Curtain of communism. He had been serving a 30-year sentence as a spy convicted of stealing military and nuclear secrets from this country and slipping them to the Kremlin.

PRYOR, WHO was studying in West Berlin, entered East Berlin last August and vanished. Word seeped into the West weeks later that he was in prison, accused of espionage.

Pryor said Saturday night that he had orders from the U. S. government not to say anything until he returns to the United States. He was scheduled to land in New York at 1 a.m. EST today.

significant of any actual alteration so far, nor does it offer assurance that the whole trend may not blow up in some angry new conflict.

The United States, with reluctant British approval, seems to be on the verge of a decision to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere. Khrushchev has been maneuvering to prevent the United States from resuming or to make it pay a price if it does.

In Moscow Friday Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the Western powers once more that Russia wants Western troops withdrawn from West Berlin, or Soviet troops added.

IN LAOS, State Department officials have been encouraged by Russia's seeming willingness to support a compromise.

More immediately the issue is focused on South Viet Nam where a U.S. training mission is growing.

know," said businessman Sol Donovan corresponded many months ago about a possible exchange.

The elder Powers said, Abel's wife was contacted in East Germany.

"We figured that it would be a big help if somebody was pulling for him (Abel) too," Oliver Powers said.

McAfee, who has represented the pilot's parents since he was brought down May 1, 1960, said efforts began in May — less than a month after the incident — to exchange Powers for convicted Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel.

McAfee said he and Abel's American attorney James B.

U.S. Scholar Pryor Bonus in Spy Swap

By United Press International

Frederic L. Pryor was the bonus in the Francis Gary Powers-Rudolph Ivanovich Abel spy trade.

Last Aug. 25, the tall, 28-year-old American scholar disappeared in the Communist maze of East Germany.

The son of an Ohio manufacturer, Pryor was destined to spend nearly six months there without seeing anyone except PRYOR Communists before a quiet campaign by his family and the U.S. government paid off in his release.

PRYOR'S TWIN brother, Millard Jr., said Frederic "probably knows more about East Germany's foreign trade than any other outsider."

Frederic had just completed his doctoral thesis for Yale University and was doing research on Communist foreign trade for magazine articles, according to Millard. Frederic was interviewing someone in East Berlin when he was arrested.

"There's nothing sneaky about this," Millard said. "This is a typical scholarly activity."

Born in Owosso, Mich., Frederic and his family moved to Mansfield, Ohio, in 1939. He went to Mansfield

High School and to Oberlin College, majoring in chemistry. The family moved to Ann Arbor, Mich., in 1955.

His father, Millard Sr., 60, was president of the Barnes Manufacturing Co., a major producer of pumps and water systems, in Mansfield. He later started the Pryor Manufacturing Co. there, now holding the position of board chairman. His financial status has allowed him to abandon business matters when Frederic was arrested by the Communists, and he has spent nearly all his time in Berlin.

MILLARD JR. believes his brother was released with Powers because the East Germans knew they had made a mistake.

No formal charges were made against Frederic by the East Germans. But last December, East German Security Minister Erich Mielke implied in a speech that Pryor was arrested for "possible spy activity."

But Millard denied his brother was involved in any such activity.

"My brother is a pure scholar," he said. "He's not interested in monetary pursuits."

THE stormy weather must have gotten to Pierre, the sage who sometimes predicts things to come in notes to this dept. Now he comes up with this one:

"Gov. Brown will put the question of a divided California before the Legislature next year. The dividing line will be the 37 degrees north latitude. The Honorable Sam Yorty, present mayor of Los Angeles, will become the first governor of Southern California."

It won't happen, but it might not be a bad idea.

ACCIDENTAL addition of an "e" to one word produced an interesting effect recently on a Long Beach City College term paper.

"This dame," the student wrote, "is recognized as the world's largest single source of hydroelectric power."

Further investigation reveals the author was not discussing the electrifying charms of a Mansfield, Monroe or Bardot, but was writing a sober research paper on the Grand Coulee Dam (e).

FROM Dorothy Curran, an addition to the discussion of the question as to where the west begins. She quotes Bernard de Voto's "The Plunder Province" as follows:

"The West begins where the average rainfall drops below 20 inches. When you reach the line which makes that drop—for convenience, the 100th meridian—you have reached the West."

If last week's weather continues, it seems this area will soon be disqualified as a part of the west.

RIDING the freeway in the rain the other day, Dick Racine came upon a true optimist.

This fellow had a seagoing 16-foot outboard motorboat on a heavy trailer. The trailer was pulled by a foreign compact car that looked about a fourth as big as the boat and trailer.

Moreover, he was out of gas, and was quite a menace to traffic in the heavy downpour. At the moment, it appeared he might be able to float the boat and give up the pulling job that was evidently too much for his little car.

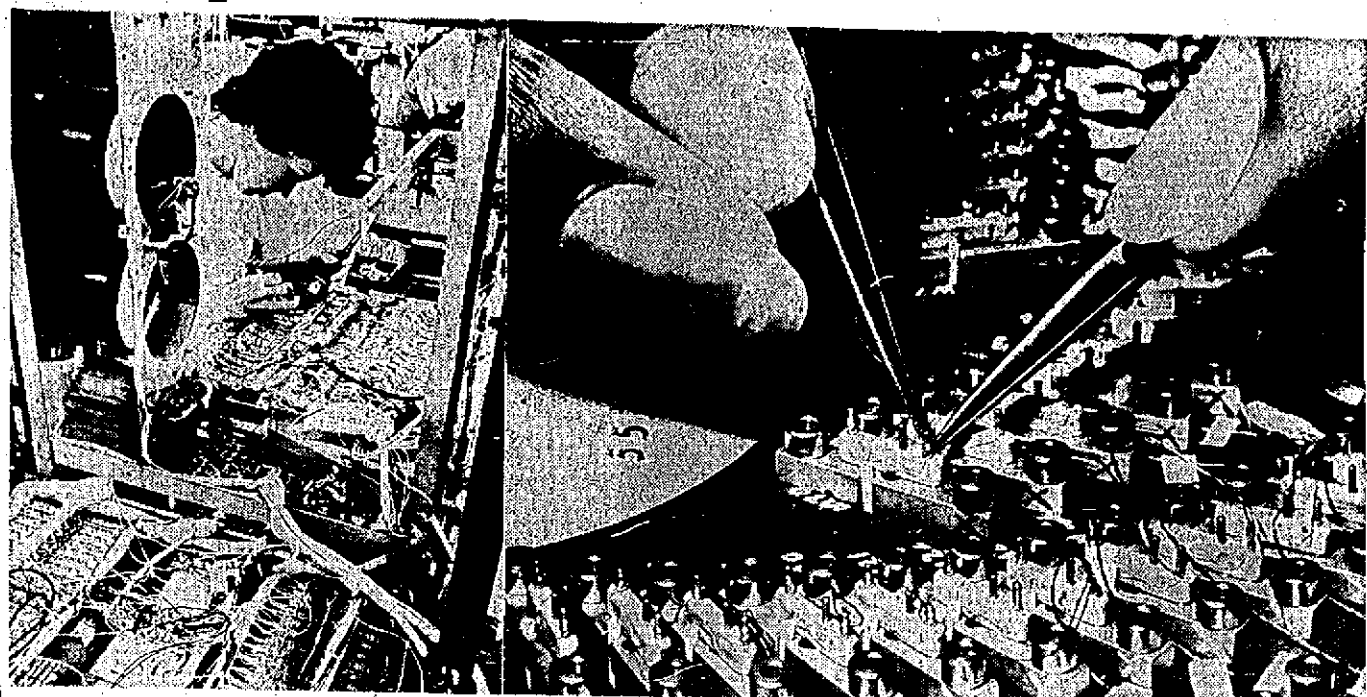

THE reluctance of people of the Long Beach area to destroy old Christmas cards has resulted in a contribution of more than 100,000 of them—that's right, 100,000—to the program set up to send cards to needy people in faraway lands.

That's the report from Rev. O. A. Braskamp, whose appeal for cards has been carried in this dept. from time to time. It was from the items here that most of the old card "production" came, according to the good preacher, who is 77 years old and a hard worker in the good cause.

Rev. Braskamp's project here is a part of "Operation Handclasp" headed by a Redondo Beach minister, Rev. Clarence T. E. Walberg. Through the whole effort about 20 tons of used Christmas cards are shipped overseas each year.

We're happy we've had a small part of it here. Once we ran the items, we were peppered with calls from people who remembered the general idea, but couldn't recall where to leave their cards. This proved quite a harassment for this dept.—mainly for my secretary, Anne Barrows—but it was worth it to help out a good cause.

Computer's No Oracle--It's a 'Fast Idiot'

By LEE CRAIG

The engineer types his name on a device resembling an electric typewriter. Almost instantly, the machine types back:

"Good morning, Mr. Jones. Can I solve a problem for you?"

This is how prospective customers are introduced to RECOMP II or III, the general purpose digital computer manufactured by North American Aviation's Autometrics-Industrial Products Division, 3400 E. 70th St.

THESE DESK-SIZE computers—selling for $65,000 and $95,000 respectively—mark North American Aviation's growth into the non-military market.

And even NAA Autometrics executives have been amazed at the constantly expanding applications in a variety of fields for their creation.

For example, Servo Mechanisms, Inc., of Santa Barbara, needed to duplicate environmental conditions at great altitudes, in order to test and improve their product.

Instead of building a costly altitude simulator, they used an Autometrics computer to construct a mathematical model of a simulator... in far less time and at comparatively small expense.

AT WOODS HOLE Oceanographic Institution, at Cape Cod, Mass., a Long Beach-built computer is used in processing such data as sea water density, salinity, specific volume and other information.

At West Point, one is used by cadets in analyzing tactical situations and other problems. And incoming tracking data for the current Ranger moon exploratory shoots is being interpreted by a locally made computer.

A COMPUTER is not an electronic oracle, engineers explain.

"We call it a 'fast idiot,'" one says, because—so far, anyway—it can neither learn nor remember by itself."

The computer performs its job by responding to a series of instructions given it, fed in through the input "typewriter" or by magnetic tape.

THESE COMMANDS can be incredibly lengthy and complicated, as when a computer is used to operate a milling machine which is cutting in three dimensions, in angles and curves, to create a part for, perhaps, a space vehicle.

The computer can be told which drill to use at each stage, where and how to drill, when to cool the drill, when to apply a coolant and how to perform all other phases of the operation.

And if the engineer mistakenly gives the computer an order that can't be accomplished, the computer—having the milling machine's operating limits in its memory cells—reprovingly tells him he's goofed.

ONCE STARTED, however, the computer will keep the machine busy for 24 hours a day every day, without lunch, sleep or coffee breaks until it is told to stop.

One of these electronic brains at the Long Beach plant has been taught to shoot craps and how to deal a game of blackjack, following Las Vegas rules, of course.

With its mental processes unclouded by emotion, the machine usually wins.

THERE'S ONE case on record, however, where an Autometrics computer outsmarted itself.

This occurred in 1950 when Phillips Petroleum Co. leased a Recomp II for $2,495 a month to analyze operating characteristics at Phillips' Sweeny, Texas, plant and to figure out better ways of operating.

The little computer hummed and clicked happily for five months and results were spectacular, a 16 per cent increase in production.

Yet Phillips shipped it back to Autometrics.

Of the 16 per cent improvement, engineers had found that they could keep 10 per cent, merely by applying the lessons taught them by the computer.

The remaining 6 per cent gained by using the computer's fast reflexes to run the plant actually wasn't enough to pay the machine's rent, so back it went... covered with glory but homeless.

Issues on Ballot Explained; Here's No. 1--Offshore Wells

SKETCH OF PROPOSED OIL DRILLING ISLAND

Proposed oil drilling islands, off Long Beach, would look like the artist's sketch above. Prop. 1, to be voted upon in the Feb. 27 city election, provides for four such 10-acre islands between the harbor district on the west and the city boundary on the east. Islands would be at least

2,000 feet offshore from Ocean Boulevard. The islands would be ringed by shrubs and tall palms to screen oil drilling activity. Pumping units would be put underground. All operations to and from the islands would be conducted from the harbor district.

$1.7 Billion Pool Waits Exploiting

(Following is the first in a series of articles explaining the various propositions to be voted on in the special municipal election Tuesday, Feb. 27. Other articles will follow on succeeding days.)

By DON OHL

Proposition 1, the offshore oil drilling ordinance up for approval in the Feb. 27 city election, calls for the controlled opening of an oil field with an estimated $1.7 billion value.

The ordinance implements conditions laid down in a 1927 initiative ordinance which was amended in 1937 and 1956. This early ordinance prohibits oil development in the city and in the offshore area between the harbor district on the west and the city boundary on the east, but it provides that oil drilling sites can be set up with approval of the voters.

Following the guidelines laid down by the early ordinance, Proposition 1 provides for production of oil in this area from four 10-acre attractively landscaped islands, and from no other sites.

OFF-STREET PARKING

Code Revision Draws Criticism

A proposed ordinance sharply increasing off-street parking requirements in the R-3 residential zone, already approved once by the City Council, is expected to draw fire Tuesday.

Vice Mayor Bert B. Bond said he will try to block the measure, at least until he investigates it further. He indicated that, like some other councilmen, he didn't know about the parking provision.

MAIN PURPOSE of the ordinance is to permit construction of more than four residential units in one building in an R-3 zone. It also requires a parking ratio of 1 1/2 car spaces to 1 living unit in that zoning classification.

The present requirements are one-for-one in smaller buildings and only three parking spaces for a four-unit building.

A Long Beach builder, C. Earl Hindsman, charged that the proposed new ratio is unfair. In a letter to the Council he noted that even in the high-rise apartment zone R-5 only 1 1/4 spaces are required for each unit. In an R-4 zone, the minimum ratio in some areas is as low as one-for-two.

Hindsman also objected to other technical provisions of the new ordinance. He urged that present R-3 regulations be left unchanged.

Schneider to Retire as L.A. Consul

Dr. Eduard C. Schneider, first German national to be sent to the U.S. in an official capacity after World War II, will retire as German consul general in Los Angeles April 30.

Dr. Schneider came to the U.S. in 1949 as German representative to the Marshall Plan.

He joined the German foreign service in 1953 and was consul general in New York before taking the Los Angeles post in September, 1956.

With conclusion of his service here Dr. Schneider will be retired from service.

Council's Calendar

City Council agenda items for Tuesday—
Letters from Apartment House Association and Junior Chamber of Commerce endorsing propositions on Feb. 27 ballot.
Ordinance committee recommendation that technical amendments to electrical regulations be adopted.
Planning Commission recommendation for rezoning from R-1 to C-1 of marina area site of proposed hotel, addition with 254 signatures protesting the rezoning.
City prosecutor and police chief recommendation that proposed liquor license for premises at 1744 E. Broadway be protested.
Resolution authorizing city manager to lease space in Marine Bazaar Building to Crestline Division, Bigelow-Sanford, Inc., for small-boal sales.
Ordinance rezoning from R-2 to R-4 property north of Columbia Street between Del Mar Avenue and Long Beach Boulevard, permitting subterranean garages in R-4-R-5 and use districts; amending regulations for R-3 use district providing that vacated streets be given same zoning as adjacent property.
Continued hearing on proposed annexation of Rancho Santa Fe area.
Continued hearing on proposed widening of Western Drive between Orange Avenue and Pacific Electric right of way.
Hearings on appeal from Planning Commission's approval of special permit for 10-story office building at 601 W. First Street on relocation of 10-story, 11-story of Lawrence W. Duff, 26 Chestnut Pl.
Plans and specifications for county-financed Alamitos Bay Pumping Plant, for improvement of Spring Street between Pioneer Boulevard and east city boundary.
Proposed negotiated contract with Mueller Co. for furnishing specialized tools and equipment to Gas Department, regarding a common film and audio-visual circuit.
General development plan for Lincoln Park.
Proposed amendment establishing Lorelei Way, between Naples Plaza and Gertrude Lane, as one-way street in southwesterly direction.
Proposed rezoning modifications in San Diego Freeway design, authorizing supplemental agreement with Joe Gills Motor Co. authorizing joint powers agreement with other local agencies regarding a common film and audio-visual circuit.
Reports on leaks in Public Safety Building on request for street light at 1445 W. Cameron St. on trash collection complaint on proposed widening of Wesley Drive.
Authorization for Dr. D. O. Liffack, city health officer, and Harry Ladd, administrative assistant, to attend conference Feb. 9-10 March in San Francisco on rehabilitation of alcoholics.

L.B. Needs New Main Library

WHEN SCHOLARS SPEAK of the "legacy" which has been left by the world's older civilizations to our own, what do they mean?

They mean mainly the ideas and the histories, preserved between the covers of books.

Certainly, then, one of the most important features of our own legacy to future times, are stored for general use and contemplation.

We mean, of course, our system of libraries.

LONG BEACH, BUSY treating its growing pains in recent years, has not paid as much attention as it should to this aspect of community life.

The time has come for action.

Voters are asked to approve a $5,750,000 bond issue at the Feb. 27 election for construction of a badly-needed new main library for Long Beach.

THE PRESENT MAIN LIBRARY is an ancient, cramped building constructed in 1909 and remodeled back in 1937. It has 28,638 square feet of space, but studies show that a main library for a city this size should contain 150,000.

An enormous growth of population has put a severe strain on this limited library facility, and that issue at the Feb. 27 election for construction of a branch libraries. On the contrary. The main library is the trunk from which the branches are regulated; the need for a bigger main library has grown along with the need for branches.

THE MAIN LIBRARY is used more and more because of increased school enrollments, the generally greater interest in reading and study, and the existence of larger and larger numbers of adult students.

Library users are served by a facility which needs 500 seats for readers but has only 277, and which needs a capacity for 600,000 books but has only 138,000.

Many thousands of persons who want to use a library are discouraged from doing so at all.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

State Budget May Grow Even Bigger

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Financial committees of the two houses of the California legislature are about to tackle Gov. Edmund G. Brown's record $2.88 billion budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

If they, and the Legislature itself, run true to form, the budget will be approved pretty much the way it was submitted except it probably will be even nearer the $3 billion mark when the lawmakers finish with it.

Brown presented the budget to the legislature during a two-day session in Sacramento. The full legislature will return March 7 for another 28 days on the budget, as well as a special session which will include a number of items.

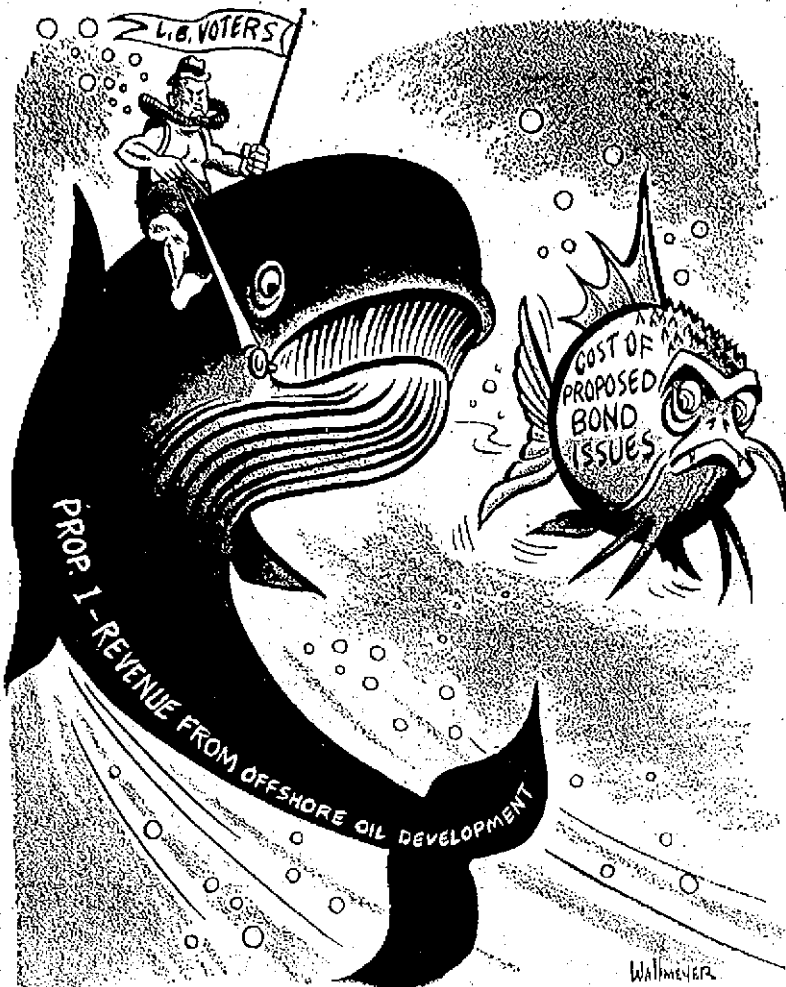

The governor termed his budget "soundly balanced," but critics pointed immediately to the fact that some $141 million in bond money will be chunked into the budget to keep all the bills paid.

THE TWO DAYS of the session went very much according to the expected script. Democratic leaders in the two houses hailed Brown's budget as another showing of his fiscal responsibility, in that the document was aimed at taking care of needs in welfare and education. Republicans, on the other hand, called it wasteful and irresponsible. Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, (R-Los Angeles), GOP candidate for the governorship, said the budget took the state further down the road to total socialism.

ASSEMBLY SPEAKER Jesse M. Unruh, (D-Los Angeles), on the rostrum for the first time, left no doubt that—as also as expected—he would keep a sharp rein on the lower house. While most speakers only come off the rostrum to take the floor in a fight once or twice during a six-month session, Unruh was down in a squabble on his second day as speaker. Following criticism by Shell and Assemblyman John A. Buserud, (R-San Francisco), the elected leaders of the Republicans, on the budget, Unruh proposed the two accept membership on the Ways and Means Committee where they could study the budget. Both refused on grounds they would not be returning next year and the posts should go to members who will return and could make use of the experience. The Assembly voted 62-9 to add the two new members and Unruh was expected to make the appointments by mid-February. He said he might appoint Shell and Buserud, whether they wanted to be on the committee or not.

A BUILT-IN controversy was provided for the special session of the Legislature by the submission last week of a commission studying reapportionment of the state Senate. The group recommended that, in counties of more than 1.5 million, they be given one additional senator for each 1.5 million persons. This would mean three new senators for Los Angeles County. The report called for a limit for any one county of 10 per cent of the total senate membership. While the report was approved unanimously by the commission, three members entered exceptions. A Plumas County supervisor, Clair Donnerwirth, said the limit on senators should be three to a county. Frank G. Bonelli, Los Angeles supervisor, and spearhead of the reapportionment move, said the 10 per cent limit was "repugnant" and negated the theory of reapportionment.

Moscow Reports Hint Nikita May Plan to Purge His Rivals

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is traveling in the Far West. His column is written today by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Chilling whispers from Moscow claim that Nikita Khrushchev, in what could be a prelude to a purge, has been calling for the execution of his Kremlin rivals.

This may be hard to believe of the leader who evicted Stalin's grisly corpse from its showcase and who has sought to relax terror at home and tension abroad.

Yet some State Department experts, experienced in the devious doings of the Kremlin, believe that Khrushchev actually has been trying to do away with his enemies for three years.

HE HAS been restrained, they say, by the politburo members who have a human preference for dying comfortably in bed. They want an end to settling Communist differences with a bullet in the back of the neck.

Powerful as Khrushchev is, the politburo so far has managed to hold him in check.

He made his first move against his rivals at the January 1959 Communist congress. At his belligerent best, he raged against their anti-party activities.

Then he hurled a bombshell at them—the ominous word, "criminal"—which has portended purge trials in the past.

The Communist small-fry gleefully echoed the ugly word. But the politburo refused to back up his play. Its members paid lip service to his charges, but avoided the key word, "criminal."

Again last October, Khrushchev took the initiative in crying out against the anti-party faction's crimes. This led to an upheaval which is still rocking the Kremlin.

THIS RAISES the question, which Khrushchev is finding awkward to answer, as to what he was doing during Stalin's abuses. For he worked under the man he now accuses of crimes against the Russian people.

One day, some faceless comrade may take Khrushchev's place on the podium and denounce him as he has denounced Stalin. That comrade will not lack for evidence.

Overnight, the image of Khrushchev the Kind will go crashing into the dust. In its place will stand a blood-stained buffoon who gambled for his master in a clumsy cossack dance, then went out to do his deadly bidding.

For at the height of the Stalin terror, Nikita was not only Stalin's most obedient hate-monger; he prosecuted Stalin's purges with the frenzy of a fanatic.

Or, more likely, he was a fear-ridden man who knew

he could live only if others died to satisfy a monster's paranoia.

If a man ever climbed over corpses to success, that man is Nikita Khrushchev. One he stepped over may have been that of Stalin's own wife, Alliluyeva, who either committed suicide or was murdered in 1932.

She worked with Khrushchev in the same party cell. Likely she was the first to introduce him to Stalin. She was a gentle woman who opposed her husband's terror. But she made the mistake of criticizing his policies too openly.

Did Khrushchev reward her friendship by informing on her? One report, from an excellent source, says he did.

It may be significant, too, that Nikita predicted the murder of Trotsky, Stalin's chief rival, in Mexico four years before it happened in 1940. Khrushchev declared: "Let the ringleader of the gang, the ally of the German Gestapo, Trotsky, be absent at the trial in Moscow. The anger of our people, the sentence of our proletarian court of justice will reach him anywhere."

Did Nikita himself help plan Trotsky's murder? Certainly he wasn't ignorant of the design.

As Stalin's overseer of the Ukraine, Khrushchev carried out the dictator's terrible vengeance. Those were the bloody '30's when Stalin was raging like a mad wolf against his enemies, both real and imagined. Millions were driven under the lash into slave labor camps. Hundreds of thousands were shot out of hand by the secret police.

WHEN THE Germans occupied the Ukrainian town of Vinnitsa in 1943, they unearthed grisly evidence of Nikita's work for Stalin. In the Park of Culture and Rest, they found 95 mass graves containing 10,000 bodies.

All had their hands bound behind their backs, bullet wounds in the back of the neck. From the earth in their mouths, it was clear that many had been buried while still alive.

Khrushchev gave the orders for that massacre.

Of late, Khrushchev has been making great play of his humanity. He would like to get rid of his rivals, but he may also have concern for his place in history.

That faceless comrade who may one day denounce him may trouble Khrushchev's thoughts.

Lack of Responsibility Gave Primaries to Grassrooters

THAT DOOR clanging shut last month in Fresno virtually closed the case for Democratic candidates in the June 5 "direct" primary.

The California Democratic Council picked its statewide slate: Governor Brown, Lt. Gov. Anderson, Atty. Gen. Mosk, Don Rose for secretary of state, Richard Richards for U. S. Senate, Controller Cranston, Treasurer Betts and four incumbent Democrats on the Board of Equalization.

An expert says this primary endorsing by the CDC virtually closes the primary. It "represents virtually the end of the intent of the direct primary."

The California Republican Assembly, the GOP parallel to the grass-roots, amateur and unofficial CDC, tends toward the same closure except that its much smaller size reduces its impact in that direction.

Direct primary, by definition, should allow any candidate to contest any other for any office with the electorate making the nominations. This still applies in theory. But the realistic politician who lacks preprimary endorsement by either of these unofficial party groups has slight chance of success. So, in practice, the aspirant asks to be considered by the CDC or CRA endorsing conventions. Usually he says "he will withdraw if he does not get the endorsement."

DR. FRANCIS CARNEY, University of California, Riverside, is our expert and the chronicler of a comprehensive study of Demo clubs and the CDC.

He says 85 to 90 per cent of contested primary races are won by CDC-endorsees. CDC, with an assist from Dr. Carney, contends however that alternatives to the clubs' takeover of endorsing may be worse. Party responsibility diminishes. Citizens at large vote without benefit of insight into qualifications. Their selections are haphazard.

Moral arguments begin to carry some weight, says Carney, when you assume that something good is to be gained by popular participation. In the past, this participation has dwindled into pressure group and lobbyist control of states and candidates. Insofar as the CDC or CRA endorsements cut down on total participation, they tend to be bad. The CDC system would be bad at such time as its discipline should become complete. Carney does not anticipate this eventuality.

"The CDC is doomed to perpetual disappointment" in this respect, he says. Despite their endorsement, the candidate they elect is not their captive. He gets "socialized" by his colleagues and he has a much broader constituency to be responsible to. Typically, legislators do this and disappoint the party militants.

WITH A STATE membership estimated at 71,000, CDC's broader base tends to make for more representative choices in the same manner in which a broad and strictly open primary would. Club people would lose interest if their amateur organizations were abandoned. And if they do exist they must have some sense of power to hold them together and to vitalize the party.

In 1958's primary, Stanley Mosk, the CDC-endorsee, won nomination over Bob McCarthy for attorney general. McCarthy ran despite rejection by CDC. Mosk won 1,217,297 to 1,068,544. This shows the endorsement does not discourage the electorate from independence. It also would argue for candidates demonstrating the courage to buck to endorsed candidate.

IN THE SAME year, Cap Weinberger, the endorsed candidate of the CRA for attorney general, lost to Pat Hillings in the GOP primary's attorney general contest. The vote was 740,911 to 527,764.

There's something attractive about volunteer organizations which operate outside the official party organization, says Carney, especially when they produce meaningful contests between both major parties. But there also is something threatening about them—to the degree that their discipline should become complete, thus foreclosing the chances of any non-endorsed office seeker.

Heard Pat Brown, Opposes Him

EDITOR:
Now that the race for governor of California is well under way I must say Pat Brown is quite disgusting. I am under the age limit, so I hadn't given the governorship much thought. However, since I have listened to Pat Brown, not only his speech announcing he would run, but also other statements, I am sure I don't want him to win.

He obviously has his heart in the clouds when he says that all is right in California. I am just as patriotic as the next Californian, but I realize there certainly is room for improvement.

I AM ONLY a 9th grade student, but I'm not too young to recognize those sickening insults directed at Mr. Nixon. If he relies on insulting name-calling and a general tearing down of his opponent to win this election, then by all that is good in this state I sincerely hope he faces defeat. How can a grown man act like this? His actions and words have brought the level of this campaign down to two little boys fighting it out for president of the neighborhood group.

I am very angry and wonder what other Democrats and open-minded Republicans think of this.

His Hat's Off to John Mansell

EDITOR:
I believe that John Mansell, city manager, should be commended for his actions during the recent bus strike threat. He exhibited great courage by the position he took, which resulted in a 60-day postponement of the walk-out.

His proposal to negotiations showed great foresight and were in the best interests of the public, the workers and the company. His offer to arbitrate the matter proved his leadership and responsibility as a public official.

It is refreshing to know that there still are men in public life who have the best interests of all the people at heart, without bias or prejudice. My hat's off to John Mansell, a real civic leader.

Long Beach bus to and from work and they certainly were cheered when the settlement was announced.

Language in the News

By Charles F. Bault and Robert Strumpfen-Darfe

From a reader:
"How do you pronounce the name of the Welsh town Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllandysiliogoch?" H. C. Rooney Jamalca, New York.

It is pronounced "hflan-vair-poofft-gwin-gufl-gohgrec-khivvern-droh-bufl-hflan-des-see-l'yoh-go-goch." It has been said that the name is so long that by the time the train conductor has finished announcing it the train has pulled out of the station.

The reason the name is so long is that Welsh has the tendency to combine descriptive phrases into one word. It means "The Church of St. Mary in the Hollow of the White Hazel Tree near the Rapid Whirlpool by the Church of St. Dysilio by the Red Cave."

(Does some word in any language puzzle you? Put your question to "Language in the News" in care of this newspaper.)

About Mr. Wilson's Typewriter

WASHINGTON—This is a story about a typewriter that has just come to the White House for exhibition to the public. To understand its significance, one must ask how many persons out of the many millions who use a typewriter every day do so over the years almost never make a mistake in typing.

Yet this is the feat which a President of the United States—Woodrow Wilson—performed, and the evidences of it are to be found in the many historic documents that he personally typed and which are on file in the Library of Congress.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY received the typewriter at a little ceremony the other day to which he graciously invited the writer, who last autumn had written Mr. Kennedy suggesting that, inasmuch as he was endeavoring to place on exhibition at the White House mementoes of every President, it might be desirable to get the Wilson typewriter from the American Red Cross. Sold as "surplus property," the typewriter had come into the possession of the late Adm. Cary T. Grayson, President Wilson's physician, who had loaned it to the Red Cross. It was found stored in an attic, and Gen. Gruenther, President of the Red Cross, made the formal presentation to President Kennedy in a brief ceremony attended also by Adm. Grayson's son.

Mr. Kennedy displayed some facsimiles of President Wilson's typing, including the original of the message to Congress on the famous "Fourteen Points," which were proposed as a basis for ending World War I. Mr. Wilson wrote virtually all of his messages and important statements on his own "Hammond" typewriter—a brand which hasn't been manufactured for many years now.

It was the precision of Mr. Wilson's mind which made extraordinary the many letters and memoranda and statements which he personally typed. He knew exactly what he wanted to say and, though he typed slowly, he was accurate to the point of perfection. The same precision was to be noted in his speech-making.

Mr. Wilson never had to correct his impromptu speeches. The late Charles Swen, an expert stenographer—if not a world champion—took down the speeches in shorthand and gave them to this correspondent and other members of the press almost always without a single correction and usually without even submitting them to anyone for revision. No such handling of a President's speeches has been heard of since.

Mr. Wilson didn't have any "ghost writers," though it is probable that some state documents which contained technical material were prepared for him by cabinet officers.

But on the main issues of the day, domestic and international, Mr. Wilson himself wrote all his declarations on his Hammond typewriter. He actually composed on it, in their entirety, most of the important diplomatic communications that were sent to the German government by the State Department prior to our own entry into the war. He acknowledged daily many a communication from members of the cabinet in short memos that he personally typed. Unfortunately, he considered most of them to be routine, and didn't make carbon copies.

Mr. Wilson was also an expert at shorthand, but he used this primarily to jot down notes as he thought out in advance the topics he would cover in a speech.

JFK Conference Satirical, Witty

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—At his press conference last week President Kennedy took a couple of sardonic swipes at political opponents—humorous sallies which were reminiscent of Franklin D. Roosevelt in his prime. He showed not the slightest hesitancy to muss up Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. The New York governor had been critical of Kennedy's proposal for an urban development Cabinet post and had been even more critical of Kennedy for naming a head of the nonexistent agency. The President has selected a Negro, Robert C. Weaver.

When a reporter called all this to Kennedy's attention, the President was ready with a well-prepared stock of satirical comment.

"I was interested in the statement," said the President, "because as you know in 1956 and 1957 Gov. Rockefeller recommended the exact proposal that we recommended. The only difference—and I was recently examining his recommendations to President Eisenhower—was that he recommended that civil defense be included, but as we have placed civil defense under the military, that really is the only significant change. So he must have, for one reason or another, changed his point of view on it.

"The second reason," the President continued gleefully, "he criticized me was that I, in response to a question, said Mr. Weaver was going to be appointed. Obviously, the governor has forgotten that on March 12, 1953, when President Eisenhower sent up the proposal for the reorganization of the establishment of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, on the 13th it came from the White House that he was going to appoint Mrs. Hobby to be the secretary, and the only reason that I was astonished that the governor then forgot it was that he then became her deputy. So it seems to be the situation is not altogether dissimilar. However, I did read with interest a column in the Times (New York Times) where Fulton Lewis said nobody could get to the right of Barry Goldwater, but now I am not so sure."

THE PRESIDENT'S sallies draw laughs from the assembled reporters, a reaction which no one enjoyed more than John F. Kennedy. He laughed at his own jokes and tossed his head around in self-approbation much as Franklin D. used to do when he pulled a plum out of the press conference pudding.

Kennedy also airily dismissed George Romney by asserting it was too early to comment on anything he had to say, he characterized the John Birch Society as alien to both the Republican and Democratic parties and in general comported himself with the zest and the aplomb of a sure-footed political leader.

Kennedy's use of broad humor and satire is something new. That the President possesses a sharp wit has long been known, but like most politicians he uses it sparingly. Any experienced traveler along the hustings knows that humor is a two-edged weapon which can cut the wielder as easily as the intended victim. Adlai Stevenson's quips, for instance, however delightful they may have been, were regarded with suspicion by large portions of the populace and in the long run cost him more votes than they gained.

THE PRESIDENT'S enjoyment of his own barbs at Rockefeller reflect, one supposes, his presently somewhat buoyant mood. Things are going reasonably well for Kennedy these days. The Cuban debacle has been written off as just one of those things, the President appears to be on top of his job, and all the public opinion indices show him maintaining an impressive popularity.

In his mood, delivery, and mannerisms, he recalled the days when Franklin Roosevelt was talking of the Republicans "Martin, Barton and Fish" or Roosevelt's classic, satirical campaign attacking all Roosevelts including his Scotch terrier, Fala.

PAINT JOB PUZZLE TO POLICE

'Phantoms' Clean Things Up

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—It was not an unusual request and the men in blue who work in Police Chief August J. Rauscher's office scarcely paid any attention when a stranger wandered in and asked to use the rest room.

Permission was granted and the officers thought nothing more about it until the man returned a few moments later and announced with some indignation:

"That room is a mess. It needs painting and plastering." More specifically, he noted the green paint was faded and peeling from the wall in spots.

THE STRANGER then offered to paint the room.

Thirty minutes later the man was back, dressed in coveralls and accompanied by two assistants bearing ladders, paints, brushes and other equipment.

They immediately got to work, patching the cracks, painting over everything and when the rest room was spic and span, they moved into the halls where they continued their volunteer work.

A call went in to Peter Calcagno, City Hall's painting foreman.

"I DON'T KNOW of any painters in police headquarters," Calcagno said. He rushed over to investigate and found painters working busily on the third floor.

"What are you doing here?" Calcagno asked. "Painting," said one of the trio, belaboring the obvious.

When their work was completed, the phantom painters abruptly left, presumably in search of more unempt fields to conquer.

The surprise visitors came several days ago and police still have no idea who they were.

Tony Curtis Rise to Star American Success Story

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—If get letters frequently from people asking, in effect, "Can Johnny Anybody really become a movie star?"

Well, Bernie Anybody did—Bernie Schwartz of the Bronx—Tony Curtis. He's getting bigger constantly. And the way it happened to Bernie Schwartz is a story I like.

"About 12 years ago," says Bob Goldstein, an ex-New Yorker, now head of 20th Century-Fox in Europe, "I was in my office on Park Ave., scouting movie talent for Universal-International. I was listening to a ball game if you must know the truth."

"Suddenly I learned that Miss Joyce Selznik, an agent, was shuffling around outside with her new discovery, her latest anybody."

"He had a lot of black hair drooping down over his forehead. It was not a beautiful face but it had a lean and hungry look and strong bones."

"He was wearing a sweat shirt and jeans, the uniform of the method actor. But he was not a method actor."

"He was just short of a suit."

"Miss Selznik introduced him as Mr. Bernie Schwartz. I flinched. Imagine it, 'Bernie Schwartz' as 'The Viking.' Maybe it is better not to imagine it."

"He was a very talkative young man and he doesn't seem to have changed a bit. He was unlike another young boy named Brando who came to see me and did not answer one question but just kept his head down looking at the floor."

"The floor was just like any other floor and I never could figure why Brando could not take his eyes off of it. After asking Mr. Brando eight or nine questions and seeing he was just wedded to that floor, I put my hand on his shoulder, thanked him, and said we should get together for more of these interesting chats."

"BUT BERNIE Schwartz, the Lochinvar of the Bronx, came in next day to read. I wouldn't say he delivered his lines like Sir Laurence Olivier, but in fairness I have never heard Sir Laurence speak like Bernie Schwartz. He had the accent of an immigrant taxi driver with a mouth full of hot bagel."

"Bernie passed his test with flying colors."

"I told my secretary to get in touch with Bernie Schwartz and instruct him to report in Hollywood."

"She hunted around and finally found our hero in the Bronx playing stickball. The man in the candy store called him."

"That's how Bernie got the message that took him to Hollywood, Janet Leigh and that sweet smell of success."

"I gave him a seven-year contract at $125 a week. Bernie was beside himself, which as his critics say, has turned out to be his favorite position."

"Since 'Bernie Schwartz' was not the most dramatic label for this virile, muscular young actor, I wrote down a long list of names and held them against his face."

"Anthony Curtis seemed to fit. Since that noble christening, there have been so many Anthony Curtises in the Bronx you have to hunt high and low to find a Bernie Schwartz."

"On getting his first check-book, Tony took his father, mother and little brother to California. He met a young actress named Janet Leigh. The studio asked them not to get married right away. Tony and Janet got married right away. This demonstrated that Tony Curtis has a mind of his own. He has been forcibly demonstrating it ever since."

"Tony has lost a little but gained a lot on his climb. He has gained the poise, the self-assurance, the power and the style of a star. I wish him well—and I'm with another company."

The "Milk and Honey" cast is wearing new sweaters—knitted by Mimi Benzell's hairdresser, Sidney. . . . Roulette Records grossed a million in '61—thanks mostly to Joey Dee's twist disks.

Shelley Berman's so confident about his B'way show, "A Family Affair," that he installed a phone in his dressing room. . . . The Bill Holden-France Nuyen film will be titled "Satan Never Sleeps" . . . except in Europe, where it'll be "The Devil Never Sleeps."

Tony Franciosa's a hot prospect for the "Period of Adjustment" film.

Red Buttons was offered a car for his cameo bit in "One, Two, Three," but rejected it—said it was a favor for his pal Jack Lemmon, who had to bow out. . . . Singer Robert Goulet has incorporated, and now owns 75 per cent of himself. . . . Johnny Mathis' hard-driving mgr., Helen Noga, is going into the book publishing business. . . . Comic Mort Sahl's coming back to Basin St. East, and one wag says, "He'll have the old material—but a new wardrobe of sweaters."

'SeeSaw' Easy Stage Show Time Play, Tough Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Two for the see-saw" was the play producer's dream—two characters, one set.

But such a setup can be a nightmare to a movie director. That's why Robert Wise has had to work overtime to fashion the screen version. He thinks he's got it licked.

"SeeSaw" is a change of pace for Wise. His last effort was "West Side Story," which crowded the screen with rumbling street gangs.

His new film is concerned only with two characters: a lonely New York bachelor girl and a lonely Midwestern man, who live in adjacent flats. Shirley MacLaine and Robert Mitchum play the roles originated on Broadway by Anne Bancroft and Henry Fonda.

How does Wise keep the two-character film alive?

"THE CHARACTER Shirley plays is so colorful and diverse that I'm provided with lots of fluidity and motion," the director said. "She is a good-hearted, generous person, full of schemes and projects."

"She is forever sewing, fixing up her apartment, trying dance steps. Both Shirley's and Bob's apartments are filled with bric-a-brac, dime-store stuff which can be of enormous importance when one or even two people play in a scene.

"Another big help is the telephone. Shirley and Bob use them constantly in the film. The sets are placed side-by-side, and we're using real phones. Thus we can film them conversing with each other at the same time, instead of cutting back and forth, as is usually done in phone scenes."

Hike in Auto Sales Spur General Economic Rise

By JACK LEFLER
Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The

automobile industry is barreling along the prosperity road at high speed.

And, if the pace is maintained, it can sweep much of the economy along with it.

Economic well-being in the industry is contagious. It spreads directly to makers of steel, rubber, glass, fabrics and many other manufacturers.

And heavy buying of cars shows that the consumers are well-heeled and that their purchases will lap over into the entire retail field.

SALES OF new passenger cars in January totaled 485,962, compared with 368,900 in January 1961. The total was the best for the month since 490,000 were sold in January 1957.

General Motors grabbed 54.8 per cent of the market with sales of 266,290 cars. Ford accounted for 28.6 per cent with 138,756. Chrysler 9.9 per cent with 48,204. American Motors 5.5 per cent with 26,937 and Studebaker-Packard 1.2 per cent with 5,900.

Only Studebaker-Packard sales showed a decline from January 1961. Its production had been shut down for six weeks by a strike of the United Auto Workers union. The strike was settled Thursday.

Dealers are optimistic about the outlook for the balance of the year. A survey by C. I. T. Credit Corporation at the National Automobile Dealers Association convention indicated a belief that 6.5 million cars will be sold this year.

With an inventory of nearly 1 million cars in dealers' hands, production this week was shaved to an estimated 128,000 from 138,409 last week.

Chrysler Corporation reported it made a profit of $11.1 million in 1961. The No. 3 automaker earned $31.6 million in the final quarter, erasing a $20.5 million loss in the first three quarters. Earnings in 1960 totaled $32.2 million.

Business as a whole took heart from the decision of the United Steelworkers union and steel producers to begin negotiations on a new contract next Wednesday. This earliest date in history was agreed upon under pressure from President Kennedy. The current contract expires June 20.

THE UNION let it be known that its greatest concern in reaching a contract agreement will be job security, which it will seek to attain by a shorter work week and longer vacations.

Steel production last week reached the highest level in 22 months with some extra buying attributed to hedging against a possible strike. Output totaled 2,446,000 tons, 2.3 per cent above the previous week.

A vast new vista for investment opened up when President Kennedy asked Congress to set up a profit-making communications satellite corporation.

A federally chartered corporation would own and operate the U. S. portion of an international system in which space satellites would be used to transmit commercial telephone, telegraph, television, data and other communications. An individual could buy a share at not less than $1,000.

Also in the investment realm, the stock market carried through a good rally that began last week with Blue Chip issues leading the way.

And Wall Street was agog over reports that the government would seek a tax fraud indictment against a prominent financial figure.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, investigating the entire securities business, was reported to have decided that new regulatory laws are needed. But action wasn't expected until after next January.

The Commerce Department reported business sales in 1961 increased by $8.4 billion to a record $738.9 billion. However, sales of $67.3 billion in December dropped behind the November level by $310 million.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York concluded that the economy has been moving at a "good but not exuberant pace."

A LEADING economist, Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at New York University, told a conference of the American Bankers Association that the present economic climate requires caution. He said the outlook is clouded by uncertainties over war, whether the Cuban revolution can be kept under control in Latin America, whether a break between the right and left in France can be mended, and the effect of the European Common Market.

Briefly around the business scene: consumers' desire for services has soared in the last decade; they spent $132 million in 1960, up from $65 billion in 1950. . . Sears, Roebuck and Company reported its sales for the 1961 fiscal year topped $4.5 billion for the first time. . . The Pentagon has awarded $3 million in contracts for 12 million pounds of survival biscuits for community fallout shelters. . . Warner Brothers Pictures paid $5.5 million for the screen rights to the musical hit "My Fair Lady" . . .

Hospitals' Bed Costs Compared

By DON BRACKENBURY
I. P. T. Los Angeles Bureau

Cost per bed of the $1,224,393 chronic-disease unit at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital, Downey, is almost twice that of the 49-bed chronic-disease unit at Long Beach Community Hospital and more than twice that of a similar unit at Riverside County Hospital.

But Los Angeles County's Downey facility provides an intensive rehabilitation program. Riverside County Hospital's program is limited, and Long Beach Community does not provide rehabilitative therapy.

These are the main points of a report to be submitted to the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

THE REPORT, ordered by the supervisors last September, is signed by L. S. Hollinger, the county's chief administrative officer; Conrad Fanlon, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on County Construction, and John A. Lambie, county engineer.

Cost per bed is not as accurate a means of evaluating the expense as cost per square foot, the report declares.

It cites a State Department of Public Health publication, "Hospitals for California," which points out that square-foot cost reflects cost of the structure itself, whereas cost per bed "reflects to a substantial degree the level of medical service offered."

The 120-bed chronic-disease unit at Arlington was built by Riverside County in 1956-57 at a cost of $673,362. The 49-bed Long Beach Community Hospital unit was built in 1955-56 at a cost of $325,525.

To compare the costs, the report made adjustments for the increase in construction costs since the two facilities were built.

On an adjusted basis, the report says, the cost per square foot was $24.26 at Rancho Los Amigos; $22.50 at Riverside; and $24.31 at Long Beach Community.

The cost per bed, however, was $13,604 at Rancho, $5,948 at Riverside, and $6,975 at Long Beach.

"THE INCREASED cost per bed at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital is due primarily to the additional space necessary to provide for an intensive care rehabilitation program in effect at the institution," the report states.

Total of square feet per bed at Rancho is 396; at Riverside, 154; and at Long Beach, 136, according to the report.

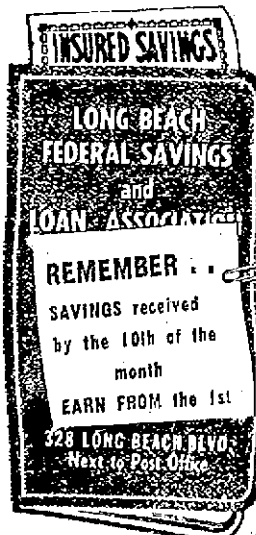

A comparative analysis by the county engineer's office indicates that a large portion of Rancho's greater area per bed is due to provisions for therapy space and for personnel to operate and manage the rehabilitation program.

Further studies on housing for patients who do not respond to therapy and further investigations of cost are being made, the report concluded.

'CAP TEST FIZZLES

Olden Times Romps by 8

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The race that was supposed to be a preview of the big Santa Anita Handicap two weeks hence proved nothing more than a slapstick mud party Saturday as Rex Ellsworth's Olden Times slithered to an enormous eight and one-half length victory in the $60,050 San Antonio 'Cap.

Much of the chase's glitter was erased earlier in the day for the 33,209 drenched fans when highly-regarded Four-And-Twenty and T.V. Lark were scratched. The third part of the golden triangle, Prove It, showed the effects of a nine-month layoff and finished a less-than-sensational seventh in the reduced eight-horse field.

T. V. Lark was declared because of the ankle-deep mud which made the track look like a World War II battleground.

FOUR-AND-TWENTY was sidelined because of an abscessed foot, which his connections hastened to explain would not affect his appearance in the forthcoming $145,000 classic.

Since he was coupled with Prove It as the Ellsworth entry, Olden Times returned a mere $4.20.

The surprising Juanro, an Eastern import who had showed little in three California appearances, salvaged second money and as the longshot of the field (13-1) shoveled back $23 on the place end.

British Roman (18-1) was six and one-half lengths in arrears of Juanro, while The Axe II was fourth.

THE OLDEN TIMES-PROVE IT entry looked unbeatable in pre-race calculations. Olden Times was supposed to whip from his launching pad like a Cape Canaveral missile to kill off the anticipated early speed of Grey Eagle, while Prove It was to lay off the pace and then take over like a Mafia colonel when the front-runners ran out of gas.

The script went out the window when Olden Times killed off Grey Eagle and switched on his spare petrol tank. Fortunately for the Ellsworth forces, Olden Times was able to kick enough goo in the other boys' faces and have the whole stretch drive to himself while the others were getting slapped with mud.

PROVE IT OBVIOUSLY WAS in the race just for the exercise. He labored to hold third place, then quit on the stretch turn when he decided he didn't like the goo and was out of breath.

Ellsworth expressed surprise that Olden Times went the entire mile and one-eighth to his wire-to-wire victory on the slushy track.

"He's never won on this kind of track," said Ellsworth, "and he usually doesn't hang on that long. Surprising what will happen when you kick mud on the people behind you."

Anaheim's Alex Maese steered Olden Times and admitted "it was a ball."

"They told me not to get any mud on myself or the horse," clucked Maese. "They said get out in front and try to stay there. The other guy (Prove It) will help you if you need it. Olden Times was so full of run and he

Bruins Continue Big Five Runaway, Rout Tribe, 84-62

By JEROME HALL

UCLA is the only basketball team left afloat in the Big Five.

The Bruins pushed Stanford down a storm drain Saturday night and all but won the conference crown with an 84-62 decision.

It was startlingly easy. Now the Bruins, who are undefeated, are so far ahead they would have to lose four of their remaining seven games to finish second.

JOHNNY GREEN, the conference's leading scorer, came through with 32 points as the Bruins combined muscle with hustle in buffeting the only team that had a chance to press them down the stretch.

A capacity crowd of 2,200 (est.) at Santa Monica CC gym saw it.

So the team that was picked by the know-it-all sports writers to fight it out for last place may become

WOULD METAL POLE MAKE JOHN USELESS?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don (Tarzan) Bragg, retired Olympic pole vault champion, said Saturday he'll give John Uelses $10,000 if he jumps 16 feet with an aluminum pole in two months.

"Who is he kidding anyway?" asked Bragg. "I don't believe John could jump 15-6 with a metal pole in 200 years."

Uelses last weekend jumped over 16 feet in successive nights to become the first pole vaulter in the world to reach the height. He did it with a flexible fiber glass pole which Bragg claims is no test of speed or strength which was the original concept of the event.

Bragg's best performance was 15 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

Bragg expressed disappointment over Uelses' absence from the Convention Hall meet because of the flu.

"I came here to see Uelses jump 16-4," he said, "I also had a deal to offer him. I wanted to get him to offer me $10,000 if I jumped 16 feet with his fiber glass pole."

'WORST CONDITIONS'

Murphy Nabs Wet Beach Run

By JOHN DIXON

Neither rain nor gale nor stormy sea can stay the Beach Run.

Despite what a venerable AAU executive termed "the worst circumstances I have ever seen for track competition," well over a hundred young gallants participated in the fourth Pacific Ocean Cross Country Championships along the Long Beach strand Saturday.

Times for each of the four long distance competitions were long distances from records, but the scanty-clad hardies were leaning into 30-mile an hour gale gusts, dodging storm debris and blinded by driving rain.

The wind-driven high surf along the course was warmer than the air—56 degrees.

Danny Murphy, highly-promising San Jose State freshman, won the featured 4.4-mile marathon in 24:32.0.

Former winner Pete Mundle of the Los Angeles Track Club was second in 24:37, 40 yards back, while Mal Robertson, also of the L.A. Track Club, was another 60 yards to the rear.

Ned Sargent of the Culver City AC took fourth, and a shocking fifth was Mit Hunt, a basketball player from Millikan High competing untached.

"THAT WAS terrible; it really got me; my stomach is full of cramps," gasped Murphy.

Murphy and Robertson trailed Mundle by 40 yards at the Belmont Pier turn-around point, Murphy gradually closed, finally catching up with almost a mile to go.

"I'll bet I ran that last mile in 4:45.0," Murphy groaned.

"Pete is really tough." Mundle's strategy was simply "build up the biggest lead I could, and hope it would scare him off. He's a good boy."

MURPHY, A 5-6, 122-pound 18-year-old, is aiming at a 10,000-meter berth in the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo. Last year at Miral Costa High he established national high school records in the two-mile (9:24.0), three-mile (14:31.1) and 5,000-meters (15:01.1).

"The longer the race the better I like it—except today," Murphy grinned over the top of his trophy.

Long Beach State's "A" team won the college four-mile relay in 25:38.8 with Darryl Taylor anchoring the baton to the finish with 150 yards left over.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State's Beavers eased ahead in the last seven minutes to defeat stubborn Portland 75-64 here Saturday night before 11,401 fans.

The win was the 17th in 18 games for the ninth-ranked Beavers and was their 16th victory in a row.

Veteran forward Jay Carty paced Oregon State's attack with 26 points.

Trojans Bounce Back to Clip Washington, 75-68

By BOB SHIBLEY

Southern California's deflated Trojans took advantage of Washington's foul-hampered offense to register a 75-68 win over the Huskies Saturday night before 800 fans who braved the storm and reached the Loyola gym.

Not only did the triumph bring Troy's sagging Big Five conference record to 4-3, but it also halted a two-game losing streak for the once nationally rated Trojans.

Despite cashing in on 22 of 24 free throws, the Huskies were hit harder by fouls. Three Washington starters, including Bill Hanson, the league's second highest scorer, were ejected via the foul route almost before the second half passed the 10-minute mark.

Hanson, who went into the game with 22.9 average, scored 15 points. He saw only three minutes of action in the second half and sat out eight of the first 20 minutes. Roger Niva and Dick Reiten were the other Huskies whistled out.

THE TEAMS were tied six times in the first half and also exchanged the lead an equal number of times before the Trojans gradually pulled out to a 35-28 halftime lead. USC led all the way in the second half, with Washington getting no closer than three points (37-34 and 39-36). Twice the Trojans hiked their margin to 10 points.

Although Troy was in command throughout the second half, Washington remained in contention until the final two minutes until Gordon Martin and John Rudometkin each popped in two free throws to give SC a 72-64 advantage.

With Hanson of almost no value to the Huskies in the second half (he scored only 2 points and had only 1 rebound), the offensive lead fell upon reserve center Dale Easley. He responded with 18 points, including 8-of-8 from the charity line.

Despite Easley's superb performance, Washington obviously missed Hanson's talents, especially his rebounding, where USC held a 40-35 advantage.

The game's tempo was set in the first two minutes

1,000 Yd. Mark Set by Snell

By JOHN DIXON

Peter Snell, a halfback-sized surveyor from New Zealand, and Jim Beatty, a jockey-proportioned insurance adjuster from Los Angeles, played supermen in the Los Angeles Indoor Games Saturday night.

Snell, a 5-10 1/2, 171-pound strongboy, set an indoor record of 2:06 in the 1,000-yard run.

Beatty, 5-5 1/2, 126-pounder with one of the longest strides in the game, erased another magical mark by winning the mile in 3:58.9 — the first indoor sub-4 minute mile in history.

Snell ran almost 15 yards faster than Ernie Conliffe's old inside record of 2:07.9.

BEATTY catapulted Ron Delany's three-year-old record of 4:01.4 into oblivion with the dinosaurs.

Beatty gave advance notice exclusively to L.P.T. readers Wednesday when he predicted a 3:59.0 time. He missed by one-tenth.

Four L.A. Track Club stars were entered in the mile—Beatty, Jim Grelle, Laszlo Tabori and Dave Martin, plus Peter Close of the New York AC.

Tabori, Grelle and Beatty were each given a "rabbit" role by their coach, Mihaly Igloi, and they played the record tune to perfection.

TABORI SET the 440 pace, 59.1; Grelle led at the 880, 1:59.6; Beatty followed the stopwatch to the 1,320, 3:01.2. And then the race was all Beatty's.

The crowd of 13,134 gave the North Carolina native an ear-splitting come-on over the final laps, and he crossed the finish line in lonely splendor. Grelle was second in 4:07.1, Martin third in 4:15.1.

"It was just the way we planned it," Igloi said. "The team did it."

"I was very nervous before the race. I felt I was on the spot. We've been talking record for two weeks," said Beatty.

Beatty was voted "athlete of the meet."

Snell, a surprise winner of the Rome 800 meters in 1960, sprinted the first 440 in 53.0 and led by six yards, hurtled through the half-mile in 1:50.2 with a 10-yard edge, and hit the tape with a 12-yard margin over Bill Crothers of the East York (Toronto) Track Club.

Crothers also bettered the old record with a 2:07.4.

Snell, who recently established world outdoor records for the mile, half-mile and 800 meters in an eight-day power burst, actually covered the 880 Saturday one-tenth faster than Arnie Sowell's indoor record.

AS REPORTERS bulleted questions, Snell interrupted, "What was the time?" Told that he broke the record, he remarked, "I'd like to get them all in my grasp." Now only the 1,500-meters is left among those in his category.

"My only strategy was to get out in front and stay there," he explained. "Indoor running is tough, but it's lots of fun."

"I might have run faster but I tied up in the final laps," Snell said, breathing easier than the quizzers. "My legs are sore—partly from the sharp turns, partly from pounding those boards. I was going all-out."

A PAIR OF old-timers who continue to rank among the world's best won the first two events.

Hayes Jones, Olympic Games bronze medalist, captured the 60-yard high hurdles in a three-way photo in 7.3. Fran Washington and Ray Cunningham were given the same time.

Jones and Cunningham broke together, held the midway pace when Cunningham took over the first hurdle, and scampered head-and-head to the tape. From the press disadvantage point, Jones looked no better than second.

STORM NO THREAT TO DODGER PARK DEBUT

Rain floodwaters suspended construction on Dodger Stadium Saturday, but the club denied the current storm would delay the scheduled opening of the stadium on April 10.

Dodger officials admitted flooding had halted work on both the ballpark and access roads, with water covering the infield and washing away top soil. But they emphasized there was no serious damage.

Red Patterson, director of public relations for the team, said, "we haven't lost any money, just time

Rainy-Day Clients Compose

"I am a faithful reader of your column and have been impressed by the number of women who write and tell you of the athletic talents of the gentler sex. I am in agreement with your belief that a gal can score best in the kitchen. However, there are enough letters sent your way by females who tout their own talents with a No. 3 iron instead of a steam one, or who seemingly are better qualified to roll a ball down the center alley than a baby carriage along the sidewalk, that I reluctantly concede the gals may have a point. So, I've been wondering if we couldn't come up with something that will kill two birds with one stone: Give the women a chance to display their athletic prowess and fill a vacancy on the local sporting scene. There is a big regatta coming to town May 19 in Marine Stadium—and included will be women-powered shells racing against some of San Diego's fastest. Officials wanted the gals to race San Diego in the same regatta two years ago, but the Long Beach cuties were conspicuous by their absence. Can you line up some of your comely readers to form a crew or two for that regatta? Do you think that some of these vociferous females can show us—instead of tell us—that they belong on the local sports scene?" (signed) Jim Mangan, Sports Information Director, Long Beach State College.

(If our local Babe Didrikson acts like they talk, your office should be jammed Monday morning both with Amazons and mail, Jimmy.)

"I DECIDED TO TAKE a bunch of young people to the Sports Arena for a recent hockey game and was told they were all sold out. However, if I got there at 6 p. m. I could get general admission tickets. We got there at 5:30 and were told they were sold out of those, too. There were 100 or more people who had driven in over 50 miles with the same information. Rather than disappoint my guests I tried the numerous ticket offices across the street and found I could buy reserved seats AND general admission, but at DOUBLE the price. Those hockey people take everybody for suckers and it's all wrong. They would have sold every ticket, anyway. Why?" (signed) A.D.A., 1015 E. Ocean Blvd..

(This deplorable practice has increased in pro sports each year. Law officers are handcuffed because the professional ticket office scalpers are within legal limits. The only possible way to run such ghoulies out of business is NOT to purchase tickets from them. In that way, they'd be stuck with batches of ducats purchased at regular prices from football, basketball or hockey offices.)

"One sport you seem to have forgotten in your column is ice hockey. I'm such a loyal fan that instead of grabbing the women's section, I now go for the sports section. The Blades have proven they can fill the Arena, now it's only fair they fill a mention in your most widely-read column." (signed) Mrs. J. Morey, 3469 Farwood Ave.

(They filled a mention, ma'am, or did you miss that ticket gouge letter immediately above?)

"TO ALL NATIONAL LEAGUE SCOUTS—except the Dodgers: If one of you sign me to a Pacific Coast League contract, I'll be the best pitcher on the club and get to the majors this year. Then I will beat the Dodgers eight out of 10 times I face them. These are my cousins." (signed) Terry Hyland, 416 Elm Ave.

(Terry, old friend, I've one thing to say in your behalf: If you ever make it to the majors, Jim Brosnan is dead as an author.)

"I appreciate your efforts in trying to get a rodeo here, but why not try for something really BIG—the American Bowling Congress tournament! This is greater than the World Series or a heavyweight title fight. I mean it." (signed) B. A. McIntosh, Torrance.

(Maybe you do, but I don't. Anyway, you might check with Howard Jones of the Convention Bureau regarding the last pitch Long Beach made for the ABC event. The twist of the old knife still lingers in our backs.)

"Being an old horse player from way back and with nothing better to do while waiting for my wife to quit yapping, I tuned in KFOX radio at 6 p. m. for the race re-creations. Some top sheet sponsors the program. You should listen to the joker that calls the heats. He couldn't call a hoop race at Vasser. Joe Hernandez and Jim Healy haven't a thing to worry about. The part that sickens me is that the tout sheet has a winner in every race—except one, that of course was reserved for a limited number of $500 subscribers. The other seven could be bought for the nominal (2) fee of $25. Heck, with that kind of information, why bother to sell it? I'm the last guy to knock anyone making a quick buck, but you'd have to be fresh off the boat to fail for that cow." (signed) J. M., Long Beach.

BURLINGTON, Wis. (UPI)—The Fire and Police Commission will hold a hearing Feb. 20 on a charge that Police Chief Walter Gabriel suppressed a speeding ticket given to third baseman Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves.

The charge was made by Mayor A. B. Rowland, who accused Gabriel of "neglect of duty" and going beyond "the scope of your authority" in refusing to press the ticket against Mathews.

Lucas Hits 14-of-15 as Bucks Roll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's dazzling fast-break offense was too much for Minnesota Saturday night as the top-ranked Buckeyes equalled a Big Ten win-streak record defeating the Gophers, 91-66, for their 23rd in a row in the conference.

The victory was the unbeaten Bucks' 18th in a row this season and their eighth in their quest for a third straight Big Ten title.

All-America Jerry Lucas sparked the attack with 34 points. The Gophers lost their seventh in a row.

The 6-foot-8 senior bettered a Big Ten individual performance hitting 14 of 15 shots from the floor. Purdue's Willie Merriweather held the old mark of 11 of 12 set in 1959.

While the Buckeye offense was literally running over Minnesota, the defense kept the equally tall Gophers far out on the court most of the game.

Eric Magdanz, the Gophers' scoring standout, hit for 28 points on 12 of 18 shots from the field—most of them coming on long shots.

Brethren Beaten
Brethren High of Paramount howled to Chadwick, 68-53, in a Prep League contest on the winner's court Saturday. Dennis Moore led Brethren with 18 points.

CLAY KEEPS SLATE CLEAN, TKOs BANKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Knocked down in the first round, undefeated Cassius Clay, the 1960 Olympic light heavyweight champion, rallied Saturday night and stopped Sonny Banks of Detroit in 26 seconds of the fourth round of a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Referee Ruby Goldstein halted the scrap when Banks, who had been floored in the second round and battered heavily in the third, wobbled without being hit in the fourth round.

Banks, a 21-year-old unknown from Detroit, surprised the cocky Clay when he dropped the Louisville favorite on the seat of his pants in the first round.

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Kansas State's defending champion Wildcats took an easy 65-49 Big Eight Conference victory over Missouri to stay close on the heels of league-leading Colorado Saturday night.

A near-capacity crowd of 12,000 saw the fourth-nationally ranked K-Staters take their sixth verdict in seven conference starts and run their season total to 17-2. Missouri now is 1-6 in league competition and 7-11 overall.

Kansas State fans presented Missouri coach Sparky Stalcup a matched set of luggage before the game in token of his last coaching appearance at Manhattan. Stalcup becomes assistant athletic director after this season.

Mike Wroblewski led the Wildcats with 17 points.

Dinnell Sparks Peppertine Past Broncos, 59-51

SAN JOSE (UPI)—The Peppertine Waves, led by Harry Dinnell, dumped Santa Clara, 59-51, Saturday night in a West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game at the San Jose Civic Auditorium.

The Waves hit 40 per cent of their shots from the floor, with Dinnell sinking 7 field goals, plus six free throws for 20 points.

Wildcats Race to 16th in Row

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—

Fast-breaking Kentucky pulled away in the last 10 minutes Saturday night and defeated Mississippi 83-60 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

It was Kentucky's 16th consecutive victory and set the stage for the Wildcats' Monday night contest with ninth-ranked Mississippi State, Kentucky is the nation's second-ranked team.

Larry Pursiful and Cotton Nash were the big men in Kentucky's attack, hitting for 23 and 22 points, respectively.

Kentucky has a 17-1 record for the season and leads the SEC with an 8-0 mark. The loss was Mississippi's 11th of the campaign. The Rebels have won eight games. They are 1-7 in conference play.

The Wildcats, with jump shots from the floor and tight control of the boards, hit 43 per cent to Ole Miss's 38.2.

Monrovia held a slight margin all the way, but Poly closed to a yard at the end. Monrovia's time was 1:08.6. Poly's 1:08.8. Dominguez was third in 1:09.3.

The Compton Girls Club set an Arena record of 41.6 in winning the four-gal, 320-yard relay. The Covina Spikers were 12 yards to the rear in 43.6.

Bruce Bess of La Habra state high school mile champion, had a brief challenge from Bob Delaney of Orange, on the next-to-final lap, then pushed hard to win the 11-lap event by 15 yards in 4:23.3.

Bess, rated one of America's finest mile prospects, still has a novice character—his peeped over his shoulder TEN times.

GARY GUBNER, an 18-year-old NYU freshman who scowls more fiercely than the Swedish Angel, handed Parry O'Brien and Dallas Long a thorough thumping in the shotput.

Gubner's winning throw of 63.8 surpassed O'Brien's Arena record of 63-1½. Parry was second at 61-1½, Long third at 61-0.

Gubner had what may have been the greatest throw in the history of the event, but the red flag waved when he stepped out of the ring. The 16-pounder appeared to land at the 66-foot mark. Bill Nieders' outdoor standard is 65-10.

MURRAY HATBERG, teammate of Snell and winner of the Olympic 5,000-meters, captured the two-mile as easily as expected. His time of 8:42.5 beat the old Arena record by three and one-half seconds. Bob Schul was second and in 8:55.3, rapid enough to win almost any meet.

A tremendous third-lap by Darryl Taylor, who lined up with a Beach Run mile in the afternoon, carried Long Beach State to victory in the second section of the college mile relay. The 49ers were stopped in 3:28.4, second place Cal Poly (Pomona) in 3:31.2.

Jim Richardson led off for State in 52.8, Doug Hall followed with 53.0. Taylor clinched it with 50.8 and Gary Patterson anchored with a 51.8 440.

STEVE HAAAS of Occidental scored his second successive 500-yard surprise by crushing Tex Cawley (57.9) and Ujis Williams (58.7) in 56.8, third fastest time in history of the event.

Arnold Palmer is the world's greatest golfer. He has won more money and tournaments than any other player since he turned professional in 1954. He has captured the National Amateur, National Open, British Open and Masters twice.

Palmer is 32, married and has two daughters. Fullback's shoulders and blacksmith's forearms belie a normal 5-10½, 175-pound body frame. An approachable, congenial, gregarious individual, he makes a mockery of the assertion that "nice guys finish last."

A week ago, Palmer won his third Palm Springs tournament in four years. He won by producing one of his patented final round flourishes... five birdies in a row. He won by placing in action a unique philosophy of playing golf that has helped mold him into a champion.

"The object of this game is to get the ball in the hole in as few strokes as possible," explains Arnold.

"You must go out after a golf course. You can't sit around and let it come to you. If there is just a long chance for me to make a 3 on a par-5 hole, I will be gunning for it. I never go into a tournament merely with the idea of winning money. I go in to win."

Aren't there pitfalls at always shooting at the pin?

"There is one thing that is absolutely necessary for a golfer who attacks at the pin consistently. He must know how to scramble out of trouble. Without that, he's lost."

Don't the other pros also like to win? Why don't they play as boldly as you?

"I suppose it is because they know they can make an adequate living playing with caution every round all year. But they rarely win tournaments and practically never a major title. I am not built that way."

Do you shoot for a birdie on every hole?

"That depends. On so-called birdie holes, I go all out to make a bird. On the harder holes, I try for the bird but like to think in terms of making a sure par. I don't play to the safe side of a green too often, though. Usually, if I have a 50-50 chance of knocking the ball close, I'll go for it, sometimes when I shouldn't."

Would you rather lead a tournament going into the final round or be a few strokes back?

"Some golfers like the idea of being a couple of strokes back, where there may be less pressure, but I'd just as soon be in the lead and let them try to catch me."

Do you have a temper on the course?

"I did when I first came on the tour. I used to get disgusted when I didn't play well. I even picked up in some tournaments. I'd never do that now. I have learned not to let bad shots or bad holes upset me unduly. I have learned not to think I'm out of the running because of a setback."

"I also used to feel that I could beat anyone any time. Now I've learned that there are lots of players on the tour who can beat me on a given day, and they do."

What has been your biggest thrill in golf?

"Winning the Masters in 1958. It was my first major title as a pro and I've always loved that tournament. I also got a big thrill from winning the Open in 1960 when I birdied six of the first seven holes in the final round."

"I'd like to win all the major titles. I haven't won the PGA Championship yet. That's the one I'm aiming at this year."

An attacking golfer who plays to win—and does—that's Arnold Palmer.

Palmer's Partners Go to Pott, He Stays Five Ahead

PHOENIX (UPI) — Arnold Palmer fired a shaky even-par 71 in the third round of the Phoenix Open golf tournament Saturday but retained his five stroke lead over the field as all of his pursuers failed to take advantage of his balky putter.

Palmer posted a 54 hole score of 203—five shots ahead of big Bill Casper, who came in with a fine 68 for 208. It was a day of wild scores and it's possible that Palmer, who is gunning for his second consecutive tournament victory, was unnerved by his playing partners Don Massengale, who shot a nine-over-par 80 and Johnny Pott who had an eight-over par 79.

And it's possible that Pott and Massengale, in turn, were upset by the huge gallery of about 10,000 which dogged their heels and raced across fairways to see the great Palmer in action — leaving most of the other players in complete isolation.

PALMER WAS slightly disgusted with his round.

"I putted like an old shoe," he said after the round. "I didn't play quite as well as I have been but the putts just weren't dropping. The greens were a bit bumpy and I guess

Maris, N.Y. Separated by $15,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Roger Maris' salary dispute with the New York Yankees took a serious turn for the worse Saturday when the 61-homer man walked out unsigned after his third conference with club general manager Roy Hamey.

The Yankees, who described previous Maris-Hamey meetings in December and January as "pleasant," made no attempt to gloss over the failure of Saturday's 35-minute session here at the Yankees' training base.

"We made no progress at all," admitted Hamey.

Indications were that Maris and Hamey were stuck about $15,000 apart—Maris asking a $75,000 figure which would just about double his reported salary of $38,000 last year and Hamey offering about $60,000.

Catcher Johnny Blanchard, a World Series hero, signed for $20,000, a boost of $6,000 over his 1961 salary.

THE DODGERS announced the signing of catcher Norm Sherry and rookies Willard Hunter and Thad Tillison, pitchers, and Mike Brunley, a catcher.

It cut the list of players unsigned to nine. They are Sandy Koufax, Ron Fairly, Wally Moon, Stan Williams, Willie Davis, Larry Sherry, Frank Howard, Doug Camilli and rookie Alan Makasian. Only Koufax is expected to be a problem.

JIM PAGLIARONI has agreed to terms with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinals had offered him a $30,000 contract, a "sizable" cut in wages from his 1961 salary.

Sirius II Leads by 25 Miles in Acapulco Race

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sirius II, skirting closer to shore than any other yacht in the 1,430-mile San Diego-to-Acapulco race, led the field on a boat-for-boat basis Saturday.

Sirius II was 469 miles out of the Mexican resort city. She was followed by Escafade at 494 miles and Orient at 495 miles.

Kialoa was in the lead on a handicap basis at 505 miles, Orient second and Roland Von Bremen third at 535 miles.

Officials said yachts sailing closer to shore picked up the most distance during the day. Handicap standings: Class A: Orient, Escafade, Kialoa; Class B: Kialoa, Roland Von Bremen, Mickey; Class C: Gamier, Desert Star, Malobli.

Nagle Holds Lead in Philippine Open

MANILA (AP) — Kel Nagle of Australia rallied with long birdie putts on the finishing holes Saturday and clung to a one-stroke lead over fellow countryman Peter Thomson in the third round of the Philippine Open golf championship.

Nagle has a 54-hole score of 209 and Thomson 210 going into today's final round over the Wack Wack Country Club.

Hockey Fever Contagious, But NHL Cool to Expansion

GEORGE AGAR Rooters Help Blades

Blades Baffled by Crowd Increase

By JOHN POWER
United Press International

Professional hockey fever, after an absence of 11 years, has struck Southern California and Western Hockey League medicine men predict even higher temperatures next season.

The increase in attendance at home games of the Blades, which includes the establishment of a new WHL record of 13,702, has many sports experts baffled—including some club officials.

Since the first of the year, the nonstop action and spec-

CLARENCE CAMPBELL Can't Lower Standards

Campbell 'Not Sold' on West

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL (UPI)—The National Hockey League, a tightly-knit group of four American and two Canadian clubs, is not likely to jeopardize its highly successful operation through hasty expansion to California.

The compact major league of hockey has been urged from time to time to go major league geographically as well as artistically but has rejected all pleas.

League president Clarence Campbell, who boasts that "no entertainment is sold today that matches hockey," said that he's "not completely sold" on the idea of moving to the California cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"I KNOW we'll never be accepted in the states as a major league until we have spanned the continent," he said. "We have a great show right now and I wouldn't want to see its standards lowered by expanding too quickly."

Campbell said there are two major requirements attached to any new franchise: suitable arenas and acceptable promoters.

"Los Angeles has perhaps the most beautiful arena in North America, but San Francisco's Cow Palace is not suitable for hockey. The seats are all on the same level."

AS FAR AS the promoters of the existing Western Hockey League teams in those two cities are concerned, Campbell said they would have to prove they are capable operators.

Despite the desirability from the public's viewpoint, the NHL has never officially approved of expansion on any grounds. Under the present setup, there are several reasons why the NHL will not expand in the foreseeable future.

Unlike other major professional team sports, the NHL does not believe in split gates. The home team keeps every nickel of its own revenue. Montreal and Toronto have sold out their buildings ever since World War II and also share a rich but undisclosed national network television fee.

THUS, THE FOUR American clubs — New York, Detroit, Boston and Chicago — don't take home as much as one dollar from their Canadian visits.

Expanding to California would greatly increase the expenses of all clubs without providing any financial return. The only people who would stand to gain economically would be the California promoters.

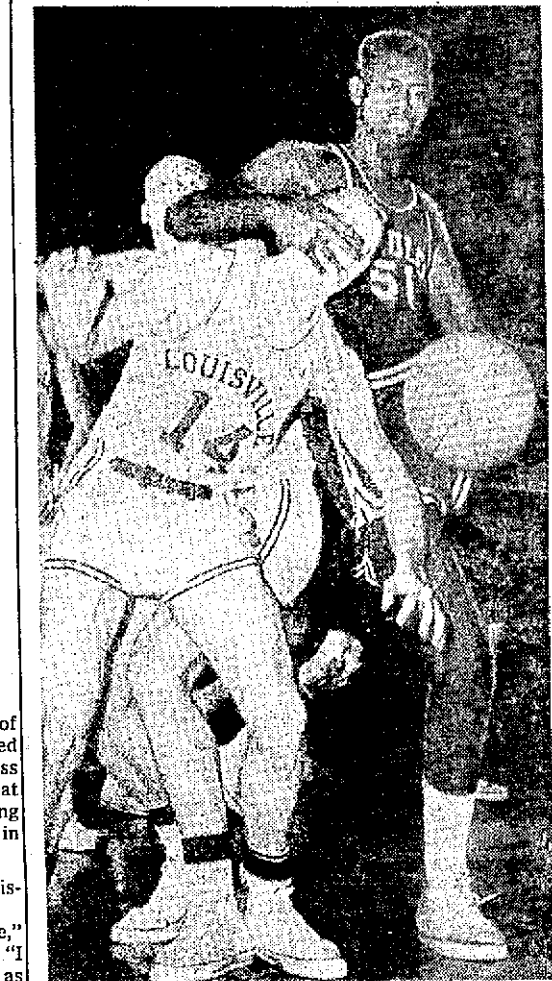

It has been reported that CBS would be willing to televise NHL games, but only if three more American teams were added. The third club conceivably would be located in Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis or St. Louis.

EXPANSION and network TV would also force the two Canadian teams to give up some of their Saturday night home games. Toronto has steadfastly refused to relinquish any of its 22 Saturday games while Montreal has compromised only in allowing two different ice shows to have one Saturday each. Saturday night hockey in Canada is practically a tradition.

Stocking new franchises seems to be one of the lesser problems. "There are plenty of journeyman-type hockey players," Campbell said. "But there is a definite scarcity of star material and this situation can't be improved. Every sport has this problem and hockey is fortunate in having more than most sports."

GUESS WHO?

Bradley's Joe Strawder surprises Jadie Frazier of Louisville by wrapping arm around his head in scramble for loose ball Saturday. Bradley won, 80-79.

Warriors Wilt Lead of Celtics

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain's three-point play with 27 seconds remaining gave the Philadelphia Warriors a 107-106 victory over the Boston Celtics Saturday night in the second game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader at Convention Hall.

In the opener, the Chicago Packers, led by Walt Bellamy's 44 points, defeated the New York Knicks, 126-111 before a capacity crowd of 10,741.

The victory over Boston was Philadelphia's second in as many nights. The triumph also cut Boston's Eastern Division lead over the Warriors to 5½ games.

CHAMBERLAIN'S winning effort came with his team trailing 105-104. Wilt spun around Boston's Bill Russell dunked a field goal and was fouled in the process. Wilt then converted the foul for his 38th and final point of the night.

The Celtics still had two chances. Frank Ramsey was fouled with 16 seconds to go. However the former Kentucky star missed the second of two free throws.

The Warriors then came

Loyola Five Upset by San Jose, 59-49

SAN JOSE (AP) — San Jose State upset Loyola, 59-49, in West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game Saturday night.

San Jose and Loyola were tied 24-24 at halftime. Dennis Bates and Rolf Dahl paced a second half scoring slant that carried the Spartans to victory.

acular combat at the Sports Arena has drawn thousands of new fans who a short time ago thought the Red line was connected with Moscow propaganda.

General manager Jack Geyer believes there are four major factors contributing to the box office success of the Blades in recent weeks.

"After Jan. 1 we had football out of the way and more important — we started to win," said Geyer, former public relations director for the Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley.

He listed the other two reasons as good television coverage and a promotional agreement with an oil company.

The sudden interest in hockey on the part of Southern Californians was upped the average attendance for 28 home games to 5,805.

WHILE THIS in no way compares to the crowds of over 15,000 which the Montreal Canadiens attract on their home ice at the Forum, it shows that hockey is gaining the support of Southern California fans.

On the play side of the ledger, the Blades are also showing a remarkable improvement despite having an unusually high injury rate.

In the last 11 games prior to Feb. 6, the Blades lost only two, putting them six points up on the San Francisco Seals in their battle for third place play-off spot in the WHL's Southern Division.

THE BLADES' record in the 48 games played up to Feb. 6 is 19-24-5 for a total of 43 points. The Portland Buckaroos lead the division with 69 points.

Coach George Agar, a veteran of 14 years of pro hockey, believes the capacity crowds in recent weeks at the Sports Arena have contributed to the club's big surge.

"With that many people rooting for them," said Agar, "they can't afford not to play well."

It has been an uphill fight for the attendance dollar in Los Angeles which boasts big league teams in every major sport.

Mainly responsible for the sudden reawakening of interest in hockey is Dan Reeves, Los Angeles stockbroker and part-owner of the Rams.

SPORTS pioneering is not new to Reeves who brought the Ram franchise from Cleveland in 1946 to become the first owner ever to transfer a major league franchise to the West Coast.

Reeves teamed up with James A. Piggott, a Saskatoon, Sask., construction company executive, to bring the Blades from Victoria, B. C., last year.

McKinley Surprises Aussie Star Laver

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., upset Wimbledon champion Rod Laver of Australia with a crushing tennis display Saturday, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4, and went into the final round of the national indoor championship against Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif.

Reed, mixing dinky lobs with teasing drop volleys, turned back Manuel Santana, Spain's young Davis Cup ace, in the other semifinal, 7-9, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4.

IT WAS THE brightest day in years for American tennis, which has slumped to depressing depths in international competition.

Laver, recent winner of the Australian national crown and generally hailed as the world's premier amateur, was not at his best on the lightning fast boards of the seventh round match. He never dropped his service and only once—the second game of the third set—was the red-haired Australian able to get as close as game point. Laver reached advantage on McKinley's service but the Missouri youngster saved the game with two beautiful volleys and a killing overhead smash.

Alaskan Fishing Just Hours Away

JUNEAU, Alaska—The jet age is changing our way of living in the outdoor world. Frontiers which we only read and dreamed about suddenly are in front of us. Strange lakes and streams and forests are ours for the asking, and you don't have to be wealthy to grasp the opportunity.

For instance, you can fly from Los Angeles International Airport to Seattle, make a quick change of planes, jet to Juneau, eat a leisurely lunch, take a 30-minute float-plane trip and spend most of the afternoon fishing or hunting.

Juneau now is less than five hours away from the Long Beach area by jet planes. It works this way: Fly United or Western nonstop to Seattle in two hours; then take Pan American World Airways from Seattle to Juneau in two and one-quarter hours and you are gazing at the famous Mendenhall Glacier as you step down the ramp at Juneau Airport.

From that point on it's up to you as to what you wish to do—fish for salmon or cutthroat trout, or hunt bear or moose.

You can do it for about $30 per day per customer if you organize your party properly and if you hire a guide who knows his way around this country. There are lakes within 10 miles where you can catch 20-pound cutthroats.

JIM LENZ, ONE OF ALASKA'S noted guides and who writes an occasional article for the magazines, went over the whole outdoor situation with me while we had coffee in the Baranof Hotel.

Jim has roamed from Point Barrow to Nome to Fairbanks to Anchorage to Juneau and has an excellent knowledge of where fish and game may be found. He has seen enough of the state's far north to realize that he prefers Juneau's milder climate.

And he feels that fishing for salmon and cutthroats is just as good here as anywhere. As for grayling and rainbow trout, you have to go farther north. There is an occasional steelhead run in a stream near Juneau, but it is rare and Jim does not want a customer to depend on such for his only sport.

Jim not only is a guide, but also a remarkable bush pilot. His specialty is taking care of 10 or 12 persons on a single camping trip, ferrying them out of Juneau to such lakes as Hasselburg, Turner, Florence or Basket.

All of those lakes naturally have inlets and outlets and such streams provide tremendous trout fishing, as well as salmon when the big kings are running. The salmon runs start in late April and continue through the fall. "You catch them any time," says Jim, "but weatherwise, I prefer July and August."

ALL OF THE LAKES AND STREAMS are at low elevations, which is vitally important to middle-aged and older persons who don't like to take chances on heart attacks. Even the highest mountains around Juneau are just over 3,000 feet.

A nonsid fishing and hunting license costs $20, but there is a hunting-only permit for $10 and a short-term fishing license for $5. Most of us must remember that Alaska is just getting its feet wet as a state and there are many problems.

Fish and game formerly was administered by the federal government, but when Alaska became a state, such problems were turned over to Alaska, and the state officials are just feeling their way until they come up with a long-range program for their outdoors.

The potential is so great that it is enough to frighten those in charge. If Alaska were properly advertised for what it offers the fisherman and the hunter, there wouldn't be enough guides in the entire northwest to take care of the customers.

Jim, like many others in Alaska, is handicapped by lack of capital, but he has visions of seeing Juneau become famed for its fishing and hunting.

He will have a 38-foot cabin cruiser on Auke Bay this summer for trolling in the inlets where salmon start upstream for the spawning grounds.

HERRING RIGS LIKE WE USE off Washington and Oregon are the best for ocean-run salmon and the fishing is very similar.

Jim likes spring bear hunts even better than those in the fall. The Alaska browns may be hunted from the last week in April through May and June. Then the season closes for July and August.

There is definitely no difference in the browns and the Kodiaks. The Kodiaks just got their name from that part of Alaska where they roam.

If you wish more information on fishing and hunting, write Jim Lenz at the Northlander Hotel, Juneau.

Before closing I must tell you about Nanook, the husky-malemute whirlwind who took part in our picnic with the Tom Ramseys and the Cy Reeves. I had more trouble becoming a friend of Nanook's than I ever had with any dog, but I finally made the grade. Enough backscratching and petting made him pay attention to me.

The next day Nanook staged a single-dog celebration. The Reeves had put out a case of beer on Nanook's porch to chill; it never gets above 24 there this time of year.

Nanook thought that package was for him. He broke it open and smashed every can with his strong teeth. At last report, he was recovering from his hangover.

NCAA, AAU Open Power Battle Today

Hawks Open Laker Home Stand Monday

ALEX OLMEDO Wimbledon King

By DON HARDIN

The Lakers have shut the door and turned the key halfway on their way to winning the Western Division title chase of the National Basketball Association. But don't lose interest.

There are seven big home games left on the Lakers' agenda at the Sports Arena and they could prove the most interesting of the entire campaign before the playoffs begin.

Starting Monday night the Lakers host last season's division winner, St. Louis, then meet the Hawks for the next-to-last time on Wednesday night.

On Sunday afternoon, Feb. 18, the saucy world champion Boston Celtics move in for a pair, the second slated for the following Tuesday night.

THE DETROIT Pistons, who have been making a run at second place in the past two weeks, appear for the final times on Sunday and Tuesday, Feb. 25-27.

The Lakers make their final Eastern swing following the Detroit series and return for their finale against the Hawks on Mar. 14th.

Although Elgin Baylor, as was previously announced, will not play Monday night, a double-barreled attraction is offered, nonetheless.

Preceding the Lakers-Hawks contest, world famous professional tennis players Pancho Segura and Alex Olmedo will take the court at 7 o'clock for an exhibition.

The basketball-tennis combination is something unique in Southland sporting circles and two of the best pros performing were rounded up for this event. Segura is one of the most colorful, and skillful, performers ever to swing a racquet and Olmedo, of USC, is a former Wimbledon champion and Davis Cup star.

800 Will Pack Baseball Camps, Bid for 500 Jobs

By FRANK ECK AP Newsfeatures

Nobody can tell for sure just how successful the expanded 1962 major league season will be but one thing is certain as the athletes prepare to iron out winter's kinks. Spring training will be the most gigantic undertaking the national pastime has ever known.

More than 800 athletes between the ages of 18 and 41 will be trying for 500 places on 20 big league clubs.

Between mid-March and May 9, more than 300 will have been told to turn in their suits and head for such places as Honolulu or Vancouver, B.C., in the Pacific Coast League; Atlanta or Jacksonville in the International League; Louisville or Omaha in the American Association.

Forty-man rosters are cut to 25 players by May 9, 30 days after the season opens.

25-Mile Record by Roberts

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Glenn (Fireball) Roberts

bettered his own 25-mile race record at Daytona International Speedway Saturday and won the NASCAR American Cup challenge race by an inch.

Roberts drove a 1962 Pontiac and averaged 157.081 mph.

Roberts set the previous 25-mile mark of 156.444 mph earlier this month.

Joe Weatherly, also in a 1962 Pontiac, was the close second, followed by David Pearson in a 1961 Pontiac.

An international field of 34 grand touring car and 28 sports car drivers will compete in the first Daytona Continental three-hour race today.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pete Lovely, Seattle, Wash.,

won the first 10-lap formula junior heat over a 1.66-mile course at Daytona Speedway. Lovely drove a Lotus 22 and averaged 76.705 mph.

Floyd Aaskov, Lincoln, Mass., was second in a Lotus. Peter Ryan, Montreal, placed third in a Lotus 20.

And the Chicago Cubs again assume that eight or more heads are better than one. They have eight coaches signed and plan no skipper.

Charlie Metro, after great success at Denver, will be a newcomer to the mass strategy system.

SPRING BUS RIDES—for all but the Dodgers, who have their own plane—from March 10—that's when the exhibition games start—until early April will lead to transcontinental flights.

Last spring the Minnesota Twins and the Los Angeles Angels joined the expanded American League. This spring the New York Mets and Houston .45 Colts come alive as the new clubs in the 10-team National League. A good guess is that this setup will remain for at least five years. After that further expansion may lead to three major leagues.

Baseball has no hard and fast rule as to reporting dates, except that full squads must be on hand by March 1. Actually only two teams report that late this time. They are the Milwaukee Braves and Washington Senators.

FOURTEEN TEAMS will train in Florida, five in Arizona and one, the Angels, in California. The Angels report Feb. 20 at Palm Springs. A number of teams have "early squads" in action already.

The reason behind this is to see how last year's sore arms feel (Yankee Bob Turley and Pirate Vernon Law, to name two), and to learn how well some of the expensive bonus players know fundamentals that were dwelt on only lightly in the minors.

Changes in the 1962 camp setup find the world champion New York Yankees moving from St. Petersburg to a permanent base at Fort Lauderdale on Florida's east coast; the Mets taking the Yankees' old home (Miller Huggins Field) in St. Petersburg and the new Houston Colts going to an Arizona spot called Apache Junction.

Sprint Cars Return to Ascot Today

Sprint cars return to Ascot Park today—depending on the weatherman.

If the CRA cars do run, officials expect a turnout of more than 40 for the main event which would be an all-time record.

At the Lions Drag Strip, Don Prudhomme of Van Nuys will attempt to break the 190 mph mark. If he does, he will pick up $1,000 put up by the LBDS to the first car to break the mark. The best Prudhomme has done in his Chrysler dragster is 189.46.

Rain this weekend has already canceled the sports car races at Riverside and CJA Super-modified races at Western Speedway.

Ascot races begin at 2:30 p.m., eliminations at the LBDS start at 1:30 p.m.

7 All-City Stars on Viking '9'

By KEN PIVERNETZ

There are plenty of holes to fill in the Long Beach City College baseball team this season, but coach Joe Hicks won't be losing much sleep over it.

Seven freshmen who made all-city last year are enrolled at LBCC and Hicks should have a good nucleus to build with as the season opens Friday at Blair Field against Orange Coast College.

Using Fusion Settles Into Dogged Hunt

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Back in 1955 an Indian scientist excited the world with a prediction that man would take the violent forces of the H-bomb in 20 years and enter upon a golden age of limitless power.

In the more than six years since, according to a recent bulletin of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), the excitement has died down and is unlikely to be rekindled anytime soon.

The search for hydrogen power has settled into a dogged laboratory exploration of various theoretical ideas for controlling and harnessing thermonuclear fusion (H-bomb) reactions.

The first hydrogen power plant apparently is still at least 20 years away — with emphasis on "at least."

THE 1955 PREDICTION was made by Dr. Homi J. Bhabha of India at an international conference in Geneva on peaceful uses of atomic energy. One source of such energy is the fusion of deuterium (heavy hydrogen) nuclei.

For every 5,600 ordinary hydrogen atoms in the world's oceans there is one atom of deuterium. A gallon of sea water contains more locked up energy than a gallon of gasoline.

So, said Bhabha, when controlled fusion reactions are achieved "the energy problems of the world will truly have been solved forever."

It came out that Russia, Britain and the United States all were trying to solve the problems standing in the way of hydrogen power. In 1957 new optimism was generated by reports of successes with a British apparatus called Zeta. The reports turned out to be wrong.

BY 1958, when a second world atoms-for-peace meeting was held at Geneva, it had become all too apparent, the IAEA recalled, that the problems were tougher and likely to take longer to solve than had been supposed.

Last fall the IAEA sponsored an international conference at Salzburg, Austria, devoted solely to fusion research. The consensus was about the same as in 1958.

Scientists still were far from being able to ignite, contain and control fusion reactions. Prof. L. A. Artsimovich of Russia said that early optimism had "proved as unfounded as the sinner's hope of entering paradise without passing through purgatory."

HE SAID, "There can be scarcely any doubt that the problem of controlled fusion will eventually be solved." But, he continued, "We do not know how long we shall have to remain in purgatory."

A U.S. delegate, Dr. M. N. Rosenbluth, took satisfaction from the fact that scientists had not been able to find any reason why hydrogen power should be impossible.

"I believe the chances are very good," he said, "that in 20 years or so mankind will have solved the problem of controlled fusion if only he has not lost in the meantime the far-more-difficult struggle against uncontrolled fusion."

Rancho Gijiguas Bought for $1 Million

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — The historic 3,618-acre Gijiguas Rancho near here has been purchased for about $1 million by a self-described fugitive from subdividers.

"We wanted a place where my wife and five children can have room to ride and where we will be safe from subdividers' bulldozers," said the new owner. "That's what drove us away from Camarillo."

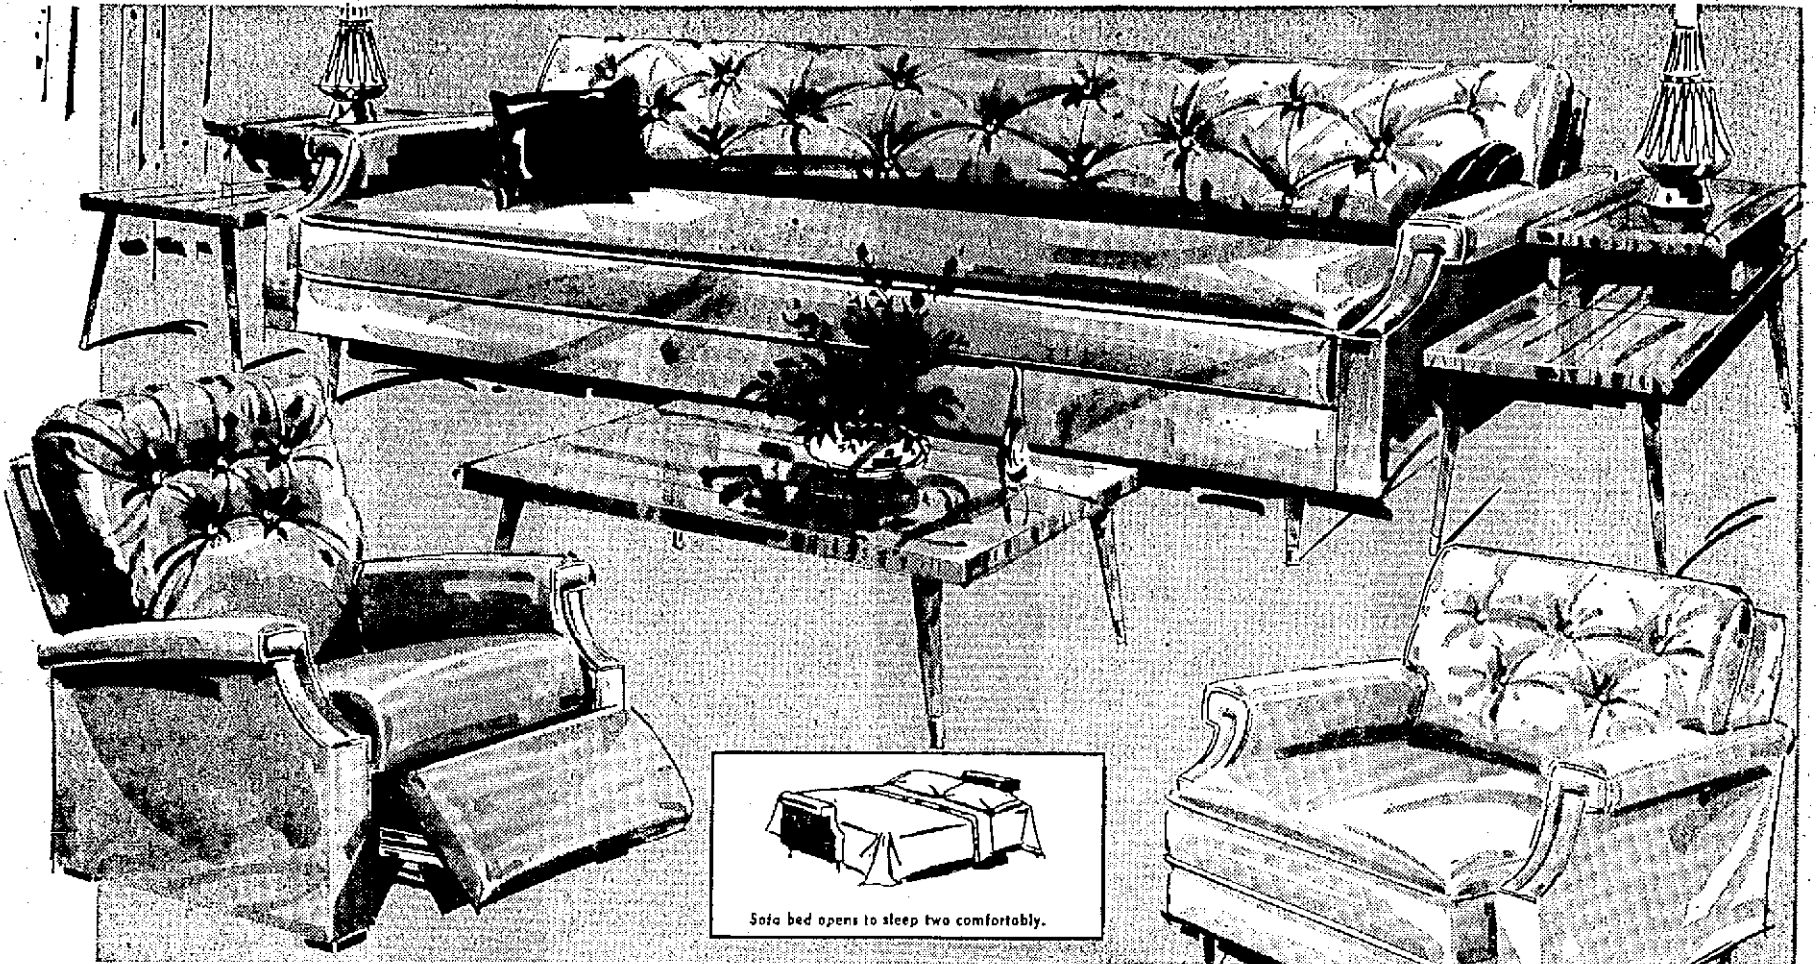

The rancho was sold to Stewart L. Abercrombie of Rancho Lomita in Camarillo, Calif., by Albert B. Ruddock of Montecito.

On Needles and Pins

By MARY ELLIS
I, F-T Fashion Editor

Travilla (pronounced Tra-vee-yah), who will make an appearance here Saturday, is constantly on needles and pins. He likes it that way. "The point is, I'm stuck," said this Oscar-winning movie designer turned couturier, who has enjoyed meteoric success since opening his own salon at 853 N. LaCienega some six years ago. "I'm that wrapped up in my work."

COMPLETELY at home in the hubbub of his combination factory-salon, surrounded by bolts of fabric and movie star dress dummies, talking above the whirr of power sewing machines, he noted some of the reasons for potential tension.

"Each collection"—he does three a year—"is as much a gamble as putting your life savings on a table in Vegas," he pointed out.

Just follow one creation from sketch to finished product and you readily see why.

Each sample garment (such as those to be presented by the designer Saturday noon at the Children's Memorial Hospital showing in the Lafayette) averages $400 to $500 to perfect. Even if it retails for $125—OR, if buyers don't buy.

Multiply that by 70 to 80 pieces for each collection and, as Travilla puts it: "You have quite an investment!"

ALL SUCH designs are created behind closed doors in the inner sanctum of Travilla's haute couture salon.

No one sees the collection except himself and the people who work there until buyers jam the showrooms, 300 strong, to buy or reject.

"It's like starting a new venture three times a year," he noted. "Each time you can either die... right then and there... or you can make another business."

"No collection can have last year's look, it must have tomorrow's."

AND WHAT'S tomorrow's look? "There's no way to know," said the designer, who, with suave self-possession, keeps his eye firmly fixed on the aesthetics of fashion.

But some of his best ideas come when he's thousands of miles away from his sketch board—OR the fashion world. Like on his recent hunting-with-camera safari through the jungles of tumultuous Kenya, Africa.

From there he brought home color movies and stills to study color balance in the excitement of orangy rust war paint against chocolate skin, natural earth tones against lush foliage and primitive

AFTER-FIVE dress for Debbie Reynolds (that's her figure mold) gets final approval from Travilla. "Our new fashion plan for Debbie," said he "is to give her more sophisticated lines"

TRAVILLA'S petite wife, 5-foot, 93-pound Dona Drake, is one of Hollywood's best dressed. Here designer drapes long evening dress of eyelash fringe. "This was a rush job," said he. "We made it over four times one night for TV show next day."

Month of Hearts-Achievement, New Purpose

By BEN ZINSER
L. P. T. Medical Editor

In the world of medicine there is no more exciting experience than surgical intervention in the ailing heart.

"Open-heart" surgery, the unhurried repair of a heart disengaged temporarily from the circulatory system, once was possible only in major medical centers. Ten years ago it was impossible anywhere.

But major heart operations, now feasible because of a device called a heart-lung machine, can be performed currently at several Southland locations.

The borders of surgery's last frontier—open-heart operations—have broadened to encompass Long Beach.

All major diagnostic and surgical procedures dealing with the heart can now be accomplished here. Heart research labs have sprung up. Research grants are going to Long Beach doctors.

Much of the credit for this progress must go to such organizations as the Long Beach Heart Association and Heart Guild, Inc.

THE BIG BREAKTHROUGH in major heart surgery came in May 1953 when Dr. John G. Gibbon Jr. of Philadelphia performed the first successful operation aided by a heart-lung machine. The patient: an 18-year-old girl with a leaky wall between her heart's upper chambers.

Heart-lung machines, for a long while, could be found only in the world's larger medical centers.

They are complicated devices. They withdraw the patient's blood, put oxygen into it, then return it to his body through a plastic tube inserted into an artery.

That sounds simple enough. But every minute the heart-lung machine must transport billions of delicate blood cells without breaking them. It must spread 10 to 14 pints of blood in a thin film over an area as large as a tennis court as it puts in oxygen.

In short, the machine must function as the patient's heart and lungs while surgeons repair the patient's natural heart, temporarily cut off from the body's circulation.

Some pumps film blood over rotating metal discs, or across metal screens. Others film blood along a plastic membrane, with oxygen moving into the blood through the membrane. Still others gently blow a stream of oxygen through a column of blood, and a special chamber "defoams" the blood of hazardous air bubbles before it is returned to the body.

ST. MARY'S Hospital pioneered the use of the heart-lung machine in Long Beach. Memorial Hospital also has one in operation now.

Besides heart-lung machines, many other devices are available here to assist in diagnosis and treatment of the heart patient.

TYPIFYING MIRACLE of modern medical techniques, accomplished through research, is 8-year-old Sandra Haydon (center), first heart surgery patient at Memorial Hospital. Many are now aided through local heart fund drive. A major heart benefit tea will be sponsored by Women's Heart League Feb. 27. Announcing event are (from left) Mmes. George P. Taubman, in whose home affair will be held; J. Roscoe Howell, league president; Wesley R. Horton, Gus A. Walker and J. Thomas Hardesty, general chairman of affair.

Here's a rundown on heart facilities in the Long Beach area:

Surgery: Full facilities at St. Mary's and Memorial. Many types of vascular surgery, and some heart surgery, at Long Beach Community Hospital. Limited heart and blood vessel surgery at Veterans Administration Hospital. Heart-lung machine at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance.

Diagnostic: Catheterization (exploring the heart with a tube inserted through a vein) at St. Mary's, Memorial, VA, Harbor General. X-ray equipment for heart studies at St. Mary's, Memorial, Community, Osteopathic, VA, Harbor, Lakewood General, Woodruff Community, Bellwood. Dye-study equipment at Memorial, Osteopathic, St. Mary's, VA, Harbor General. Radiocardiography of exercising patients at Osteopathic, to determine heart defects.

Special aids: Implantation of pacemakers (heart stimulators) at VA Hospital. External pacemakers used at St. Mary's, Osteopathic, Memorial. These devices restore unsynchronized hearts to normal rhythm.

Rehabilitation: Work Classification Unit at Memorial, to evaluate heart victim's capabilities for returning to work.

A Merry Example Spurs Heart Drive

Medical research is costly business. But medical research, dollar for dollar, has produced accomplishments as dramatic as any of the 20th Century.

Let's isolate one merry-cyced example in our own community. She is Sandra Haydon, 8 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haydon. In 1960 she became Memorial Hospital's first heart surgery patient. Now, completely recovered, she will lead a full and normal life.

February is Heart Month. With it comes the responsibility to support the annual concerted effort of the Women's Heart League, in conjunction with the Long Beach Heart Association, to raise funds for continued heart research.

IN ADDITION to going to national medical centers, funds locally collected are used to purchase latest equipment for hospitals here where patients, like Sandra, receive the most modern care.

Largest single benefit of the month sponsored by the league will be its silver heart tea on Feb. 27. It will take place at the spacious Park Estates home of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Taubman, 1429 La Perla.

INVITATIONS are being extended to hundreds of the city's foremost civic and philanthropic leaders to attend this significant affair.

Tea chairman is Mrs. J. Thomas Hardesty. Assisting her with day's elaborate plans are Miss Beatrice Hughes, Mmes. James Wood, Gus Walker, R. G. Akers,

A benefit brunch today, open to the public, will raise additional funds for Long Beach Heart Association drive. Brunch will be served from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Masonic Temple, 3610 Locust Ave. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Gus Lucking, William Todd, Lloyd Vaughan, Francis Heusel, Harry Newton, Lawrence Ruff and Glen Lucas.

Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell, league president, will welcome guests during the 2 to 5 p.m. tea hours. Assisting will be other league members Mmes. Wesley Horton, Dean Lucas, Brewster Gray, John Wyatt, William Rhorer, Larry Hunt and Waller Crawford.

Hill Fire Wives Set Installation

Ida Mae Beasley will be installed as president of the newly formed Women's Auxiliary of the Signal Hill Fire Department during a dinner Wednesday evening at the Hilltop Supper Club. Others assuming leadership posts: Barbara George and Jeri Barton.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT

Travilla Show Is Saturday

Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will present resort-spring fashions by Travilla, famed California couturier, during a benefit luncheon Saturday in the International Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

The designer (see cover page), who commemorates his own shows, will be presented by Mrs. Herbert Vail, show chairman.

Mrs. Robert Dilday, 3845 Pacific Ave., is in charge of luncheon reservations. Other committee members include Mmes. William Meyer, F. Reid Gilcrease, Melvin Masterson, Burl McColm, Gus A. Lucking and Sally Phelan.

THE AUXILIARY, an organization of dedicated women who have raised more than a quarter million dollars the past 15 years, helps provide hospital care for needy children.

During the past year, the auxiliary has paid over $10,000 toward its memorial pledge of $12,000 for hospitalization of such youngsters.

Affiliate groups are the Nightingales, the junior group, Fiorellas, Northern Lights, Spinners, Bachelorettes and Emblem Club 106.

One of Travilla's creations will be presented a lucky winner during the luncheon. His line is carried locally at Schick's, Pine Avenue and Seventh Street.

EXCLUSIVE designs from Travilla line are previewed here by Mrs. F. Reid Gilcrease, committee member for Children's Memorial Hospital Guild's upcoming benefit luncheon Saturday at Lafayette Hotel.

Hadassah to Mark Silver Anniversary

Long Beach Chapter of Hadassah will celebrate its 25th anniversary next Sunday at 8 p.m. at Lakewood

Country Club. The program will include a narration, by Mrs. Maurice Harris, of Hadassah's 25 years of service and will honor past presidents of the chapter.

In 1956, because of increased membership, the Long Beach Chapter was made the governing body for smaller groups: Aviva, B and P, Rishona, Szold and Tikvah.

SO THAT members of all five groups and their husbands can see Hadassah's achievements during the years, Mrs. Harry Wolfe, program chairman, will show a documentary film, "50 Miracle Minutes."

raw hues against the beauty of native skies.

These color tones will be theme of his fall-winter collection, for which he purchased, on the same trip, exciting new fabrics from Greece, Italy, Paris and North Morocco.

ADVENTURE has played an important role in Travilla's life since the days of his youth in birthplace Avalon, Santa Catalina, where—in like-father, like-son tradition—he earned his first money diving under tourist-laden glass bottom boats, performing such feats as eating bananas on the ocean floor.

(His father, Jack Travilla, world-famous swimmer, held the long-distance underwater swimming record to the day of his death. It has been broken only by frog-men.)

Designer Travilla's adventuresome spirit has taken him several times to Africa ... also to Tahiti, where he painted natives and soaked up local color ... and to the Mexican jungles, where he hunted alligators and ocelots.

His reason: "When I get away from the competitive world of fashion, all my old ideas are washed out of my system. And when I come back, without hardly knowing it, I start with a new approach."

THIS WAS Travilla's designing philosophy, even back in his studio contract days with Warner Bros. and 20th Century-Fox, where he dressed such stars as Joan Crawford, Susan Hayward, Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe, also won an Oscar and three Academy nominations. For the past five years he's designed half the fabulous "entrance gowns" worn by Loretta Young on her weekly television show.

HE BELIEVES that if more women would adopt Loretta Young's fashion philosophy, they would look more chic and have more fun doing so.

"Every woman should take time to look through clothes racks carefully, try on different silhouettes and avoid fashion ruts. "Some of the very best dresses in my collection do worst in the store because they don't have hanger appeal," he moaned.

Result: "Sometimes I end up not selling my favorite creation."

Times Have Changed for Student

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles on the foreign exchange students studying at Long Beach high schools under American Field Service sponsorship.)

By MARY NETH
"Early to bed, early to rise," might make a man healthy, wealthy and wise in America—but never in the Argentine.

In that Latin country of mid-day heat, Ben Franklin's advice would be as out-of-step as a Long Beach siesta.

Dark-haired Albert Anthony Colavita, four-months here as an exchange student from Argentina, is pretty positive on this point.

To him, the American up-and-at-'em-early schedule is plain topsy-turvy.

"Why, at home I never got up before 8 a. m. at the very earliest," he says. "Hopping out of bed at dawn and turning in at 10 takes a little getting used to."

AND THAT isn't all Albert's finding strange about the North American pattern of daily living.

Take meals for example. In Argentina there are four, not three, a day and the main one is served at noon, not in the evening.

"We go to school and work between sessions at the dinner table," Albert explains.

More Italian than Spanish, Argentine cooking leans heavily toward meat dishes and spaghetti. For lunch (dinner, that is) the menu generally consists of four courses: soup, a meat entree, spaghetti and dessert.

TO PREPARE the many course family repasts, Albert's mother spends a great deal of time in her kitchen. But don't pity her too much. She's equipped with a gadget most American women dream of, but few own—a maid.

But even with maids, Argentine housewives aren't on the go as much as their counterparts here. "There aren't so many women's clubs and groups at home. Women spend more time with their families."

As to feminine status in the home, Albert thinks it's about the same in either country. "They give the orders in Argentina, just like they do here," he says.

ALBERT is staying with the Phillip Fawcetts, 1172 Cartagena Ave., while attending Poly High.

The son of Professor Pascual C. Colavita and Aurora F. de Colavita, of Mendoza, he already has graduated from high school and at 17 has completed a half year at a university in Argentina. On return home next year, he'll continue studies in physics.

HOW DID this dark-eyed senior feel about heading north to school? "I was worried," he says. "I didn't know what my foster family would be like and I had about American teens."

After being exposed to an export diet of Hollywood gangster films, Albert was prepared to do battle with gangs with chains and hoodlums with knives. "I even intended to take judo before I left, but I didn't have time," he says. "Hollywood movies don't show average America's family life."

As to his foster family, Albert's more than pleased. "They are wonderful—I couldn't be luckier."

ALL IN ALL, Albert is finding the U. S. more than lives up to his best expectations. He likes the friendliness among boys and girls. "At home we're more divided. Girls never go out alone, they are always accompanied by a cousin, brother, sister or parent."

He likes the informal classrooms. "In Argentina the teacher is more respected and also more feared and hated. There's lots of bitterness."

Best of all—and most surprising—Albert likes our TV commercials. "They're quite imaginative. We see the same programs but our commercials are terribly boring and silly."

THERE ARE somethings, however, that Albert wouldn't care to see adopted by his country.

He doesn't go for T shirts and bright sports wear for school. "At home boys wear suits and dark ties to class."

He's not a bit enthusiastic about the language. "How do you account for spellings such as flower and flour and knead and need. They don't make sense."

He doesn't like the American teen-age lack of interest in other places and peoples. "Argentina seems to be a big blank to the kids here. I've even been asked if we have telephones."

WHAT IS ARGENTINA like? "It's a bit of Europe transplanted to South America," says Albert. "There's a large middle class, about 80 per cent, most of the people are from Spain or Italy and the main industry is cattle raising or ranching."

But Albert's home is far from the pampas where the gauchos (South American cowboys) roam. Mendoza lies in the western provinces bordering Chile. "It's a fruit growing area," says Albert, "and the climate is very dry and hot."

Right now it's at its driest. Which proves that Long Beach is a mixed-up, hard-to-adjust-to place. "It's summer at home and here it's winter," says Albert, with a sigh.

Designer Pattern

PRINTED PATTERN M 429 SIZES 10-20
by Rembrandt

EASTER'S LEADING NEWS is the costume—easy, yet curved more closely to the figure, as in Printed Pattern M429. Alan Phillips of Rembrandt achieves this new shapeliness with side-long darts on the jacket, a clinging bias-cut for the bodice of the dress. Topping off the news is a crisp, stand-up collar that adds a touch of young piquancy. The Original is sheer wool—an ideal choice for the busy woman who leads many busy lives. Consider also silk-and-worsted blend, faille, surah, shantung, linen or cotton for Spring into Summer. Printed Pattern M429 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 dress requires 2 1/4 yards 45-inch fabric; jacket requires 1 1/4 yards. Send one dollar for Printed Pattern M429 to Independent, Press-Telegram, Pattern Department, P. O. # WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson

I, P-T Women's Editor

NO MATTER what else they do or don't, Rotarians can't get in the doghouse over Valentine's Day. The service club men have a nifty package all wrapped, ready and waiting to give their wives that day.

For heart's day Wednesday they have invited their wives to meeting at the Elk's Club. Speaker will be that old smoothy, Dr. Frank Baxter, of television fame.

Dick De Golia is the hero who inveigled the good man into coming down here to Freeway's End. Apparently Dr. B. is going to champion the evil eye. At least, his topic will be, "A Valentine for Television."

TEA TOPPER will be Margaret (Mrs. H. L.) Beckley's dapper date Wednesday. She will hostess a socially suave Valentine tea at her home, 4485 California Ave.

V-Day colors, pink and red, will be used in profusion. Assisting will be Edna Abrams, Margaret Stinson, Margaret Davis, Beryl Kuster, Bertha Wallace, Vera Browning, Margaret Wallace and Elizabeth Wallace.

THOSE wonderful mid-winter tans being sported by Carolyn and Don Raney and their children, Bruce and

Gail, weren't acquired on the desert but at Mammoth in the High Sierra, no less.

They returned Sunday from five days at the winter resort where it was warm, sunny — nevertheless skiable.

THERE ARE always a lot of boys at Norma and John Craig's home; their own and a goodly share of neighbors'. A main attraction currently is a fine new trampoline.

The other day a friend asked Norma how she was getting along with all the young athletes. "All right," she answered, "except Charlie broke his toe."

Momentarily confused about whether Charlie was Craig or neighbor and not wanting to disclose her ignorance, the friend adopted a safe attitude, sympathetically murmured, "Well, it's a good thing the boy didn't break his neck."

"What boy?", puzzled Norma. "Charlie's our dog."

APPARENTLY members of Minerva Club are willing to give a forthcoming project the old college try but they don't sound too confident of the outcome.

At least, Grace Smith tells us they are collecting pipe cleaners, coat hangers, cellophane bags, buttons, torn sheets and hose. This conglomeration of junk will be transformed into poodles when members meet Wednesday at SAE Chapter House, 1930 E. Ocean.

They'll put all this together under direction of Gertrude Bloom and the poodles will be for sale locally. Unless says Grace, they turn out looking like pipe cleaners, coat hangers and old socks.

NEWCOMER to the diaper set is Laraine Griffiths. Deonne and Dr. Bob's third baby (second girl), born Wednesday night at Community.

THE GAL who doesn't want to work like a dog keeping her guests entertained should start them off with a good "mixer" . . . and not necessarily the kind from a bottle.

Phyllis Comiskey has tried this, says it works like a charm. Choose the titles of songs—as many as you have couples attending. They can follow a theme—like if it's a Valentine party, select the titles of love songs.

Now, write each song title on two slips of paper. Divide and keep them in separate heaps. When guests arrive have women choose from one stack—men from the other.

Gimmick is this. Each must go around humming tune until he or she finds dinner partner humming the same tune.

Humming must be confined to closed lips and just over the teeth type—no loud arias, please. The fact that many among your guests can't carry a tune to begin with or don't remember the melody to end with only adds to the hilarity.

Pat Nixon to Attend GOP Meet

It was learned late this week that Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the former vice president who now is candidate for the governorship of California, will be a special guest of the Long Beach Council of Republican Women, Federated, at a Valentine tea Wednesday.

The affair, to begin at 1 p.m. in the California Room of the Wilton Hotel, will honor new members.

William J. Teague, vice president of Pepperdine College, will be guest speaker. His topic will be, "The Crisis for America."

A VALENTINE program, titled "Love and Marriage", will be presented by Betty Kimber and Jackie McFadden, Civic Light Opera favorites. They will be accompanied by Bill Clark.

Sandra Dickie Says Lines

Five hundred guests gathered in First Baptist Church, to witness the marriage ceremony joining Sandra Lynn Dickie of Long Beach and Charles A. Anderson III of Whittier.

Mrs. Charles A. Anderson III

Parents of the newly married couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott Dickie, 5350 E. Broadway, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Anderson II, Whittier.

Escorted to the flower banked altar by her father, the bride wore a brocade gown with chapel train. Her fingertip length veil was held by a seed pearl crown and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of her bridegroom. She carried an orchid with stephanotis and hyacinths.

DRAMATIC CONTRAST was given the bride's white attire through the red brocade gowns worn by her attendants, Carolyn Price, maid of honor, and Sharon Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, Toni Monteleone, Linda Ruh, Patty Scarborough and Linda Slaughter, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was served by George Van Vliet as best man and ushering duties were performed by Scott Dickie, brother of the bride, Daniel Delaney, Don Hodge, Roy McDiarmid, Bob Pollard, Carl Skvarna and Paul Styskal.

A reception at Long Beach Yacht Club followed the vow exchange, with the newlyweds later departing on a brief honeymoon trip to Laguna Beach. They will leave shortly for Pensacola, Fla., where the bridegroom, newly commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Marine Air Corps, has been assigned.

The new Mrs. Anderson was graduated from Wilson High School and affiliated with Tri Delta and Amazon while a student at USC. Her husband, a graduate of USC where he was a member of the varsity football team, affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa.

Final Curtain to Close on 'Ozma of Oz' Saturday

The final performances of Frank Baum's lively fantasy for children, "Ozma of Oz," will take place at Long Beach City College auditorium Saturday at 10 and 11:30 a.m.

A limited number of tickets will be available at the box office the morning of the performances.

In addition to the treasured characters of Dorothy, the Cowardly Lion and Tin Woodman, the audience will meet a throng of other vivid characters including King Ruggedo, the abominable ruler of the Gnomes, wondrous Queen Ozma and the heroine of it all, Bellina, the little red hen.

College Pair in Ceremony

A romance which began on the campus of Long Beach State College culminated with the recent wedding of Judith Kish and Richard Buckerfield.

Vows were exchanged before more than 200 guests in a formal ceremony at All Saints Episcopal Church.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Kish, Brea, was attended by Jean Moody, maid of honor, and Susan Fletcher, Marcia Crabtree, Judie Matlock and Carole Horstmann, bridesmaids.

ATTENDING the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Buckerfield, South Gate, was Tom Peckenpaugh, best man. Ushers were Gordon Getz, Lloyd Stockwell, Jim Standrich and Gerry Jaquess. Wendy and Jill Gardener were flower girls.

While they continue their college studies the newlyweds are residing at 776 Bennett Ave.

Lois Jean Miller

Gloria Jean Puckett

Elaine Small

Linda Ann Blackburn

Carolyn Cooper

Bonnie Leonett

Diana Lee Matthews

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Miller, Long Beach, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lois Jean, to John Douglas Williams Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Williams Sr., Bellflower.

The bride-elect was graduated from Jordan High and Long Beach State College where she was president of Alpha Phi Gamma, news editor of the Forty-Niner and a member of the Organizations and Publications Commission.

Her fiancé, a senior at LBSC, was former business manager of the Forty-Niner, editor of the yearbook and a past president of Alpha Phi Gamma.

Puckett-Hubbard Engagement Told

Engagement of Gloria Jean Puckett, a senior at

Long Beach State College, to Thomas D. Hubbard has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Puckett, Long Beach.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Poly High School. At State she has served as president and vice president of Delta Zeta and is a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

Her fiancé, son of Mrs. C. R. Neiland, Oxnard, and L. W. Hubbard, Bakersfield, was graduated from LBSC last year where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

The wedding will take place in August.

Betrothed Couple Will Wed in June

A June wedding is planned by newly engaged

Elaine C. Small and William R. Bouley.

Announcement of their betrothal was revealed recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Small, San Francisco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bouley of Lakewood. A professional baseball player, he graduated from Wilson High and Long Beach City College. She is a model.

Linda Blackburn Will Join Brides

Engagement of Linda Ann Blackburn and Ernest L. Bontrager has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Blackburn, Long Beach.

A senior at USC, Miss Blackburn is a fourth generation Californian and granddaughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Louis P. Russell of Los Angeles.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bontrager, Modesto, was graduated from the College of Engineering, University of California at Berkeley.

Reveal Betrothal on Anniversary

Mrs. Kathleen Cooper has announced the engagement of her daughter, Carolyn Beatrice to Jeffery Charles Hubbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Hubbard.

News of the forthcoming wedding which will unite two Long Beach families, was revealed at the 50th anniversary of the bridegroom-to-be's grandparents,

Mr. and Mrs. George Ma-gruder, Long Beach.

Both the bride-elect and her fiancé attend Long Beach City College where she is a member of Ramayana and he of Hammurabi. They are Poly High School alumni.

College Students Set August Date

College students Bonnie Leonett and Edwin T. Leach recently revealed plans for an August wedding.

Engagement of the pair was announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Leonett, Van Nuys.

Miss Leonett is a student at Valley State College. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Leach, formerly of Long Beach and now residents of Garden Grove, is a senior at UCLA. He was graduated from Wilson High School and received an AA degree from Orange Coast College.

A wedding in August is planned.

Matthews-Russell Names Are Linked

Diana Lee Matthews' engagement to Robert Michael Russell has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Fae Matthews, Long Beach, and father, George R. Matthews also of this city.

The bride-elect was graduated from Poly High School and attends Long Beach City College where she is a member of Socorro Welfare Club.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Russell, Long Beach, also was graduated from Poly High and attends Long Beach City College.

In the presence of only immediate members of their families, Marie Paine and Richard C. Park exchanged wedding vows in a recent ceremony at California Heights Methodist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Myrtle L. Douthitt, 1212 E. 10th St., chose an ensemble of soft cocoa brown fashioned of peau de soie and chiffon. Mrs. Robert Burton was her sister's matron of honor.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Wilson High and now a senior at Long Beach State College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Park,

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Resent Round Robin Route

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received a wedding invitation from a friend of mine whose son was being married. Written on the invitation was a note, "Say, Mable, this is for the whole family." Abby, our six children are all married and have children of their own, all living miles apart, and my friend expected me to get them all together. Just for her sake, I telephoned each one and not one would accept an invitation like that. My husband said he didn't blame them. Then he got stubborn and refused to go, so I had to stay home because it would have looked bad to go without him.

Now my friend is down on me. These people could well have afforded an invitation for each family. Was I wrong?

—BUSTED FRIENDSHIP.

DEAR BUSTED: I don't blame your children for not attending. Perhaps you should have called your friend and suggested she send each of your married children an invitation if she wanted them at the wedding. You and your husband should have attended. Why make a formal mountain out of an informal molehill?

DEAR ABBY: When a girl asks a boy to a girl-

ask-boy party, is she supposed to pick him up, pay for everything and see him home?—BIG ARGUMENT.

DEAR BIG: No. The girl asks the boy if he will ESCORT her. After that, the date is on him.

DEAR ABBY: My wife died a month ago and I am 57 years old. She was a good wife, and I know she wouldn't care if I got married again. I am a lonely man, and anyone who went through what I did would understand.

I met a woman at a drive-in. It was funny how we met. She is 52 and her husband has been dead for about four years. We sure did hit it off great! We want to get married. We know people will say we knew each other before my wife died, but that isn't true. We figure they will talk about us if we get married in two months or two years from now. I think we will make it three months, and let them talk, I would like your advice.—WANTS TO MARRY.

DEAR WANTS: The customary wait before re-marrying is one year. But wait as long as your conscience dictates.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JANET: Marry him anyway. Every med student has a skeleton in his closet.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Chamber Music Class

PALOS VERDES — Marymount College has announced a class in chamber music to be held on campus each Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. under direction of Sven Reher, assistant professor of music.

Prof. Reher is considered one of the nation's leading violinists and formerly was a member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

In addition to study of the literature of the chamber music orchestra, the newly formed group will present several concerts later in the season. String and woodwind instrumentalists as well as pianists are invited to enroll.

Tables are Topic for Tea

WHAT'S WRONG? Just everything. Hostess, posed by Mrs. E. A. Check, has totally ignored basic rules of table setting. Result: distress of guest Mrs. E. L. Hughes, who wishes she'd stayed home where knives, forks, spoons, cups and saucers are in practical order. No one would make these mistakes—but everyone can use some new ideas. Where to find them? The Alpha Phi Table Topic Tea, Saturday 1 to 4:30, Virginia Country Club.

EVEN A BRIDGE TABLE will do. Here, standing, Marcelle Cole serves guests (left) Mrs. Andrew Cortright and Mrs. Ardith Melton at table featuring simple setting of "things on hand." Expert hostesses, all three agree that formal service and servants aren't needed to entertain guests.

"Making guests feel at home (even when you wish they were) is the secret of being a successful hostess."

So says, Mrs. Andrew Cortright, homemaking instructor at Jordan High, who attacks the problems of entertaining with sense plus a sense of humor.

As one of the four judges for Tuesday's Table Topics Tea sponsored by Alpha Phi International, she's all for simplicity, good taste and doing with what's on hand.

"A table setting should enhance the food and set the party mood," says Mrs. Cortright. "A well thought-out setting can help make the difference between a distraught and relaxed hostess."

AND WHAT WOMAN hasn't at sometime been a little frantic when company was due?

Say she's worked like a demon, and now with guests at the door, her off-spring is howling, her husband has lost his tie clasp, there's something burning in the kitchen and she's just tripped over the family cat.

It's then that it takes super-feminine effort to whisk off an apron and greet company with poise—plus a smile.

And it's then, according to Mrs. Cortright, that knowing the proper (which is the practical) way to serve and make one's guests feel at home, can save the day and/or dinner.

FOR A LOOK at the ways one might arrange a table to best advantage Mrs. Cortright recommends attendance at the Alpha Phi tea.

"There'll be settings exhibited for every kind of table—formal and informal, elaborate and simple."

The tea will take place at Virginia Country Club from 1 to 4:30 p.m. with prizes offered for the most beautiful, most original and most functional in adult and children's table settings.

Judging the contest with Mrs. Cortright will be homemaking instructors Mrs. Ingrid Larsen, Poly High, and Marcelle Cole, Lakewood High.

ORGANIZATIONS taking part in the contest are Quota Club, Woman's Auxiliary of County Medical Association, Los Altos Women's Club, Optometric Auxiliary, Lakewood Aid League, Lawyers' Wives, Long Beach Chiropractic Auxiliary, Women's Music Club of Long Beach, Dames, Coast Guard Wives, Children's Benefit League, Emblem Club, North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, North Long Beach Women's Club, Symphony Juniors, Los Altos Garden Club, Pilot Club of Lakewood, League of Women Voters, Rick Rackers, Alamitos Bay Garden Club, Opti-Mrs. Downtown Club, Lakewood Junior Women, Sandlarks, Ebell Juniors, Assistance League, Long Beach Symphony Guild and Pilot Club of Long Beach.

A prize of $50 will be awarded the group with the most popular setting and money from the event itself will be used for the Cardiac Fund and the housing fund at Long Beach State College.

WHAT'S NEW in settings? Mrs. Cortright believes the bright table runner which replaces both cloth and individual mats is probably the latest thing in arrangements. "This type of setting shows off both the dinnerware and lovely finish of the table top."

"We are lucky to live in California," continues Mrs. Cortright. "Here we have more variety of food and more foreign influence and thus the opportunity to use more originality and color in our settings."

Arrangements for the tea have been handled by Alpha Phi members Mmes. Ardith Melton, Bruce Heller, E. L. Hughes, Clarence Lundell, L. F. Perry and E. A. Check.

Daughter's Dilemma Is Dubious at Best

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My 15-year-old daughter came home from school in tears yesterday, and, to put it mildly, I'm fit to bust!

Her history teacher told her that if she did not stop flirting with the boys in her class she was going to have her go and talk to the principal.

Now, my daughter is very popular with the boys and has sense enough not to go steady. She is just nice to the fellows. She has assured me she does NOT flirt. I believe her, and I think it was highly unnecessary for a teacher to talk to her in such a way.

Her father and I are separated or I would have him tell that teacher a thing or two. Don't you agree this was uncalled for?—MRS. XY

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I hesitate to write this because I'm afraid you'll jump down my throat, but I'm worried.

Our daughter has recently become engaged to a young man who is one of nine children. He is always telling her what fun big families are and feeling sorry for her being an only child.

He has told her—in our presence—that he hopes they will have four boys and

I doubt the teacher would dream up these charges. But I don't doubt daughter is going to have a rough time of it if you are going to resent her teachers correcting her.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I hesitate to write this because I'm afraid you'll jump down my throat, but I'm worried.

Our daughter has recently become engaged to a young man who is one of nine children. He is always telling her what fun big families are and feeling sorry for her being an only child.

He has told her—in our presence—that he hopes they will have four boys and four girls. I think this is perfectly horrible, the mere thought of it, in these times of overpopulation.

When I have tried to discuss this with my daughter she just laughs. Personally, I don't think it a laughing matter, do you?—WORRIED MOM

DEAR WORRIED MOM:

I'm not going to "jump down your throat," but I am going to laugh a little. I imagine the young man's ideas will change when he comes face to face with economic problems, plus two or three little domestic ones running around the room.

But, most important of all, the matter of their family is strictly THEIR BUSINESS.—M.M.

NEWMAN CLUB SLATES
OPEN HOUSE TUESDAY

Long Beach State's Newman Club will carry out a Valentine theme for its spring semester open house Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Soroptimist House. All LBSC students are invited, and after an introduction to the club's functions, there will be dancing and refreshments.

More dancing a little bit later when Delta Delta Delta stages the annual Seahorse Shuffle next Saturday in the College Dining Hall. Decorations will follow a seahorse theme and, sez our source of information, "there will be lots of twisting" at the girl-ask-boy affair. Proceeds go to the Tri-Delt fund which each year provides a scholarship for a deserving LBSC coed.

Also on the DDD front, five new members of the Tekes "Daughters of Diana": Linda Hickman, Ardie Ferrell, Thelma Thorpe, Linda Freeman, and Betty Bowman.

AL RINEHART of the East-West Club dropped by and told us (1) the club-sponsored judo training program, which slowed down considerably during semester exams, should pick up steam again; (2) karate training program is still going strong; (3) the "Books-for-Asia" drive gathered in about a ton of books; (4) the club will soon start working on a project to raise at least $100 to be used for a scholarship this summer; (5) chances are good that the East-West Club can obtain the very latest film starring Japan's Toshiro Mifune for the campus Japanese festival in late spring; and (6) he has received word that the president of Tamagawa University, whose Glee Club entertained on campus last July, has written a book about the Mexico-United States tour taken by Tamagawa students last summer, and Long Beach State has come in for warm words of praise for its reception of the group.

Delta Gamma Sorority got back from a three-day trip to Big Bear last weekend just in time to install new officers: President Gae Chatten heads a 13-DG slate for the coming year. . . Feb. 22 finds the gals on an inspection trip to the School for Visually Handicapped in Los Angeles, the DG national project. . . Things-we-didn't-know-'til-now department: Delta Gamma has 62 members, and 20 of these are tour guides at Disneyland.

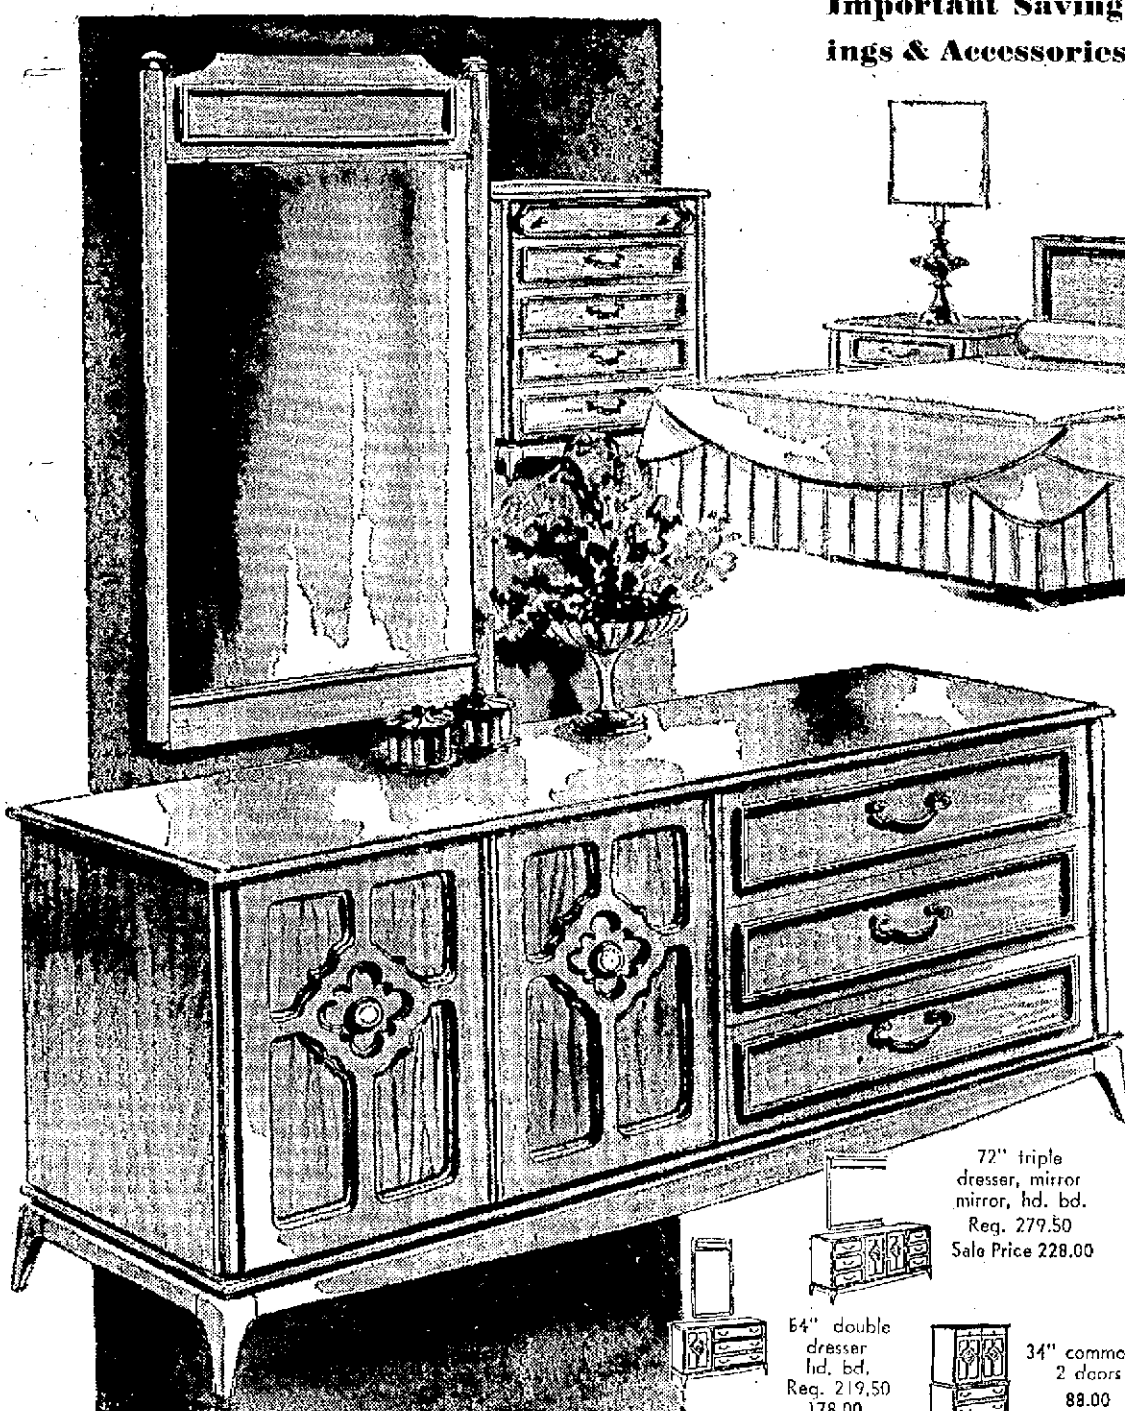

Don't forget the AWS-sponsored Lineliter concert on campus next Friday evening.

And in closing, a tag line from the Newman Club newsletter: The trouble with opportunity is that it often comes disguised as hard work.

IN BALLET RUSSE

Eugene Collins and Paula Tennyson dance in Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. Company of 75 dancers and musicians will appear Thursday at LBCC.

Robert Cornthwaite Began Japanese Dramatic Career in L.B.

It was Howard Hawks who gave Robert Cornthwaite his first important break in the movies when he cast him as a scientist in "The Thing."

Cornthwaite, now appearing in "The Egg" at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave., is a former Long Beach resident who has achieved status in television and films after a career in little theater here. He attended City College and was a newscaster at KGER and KFOX before he went into the Air Force for four years.

HE RESUMED his studies at USC after his hitch and took his B.A. degree and a Phi Beta Kappa key at the university.

He has been directed by such men as George Stevens, Billy Wilder and Hawks.

"When you've been directed by them, you've really been directed," said Cornthwaite.

He has appeared in 20 films in the past decade—his latest being "All Hands on Deck," and he's been in nearly every major television series.

HE ENJOYS live stage work though, and that's one of the reasons he's appearing in Long Beach at Magnolia's production of "The Egg," a work which finds him on stage nearly every scene.

He will continue in the role of Emile Magis in the play directed by Dr. W. David Sievers Thursdays through Sundays for the remainder of this month at Magnolia.

AGO Slates Weinrich for Recital

Long Beach Chapter of American Guild of Organists will present Carl Weinrich in an organ recital next Sunday at 4 p.m. in First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue.

Since 1943 Weinrich has been director of music in the University Chapel at Princeton where he conducts a male choir of 80 voices. He has taught at various colleges including Wellesley, Vassar, Columbia and Michigan. In 1950 he was invited by Harvard University to give eight recitals as the Lamb Visiting Lecturer—the first time this lecture-ship had been awarded to a performer.

WITH MARCEL DUPRE and Albert Schweitzer, Weinrich has been called one of the three greatest living players of Bach's organ music.

His program next Sunday will include Bach's "Fantasy and Fugue in G Minor," Handel's "Fifth Concerto," Hindemith's "First Sonata in E Flat Minor," Franck's "Choral in B Minor," Sweelinck's "Fantasy in Echo Style," D'Aquin's "Noel," and Dupre's "Cortege and Litany."

Ballet Bill at LBSC Thursday

Celebrating its 25th anniversary season, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will be the "extra" attraction of the current "Evenings at Eight" season in Long Beach City College auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Sergei Denham directs the company of 75 dancers and musicians. Featured performers are Nina Novak, George Zorich, Helen Trailine, Juan Giuliano, Eugene Collins and guest ballerina Nina Vyroubova.

Thursday night's program will include "Les Sylphides," "Pas de Trois," "Sombrosos" and "Gaité Parisienne."

Though it was organized in Europe, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo took out its U. S. citizenship in 1938 and now claims to be the "oldest native-American ballet company."

DANCERS of the company are schooled in the tradition of the Russian Imperial Ballet, but many performers are American-born. The repertoire includes both classical ballet and the creations of contemporary choreographers.

A limited number of tickets will be available this week at the Liberal Arts Division bookstore fountain, 4901 E. Carson St., and at the box office Thursday.

Next regular "Evenings at Eight" program will present post-humorous Ogden Nash Feb. 24 in "The Portable Nash."

COMPOSER Eugene Zador's "Rhapsody for Orchestra" will have its world premiere Wednesday night when Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra performs in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. Laszlo Somogyi will conduct.

The Japanese picture, "Seven Samurai," will be shown on Long Beach State College's foreign film series next Sunday at 5 and 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

This 1962 spring series is sponsored jointly by Associated Students of LBSC and Long Beach Film Society.

The film is the story of the impassioned defense of a village by seven samurai who have seen better days. Toshiro Mifune stars.

Hollywood was so impressed by the original Japanese version that it copied it in the "Magnificent Seven" starring Yul Brynner.

Companion film is the French "Lovers and Clowns," a 12-minute look at life in the Vincennes zoo.

Although the first two of the seven programs are past, persons who purchase series subscriptions at the box office still can save over the single admission prices for "Seven Samurai" and four following films.

Limelites to Appear at LBSC

The Limelites, a vocal trio whose unique style rocketed the group to almost overnight popularity, will bring their folk songs to Long Beach State College Friday.

The 8:30 p.m. concert in the men's gymnasium is sponsored by Associated Women Students.

Singing and quipping in half-a-dozen languages, the threesome of Lou Gottlieb, Alex Hassilev and Glenn Yarbrough present a program termed "alternately light and serious, old and new—as pleasant as an international blend of good coffee."

The Limelites currently are appearing in the Crescendo on Hollywood's Sunset Strip. Their Long Beach appearance is the second in a two-nation tour which will take them to 20 U. S. and Canadian campuses.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at Wallichs Music City in Lakewood, Humphreys in Long Beach, and in the LBSC bookstore.

Jose Greco in Spanish Ballet

Jose Greco and his Spanish Ballet will dance a new program for their six Los Angeles appearances, on the Mary Bran Artist Series at Wilshire Ebell Theater at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 20 through 24. There will be a Saturday matinee.

LBAA Offers Art Lectures

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

During the centuries men have expressed their individual ideas, the history of their times and universal concepts through art. To help laymen as well as artists understand great art of the past 200 years, Long Beach Art Association is sponsoring a lecture series by Dr. Charles M. Thompson, "Attitudes and Images in the History of Painting."

First of the 10 sessions, Ancient Cultures to Greek and Roman, will be given Feb. 20 at 8 p.m. at the association's gallery in the Villa Riviera, 800 E. Ocean Blvd.

DR. THOMPSON, associate professor of art at Long Beach State College, is himself a well known artist with many exhibits to his credit. He will use color slides to illustrate concepts and make comparisons. Each session will be two hours long, with some time reserved for questions and answers.

Subsequent lectures, to be given every other Tuesday, will be: Medieval to Renaissance; Rembrandt and Vermeer; David (Neo-classic) and Delacroix (Romantic); Manet and Impressionism; Sensation, Symbol, Expression, Post Impressionist Directions; Cezanne and Hsia Kuei; Cubism; Expressionism; Surrealism and the Subconscious Source.

Cost of the series is modest—$10 for the 10 lectures. Admission to a single lecture is $2. LBAA members will pay only $6 for the series, and association membership is open to anyone interested.

Lecture reservations may be made by telephoning the gallery, which is open from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays, 1 to 7 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

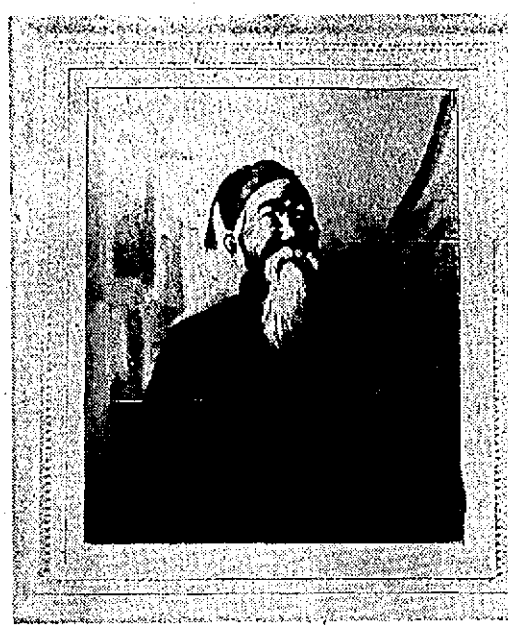

ELAINE MALCO, Long Beach artist and art chairman of the Pacific Coast Club, has 10 paintings on display at the Shadow Mountain Club, Palm Desert. Seven are in Oriental style.

She writes: "I am so looking forward to Feb. 28 when I will demonstrate the Sumi style of painting which I studied while in Tokyo, Japan, completing the full course. Oriental art is dear to my heart."

"The exhibit is open to all members or guests of the Shadow Mountain Club—or anyone desiring to see the exhibit or demonstration just needs to state so at the club entrance."

Mrs. Malco and her husband, Leo, will leave early in April to spend six weeks in Tokyo and Hong Kong where she will continue her study of Sumi art.

A NOTE from Fran Soldini (whose handwriting is more abstract than her art) probably says: "On Feb. 8

"THE TEACHER," oil painting by Elaine Malco, is owned by Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rhine of Duke University, Durham, N. C.

I began teaching a class on Thursdays at the Downey Museum as a member of the museum staff.

"In January, my water color, 'Momentum,' was purchased by collector Percy Salato, at M. H. De Young Memorial Museum, San Francisco. The painting is in the 41st annual California Water Color Society Show which will go next to La Jolla Art Center for the month of March. 'Momentum' will be replaced after this show by my water color, 'Green House,' for the CWCS traveling show which will tour U.S. museums for a year and a half."

A CHANGE of date for the master work of the month lecture at Long Beach Museum of Art: the program will be given Feb. 20 instead of the usual second Tuesday of the month.

The master work is "Madame Columbe as Venus" by Fragonard, 18th Century French painter. Mrs. Dean Godwin will outline the artist's life; the museum's educational curator, John Weeks, will relate the painting to its own era, to the current exhibitions and to contemporary trends. The lecture will begin at 10:30 a.m. and is open to the public without charge.

SEASCAPES in oil by California artist Howard McIntyre are on view in a one-man show at the Artists Co-Op Gallery in Rolling Hills.

Located on the ridge of the Palos Verdes peninsula near Crenshaw and Silver Spur Road, the gallery is operated cooperatively by 30 South Bay painters, sculptors and graphic artists.

The McIntyre show will continue through March 4. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays, 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays.

THOMAS FERREIRA of Long Beach State College art department is one of 33 ceramists represented in the 18th annual Scripps College Invitational Ceramics Exhibition to be held in Lang Art Building Feb. 20 through March 16. Gallery

Concert Reminder

Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Lauris Jones, will feature works by Claude Debussy in the concert tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Long Beach City College Auditorium. This year marks the centennial of the French composer's birth.

Also programmed are "Symphony No. 8" by Beethoven and "Serenade to Music" by Vaughan Williams. The Camerata Choral, directed by Robert L. Collins, will join in the latter work.

The LBCC box office will open at 7 p.m.

Major & Minor Notes CITY CLAIMS PIANIST OF OUTSTANDING TALENT

By RACHEL MORTON
L. F. T. Music Critic

It has been said: "A prophet is not without honor or save in his own country."

We have right here, dwelling among us in Long Beach, a brilliant concert pianist with a long list of awards, honors and degrees of whom Mildred Norton, music critic, once wrote: "Here is a phenomenal new talent—virile, sensitive, strong. He has a commanding technical grounding and the musicianly address of an artist twice his years."

Julien Musafia, a strikingly handsome man with sadness in his dark eyes, was born in Bucharest, Roumania, and is at present head of the piano department at Long Beach State College. Unfortunately, he has been heard only once in Long Beach in a paid concert when he played magnificently the Liszt Concerto with the Long Beach Symphony. Next Friday evening in the Long Beach State College Little Theater he may be heard in a program for four-hand piano works with Michael Zearott, assisting artist.

JULIEN MUSAFIA was really a child prodigy. His older brother, aged 7, was being taught piano and sometimes, with his teacher, would play piano duets. After the teacher had gone, young Julien, aged 4, would sit at the piano and by ear play both parts; simplified, of course. He had absolute pitch. So his parents started him with piano lessons. After six months the teacher gave up, saying the child knew more than she did. He gave his first recital at the age of 6, playing two Sonatas by Beethoven, Opus 49.

So phenomenal was his talent that a rare exception was made and he was given a scholarship at the Italian Conservatory in Bucharest at the age of 4½, although 12 years was the age limit.

HE REMAINED there until he was 16, then entered the Royal Conservatory. Here again he showed evidence of his tremendous gift and, although the curriculum for graduation required seven years of work, Musafia graduated after three years with a first prize in piano.

Then came concert tours in all the principal cities of Europe and radio recitals with Jacques Thibaud. One summer he was selected by the Roumanian government to represent Roumania in an International Festival in Prague ("the most beautiful city in the world," according to Musafia). He had played one recital when he witnessed the fall of Czechoslovakia behind the Iron Curtain (no wonder his eyes are sadly). Rushing to the airport, without passport or personal effects, Musafia boarded a plane and found himself in Paris, a free man but one without a country.

AFTER one of his concerts in Paris there was such enthusiasm that some friends sent him to the United States for further study with Rosina Lhevinne, Jacob Gimpel and Vengerova at the Curtis Institute. On a concert tour he discovered California and here he has remained, now a citizen of the United States.

He won highest honors at UCLA and has a Phi Beta Kappa key. He has given a very successful concert at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre in Los Angeles and has also given concerts up and down the West Coast. Don't fail to hear this wonderful pianist next Friday night!

Meredit Willson Conducts Concert

Meredit Willson, nationally acclaimed music master, will be guest conductor at Monday's Community Program in Municipal Auditorium.

The Recreation Department sponsored event will be keyed to the National Youth Fitness Program with each school within the district to be given a Youth Fitness theme record during the program.

The record "Chicken Fat," was composed by Willson who is a member of the National Advisory Commission on Youth Fitness.

The program is being co-sponsored by the Iowa Association of Long Beach which includes him as one of its favorite and most prominent sons.

THE LONG BEACH Municipal Band, directed by Charles Payne, will open the evening with a 45 minute band concert starting at 7:30 p.m. Marshall Craig, president of All-States Society, will act as master of ceremonies and Harry Ruffridge, president of Iowa State Society, will represent the Iowa Association of Long Beach.

Accepting the records for the school district will be Dr. Theron Freese, assistant superintendent of instruction and Dale Hoskin, director of municipal and school recreation.

Meredit Willson

rector of municipal and school recreation.

FOLLOWING THE acceptance, a calisthenics drill team, representing the youth of Long Beach, will demonstrate a course of exercise to the music of the physical fitness record.

Distinguished guests will include Dr. John J. Cooper, professor of physical education, USC; representatives from the city manager's office and members of the City Council.

The evening will conclude with two hours of old-time dancing. Auditorium doors open at 7 p.m.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Feb. 12-16:

MONDAY: HOLIDAY

TUESDAY: Spaghetti with franks, chopped spinach, sliced peaches, hot buttered French bread and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Oven fried chicken, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes with gravy, garden salad, whole wheat bread and butter, Valentine cookie and milk.

THURSDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, whole kernel corn, boysenberry sauce with whipped topping, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna noodle casserole, buttered peas, spicy applesauce, raisin bread-peanut butter sandwich and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 30c.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: HOLIDAY

TUESDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, whole kernel corn, spicy applesauce with whipped topping, coconut bar and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Creole noodles, buttered spinach, fruit cup with bananas, toasted cheese special and milk.

THURSDAY: Diced turkey in gravy on mashed potatoes, buttered green beans, chocolate pudding, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked fish with creamed potatoes or sauerkraut and wieners, buttered peas, sliced peaches, hot buttered French bread and milk.

Oswald Jacoby Easy Look Is Deceiving

Take a look at the North and South hands only. You are in six no-trump and have a couple of simple ways to make your contract. One way is to break the spades 3-3. That way you have five spade tricks, four club tricks and three in hearts. The other way is to play West for the queen of diamonds. This way you make two diamonds, three spades, four clubs and three hearts.

Now look at the East-West hands also. Both simple plays will fail, but there is a double dummy way to make the hand. You win the opening heart lead in your own hand, lead a diamond and rise with dummy's king, return a diamond to let West take his ace and eventually squeeze East so that he will either have to un-

New Opera Unit for L.A. Area

A new opera company for the Los Angeles area, the Stage Center Players will be directed by Mrs. Mildred Stombs Warenskjold.

"We are scheduling first performances for late spring," Mrs. Warenskjold said. "First bookings will be in the downtown area and in the Valley. Our first production, Strauss' 'Die Fledermaus' in an entirely new English translation, should be of special interest to music-goers."

Singers interested in auditioning for chorus spots may contact the Stage Center Players by writing Box 5240, Sherman Oaks.

Two Exhibits Opening in LBSC Galleries

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Viewers at the exhibit opening tonight in LBSC Art Gallery will have the sensation of visiting another time—the period of 1895 to 1914 revealed through posters of that era. It was a world of the double standard with proper ladies shown in mystery hats, high collars, gloves, and long skirts in contrast to "the other kind of women" who are depicted whooping it up in most outrageous décolletages.

Contemporary mankind is shown in many ways: as dandies, caricature types like a fat banker complete with heavy gold watch chain, or idealized pretentious athletes. The posters advertise drugs, perfumes, restaurants, theaters, and great public events. From the perspective of 50 years, they are engagingly funny.

THIS DEFINITIVE collection is also of serious interest, as this work was the beginning of the new art form which now overwhelms us from newspaper, magazine, billboard, and mailing-display advertising. Technically, the exploitation of lithographic processes excited the fine artists of the day like Toulouse-Lautrec, Gus Bofa, Steinlen, and Klinger. They experimented with the freedom of drawing with crayon, produced surface texture by stippling or the resistance of oil to water-based ink, explored the impact of broad areas of flat color.

Accessorizing the display are bentwood caned chairs from Thonet which exemplify the endless curving line of that period — "L'Art Nouveau."

ALSO OPENING in an adjoining gallery is the master's thesis project by Marilyn Prior, well known locally as a fine oil painter. While the works are abstract, studies of their development are clearly shown in photos of their origins displayed on a panel in the same room. This should help those who find abstract art difficult.

A snapshot of a junkyard with various lights, danks, and depths, develops into web-like, organic forms in oil painting. A stunning composition in blue and toned whites called "The Family" is drawn on with flowing brushstrokes of dark brown to describe a cluster of forms which relate to another work in which smooth beach pebbles are arranged.

The public is invited to the preview reception from 8 to 10 o'clock this evening. "Art Nouveau Posters" will run until March 8; the Prior exhibit will be up until Feb. 23.

Opera Auditions

For its forthcoming performances of "La Cenerentola" (Cinderella) the Guild Opera Company of Southern California is holding auditions for baritones and bass roles. Auditions will be heard in the auditorium of Le Conte Junior High School 1316 N. Bronson Ave. Hollywood, Monday, 1 p.m.

Only those singers who have had previous opera experience may apply.

Removing Ink Stains—An old-fashioned remedy for removing ink stains was to soak the garment in sour milk. In some cases, it may have removed the stain, but it often just compounded the trouble. Milk can leave a protein stain and that requires additional treatment. For fountain pen ink stains, wash out as much ink as possible and then treat with a dilute bleach—no more than two teaspoons to a cup of water. Rinse thoroughly. For ballpoint ink, rub the stain with a cloth soaked in equal parts of turpentine and ammonia. If that fails, get professional help.

Corduroy—When buying corduroy, rub the material briskly with a white handkerchief. If color comes off when the fabric is dry, it will be that much worse when wet.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

What a Busy Cook!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.P.T. Food Editor

He's refreshing and spontaneous.

For example, Chef of the Week Dale Brown accompanied his wife to the nursery for the sole purpose of fetching a bag of peat moss.

Even before the moss deal had been transacted, he had acquired a 40-gallon aquarium complete with miscellaneous small fish.

Brown is that way about business, too. He starts one business—then another, and still another—yet keeps them all in first class repair.

They have evolved into "Dale Brown Enterprises" and run the gamut from a motorcycle dealership, two car lots—one for domestic and one for foreign cars—the Avon Credit Co., and an Autoette Electric Car Co., to the Circle Travel Service. Lefty, Mrs. "B." conducts the latter.

BROWN first saw the light of day in The Dalles, Ore. At the age of 12, his family moved to Prescott, Ariz. It was there that he received his higher education before coming to Long Beach in 1936.

Quite naturally, he went into the same kind of business which had embellished his education funds. He assisted Fuzz Harris, the tailor, for five years.

His hobbies are accumulative. He started with boats and boat racing; and at the helm of his Class E, 16-foot racing runabout, not only has won several races, but has broken two world's records. His boat now lends the necessary impetus to his water skiing ambitions.

Brown is an avid gardener—and when the plants are in full bloom, they're his; when void of blooms, they're hers. And by the way, "he" and "she" met over the backyard fence. She had just arrived from London, England, her hometown. They find it hard to keep up with each other on the photography bit. They're both such avid enthusiasts.

A MEMBER of the Signal Hill Lions Club, Elks Lodge 888, and the Southern California Speed Club, he's an ex-commander of the Boat Racing Association.

Our "chef" in no way could be considered a "Sunday cook." When one's planning dinner for two, says he, why not make it four, six, or more? On his frequent treks to the Colorado River, he's automatically appointed "the cook."

His recipe today is for Beachcomber Cantonese Spareribs.

BEACHCOMBER CANTONESE SPARERIBS
 2 sides Farmer style spareribs
 2 cups soy sauce
 1 cup sugar
 2 tsp. salt
 2 tbsp. catsup

Trim ribs and marinate for an hour in mixture of soy sauce, sugar, salt and catsup. Roast in 400-degree oven for approximately 30 minutes. Baste at least 3 times. Roasting time will vary with thickness of ribs. Serve with barbecue sauce.

This is a recipe ideal for an outdoor barbecue.

Long Beach Adding 310 Acres in Harbor

WORK UNDER WAY ON WORLD'S LARGEST MAN-MA DE PIER
Construction has started on the $19.1 million contract to build Pier J in the Port of Long Beach. It will contain 310 acres and will be the world's largest man-made municipal pier when completed in three years, in time to be the site for the World's Fair in 1966. Previously built piers, now in use, contain approximately 500 acres. The new construction project is outlined in shaded areas on this air photo of the harbor, taken from high above the breakwater, looking toward downtown Long Beach. Piers H and I will be constructed later. Pier G is the newest in the harbor and serves grain shipping.

Construction Program Paces Healthy Long Beach Economy

By KEN CHILCOTE
Independent, Press-Telegram Business Editor

Like a growing teen-ager, Long Beach will take on height and breadth in a big way this year.

Stature will be added by multi-millions of dollars in construction on towering apartments, hotels and office buildings.

Girth expansion is coming from the sea by adding 310 acres to Long Beach Harbor via dredging.

And, like a growing teen-ager, Long Beach is a perfect picture of glowing health, economically that is, thanks considerably to the vast building program.

THE GREAT construction programs, some already under way and others slated to start as soon as working engineering plans are completed and approved, all represent private fund outlays and not government projects used to bolster the economy of an area.

Douglas Aircraft Co.'s $7 million expansion at the Long Beach plant, well under way, will add millions to the growing local payroll. All Douglas jetliners for American and foreign airlines will be built here while government missile projects will be handled at other Douglas plants.

two big hotels and a 33-story apartment structure are among other major projects private capital is launching as the city's stature heightens.

NOT TO BE overlooked is the consistent month by month development of homes and apartments in Long Beach as well as commercial developments and remodeling programs. The Department of Building and Safety reported that for January, $5,585,990 in building permits were issued. This did not include any of the previously announced major construction projects. It did include 24 apartment buildings with 201 units, 25 single homes and five two-family dwellings. Additions and alterations accounted for $1,432,710 of the permits.

Adding the 310-acre development in the Port of Long Beach will see the greatest man-made municipal pier in the world constructed at a cost of $19.1 million.

THIS EXTENSION on the girth of the city gives Long Beach a great boost yet for the taxpayers it adds no burden. Oil money, collected from harbor wells, will be used for the project.

Construction of Pier J already has started with barges of rock from two

Furniture Factory for L.B.

Leasing of a 25,000 square foot facility in Long Beach by the Vickers Furniture Corp. was announced by James Vickers, president.

The firm has begun manufacturing upholstered living room furniture at the plant located at 2300 Curry Street in the North Long Beach section. The Vickers Co. is the first furniture manufacturer of this type to select a Long Beach location.

When in full operation the plant will employ approximately 100 persons. A subsidiary of the Vickers Corp., Accent Tables, Inc., will produce a line of occasional tables at the same plant.

Leasing arrangements were handled by Norman Masterson of the Bill Bronks Co., Realtors, Long Beach industrial property specialists, for Dr. Russell B. Clark, property owner.

Realty Values Reflect Building Program Here

Healthy economy of Long Beach is reflected in the constant increase in demands for local real estate, reports the head of Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., the city's leading realty firm. Sales by the firm in January reached an all-time high for the month and exceeded last January by over 50 per cent.

Robert C. Westmyer, president, attributes the activity to the extra healthy business climate that prevails throughout Long Beach and the surrounding community. The many major high-rise buildings and local land developments now on the drawing board and the many under construction lends an air of enthusiasm for the growth and development of Long Beach, he said.

celerated effect on the speed at which realty values will grow throughout the greater Long Beach area.

Another factor of great influence to the growth of the Long Beach area has been the recent increase in supply of mortgage loan money that has begun to flow into the area. More and more lenders who previously had refused to make loans in the area are actively soliciting investment opportunities.

THIS IS A VERY healthy thing, according to Westmyer, because it indicates an optimistic outlook by people outside of Long Beach who are recognizing that Long Beach has a better growth potential than other communities where they had previously been investing mortgage funds.

Westmyer further stated that the year 1961 was a record year in sales for the Hodges Co. and it is their firm's anticipation that 1962 will exceed all past records by a minimum of 25 to 30%.

"Indeed the future of real estate in Long Beach has never looked better and income producing property values shall certainly be on the rise throughout 1962," he adds.

False Alarm

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A grocer, observing a masked man standing outside, telephoned police. The man in the mask had a ready story for officers — a doctor taped him that way to heal a broken nose.

Awarded Big Tile Order

The Long Beach plant of the Ruberoid Co., of New York, will help provide 12,702,000 squares of vinyl flooring for use of the armed services in various facilities.

Announcement of the purchase of $738,367 of the flooring from Mastec was made by the Defense General Supply Center, Richmond, Va.

The tiles will be produced at two of Ruberoid's plants, here and in Newburgh, N. Y.

Seminar for Small Business Operators

An eight-week course for owners and managers of small businesses begins March 14 at Long Beach State College.

The administrative management seminar consists of eight Wednesday evening meetings. The three-hour sessions start at 7 p.m.

A federal agency, the U.S. Small Business Administration, is cosponsor with LBSC's Division of Business.

Prof. Charles E. Wolff, the seminar coordinator, said its purpose is to help owners and managers of small businesses to be better administrators. It emphasizes administrative management rather than day-to-day operational problems.

SPECIALISTS on each topic will serve as guest lecturers. After the introductory session March 14, an analysis of the varied functions a manager must perform, the lecturers will deal with specific managerial duties.

Among the topics are financial planning, accounting and cost control, legal problems, dealing with people, credits and collections, advertising and sales promotion.

Prof. Wolff said additional advanced seminars may concentrate on specific subjects from the list covered by the general course. Whether additional courses will be offered depends on the interest stimulated.

FEE FOR THE course is $50. Applications and additional information can be obtained by calling Prof. Wolff or Dr. S. Austen Reep in the Division of Business, Long Beach State College.

"Today's manager of a small business must have a good grasp of all aspects of business operation," Wolff said. "The course will help him acquire this broad knowledge. It will try to help him achieve a more efficient and profitable organization by getting more done through other people. It will encourage him to use services from public and private sources, including the various free services of the Small Business Administration."

Prof. Wolff, who teaches marketing courses at LBSC, advised many small businesses while working as a marketing specialist and consultant for the Small Business Administration. He has held office in several advertising associations.

Forges Ahead

NEW YORK (UPI)—In 1901 only one steel company in the United States could make as much as 1 million tons of steel per year, but by 1940 the total rose to 12 and in 1960 to 20, according to Steel Facts, an industry publication.

'Lakewood Center' Planned for Tokyo

There's to be a touch of Lakewood in Japan in the future.

Joseph K. Eichenbaum who saw his dream of converting farm fields into a thriving shopping and home development area became true in Lakewood, will leave Thursday to lead his "know-how" to a similar center in Tokyo.

J. K. EICHENBAUM
Japanese "Draft" Him

On a trip to Japan recently, Eichenbaum met a group of people who were in real estate development and they voiced a great interest in Lakewood Center, having read about it in Tokyo, Osaka and Kyoto newspapers.

EICHENBAUM was prevailed upon to extend his stay in Japan. He quickly saw that Tokyo, a vast metropolis, was on the verge of stragling itself with "downtown" congestion. Using Lakewood Center and his subsequent developments of Eastland and West Covina and the new Canoga Park facilities as models, he outlined how outlying communities adjacent to Tokyo and other large Japanese cities would make possible productive, economy-stimulating decentralization.

Name L.B. Realtors to Posts

Several members of the Long Beach Board of Realtors have been appointed to committees of the California Real Estate Association by Charles H. Brown, president, announced James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the local board.

Gene Hoffman is chairman of the Appraisal Division, Barbara Moss, secretary-treasurer of the local board, is chairman of the Multiple Listing Committee, and Joe Hodge is a member of this committee.

Reg. F. Dupuy is vice chairman of the legislative committee and Verne Morrill is on the committee. Gene Nebeker is vice chairman of the Public Relations Committee and Fred Rose is on this committee.

Other appointments are: Richard L. Young, Committee on Education; John Highstone and Richard Livoni, Broker-Salesman Relations; Clive Graham, Finance Committee; Consistent & By-Laws, and Program Planning Committee; Hazel Morrison, Convention Committee; Steve Spindell and Bob Westmyer, Committee on Educational Standards; Wm. Cross, Hazard Mitigation; and James Tolbert, Greater Committee.

COMMITTEES of the California Real Estate Association work throughout the year on a wide range of projects to improve the standards of the real estate industry and also for the protection of property owners and the public in buying and selling of real estate. Most of the CREA committees will meet in Sacramento at the El Dorado Hotel and Sacramento Inn, March 15-17.

More than 1200 members of the association from all parts of the state will be in Sacramento to discuss the many current projects of the 38,000-member association, and final plans for the CREA Educational and Sales Conferences will be made at that time. Of special interest at the Sacramento meetings will be the report of the CREA legislative committee on legislation affecting real estate and property owners now under consideration by the State Legislature.

pounds, costs or "balloons," the sales agents explained. Full price for each home in this Emblem-built community is fully priced at $17,150.

Highlighted by a display of furnished models and a "Showcase Room," a unique display of models and cutaways showing the "hidden values" of these homes, Imperial Valley View offers a selection of 21 diverse exteriors.

LARGE FAMILY plans are spacious and offer three big bedrooms plus a hospitable family room. There is choice of front or rear living rooms and all have either attached or detached two-car garages. List of attractions includes appliance-equipped kitchens with built-in wall oven and separate broiler and counter-top range, knotty cedar cabinets.

Open from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., Imperial Valley View is reached from the Long Beach area by driving east on Carson St. which becomes Lincoln Ave. to Valley View Ave. (Miller), then go south to Orange Ave.

NEW TERMS OFFERED

Newly announced veteran financing terms at Imperial Valley View, newest in the "Imperial Estates" Series of "one-price" residences, has occasioned a tremendous response. The new terms offer lower veteran qualification requirements.

No Down Required for Sunshine Home

S. V. Hunsaker, builder and developer, announced that Huntington Beach Sunshine homes may be purchased with no down payment. Easy financing terms are available with monthly payments less than rent, he stated.

Huntington Beach Sunshine homes offer the home buyer a widely diverse selection of architectural elevations with all models offering floor plans designed to provide maximum living for the larger families.

THESE ATTRACTIVE homes have three and four bedrooms, two full baths, large two-car garage, and family room and are located adjacent to a park site and only minutes to the Southland's center.

Designed for the active family, the interiors have wall to wall carpet, floor-to-ceiling folding wardrobe doors, forced-air heat, all-copper plumbing and ample closet space. The compact modern kitchens have built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan over range, disposal and natural finish cabinets.

Furnished model homes are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and may be inspected on Hill Avenue just off Golden West Street in Huntington Beach.

Ford Shows Big January

DEARBORN — Ford Division of Ford Motor Co. reported January retail sales of 134,000 cars and trucks—a 19 per cent increase over the same month last year and the second best January in history.

Matthew S. McLaughlin, division assistant general manager, said car sales totaled 111,400 and trucks 22,600.

Pushing Ford's January car sales to the 111,000 plus mark was a strong third 10-day period. Sales topped the previous period by more than 6,600 units.

McLaughlin, singling out rising sales of the division's new Fairlane series as a major factor, said model year-to-date Fairlane sales totaled nearly 54,000 units.

Moore Opens Another Office

Moore Realty, serving property owners in Long Beach and Lakewood since 1917, has opened another office at 3801 E. Fourth St. This office was opened to give better service to residents of east Long Beach, and makes the fifth office of the firm, said E. T. Moore.

LARGE ROOMS FEATURED

Here is a view in one of the new Dutch Haven homes in Huntington Beach showing the large living room and dining area. The homes are priced from $14,950 and have exceptionally low terms.

Terms Start at $79.63 Month on Newest Dutch Haven Homes

One of the biggest "drawings cards" for sales at Dutch Haven's new Huntington Beach Unit 18 on Beach Blvd. and Unit 19 on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica, is proving to be Dutch Haven's low monthly payments, termed the lowest in Orange County and starting at just $79.63 including principal and interest. Dutch Haven prices begin at $14,950.

An official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, said that buyers have shown an equal measure of enthusiasm over other aspects of Dutch Haven's financing.

He cited the fact that there are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments and that title to land, fully protected by the Title Insurance & Trust Co., is included in the purchase of a Dutch Haven home. Improvements such as street lighting, sidewalks, streets, curbs, sewers and utilities are covered in the original cost.

VETERANS' move-in cost is only $95 on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at 5 1/4% interest rate are available.

Choice location in the heart of the Southland's most rapidly growing city is also proving a definite sales advantage at Dutch Haven's Huntington Beach communities. An established city of long standing, Huntington Beach offers a full range of recreational advantages are outstanding—with several of California's finest beaches just minutes away. A beautiful marina is under construction and facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking are excellent. Golf courses are nearby.

Custom features include frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

SEVERAL of the floor plans shown by Dutch Haven have won national recognition in home magazines. Among the 16 exterior elevations available are the Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been best-sellers at previous Dutch Haven communities. "American Home Series" residences are featured exclusively.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach: Drive east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd.—right on Beach Blvd. to models.

BIG SALES RESPONSE

Montgomery Park's opening sales of big homes last weekend resulted in heavy buying response, the developers report. Homes such as this are offered in the development on Harbor Boulevard just south of Bolsa Avenue.

Four-Bedroom Plan Is Popular in New Golden West Estates

HAS DOUBLE PATIO

This model of a Golden West Estate has a patio in front and another in the rear. The front serves as an entrance. Pricing on the estates starts at $17,500.

Large and growing families are pleased to discover a spacious four-bedroom plan with separate family room at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice president of McCarthy Co. Buyers of the plan, which is offered in four different elevations, praise the modern "step-saver" kitchen, with breakfast bar and outside access door to rear of house, he said.

Situated less than 10 minutes from inviting beaches and the Long Beach Marina, the homes are offered in a choice of 22 different exteriors. Highlighting the plans is a unique double-patio design with spacious kitchen-dining-family room complex opening on both patios. The attractive front patio serves as an enclosed entranceway to the home.

GOLDEN WEST homes are offered with 35-year, 5½ per cent FHA terms. FHA down payments are from $800. Also offered are GI no-down-payment terms and conventional terms with down payments from $695. Pricing on the homes is from $17,500.

Modern kitchens offer handy breakfast bars, roomy natural ash cabinets, and Wilson Art sink tops with covered splashers. Every kitchen has direct access to garage or outside.

Quality features of the home include sliding glass doors, forced-air heating with thermostatic control, enor-

Program chairman, J. C. Foster said that Butler was project engineer of the Lakewood Park development in 1949-50 and he has won a number of national awards for outstanding homes. He graduated from University of Southern California with a Bachelor of Engineering degree in civil engineering in 1948. His talk will be slanted to his experiences as a residential subdivider, projecting some points on how the women's point of view effects the building program.

KITCHENS feature built-in Wedgewood-Holly gas ranges with 21-inch king-sized ovens.

Direct inside access is provided from each house to the attached "king-sized" two-car garage. A large laundry and service area is located in the garage.

A choice of FHA, VA, Cal-Vet or conventional financing is offered. Immediate occupancy is available on many models.

Plans Westminster Apartments for 100

Names

BERKELEY, Mo. (UPI)—There's a street in town here named Dodeledales, but townsfolk call it "Doodies Dale Lane."

Construction of 100 two-bedroom apartments on Beach Blvd. in Westminster, near Huntington Beach, was announced by Don B. Coleman,

To be known as Garden-dale Lanal, the $1,000,000 plus development is being constructed on the southeast corner of Hwy. 39 and Bolsa Ave.

and will consist of 25 buildings each containing 4 apartments, 100 covered carports with additional parking space, two swimming pools and a large recreation hall.

The Gardendale executive pointed out that the firm has successfully built 15 residential subdivisions in Orange County in the past decade and felt that the present and anticipated growth of the county indicated that Gardendale should enter this particular field.

"WE FEEL these apartments, because of their location and features, will fill a definite need in the area for deluxe apartments at a modest cost," Coleman emphasized.

DON B. COLEMAN
Announces $1 Million Deal

Each apartment will have a 10x30 foot private patio, fully landscaped and enclosed by a 6 foot high fence, sliding glass doors, built-in range and oven, carpets, drapes, forced air heat, a pullman style bath, and space for both a dryer and washer, he reported.

The 100 unit apartment complex is expected to be ready for occupancy in 90 days, Coleman concluded.

Sales Meeting by Zink Corp.

The Western division of the Howard Zink Corp. held its annual sales and merchandising meeting recently at the Long Beach factory.

"This meeting was, in my opinion, the most productive ever," stated N. G. Zink, western division general manager. "We are most enthusiastic about 1962. There is already every indication of excellent sales for our auto seat covers and tops." According to Bob Kelly, western division sales manager, the meeting covered sales, merchandising, advertising and all phases of distribution.

The Howard Zink Corp., with plants and offices in Fremont, Ohio and Long Beach, is the world's largest manufacturer of auto seat covers and tops.

Garden Park Estates Location Has Big Appeal to Home Buyers

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE

"Close to everywhere" because of ready freeway access, Garden Park Estates and its "1962 Series" of all-new residences at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway, is close to virtually every family need. Here is one model offered.

Garden Park Estates and its newly presented "1962 Series" of all-new luxury homes at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway, also enjoys a top location in a prime, fast-growing residential area close to family requirements and via the free-ways, easy access to "everywhere," officials of S&S Construction Co., the builders, point out.

Located in the midst of equally fine homes, Garden Park Estates is just 10 minutes from the beaches, harbors, marinas and golf courses, five minutes to Long Beach State College, and there are grade schools and a high school inside the walls of the community. It is close to major business and industrial centers.

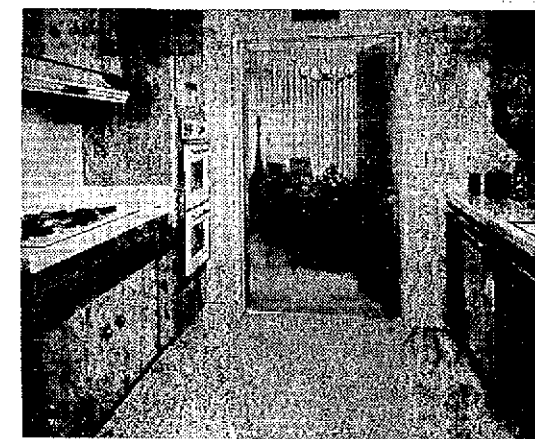

THE "1962 SERIES" offers a wide and distinctive selection of exterior elevations. Spacious plans are designed with three and four bedrooms, dining area or family room and two baths. Typical of the attention to quality detail, clean, long lasting concrete driveways lead to the oversize two-car garages. "Four way" financing offers veterans term of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $97 including principal and interest, or Cal-Vet loans. Non-veterans have good conventional loans of 35-year FHA terms. Full prices are from just $17,450.

AMONG THE many fine home features finding favor with discriminating home shoppers are handsome fireplaces, sliding glass doors to the patio-garden, forced air heating, luxurious baths and decorator selected light fixtures. Kitchens have built-in wall oven and range with color-matched range hood complete with light and fan, dishwasher and disposer. The furnished model display is reached by driving east on Seventh Street to the corner of Knott Avenue.

Marina Vista Offering New Terms on Big Home

No down payment with 5 1/4 per cent GI financing for veterans, and excellent conventional financing at 6 per cent has been approved for Marina Vista, prestige development of one-and-two-story homes in the Long Beach-Naples area. Homes are one block from Long Beach, two blocks from the Marina, three blocks from clean, sandy beach.

A fireplace in the master bedroom and a separate sewing room are among the unusual features of these one and two-story, three and four-bedroom furnished models, which range in price from $23,400 to $26,250. Models are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

DREAM KITCHEN

Spacious kitchens with built-in features are found at Marina Vista Homes in the Long Beach Belmont Shore-Naples area. One and two-story homes sell from $23,400.

Sunkist Plaza Low Terms Boost Sales

New terms for Sunkist Plaza Homes have resulted in a big increase in the tempo of buying, the developers report. The new terms will allow either non-vets or vets to move in with absolutely no down payment and only small costs. The monthly payments are low.

More than 50 per cent of the 100 plus contemporary homes are now sold out of the proposed 2200 unit development. Sunkist Plaza Homes offers four basic floor plans with 25 elevations.

IN ADDITION, Huntington Beach is a prime residential area with numerous shopping centers and schools and a wide range of recreational activities, suited to meet the needs of the growing family.

Sunkist Plaza Homes have introduced a "planned community" concept that insures long term growth for the area. Features in the three and four-bedroom homes include gas range and oven, forced-air heat, fireplaces, rock wool insulation and others.

Prices start at $17,450 with VA and FHA terms also available.

From Long Beach go east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica; south (right) to Westminster Ave.; east (left) on Westminster to Springdale; South (right) to models.

Huntington Village Newest Unit Opens

More than 800 families now occupy the "balanced life" precincts of Huntington Village, it was reported by Larry Shields of the development firm of Doyle & Shields.

With full-session schools operating right in the Village, a golf course bordering it and Southern California's finest beaches only minutes away, Huntington Village residents enjoy a life in which education, recreation and home comforts are attractively balanced.

Just opening is Unit 9, the "Sea Breeze" series of three and four-bedroom homes which are available to non-vets for as little as $195 down, according to Sales Manager Dan Mytinger. Full prices, he said, are from $15,600 to $18,500.

"COMFORT, space and value are the ingredients we offer in Huntington Village homes," Mytinger said. He named as outstanding features a wide choice of exterior designs and interior plans, wall-to-wall carpeting in the living room, hallway and master bedroom; RCA Whirlpool built-in range and oven; central forced heat and many other features.

Still available, Mytinger noted, is at least one of the many beautiful model homes. Included in its purchase price of $17,660 are drapes, carpets, landscaping, sprinkler system, fencing and patio.

To reach Huntington Village from Long Beach, drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., right to Edinger, then right on Edinger to Springdale and left to model homes.

HUNTINGTON HILLS

Attractive living room is in one of the furnished models at Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach, where, in addition to convenient new 35-year FHA loans, a new and unusually low veteran "move-in" of just $88 is announced.

Easy Terms for All in Huntington Hills

Huntington Hills, "Sea-view. Adding to the convenience is a built-in ash cabinet for washer and drier, and all kitchens are designed with ample room for a dinette area. From the Long Beach area, drive south on Pacific Coast Hwy. to Huntington Beach. Turn left on Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) and drive two miles north.

W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co. Full prices are from $17,500, McCaffrey explained.

For veterans there is a total "move-in" of only $88. Non-veterans may purchase on the new 35-year FHA loans with monthly payments from $125 that include everything—taxes, insurance, principal and interest.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, McCaffrey said, there are two Huntington Hills residences ready for immediate occupancy. Complete with patios and pools, they are full priced at $20,990.

Level, terrace hillside sites are spacious, and the attractive homes are designed with three and four bedrooms, two baths and a large family room plus a big two-car garage. Exterior elevations afford choice of California Ranch, Conventional or Contemporary stylings.

Handsome fireplaces, sliding glass doors, entry halls with floors of slate, forced-air heating, oak floors and acoustical ceilings are among the many popular appointments.

PLANNED FOR the maximum of work-saving efficiency, the kitchens all have built-in gas ranges and built-in wall oven with view win-

New Unit of Del Cerro Luxury Homes to Open

All plans and all exteriors will be available again this weekend at Del Cerro when the Tustin community opens its newest unit, developers George M. Holstein and Sons reported.

Following a quick sellout of nearly every first unit home, the Del Cerro new unit will continue to offer three and four-bedroom homes from $22,500 with a total down payment of just $995.

The three and four-bedroom homes all have family rooms or convertible den-dining room and can be purchased in a choice of tasteful exteriors ranging from Hawaiian, Provencal, Traditional or Tustin ranch designs.

THE INTERIOR of the homes can be individualized to blend with buyer's choice of decor with four cabinet finishes, varied paneling, a wide selection of rich stone, brick or marble fireplaces, wallpaper, and floor selection all made available. Handsome shutters or shoji screens are also included in the architect-designed Del Cerro Homes.

Along with the other custom-like advantages, the Del Cerro homes also include a choice of wool wall-to-wall carpet or enduring wood parquet floors. The pioneer building firm explained: "This allows buyers to carpet portions of the home and still enjoy hardwood floors in other rooms."

To reach Del Cerro from the Long Beach area, just stay on 17th Street in Santa Ana (Westminster Boulevard) to the San Diego Freeway on ramp. Stay on the San Diego Freeway south about two miles to the Red Hill turn-off. Then drive north on Red Hill to Del Cerro.

Chemical Salaries

NEW YORK (UPI)—The average salary for chemists and chemical engineers in 1961 was $10,000, according to the American Chemical Society.

Bolsa Park Homes Built on Big Lots

Extra-large lots with room for storing a boat are offered at no added cost to homebuyers at Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach, said Ernie Merrill, sales director. Access to the lots is through a 20-foot paved alley. These "boat lots" include ample space for both a boat and swimming pool, Merrill added.

Featured at Bolsa Park are two custom four-bedroom plans with marble-type entry floors. One plan has all four bedrooms in an entirely separate sleeping wing, isolated from the work—and living areas.

BOLSA PARK development is the closest in Huntington Beach to Long Beach, Merrill said. Because the developers purchased their land some time ago, they are able to offer the homes at prices from $19,250—$3,000 to $4,000 less than today's higher land prices would dictate, it was stated. From Long Beach, the homes may be visited by following 7th St. (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

Americans Smoke More Than Ever

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans smoked more than ever before in 1961.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture estimated U.S. cigarette output and consumption, including exports, at a record 523 billion cigarettes, up 4 per cent over 1960. Smokers paid more than $6.9 billion for their cigarettes—$3.1 billion of which went into excise taxes.

Stardust's X-Ray House to Be Previewed Today

Considered the most fascinating and informative model home ever introduced in this area, the new Stardust "X-Ray House" will make its debut today, announced Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder. The X-Ray House Preview will mark the first showing of Stardust Homes' new models at their Huntington Beach development on Bolsa Ave.

The Stardust X-Ray House will feature 53 separate displays, and will permit home buyers to see right to the heart of Stardust lifetime construction, Grant said. Special cutaways will allow viewers to look through the ceiling, the walls, and the floor, examining all the details which are usually hidden. Other displays will show portions of the house in various stages of construction, explaining in sequence how the components go together.

ALSO INCLUDED in the X-Ray House are manufacturers' displays illustrating features and advantages of the products which go into Stardust Homes. A number of these products—such as water heater, furnace, and garbage disposal—are displayed in cutaway models to show internal workings.

"We feel that this helpful and interesting approach to selling homes will result in crowds larger than any ever seen in Southern California," Grant said.

Priced from $15,900, the new three- and four-bedroom, two-bath, Stardust homes are offered with veterans' $99 total move-in costs and non-veterans' $250 move-in costs. Monthly payments are $104 for veterans, $107 for non-veterans.

include: Built-in colored gas range with 20-inch oven, natural finish cabinets, oak floors, sunken living rooms, garbage disposal, forced-air heating, fireplaces, truss roof construction, all exterior decorations and trim of clear redwood, aluminum windows and sills, durable metal door frames, copper plumbing, acoustic ceilings, utility rooms, and oversized two-car garage.

From Long Beach, the development may be reached via Seventh Street, east to Bolsa Chica, south two miles to Bolsa Ave., then left to models.

Pep Boys Essay Contest Is Open

Pep Boys Auto Supply Store announced availability of their 10th annual Forty-Year Engineering Scholarship to a state college or university. The scholarship provides tuition, books and supplies for a four-year term, and is open to all high school seniors graduating in June 1962.

A traffic safety essay contest and other qualifications will help determine the winner, according to Murray Rosenfeld, Pep Boys executive vice president and general manager.

Diamond Demand at Record High

NEW YORK (UPI)—Demand for gem and industrial diamonds reached a record high of $266 million last year. This compares with $251 million in 1960. The rise reflects chiefly increased demand in the United States and Europe.

Jack B. Krueger, sales manager of Moore Realty, will teach the four-week revolving course which will include eight night classes.

Private Labels Note Sales Increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—Private label liquor brands that generally sell from 10 per cent to 15 per cent under nationally distributed brands are causing headaches for major distillers.

Although there are no official figures, it is reported these private brands currently account for a quarter of the total volume in New York and are increasing their share of the liquor market.

Westmont Bonus Room Boosts Value

Huntington Beach's newest big homes, the Westmont house with "Free Bonus Room" continues to meet with buyer approval at the newest unit of the development, builders George M. Holstein and Sons reported this week.

The combination of quality construction, choice location and luxury features, plus the big 478-square-foot "free room" have made the Westmont community one of the fastest selling in the builder's 40 years of new home construction, the builders explained.

THE "BONUS ROOM" is ideal for den, sewing room, play or rumpus room, guest room, or large enough for two or three large extra bedrooms, sales head Ray Half-dual pointed out.

The big Bonus Room combines to give buyers up to 1772 square feet of living area for less than $18,000, the Westmont developers declared. Along with the low price, both FHA and VA terms are available.

ALONG WITH the big "free room," the Westmont homes include wood shake roof, built in kitchens, real tile, showers, tile eating bars, fireplaces, paneling, silent light switches, and a selection of both three and four-bedroom homes with family room and the plus "Bonus Room."

To reach the Westmont Bonus Room development from Long Beach, go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 and turn South. Stay South about five miles from Huntington Beach State beach.

Will Discuss Tenant Laws

Recent developments in landlord-tenant laws will be discussed at the Long Beach Apartment House Association dinner meeting Thursday evening in Lafayette Hotel.

John Leslie Goddard, Los Angeles County superior court commissioner and an authority on landlord-tenant law, will be the speaker. He is author of "California Landlord-Tenant Law and Procedure With Forms."

Roland Bach, director of Red Cross in Long Beach will present "Red Cross in Disaster."

Large master bedroom suite with private bath, plus up to five other bedrooms can be buyer's choice at the new Westmont "Bonus Room" unit in Huntington Beach. Site is on Highway 39 about three miles south of Garden Grove Boulevard intersection. Prices start at $18,000.

Krusz to Talk Before Realtors

Glen A. Gerken, February program chairman, for the Long Beach Board of Realtors, announced that Harry Krusz, executive vice president of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest speaker at the Tuesday morning breakfast meeting at the Crown Cafeteria.

Krusz will present a progress report to the members of the board. Krusz is active in his home community in a wide variety of affairs outside of his professional chamber work. He is serving on the board of directors of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra Association, the American Association for the United Nations, financial advisory board of the League of Women Voters, Camp Board of Managers, YMCA, public relations committee, Community Chest, and other civic bodies.

"WE BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT WE LIVE IN MEDALLION HOMES"

Building several hundred homes has proved to these partners the advantages of electric living. Both confirm their professional experience by choosing Medallion Homes of their own in which to live.

"Cleanliness, of course, is a major reason," states Mr. Woodruff. "And cooler kitchens that are so much more convenient."

Mr. Bennett sums up the Medallion Home as "... the modern image." He adds, "Most of our clients these days want to build to Medallion Home requirements."

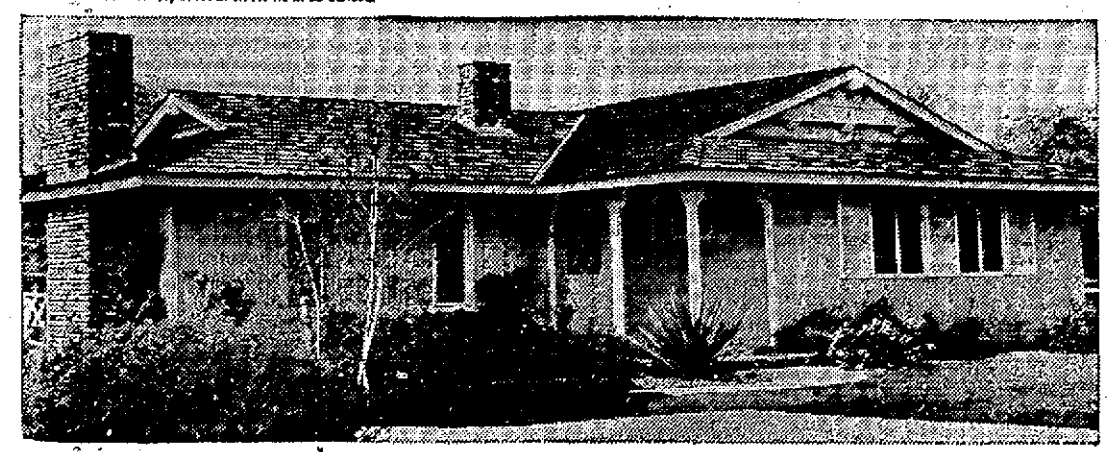

The trend is clear. Every day more and more expert builders display the Medallion Home Award. It's worth looking into. It means better living—electrically—for you and your family.

Only one new home in five earns the Medallion Home Award. These are the qualifications:

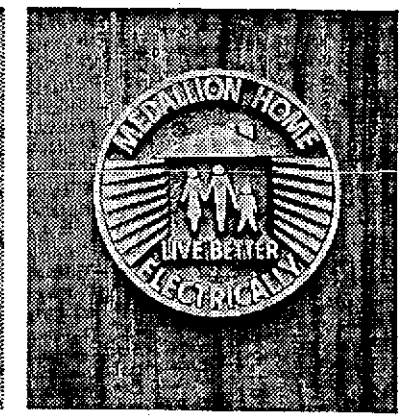

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.
2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.
3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.
4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

Community Recreation Set Up for Families in Pacific Sands

Now being planned at Pacific Sands, one minute from Huntington Beach State Beach, is a new supervised recreation area with extra-large pool, community cabana, tennis courts and shuffleboard, said Paul Rowland, sales manager for Walker & Lee, the development's sales agency.

Recently added to all Pacific Sands models are such features as table-top gas range and separate wall oven; ceramic tile around tub and shower; marble-top pullmans in both baths; living room paneling, and wall-to-wall carpeting in living-dining-family room area, hallway and master bedroom. Also newly available are heavy cedar shake roofs.

THE HOMES are offered with pricing as much as $5,000 below the market, the sales manager said. Valued at $18,000 to $25,000 on the current market, the homes sell for just $13,500 to $19,950, he said. Available are total move-in costs from $390. Land commitments made many months ago permit the present low price, he added.

Custom designed for beach-close living, the Pacific Sands homes offer outdoor beach showers designed for easy washing up after surf-side fun. Some models include special garage boat doors which permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance.

PACIFIC SANDS homes are available in one and two-story models, and with two, three or four bedrooms. Features include ceramic tile counter tops, built-in gas range and oven, kitchen cabinets of natural birch, Waste King garbage disposal, breakfast bar, aluminum sliding glass doors, oversized gas forced-air furnace with summer cooling switch, Pioneer Flintkote roofs and floors, used brick fireplaces, double garage with boat door included in Plan 4, and 26 different exteriors enhanced by used brick, concrete block and Palos Verdes stone.

Ad Club Will See Fashions

JOHN HERSEY
To Present New Fashions

John Hersey, Buffums' fashion coordinator, will be the guest speaker at the Long Beach Advertising Club's annual "Ladies Day" luncheon meeting Feb. 15 in Lafayette Hotel.

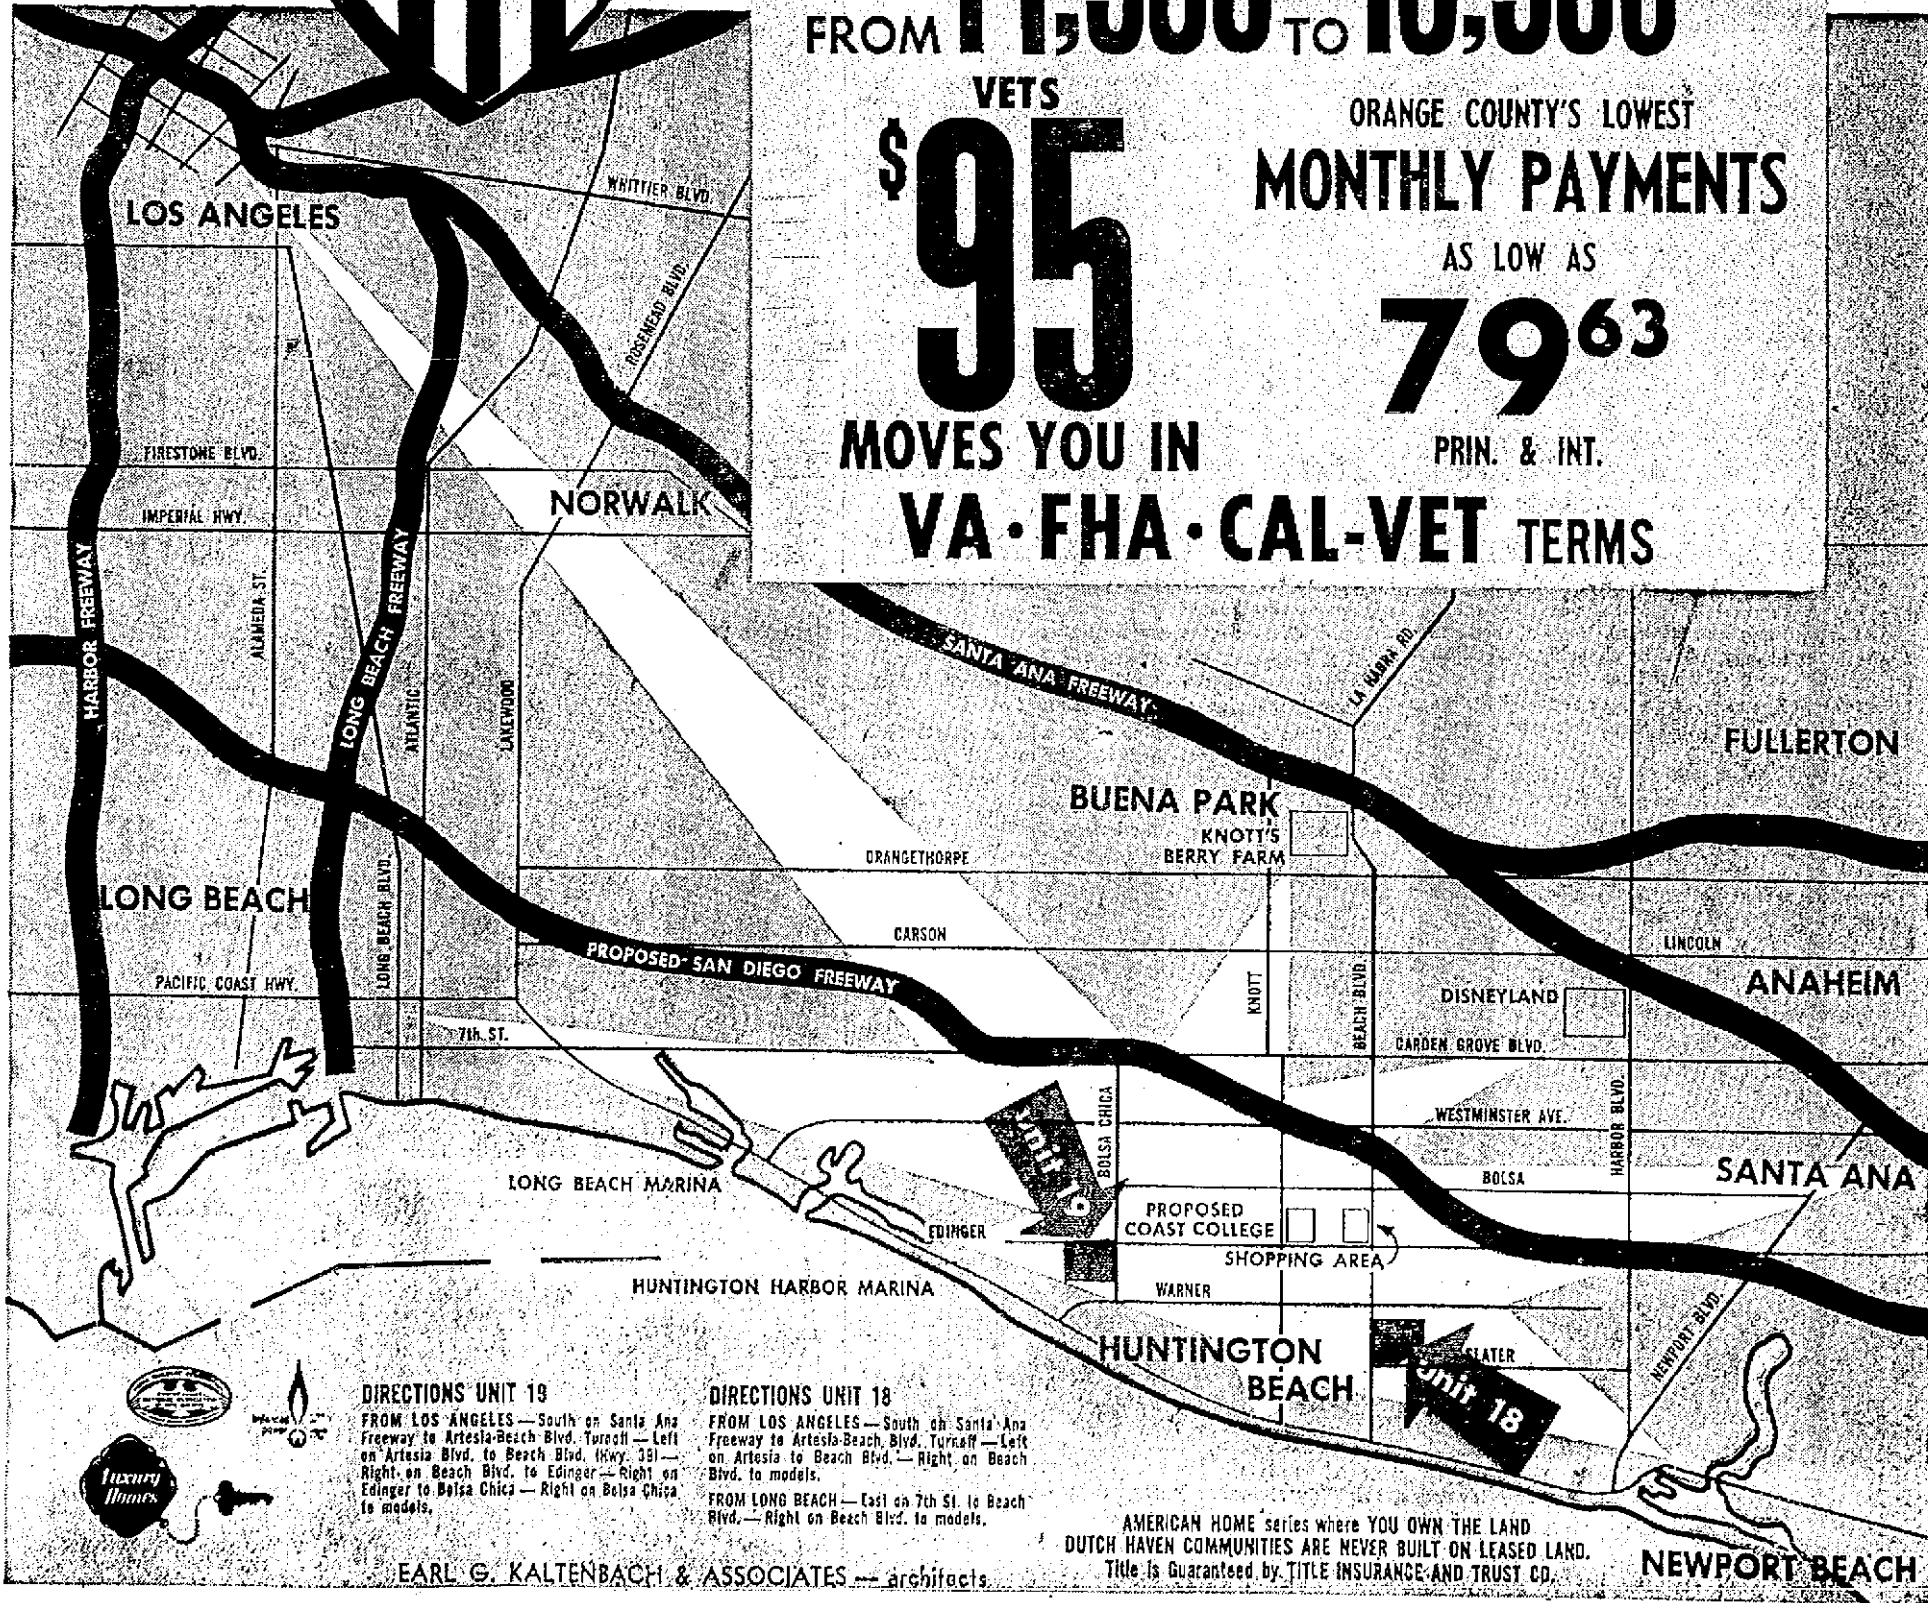

Hersey will describe and illustrate, using a model, fashion changes from head to toe, in color, fabric and silhouette. His potpourri will include: the new feminine approach to fashion for spring; a new awareness of the form with figure skimming fit; in place of the "little nothing" dress, a "little something" dress, incorporating one of the new feminine flaps, ruffles, capes, boleros, flares, or fringe; accessories add important feminine touches . . . lower heels complement short hemlines . . . wider brims balance wide, swinging skirts . . . smaller handbags look newly feminine. Jewelry is finer, fluid, looks real; and wider belts accent the small waistline.

Hersey will show how all of these combine to make the most fashion excitement since the "new look."

Paul Gross, Buffums' ad manager, and Betty Walsh, ad manager of Walkers, will serve as co-chairmen for this event and urge wives and sweethearts to attend.

ACME MATTRESS FACTORY BIGGEST FIRM OF KIND IN AREA

Started in 1932 in a small 30-by-60-ft. building, Acme Mattress Factory, 3425 E. Anaheim St., has grown into the largest plant of its kind in the entire South Coast area.

Quality workmanship and service, plus the use of the best materials available, have been the key to success for the firm owned by Marion Wyatt.

Besides the big factory and showroom at 3425 E. Anaheim St., Wyatt's firm now has a commercial fumigating plant at 1349 Loma Ave.; cotton processing plant at 2750 Dawson Ave., and a spring plant at 1325 Newport Ave.

The four plants cover more than 50,000 square feet and employ 45 people.

Using all of the very newest in equipment with the latest machine for each job to insure good workmanship, Wyatt recently installed a $12,000 bordering and mattress ventilating machine. "This will give added life to every mattress we produce," explains Wyatt.

With the most complete renovating plant in the Southland, Acme has among its customers, the U. S. Government, many large steamship lines, hotels and apartments.

The Acme cotton processing plant is the only one of its kind in Long Beach and supplies upholstering firms and other bedding manufacturers throughout the area.

The spring plant houses a wood-working shop to make and insure quality frames used in Acme products. Most springs are hand tied to assure uniform work.

The main factory on Anaheim St. houses the mattress making equipment, sales and showroom. There is also a foam rubber fabricating department in this unit.

Buyers may obtain mattresses and box springs of any size and from extra soft to very firm. Pillows, custom headboards and studio couches also are manufactured to any size by Acme.

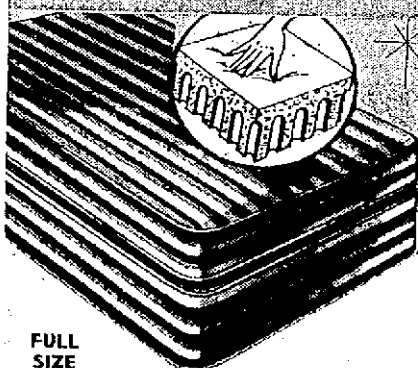

The foam rubber department fabricates all types of cushions, mattresses, pillows and other foam rubber products for upholstering and mattress use.

According to Mr. Wyatt here are 5 reasons why Acme-built mattresses are better, last longer and cost less:

1. Grade "A" padding and steel construction used throughout.
2. Over 30 years' experience in the mattress construction business.
3. Well-trained and experienced personnel.
4. Volume buying allows us to pass savings on to you.
5. 30 years' experience serving government agencies, hospitals, private and public institutions.

OUR COVER

Twenty-one newly graduated nursing students, wearing the insignia of Registered Nurse, now are ministering to the bed-ridden at Long Beach Memorial Hospital. Our cover shows one of these Florence Nightingales, Lora Carpenter, meeting 4-year-old Richard Thumre, 2463 W. 236th Place, Carson, and play therapist Mrs. Grace Smith in the hospital's pediatrics ward. The little fellow seems to enjoy her presence, and no wonder: Lora is typical of the young nurses now on staff duty at Memorial. For more about these attractive young career women, see Page 7.

You Ask—We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Was there, originally, a specific dance called the jitterbug? U. G.

A. No. Jitterbug has been defined as "a general term for unconventional, often formless and violent, social dances to syncopated music, generally in 4/4 time." A dance encyclopedia says that the best-known early forms of jitterbug include the Charleston, Black Bottom, Shag, and Lindy Hop. In the early 1940s these forms were consolidated in the Lindy (short for Lindy Hop). As jitterbug popularity continued, new combinations were invented and dancers began to use steps from all parts of the world.

Q. Is Charlton Heston the actor's real name? A. K.

A. The actor was born Charlton Carter, son of Russell and Lilla Charlton Carter, on Oct. 4, 1924, in Evanston, Ill. The Carters were later divorced. After his mother's remarriage, to Chester Heston, Charlton Carter adopted his stepfather's surname and has retained it.

Q. Who was "the girl with the midnight eyes"? F. N.

A. Maxine Elliott (1871-1940), one of the world's most beautiful actresses, was termed "The Lady of the Midnight Eyes" by Whistler, the famous artist. Her eyes were described as "a luminous, mysterious, deep-blue."

Q. Why is ice skating more difficult in extremely cold weather? S. E.

A. When ice is not too cold, it melts by pressure alone. Skaters may then glide on the thin film of water which pressure of their skates produces, and which refreezes as soon as pressure is removed. In extremely cold weather the ice surface does not melt under the skates and gliding becomes difficult.

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on BOONE and BONE. — B.B., R.B., Long Beach.

B.B., R.B.: BOONE, a celebrated American name, gained lasting fame in our great country's frontier history. However it was celebrated in Europe centuries before America was discovered. The Boone ancestor was Humphrey, the Sire de Bohun, who entered England with his compatriots in the Norman French conquest of 1066. Bohun's name was from an ancestral warrior title meaning "Messenger-protector." The Bohun manorial estate was near Carentan, Normandy. As a reward for his services, William the Conqueror gave Bohun the great manor of Talesford in Norfolk, England, where he and his descendants lived for generations. The Bohuns, who later used the surnames Boone and BONE, afterward acquired the Earldoms of Hereford, Northumberland and Essex. Their coat-of-arms has three red seashells between two gold lions on a diagonal gold and silver stripe across a blue shield. The famous frontiersman Daniel Boone was of this lineage. His father emigrated from Exeter, England, to North Carolina in 1750. Bone is also traced to "bone" meaning "good one" in early Britain. The Bone shield is gold, emblazoned with a blue cross.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on McCONAHAY and McCONKEY. — M.M., Long Beach; Mrs. M.K., Torrance.

M.M., M.K.: McCONAHAY and McCONKEY go back many centuries to the ancient Gaelic Irish clan MacDhonnchaigh, meaning "Sons of the brown warrior." The letters "Dh" were silent in the Irish pronunciation, producing "Macconghaigh, the Mac-MacConahey and MacConkey. Mc and Mac were interchangeable. These families were recorded in Cork, Sligo and Clare in the Middle Ages. Pennsylvania tax records of 1765 list an ancestor, David McConaughy.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on RARDON. — H.R., Compton.

H.R.: RARDON is from Riordan, a celebrated Irish name. This family are from Offaly in southeast Erin, where they are recorded as far back as the 10th century. Their ancestor was Riogbardan O'Carroll who died in battle in 1058. Riogbardan, meaning "Royal ballad singer" was bequeathed to descendants called the O'Riordans and Rardons.

Are Nurses Younger Now?

By Ben Zinser

Independent Press-Telegram Medical Science Writer

FROM KEUKA PARK, N. Y., to Santa Barbara, from St. Louis, Mo., to Whitby, Ontario, the young nurses flock to the nation's first space-age hospital in Long Beach.

Here, at Memorial Hospital, many a young nurse makes the transition from nursing school to her first job as an RN—Registered Nurse.

Twenty-one newly graduated nursing students have joined the Memorial staff in the past few months.

Working alongside experienced nursing personnel, the young nurses have quickly become a part of the health team.

ALTHOUGH MOST of the nation suffers from a shortage of registered nurses, Memorial Hospital, through an aggressive recruiting program, has been able to maintain an adequate nursing staff.

Henry Clock, president of Memorial's board of directors, says that some Los Angeles hospitals have closed wards because of a nurse shortage. But in contrast, Memorial has constantly made more patient beds available since it opened in June 1960. One day, in the week preceding last

Christmas, Memorial had 453 patients. (The hospital is rated as a 400-bed facility.)

The young nurses number less than 10 per cent of the hospital's 209 registered nurses. All told, there are 350 persons in the nursing department.

RECENT GRADUATES and their schools:

Patricia Grant and Ann Louise Ernst, California Hospital School of Nursing, Los Angeles; Betty Gilden and Barbara Muth, Knapp College, Santa Barbara; Janet Wilson, University of Colorado School of Nursing, Denver; Elizabeth Hurd, Kathleen Love and Margaret Strange of St. Mark's Hospital School of Nursing, Salt Lake City, Utah; Deborah deLuce, Katherine Segar and Ann Martin, Keuka College School of Nursing, Keuka Park, N. Y.; Ena Cook, Ontario Hospital, Whitby, Ontario; Carol Fleming, Loyola University School of Nursing, Los Angeles; Alice Adams, Lutheran Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Mo.; Margaret Rea and Barbara Van Gronigen, Santa Rosa College School of Nursing; Linda Lou Bartgis, Bishop Johnson College of Nursing, Los Angeles; Gail Salisbury, Riverside City College School of Nursing; and Lois Stewart, Lora Carpenter and Colleen Janes, all of Long Beach City College.

Margaret Rea, 1961 graduate, is one of 21 new Memorial Hospital nurses.

Three young nurses—Colleen Janes, Linda Lou Bartgis and Barbara Van Gronigen—take notes as assistant floor manager, Mrs. Sonja Allgood (right), gives report.

Gail Salisbury, a graduate of School of Nursing at Riverside City College, turns on radio for patient.

Lora Carpenter, of Long Beach City College helps young Russell Hawkins with breakfast in Memorial Hospital's pediatric department.

Carol Fleming fills syringe for hypodermic injection of medication for a patient in the intensive surgical unit at Memorial Hospital.

Hee-oh'ks-te-kin, the Rabbit's Skin Leggings; Nez Perce, painted by George Catlin in 1832.

Comanche war party meeting Col. Dodge's Dragoons, and one of their bravest men advancing to shake hands with Col. Dodge. Painted on the Mexican frontier in 1835.

The Indians of George Catlin's Old West

A PICTURESQUE era in history that is forever gone—the Old West before the covered wagon and the development of photography—is preserved on canvas by George Catlin, who has become famous as the artist-historian of the American Indian.

Catlin began his great adventure into the trans-Mississippi West in 1830 when Meriwether Lewis introduced him to Indians of various tribes. But his most remarkable field trip was made in the summer of 1832 when he traveled up the Missouri

River more than 2,000 miles to Fort Union at the mouth of the Yellowstone, aboard the first steamboat to reach that remote point. He painted the earliest known portraits of the warlike Western Sioux, Cheyenne and Blackfoot tribes, as well as the farming tribes on the Missouri. It was during this expedition that he began to paint Indian villages and village life and hunting scenes, as well as landscapes of the Indian country.

While painting, he collected fascinating information on Indian life and customs that appeared in his very popular two-volume work, "Letters and Notes on the Manners, Customs and Condition of the Indian Tribes of North America," first published in London in 1841 and reprinted many times.

On subsequent trips by canoe and portage, and one with an expedition of the Dragoons, he continued to paint at every opportunity. Before he died, he had executed literally hundreds of paintings of the Old West.

Wah-chee-te, wife of Clermont (Chinook), and child. Painted in 1830.

Ah-mou-a, the whale, one of Keokuk's principal braves (Sauk), 1832.

Slidin' Sam's at It Again!

Written and Illustrated
By Richard W. Emery

LADIES and Gentlemen, step right up—

Step right up for a look at the world's most famous cat—

The International Cat—

The incomparable, death-defying, fire-house-brass-pole downsliding cat known throughout America, and Europe, and Africa, and far-off New Zealand and Australia—INTERNATIONAL! I say—

Sam—that's his name!

Slidin' Sam!

The boast of the City of Long Beach!

The pride of the Long Beach Fire Department!

The most especial treasure of City Fire House Six!

NOW LADIES and Gentlemen, four years ago nobody, I mean nobody, in all the world had heard of Slidin' Sam. He was a nothin', a nobody-cat, a catcher of rats on the Long Beach water front.

But the firemen down at Station Six gave him a hand, Ladies and Gentlemen! Out of the greatness of their hearts they offered food and shelter to this nothing-cat, this yellow-eyed prowler with the spangled tail, and they named him Sam. And Sam slept under their warm bunks away up there on the high second floor of Fire House Six.

Now the quickest way down from away up there was to slide down the 20-foot brass pole and that's the way the brave fire laddies slid when the bells banged and the Cap'n shouted.

And in his fright at all that fearsome racket, this nothing-cat, this rat-catcher Sam, learned something that has made him to this day and hour the most distinguished cat on all the earth.

SAM LEARNED how to slide that pole!

It was only a whisper around the town at first—"Have you heard about the cat at Fire House Six?" But the reporters and photogs heard it and they saw Sam and shouted and screamed to the four corners of the globe and Sam made Page One and TV and the photo syndicates and magazine covers (in color, yet) and from all the world the letters came pouring in to Fire House Six!

For three years this intrepid cat took those death-defying life-slides and then—Ah, sad thing!—the department abandoned the old two-story building. That was a year ago, friends—and the lads of Station Six have all this time been staying in their new fire house and it's only one story high and it has no brass pole.

It has no pole!

AND SLIDIN' SAM has been ashamed, so ashamed he can hardly catch his rats, because he's had no pole to slide on, and all the while the letters pour in from people asking "How's Sam?"

Fire laddies near tears have had to write back, "Sam's not sliding, no pole!"

Well, Ladies and Gentlemen, this shameful fix which has cast a shadow over our fair city is about to be taken away forever because there's good news today and here it is:

Slidin' Sam will have a pole again! The brave laddies at Fire House Six have the chief's okay and the pole will be put there just for Sam, in time for the big dedication ceremony of the new $107,000 Fire House Six. That's 11 a. m. Feb. 19 at 835 Windham Ave. in the heart of the harbor district.

And internationally, Ladies and Gentlemen, the folks'll be glad to hear Sam's slidin' again!

Fan mail has come from far points as Slidin' Sam's fame spread. Above, Capt. Harold Wick of L. B. Fire Station Six, holds double handful of cat's mail. New one-story station will soon have special pole for Sam.

Slidin' Sam demonstrates the feat which made him famous, sliding down the fire-house pole. He'll soon be sliding again.

She's Campus Valentine Queen

Jan Hassell, Long Beach City College Valentine Queen, looks over travel folders and dreams of long-awaited trip to Europe—a dream that will come true in June.

By Don Drury

VALENTINE QUEEN of Long Beach City College, 1962 model, is Jan Hassell of 4446 Stanbridge Ave.

The 19-year-old sophomore, who also reigned over the recent Sweetheart Prom, was chosen for her dual honor by the Associated Student Body Cabinet, LBCC Liberal Arts Division.

The very model of the popular, photogenic campus coed, Jan is also the dedicated sponsor of a club for youngsters and hopes for a career in municipal recreation.

A high-stepping flag twirler with the LBCC Viking Band, she is also an art student, musician and ardent collector of travel guidebooks—and plans a long-awaited tour of Europe this summer.

QUEEN JAN, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hassell, is a brown-eyed brunette, 5-6 and 124 pounds. At City College she has been a member of Kassai (women's honorary service group), Entre Nous (women's social club), the Associated Women Students advisory board and the college band.

At Lakewood High School she was an officer of the Girls' Club, flag girl, member of the Welfare Club, and a member of the school orchestra—in which she played both the violin and the piano, though not simultaneously.

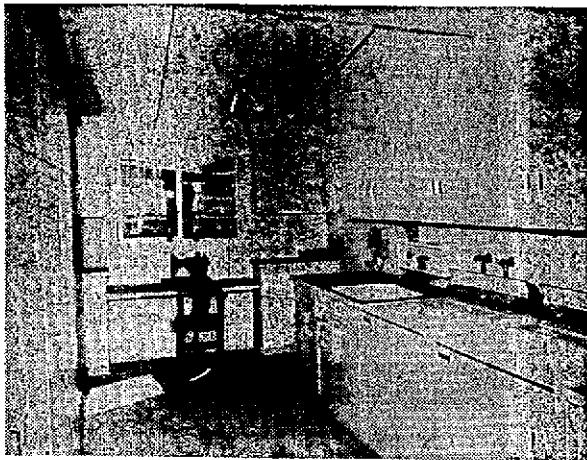

Her outside interests include music, travel, and her sponsorship of a seventh grade girls' club at the Los Altos YWCA. She is also a sports fan, with special emphasis upon basketball and her favorite basketball player, Jerald Dick of the LBCC varsity. (Sorry, men, you'll have to wait for the next Valentine Queen. This one is definitely not available.)

Following graduation from City College in June, Jan plans that summer trip to Europe and will then enter Long Beach State College in the fall.

Queen Jan has keen interest in art studies, can be seen on campus with sketch pad.

Washer, drier and storage are provided in a service porch which has been added to Pete Ward residence.

IN AN AVERAGE home, a service porch is a small addition to the kitchen that holds a washer and dryer and perhaps a few shelves for storage. When Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ward, 11661 Puryear St., Garden Grove, decided to build a service porch, they decided to do so on a deluxe scale.

Directly adjacent to the kitchen, the room is over 20 feet long and more attractive than most kitchens. Washer, dryer and sink combined with plenty of work space line one wall. Full sized closets ready to hold ironed clothes line the opposite wall. Cupboards in which to put hard-to-store items line the upper walls of the room.

A SEWING machine with a window above for good light is at one end of the room. On either side are work areas atop full sized chests of drawers. Cupboards are above both chests.

A desk is at the far end of the room where there is also another window. Expertly designed by Ward, the room is excellent for any home, particularly one where small children make laundering and sewing every-day routine. — BY STELLA GEORGE

Like a Crown Upon a Hillside

By Stella George

ONE OF THE most fascinating homes in Southern California is that belonging to Mr. and Mrs. James Sippelle, 2530 E. 21st St., Signal Hill. A split level structure, the home wanders down a hill, overlooking the city in the distance. Custom designed by an expert, it is a crown upon the hillside which it stands.

Soaring outward from the family room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sippelle, this balcony viewed through a glass wall seems almost to be flying. Below, the living room. Steps, right, lead to entry hall.

Glass walls in the kitchen orient themselves to the very center of the downtown section of Long Beach.

The street level front door opens to a wide entry hall. Straight ahead is the family room kitchen area, at the far end of which glass walls meet at a point which orients itself to the center of downtown Long Beach. Beyond the glass walls, a porch extends to another arrow point.

While the entire home is a flawless balance of symmetry and design, individual rooms are imaginative and unusual in shape. The decorating scheme is planned accordingly.

EFFICIENCY plus is the keynote in the streamlined kitchen. The working area is arranged so that one can stand in the center and have every needed item within arm's reach. A low, white, sit-down bar with formica top extends to one end of the kitchen, separating the latter from the family room adjoining. Woodwork is all solid walnut, rich in color and texture, a sharp and attractive contrast to the white formica. Chairs around the bar are of a greenish golden color. Floors in both rooms are impregnated cork with a long-wearing vinyl top finish.

The family room is furnished with an eye to easy maintenance as well as good looks. The couch is of champagne color; a small piano from Japan is of walnut. A rust carpet which the Sipprelles brought from Morocco provides a gay color accent. A built-in desk takes up little room and avoids clutter.

Four steps up from the family room are two doors, one leading to the garage and the other to a blue powder room. Four steps down, on the kitchen side, lead to a triangular living room. Carpeting on the steps and in the living room is of natural, hand-knotted wool, almost white in color. A free standing metal fireplace is in one corner. Furniture is casual—avocado chairs, an inlaid table from Morocco, and little or no brie-a-brac.

THE ENTIRE far wall of the living room is glass, overlooking the magnificent view in the distance. Oatmeal linen drapes bear out the impeccable taste used in the interior decorating.

To the left of the entry hall is a stairway which leads to the bedroom and playroom downstairs. In the master bedroom, directly beneath the living room, fine, simple furnishings add to the size of the room. A bathroom adjoins the bedroom. Brown-gold color tones are used on the long dressing table-wash basin area. A sunken tub, with a planter in the background, looks out through a picture window to the city beyond. Two walls are mirrored, adding to the size of the already large room.

BEDROOMS for the Sipprelle girls are unique in design and color. The far walls of both rooms are of glass, like other rooms in the home. In one room pure white is accented with pink; in the other room with blue. The blue is a vivid, Copenhagen shade, carried out in hand-painted wall murals and fluffy throw rugs. The deep pink wall murals in the other room resemble huge lace doilies—pretty and feminine.

The girls' bathroom is equipped to serve also as a laundry, with washer and dryer convenient. Nearby is their playroom, and here again is the glass wall with the view beyond.

The landscaping is in the preliminary stages, but plans, which include a lower level swimming pool, are underway. Because of the unusual site, the lack of landscaping is not complete detracts in no way from the elegance of the home.

Functional and casual family room, viewed here from kitchen, boasts native stone fireplace with raised hearth and storage wall with built-in TV and book shelves.

extends down over the protruding garage producing a long, low effect.

There are other interior features which provide a lot of house for the 1,524 square feet of living area in this model: first notice its excellent zoning and traffic circulation.

Formal entertaining can be done enjoyably in the extra large living room with its front patio, but for extra large gatherings a folding wooden door can be opened to the family room providing one grand sweep of indoor-outdoor expanse.

THE HOUSE contains three bedrooms and 2½ baths. The half-bath is located off the laundry room, which makes it convenient not only to the family room but to children playing outdoors as well.

Dimensions of B-77 are 30 feet 8 inches deep on the bedroom side, 36 feet deep on the garage side, and 69 feet wide. Paul recommends a plot to take full advantage of exterior features and design.

The living area of B-77 is designed to fill functional as well as casual daily living needs. The family room features a native stone fireplace with a raised hearth which is part of a storage wall for bookshelves, cabinets and built-in TV and phonograph. A glass wall, with sliding doors, separates the room from the terrace.

The kitchen likewise was planned for plenty of space but few steps for the housewife. The work area is U-shaped, probably the most efficient design of them all.

Another feature is location of the laundry on the living level. And still another feature is the long work counter in the laundry, something housewives clamor for but seldom get.

The mud room in B-77 has its own closet for raincoats, boots, umbrellas and other gear, and the room can be entered from the garage as well as from the rear terrace.

IF THE OWNER wishes, the right wall of the dining room can be made of brick, carried right through the glass wall and integrating the rear garden with the formal dining area—an extra touch of elegance for those who prefer it. Another classy touch is the terrace off the 14 foot 2 inch by 11 foot master bedroom.

Not shown in the floor plans is an 885 square foot cellar which provides other storage opportunities as well as a future recreation room if desired. The 480 square foot garage is not included in the 1,524 square feet of living area. The garage door, incidentally, can be put on the front of the house if the owner desires or his lot design requires it.

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-77.

NOW...DEFENCIN: A NEW MORE EFFECTIVE ANSWER TO ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM PAIN

New muscle-relaxing tablet works through the muscle fibres... gives more effective relief from pain of minor arthritis, rheumatism, body aches and stiffness in the 8 major areas of pain.

Today there has been a breakthrough against the pain and muscle stiffness of minor arthritis and rheumatism. Scientists have developed a new kind of medicine that you can take frequently, according to directions, for prolonged relief.

This medicine works by a new principle—through the muscle fibres themselves. It has been tested extensively on patients suffering from arthritis, rheumatism, body aches and stiffness in the 8 major areas of pain and has proved dramatically superior in bringing relief.

In case after case, pain and stiffness were relieved. Twice as many patients found relief, compared to those who took the most widely used pain tablets. Many patients found the new medicine acted faster, or relief lasted longer, or was more complete. They could reach, lift, walk, bend and move with greater ease and freedom.

This new medicine is DEFENCIN—a two-layer tablet with prescription-type ingredients—now available without prescription.

Here is an explanation of how DEFENCIN works, what it does, and its three-action relief.

Arthritis and its chain of pain

The pain of arthritis or rheumatism is not a simple matter. It is like a chain with many links. Muscles, joints and nerves make up these links.

When muscles around the painful joint stiffen and "lock" they restrict joint movement. Every time we do move, it hurts. This pain, in turn, irritates nerves, making the pain still worse.

Muscles, joints, nerves—this is the chain of pain of arthritis and rheumatism.

The key that unlocks the chain

Aspirin, common pain tablets and ordinary non-prescription "arthritis" pills are designed essentially to blunt pain. They act primarily in one way... give only part-way relief, do relatively little for muscles, joints or nerves. They don't have the key that unlocks the chain.

DEFENCIN does. It goes to work in minutes, right at the source of the trouble, relaxing tight, tense muscles that aggravate the pain of minor arthritis and rheumatism. DEFENCIN checks pain impulses as well as soothes nervous tension due to pain. It attacks pain and stiffness at its source, unlocks the chain of pain.

And, while there is no known cure for arthritis and rheumatism, you can take DEFENCIN frequently according to directions for continued relief of pain and stiffness.

A unique new three-action formula

Each DEFENCIN tablet contains:

- (1) An exclusive muscle relaxant that quickly acts through the muscle fibres—relaxes muscle tension, loosens stiffness, reduces pain at the source, and helps restore movement.
- (2) An effective pain reliever that eases pain from the affected joint areas for hours.
- (3) A nerve calmative to relieve the nervous tension that accompanies and aggravates painful conditions.

How DEFENCIN has helped others

People with body aches and stiffness in all 8 areas listed below—from arthritis and rheumatism to simple "Charlie Horse"—have taken DEFENCIN under the supervision of doctors in clinical tests.

The results of these tests bear repeating:

Compared to the most widely used pain tablets, DEFENCIN helped twice as many of these people. For many it acted faster, or relief lasted longer, or was more complete. In most cases, people found they could move, walk, stoop, bend with greater freedom. In some cases, all symptoms were completely relieved.

For more effective relief get DEFENCIN.* Sold in drugstores —$1.00 for 24 tablets.

WHICH OF THESE MUSCLE OR JOINT PAINS DO YOU HAVE?

Arthritis, rheumatism and related pains can strike anywhere in your body... most often causing painful conditions listed below. New DEFENCIN can relieve pain and stiffness in any of these areas.

1. Stiff back—pain in muscles especially in the small of the back. Over-exertion can cause stiffness here.
2. Stiff shoulder—pain in muscles that raise and lower the arm.
3. Stiff neck—pain in muscles that bend and turn the head.
4. Sore elbow—pain in muscles around the joint that flex the arm. Arthritis often attacks here.
5. Sore hip—pain in muscles of hip often extends down back of thigh.
6. Stiff knee—pain in these muscles may keep whole leg stiff.
7. Stiff wrist—pain in muscles that move the wrist and hand. These muscle areas are quite susceptible to rheumatism.
8. Cramped leg—pain in the leg muscles. When they stiffen, it hurts to move your ankle.

Science Stressed

By Harry Karns

Education Research Associates

YOUR CHILD is growing up in an age of science. Whether or not he intends to make science his career, he will be required to take some science courses in school; he'll need some understanding of science to appreciate and cope with the world around him.

Science plays an ever greater role in the business office, where intricate machines are coming into wider use, and in the home with its increasingly complicated appliances. Scientific terms are common in news stories, in fact, a scientific development often is the big news story of the day.

Small wonder there's an ever-stronger stress in modern schools on scientific subjects.

You should and can heighten the interest of your child in science.

Here are some suggestions:

First, get him involved in solving some simple scientific questions that touch his daily life.

Why does bread rise?

Why is the lawn green?

What makes a ball curve?

What makes the car go?

Second, discuss science stories in the news—stories about a storm, a sputnik in orbit, the discovery of a precious metal, new trees for the park, a school for space pilots, a new vaccine.

When the stories raise questions you and your child cannot answer, launch a research project.

You'll find, by the way, that he'll respond more quickly and work with greater enthusiasm if you join him as a fellow scientist than if you assume the role of taskmaster giving him an assignment.

Third, help him develop a science vocabulary.

His science texts contain many words which he does not use in his normal day-to-day activities. Mastering these words is essential to doing well in science.

He should keep a special section in his notebook in which to list and define the new words of his scientific vocabulary. He will learn these words by reviewing them, talking about them, and using them both orally and in writing.

Fourth, take him on trips to important science centers. Visit an observatory, an oil refinery, the botanical gardens, a science lecture.

Finally, encourage him to consult authorities.

Help him meet a chemist, an astronomer, a botanist. The living, breathing man who has achieved success in science will inspire interest that could never be aroused by the printed page.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in this "Grade Card" column.)

Here's a New Idea in Furniture

Many advantages are offered in unfinished furniture as it applies to the modern market. Here is an example.

JUST A FEW short years ago the phrase "unfinished furniture" would call to the minds of most people a collection of dreary softwood bric-a-brac shelves, end tables and bookshelves stacked, one on the other, in an equally dreary store. Today, ready-to-finish furniture is specified by many decorators, builders and architects for residential and commercial interiors.

Advantages of this brand of ready-to-finish are that it is not only inexpensive and usually well-constructed but it is standardized in size and readily available. Easily applied stains and finishes furnish a broad range of customized color selection usually available only in the most expensive finished lines.

In the years since World War II a revolution has taken place in the industry which has brought quality, hardwood ready-to-finish furniture in a dazzling choice of handsomely constructed shapes into the homes and offices of growing numbers of discriminating people.

Woodland of California, Torrance, is one maker of unfinished furniture that takes pride in the custom features of its quality construction among which are double secured tops, detailed drawer sides, locked divider construction, locked-joint drawers and corner blocks tops of Conolite, having such properties as resistance to heat, stain, alcohol, etc., are available on all items at a small additional cost.

READY-TO-FINISH furniture is adaptable, not only in the home by, or for, the homemaker, but can be custom-finished to the mass needs of hotels, motels, apartments and modern offices at a low cost. It is particularly suitable for use where space utilization is an all important factor as in mobile homes, small apartments, motels and in children's and teen rooms.

A lion's share of credit for making these chic decorator pieces available to those who are style conscious and on a limited budget goes to the principals of Woodland of California, Ben and Phil Duben, George Toben and Al Ganulin.

Inexpensive, easy to build and fun to use, these simple items of school equipment can add pleasure to playtime.

By William Meyerriecks

TODAY'S PROJECT: Easy-to-build blackboard, easel and desk-and-seat combination, build one or all three from plans.

Probably because it's such a big thing in their young lives, most children love to play school.

This is especially true of girls, of course, because they can play back all those profound things they've heard the teacher say. But even boys enjoy it — simply because it's fun to draw with chalk at a blackboard, or paint, or pretend you're sitting at a school desk when really you're in your own basement.

THE EQUIPMENT shown in the illustration furnishes

all the props necessary to support hours of educational play which not only will entertain but will help prepare preschoolers for their first year of learning or improve the work of older children already in the elementary grades.

All are simply constructed and could be made using only hand tools. The blackboard surface is plain hardwood painted with an easily applied chalkboard coating.

TO ORDER: Specify Play School Equipment Plan S-44 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

'Realms of Gold'

Those who know her best find Miss Blanche Collins, city librarian, enthusiastically devoted to her job.

By Irma McCall

SEARCHING a thesaurus for the word best describing Miss Blanche Collins, head of Long Beach libraries, one could stop at "enthusiastic." She likes her many-faceted work, is deeply interested in people, and enjoys unusual hobbies. Of course, her current enthusiasm is the desire for a new library building.

In a room bright with morning sunshine and colorful with her favorite Oriental art, soft-spoken Miss Collins rules her "realms of gold."

As a Mills College undergraduate she assessed her major interest: books and boys and girls. Although lacking a magic computing machine she came up with the perfect answer—he a children's librarian!

The slender, gray-eyed native daughter found that only Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh offered the necessary courses. There she earned a Master of Arts degree in library science. Long Beach seemed the ideal town and here her dream came true when she began as children's librarian at Alamitos Branch Library.

SHE WAS LOATH to leave such a fascinating assignment but was advanced to be a branch librarian. Then she was offered a truly challenging job, especially for a woman: Head of the science and industrial department at the main library.

"Work in no other department could be more stimulating or gratifying," declares Miss Collins. "The general public has no conception of the help a good library can give to business and professional men and women. For example, during World War II, a man asked for material on how to start a small business." (Continued on Page 26)

Fun Fare for a Kid's Party

Bunny-Bun sandwiches are fun fare for a youngsters' party. Orange cup cakes and hot cocoa complete menu.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHILDREN delight in having a party and February is a month that abounds in party occasions: Lincoln's Birthday, Valentine's Day, Washington's Birthday. Or treat the youngsters to a party "just for fun."

For party fare, try Bunny Bun sandwiches. The bright orange ears combine cheese and mustard for extra zest. The face is of egg salad, made expressive with sliced olive eyes. A smiling celery mouth, long pickle-sliver whiskers, a fat carrot bow tie, and a Cheddar-cheese vest complete the picture. Add potato chips and carrot sticks in a radish ring to each plate to round out this nutritious main dish.

Complete the color scheme with orange cup cakes. Cocoa topped with tiny marshmallows is a favorite party beverage. And candy and apples round out the party touch.

Bunny-Bun Sandwich

- 4 hamburger buns
- Softened butter
- Prepared mustard
- 4 thin slices Cheddar

cheese
Egg Salad Recipe below:

- 2 large carrots
- Piece of celery
- 2 large stuffed olives
- 1 sweet pickle

It takes one whole bun to make one bunny sandwich. Split a bun in half. Spread each half with softened butter. To top half, add a light spreading of prepared mustard. Round off corners of cheese to fit bun. Cut ears from two sides so as to have an equilateral triangular shaped piece left in the center. Use this triangle for his vest, broad base at neck line, point at bottom. Spread bottom half of buttered bun with about 3 tablespoons of egg salad spread. This is the face. Use slices of olives for eyes, piece of celery for mouth, thin strips of pickle for whiskers. Cut a slice of carrot lengthwise. Fashion into a bow tie. Cut 2 little strips of carrots. Place a strip in center of each ear. Assemble the bunny on dinner plate. Let ears extend over the edge if necessary. For 4 funny faces:

Egg Salad Spread

- 4 hard-cooked eggs, diced
- 1/4 cup finely-chopped celery
- 3 tbsps. mayonnaise
- 2 tps. prepared mustard
- 1/4 tsp. salt

Black pepper to taste
Combine all ingredients in a bowl. Mix lightly. Enough filling for 4 bunny faces. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

Orange Cup Cakes

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 1/2 tps. baking powder
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tps. orange extract
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup milk

Measure and sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Cream together butter, sugar, and orange extract. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, blending until smooth. Fill greased cup cake pans (or line cup with frilled paper liners) half full. Bake in 375° F. oven 18 to 25 minutes or until done. Cool; swirl Fluffy White Frosting over tops. Sprinkle with coconut and chocolate cake decorations. 18 medium cup cakes.

Fluffy White Frosting

- 1 egg white
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tps. white corn syrup
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. orange extract
- 1/2 cup miniature marshmallows

Combine in top of double boiler egg white, sugar, water, corn syrup, and salt. Beat with rotary beater about one minute. Place over rapidly boiling water. Beat until mixture forms peaks when beater is raised (5 to 7 minutes). Remove from boiling water. Add orange extract and marshmallows. Continue beating until thick enough to spread. Enough for 18 cup cakes.

$5 for Your Recipe

ICE CREAM Mince Pie was the choice of Mrs. Henry P. Nepveu, 2324 Stearns Ave., Long Beach 15, as a favorite dessert and it won a $5 prize for her as the best recipe of the week. Mrs. Nepveu's recipe:

Ice Cream Mince Pie

- 18 graham crackers
  - 1 qt. vanilla ice cream
  - 1/4 cup sugar
  - 1 cup drained mincemeat
  - 1/4 cup melted butter
  - 1/4 tsp. rum flavoring
- Crush crackers. Mix sugar and melted butter. Press into pie pan and chill for 45 minutes. Stir ice-cream to soften. Fold in mincemeat and flavoring. Place in shell which can be baked a few minutes and then chilled.

Send your favorite recipe to: Recipe Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. If published, it will win a $5 prize. Men are invited to submit recipes, too.

earth from which they were born. It is now a meeting place for creeping things, and at dusk questing bats come forth from the time-worn building. The trees shiver in the evening wind, and one can almost hear the ghosts of yesterday—Spanish trail breakers, black-robed padres, mule skimmers, sheriffs and bad men—talk of "the good old days."

Warner's Ranch is about 50 air miles northeast of San Diego. It lies in a pleasant valley at an elevation of 3,000 feet. The valley is surrounded by mountains, some of them rise up quickly to 6,000 feet. Less than five miles away is Lake Henshaw. Warner's ranks with Yuma as the scene of exciting events during the days of emigrant travel.

THE RANCH was named for Don Juan Largo Warner—Long John—who before he became a "Californio" was a young New Englander. Like many another blue-eyed adventurer he answered the call of the West in 1830. In 1844, he obtained a grant of 44,000 acres of land from the Mexican governor of California, and the ranch has borne his name ever since.

Until the arrival of the Spaniards the valley had been a sleepy place, with Cupeno Indians living at the hot springs, near which they had planted fields. Wild game, roots, seeds, acorns and pinon nuts gave them plenty of food and they had led contented lives.

So from the earliest days the ranch was destined to become a haven for desert travelers and a scene of constant activity. Its natural situation was responsible for this. The formation of the rugged foothills on the western side of the desert allowed but three exits, or avenues of escape, from the waste of shimmering sands.

One of these passes was through the Borrego Valley. This route was used by Captain Juan Bautista de Anza when he broke trail into California from Mexico in 1774. The easier route through Vallecito and the Ranch was discovered by Don Pedro Fages in 1782. This route from

Squat OK as Postural Habit

By Ben Zinser

Independent, Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

IF YOUR CHILD prefers squatting, Indian-like, to sitting, let him.

The crouching position is an excellent postural habit, says Dr. Charles Weer Goff of Yale University in a report in Clinical Orthopaedics.

Squatting is far preferable to sitting on the ground, knees together and feet wide apart, says the doctor.

Furthermore, the doctor doesn't particularly care for chairs for children.

In primitive times, he points out, the only chairs were for the old king or queen.

Sitting in a chair may hasten the tightening of the child's hamstring muscles and back structures to cause a tendency to backache, he says.

NUTRITION experts have examined the food likes and dislikes of college freshmen and come up with these findings:

- Corn is the only vegetable liked well enough to be accepted frequently by over 90 per cent of students.

- Other best-liked vegetables, in descending order: raw tomatoes, green beans, peas, carrots, raw cabbage.

- Least acceptable vegetables: rutabagas and turnips.

- Best-liked fruits, in descending order: strawberries, apples, peaches, pears, grapes.

- Most popular meats: beef, fowl, pork, fresh fish.

- Least liked meats: lamb and glandular organs.

The Journal of the American Dietetic Association says the food preferences were determined by a study of 120 students, mostly freshmen, at South Dakota State College.

IF NUCLEAR warfare comes, here's one way to tell when you're getting a significant dose of radiation:

Run a hard rubber comb through your hair and then try to pick up a little piece of paper with the static charge imparted to the comb.

Do this every hour while sitting in the fallout shelter. When the time comes that the comb doesn't pick up the paper, then you've got a 10-rad dose.

Says Dr. Marshall Brucer, chairman of the medical division at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies:

"You know you don't want more than 100 rads, so you've got about nine hours left to make a better shelter."

Nylon combs won't work.

AN AUTHORITY on allergy — Dr. Ethan Allan Brown — praises a new book about the subject — "How to Master Your Allergy," by Harry Swartz, M. D.

In a book review in Current Medical Digest, Dr. Brown says that "the style is lucid . . . and the presentation of material is uncomplicated."

The book, written for the layman, includes 12 appendices. There are lists of trees which cause hay fever, tables of mechanical and electronic aids and a chart that identifies cosmetics which can cause allergic reactions.

The 288-page book, which costs $5, is published by Thomas Nelson & Sons, 19 E. 47th St., New York 17, N. Y.

A HUMAN mother usually sets down her baby on its back, but a gorilla mother lays her offspring on its tummy. Who's right?

Both mothers are, believes Dr. Nora E. R. Archer of England.

She observed the gorilla trait in the Basie, Switzerland, Zoo while watching the gorilla Achilla handle her 8-week-old baby. The gorilla mother always laid down her offspring in a prone (on stomach) position. And when the baby gorilla wriggled and landed supine (on back), Achilla would pick up the baby and turn it over.

Head-raising and head-control come earlier in the prone than in the supine position, the doctor says. For this reason, the gorilla mother's choice is the wiser. It's necessary for the animal to get about on its hands and legs early in its development.

In the case of the human, the supine position favors use of the senses, particularly the eyes, at the expense of early muscular development.

As Dr. Archer puts it in the British Medical Journal: The human baby is busy weaving himself a brain.

countless thousands of ice-locked miles opened by dog teams. They have hauled ammunition and supplies during wars, rescued downed fliers from the Greenland Icecap, carried mail, supplied prospectors and trappers, toiled for their Indian and Eskimo masters, and helped the Canadian Mounties "get their man."

The sled dog learns assignments easily. When he is about eight months old he is harnessed with experienced dogs. At first he thinks he is playing, but shortly he understands what he is to do. And, if trained slowly and kindly, he learns to like his work. Some sled dogs have the speed, initiative, and intelligence necessary for a lead dog, while others prefer the "point" position behind the lead dog or the "wheel" posts near the sled. A good driver learns his dogs' temperaments and capacities and places them where they do best.

The dogs are usually fitted with leather boots to protect their paws from jagged ice, but the nails are left free for traction.

With tractor-trains and airplanes now handling much of the tonnage in blizzard-swept countries, the sled dog fancy has turned to the winter sport of dog-sled racing, although a good many of the natives and the Mounties depend at least in part on sled dogs.

A QUESTION frequently asked is, "Are sled dogs unpredictably savage?" The purebred sled dogs—Alaskan Malamutes, ideal for heavy pulling, Siberian huskies, fastest of all, and Samoyeds, favorites in certain arctic regions—make devoted family pets. If maltreated or crossed with wolves, ferocity enters in. According to W. G. Fraser, head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the haphazard sled dogs of the Eskimos and Indians are a menace by instinct. But these dogs are not purebred. Fraser, after getting his new breeding program at Fort Norman on the Mackenzie River going strong, hopes to replace privately owned teams of the natives with purebred Siberian huskies. Only responsible dog-team operators will qualify as buyers.

SLED DOG DERBY, at lakeside at Big Bear Lake, will climax a two-day event today with numerous races, including classes for children.

COMPANION Dog Training Club holds its practice match today at North Hollywood Park. Entries close at 1 p.m.

Yuma later became the Butterfield Stage Road.

WITH THE coming of pioneer Americans, Warner, Jackson, Pegleg Smith and a score of others, the Butterfield Stage route was used. Gen. Kearney, while en route to California in 1846 to aid in the Mexican War, led his straggling band of soldiers through Vallecito and Warner's.

Prospectors were intrigued by tales of desert gold; of sudden wealth, of Pegleg Smith's lost bonanza. They, too, laid plans at Warner's bought food, mules and tools, and then went down through San Felipe Pass to the desert, no one knows where.

Into this valley came cattle thieves, "bad men" and just plain robbers. They all stopped at Warner's. Men with serious purposes also passed through on their way to the Pacific Coast. The first wagons to cross the Colorado desert from Yuma to the ranch were those of the Mormon Battalion, early in 1847. It was the beginning and end of a dangerous trail, the story of which is endless and as vivid as the desert in spring.

Warner's Ranch is now a popular resort. Visitors come from all over the world to bask in the warm sun, and bathe in the hot mineral waters.

Native materials were used in Warner Ranch pioneering, as exemplified in old corral, at right, of native timber.

Safflower Is a 'First'

WESTERN-GROWN safflower seed, 3,500 tons of it, rested in the hold of the Sirie, as the Italian freight pulled out of the harbor here early in October bound for Kobe, Japan. She was the first vessel to leave from the new, $2.5 million Long Beach grain terminal and her cargo was destined to be made into cooking oil.

Safflower is a thistle-like plant about 3 feet tall, has coarse branching stems and a round blossom of crimson hue.

Safflower is being grown on the farms of California and Arizona. For centuries it was grown in Europe, Africa, Asia Minor and Egypt. The brilliant flowers make a rich dye. In early Egyptian history, silk was colored with this dye and used to wrap about the mummies.

In the United States the seeds are made into an oil for cases of heart condition and hypertension. The product has adhesive qualities and is used in varnishes and paints. Farm animals are fed on the meal of the ground-up seeds. And last but not least, its dainty tints help make up the rouge used by milady around the world.

—G. HURLBURT.

Past Restored

Visiting many German theaters is like stepping back into the gracious past when royalty patronized the arts in elegant settings. Handsome baroque decor has been discovered under crumbling plaster in Passau's "Kleines Hoftheater": white washed 150 years ago, the murals were forgotten long ago. Authorities have ordered the theater renovated and restored in the original whimsical scheme of cupids and rosebuds. Located at the confluence of the Danube and Ilz, Passau has been called one of the seven most beautiful towns in the world.

RIGIDENT HOLDS FALSE TEETH TIGHT... with UTMOST PERSONAL COMFORT!

You can laugh, you can eat, you can talk again without a worry of slipping dentures, when you know that Rigident Denture Retainer is on the job, holding your dentures firmly, yet comfortably, right where they belong.

Rigident is a pharmaceutical powder that took four years of research and five years of consumer testing before it met Wickman Pharmaceuticals highest standards of performance and quality.

If you haven't tried Rigident, you soon will, because other denture retainers simply do not do all of the things that Rigident does, and you will keep trying one after the other until eventually, you do try Rigident. And you will stay with Rigident... because Rigident restores your ability to enjoy hard-to-chew foods in a normal, healthful diet. Rigident is unaffected by temperature, cold foods do not harden Rigident, nor hot foods soften it. Rigident absolutely will not sluff out, so you can enjoy again both hot and cold foods at the same meal, with tight, comfortable dentures.

Your dentures will stay put for 18 hours or more with just one easy application of Rigident. Rigident's "comfort cushion" of tiny air bubbles assures you utmost comfort, all day long, and helps protect you from denture breath by preventing food particles from slipping under dentures. Rigident will not warp your dentures; will not burn your gums.

So try Rigident! If it doesn't do the things we say it will do, send back the unused portion and we will gladly refund your money!

Dorothy Digs

Now is the time in the Long Beach area to prune roses. It is also an excellent time to tone up the soil by contributing a little soil sulphur (2½ lbs. to 100 sq. ft.)

which you work lightly into the soil, and a little iron sulphate which you scatter on top of the soil in the root growing area — just one or two ounces to each full size rose bush. Then water thoroughly.

Next comes a clean-up spray with a lime-sulphur-oil emulsion. This is the great event of the year for your rose bed. Spraying at this time, when the bushes are newly pruned, destroys rose enemies in the form of overwintering insect life and checks fungus diseases such as blackspot, mildew and rust. Be sure to spray the soil generously too, in order to destroy the fungus spores, and insect life hibernating there through the winter months, ready to begin destructive activity in the spring.

Start your fertilizing program soon enough so that your roses have nitrogen available when they start their first burst of spring growth.

'Realms of Gold'

ness. Imagine our satisfaction when he returned a year later so successful that he inquired how to begin an import-export business."

Former City Librarian Edwin Castagna recognized Miss Collins' unusual gifts by appointing her assistant librarian in charge of branches at a time of expansion. She delighted in planning and supervising construction of six fine branches.

She accepts only part of the laurels, however, because her staff and architects spend literally hundreds of hours in conferences with her. She particularly liked this phase of her job.

Naturally, Miss Collins reads, but not as much as she desires.

"One of my delights and also a pressure point is trying to keep up with new books," she admits. "At least I dip into as many as possible. I have no favorite type of reading—just enjoy them all."

AN EXPERT equestrienne, she drilled and paraded with the Lancerettes on her black horse, Chico. When freeways jangle the nerves, she finds refreshment with rider groups sponsored by the American Forestry Association who camp in real wilderness areas.

She recalls one narrow escape at night on a narrow Washington State mountain switchback. Suddenly a white horse ahead lost his footing, threw the rider and hurtled toward Blanche. Only by jerking her horse forward was she saved from catapulting down the mountain.

Her less hazardous hobbies include collecting foreign dolls and pitchers. Prize doll is King Edward VIII, brilliant in scarlet jacket, fur shako, and ready sword. Her dolls have enlivened many exhibits and she hopes to give the collection to the new library, if and when.

Among her 125 miniature pitchers from five continents, many of them gifts from traveling friends, she values most the pottery pitchers from South America.

"When I became city Librarian," she says emphatically "and realized the desperate need for an adequate main library, I knew my major task. With a wonderful staff ever ready to help and a group of citizens committed to work until we succeed, I am well compensated for all the time and effort I spend on this important project."

Another applicable adjective—"dedicated."

Now—a 2-way treatment helps clear up piles faster

Unlike some leading preparations, Paracin contains a local anesthetic that works in minutes to ease pain and stop itch. Reduces swelling and relieves pressure so piles can heal naturally.

PARACIN® complete home hemorrhoid treatment is the new way to ease the pain and itching of tender, swollen piles. This new special medication contains three ingredients prescribed by many doctors... to help nature clear up piles faster. PARACIN has been proved effective in clinical tests. It acts fast to relieve most painful hemorrhoid conditions.

PARACIN starts working fast to ease pain and stop itch. Soothes and cushions the irritation of piles. Makes movement less painful, more natural. Reduces swelling and helps protect against infection.

Now PARACIN gives you this special home treatment with both ointment and suppositories for internal and external application at the same time. By using the ointment externally before using the suppositories, you get the most complete relief. Sold with money-back guarantee.

Variety's the Spice of February

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

IF YOU live in Southern California, or are visiting the Southland this month, and like to gad about, count yourself as a lucky, lucky person. When it isn't raining.

There are things to see and do—many in our mild outdoors—for just about everyone: camel and ostrich races, glider derby, camellia festival, flower show, and even cancan dances!

Here are a few February events upcoming to which you are invited:

Monday: Abraham Lincoln Day at Mission San Luis Rey, in San Diego County. The original document signed by President Lincoln a few days before his death, giving the mission back to the padres, will be displayed.

Feb. 15-18: Holtville, "Carrot Capital" in the Imperial Valley, celebrates its crop with a carnival that will include a parade of 100 entries drag and go-kart races, junior horse show, turkey shoot, midway and carrot recipe contest.

Feb. 16-25: Camel and ostrich races are to be a hilarious daily feature of the Riverside County Fair and National Date Festival at Indio. Parade of 3,500 marchers and riders on the Arabian theme slated at 10:30 a.m. Feb. 22. Gov. Eligio Esquivel of Baja California and his mariachos will join a salute to Mexico Day on Feb. 22.

Feb. 22-25: Kernville holds its Whiskey Flat Days beside Lake Isabella's trout and bass waters to recreate the Gold Rush, when the city was known as Whiskey Flat. Can-can girls will lead the parades, and costumes are authentic of Godey's Fashions of 1850-63. An epitaph contest will be conducted in Town Square.

Feb. 22-March 4: Millions of blooms will greet visitors to the 2nd annual World Flower and Garden Show in Los Angeles' Pan-Pacific Auditorium. Settings will be spectacular waterfalls; and oriental, Polynesian, modern and Dutch gardens.

Feb. 24: Temple City, a camellia raising center, holds its annual Camellia Festival, beginning with a parade at 10 a.m.

Feb. 24-25: Descanso Gardens' annual Camellia Show at which more than 100,000 camellia blooms of 800 varieties will be the attraction. (The location: La Canada.)

Feb. 24-25: The only major winter glider event in the nation will be held at Torrey Pines mesa beside the Pacific Ocean at San Diego. Three dozen top pilots will compete in altitude, aerobatics, duration, spot landing distance, and bomb dropping.

IT'S ALMOND blossom time in the Beaumont-Banning area, but this year's show is a disappointing one.

Says our old friend, Emil Wohlgemuth, Banning realtor, whose heart is close to flowers and fruits: "The trees are in bloom, sure, but the freeways and subdivisions have taken a heavy toll of the almond orchards. Those who came out our way a few

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

NORTH from Tel Aviv, the road cuts through the alkali desert that is so much of Israel.

Centuries of neglect had transformed this one-time "land flowing with milk and honey."

Two-thirds of the way to Haifa we turned off and headed between the lightly rolling hills and scrub trees towards the sea. The Mediterranean seethed and roared loudly. Then, rising from its shore, the arches of a Roman aqueduct stood against the sky, almost intact after 2,000 years.

This is Caesarea and was the capital of Herod, a once magnificent city where archaeologists have unearthed a hippodrome for chariot races, an amphitheater and some exquisite statuary on the site of a mosaic-floored court house. For hundreds of years Byzantines, Crusaders, Moslems and Turks fought for this place, and on the sea wall above the beach a Turkish fortress still stands atop Roman ruins. That's all there is, except for some chunks of Roman columns lying around.

And the country club, of course.

LONG before Herod's day, the site had been a lovely one. It became the dream of the late Baron James de Rothschild to establish here a golf course and hotel development. When he died his family pursued the project, and like everything else the Israelis say they're going to do, it is rapidly becoming a reality.

The golf club is already here, a scenic rolling course with a modern hilltop clubhouse from which most of the yardage can be seen in one sweeping glance. There are genuine Corinthian capitals for o.b. markers, and they say that at least every tenth divot has a Roman coin concealed in it.

The next step in this project is construction of a 100-

"... whether it is better to go to Tahiti by ship or by plane?"

I WOULD go by plane. Unless you're on one of the 'round-the-South Pacific cruises. (The luxury jobs are Matson and P&O-Orient Lines.) You can get in and out three times a week by plane. But the liners only stay overnight.

I'd certain consider the luxury ships, though. Tahiti can wear out on most couples in a few days. Unless you know how to relax.

For planes: South Pacific Air Lines flies, in once a week from Honolulu. Excellent service, good crews, safe planes and a fine new airport.

TAI, a French line, flies in twice—once from Honolulu, once from Los Angeles. Long-range jets, French food and service.

TEAL, the New Zealand line, comes in from Fiji via American Samoa with prop jets. Good service, good food, crews well-trained in the South Pacific. The connection line would be Pan American at Samoa.

"... some information on hotels?"

Hotel Tahiti and Hotel Taone are new and have the best food. (There's only one good place to eat in Papeete. That's Chez Chapiteau, which is a good, medium-priced French restaurant.) Hotels run about $20 a day for two with-out meals.

The Tiki Tapu is a bungalow hotel in a little better price range, $7 per day.

"... whether you need special shots or any precautions?"

No. These are healthy is-

More words cannot begin to describe the special Cruise-Tours offered by P&O-Orient Lines departing for ALASKA and the Pacific Northwest in May aboard their magnificent ocean-liners.

The luxurious cruises offer all the exciting fun and adventure of the Far West at the best time of the year—including Seattle's spectacular World Fair. Make your reservations NOW!

This is the time of the year to think of the Orient. Japan is at its best in March, April and May, with its awe-inspiring display of cherry blossoms. And Tokyo is only 15 hours away by jet.

World-wide facilities and the personal experience of our staff insures carefree travel—yours with no charge at ACME TRAVEL SERVICE, 5004 Faculty Ave., opposite Post Office in Lakewood Center. Call ME 4-2700.

lands. No malaria. Water is okay to drink. You might watch out for coral poisoning. The Tahitian cure for a coral cut is to squeeze lime juice on it and expose it to the sun for an hour or two.

"What is there to do?"

YOU CAN SWIM a little in the morning. You rent fins and a snorkel and push off without touching the bottom. There's a stone fish here. If you step on him, the spines will put you in the hospital for a month.

Shopping is just fair. Shell necklaces are the best. Lunch, take the afternoon nap and save your energy for the evening dancing. All hotels and the wild evening at Quinn's and Lafayelle. (Bar Lea is beginning to be all-Tahitian and you can get into trouble there.)

Save a couple of days and fly to Bora Bora on the flying boats—an hour and a half. The Hotel Bora Bora is luxury. The lagoon is the most beautiful in the world. This is far better than the standard overnight tour to Moorea.

One day to go around the island of Tahiti—Tahiti Nui Tours is good. Ask for Max Provost. (I'd rent a car from him. More fun to go around by yourself.)

You need transport, anyway. You can rent Vespa scooters.

However, Emil adds that cherry blossom time in mid-April will be something else again.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR is on the itinerary of the 34,000-ton luxury liner Caronia which departs New York on Jan. 25, 1963, for a 92-day, 22 port round-the-world cruise of 29,000 miles.

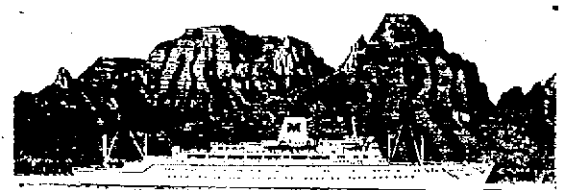

Passengers will have the opportunity to contrast the fascinating cultures of 17 countries, including Japan, Indonesia, Thailand, India, Israel and Italy, Borneo, and even Acapulco. A comprehensive program of shore excursions and inland tours at the various ports of call already is being arranged.

AIR FRANCE has ordered seven more medium range Caravelle jets for 1963 delivery, which will bring the French line's fleet of Caravelles to 40. Air France also has 17 Boeing 707s in service on its long-range routes.

Russia's Nemesis?

By Vera Williams
Independent Press-Telegram Book Editor

THE BOOK Nikita S. Khrushchev insisted the French remove from their exhibition in Moscow is now in an American edition after fabulous success on the Continent and in the Far East.

It is "CHINA AND THE SHADOW" by Tibor Mende (Coward-McCann, $5), an eyewitness of the Oriental colossus.

Mende, professor of political science at the University of Paris and an eyewitness of Red China's emergence as a modern power, describes how the Communists transformed China from a prostrate, almost colonial nation into a giant who is not only ready for a battle to-the-end with the West, but has begun to challenge Soviet Russia for leadership of the Red Revolution.

His account of China's economic failures, the brutal enslavement of 650,000,000 people and the destruction of traditional Chinese culture are so pungent and forthright that the Communists could not even tolerate its exhibition under glass.

He tells how a vast labor force was mobilized overnight to bring about an industrial-agricultural revolution under the direction of Research finds new fast way to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery

Recent research reveals fast new way to shrink hemorrhoid tissues, stop pain and itching—all without surgery. It's a combination of seven modern medications in one complete formula: The PAZO Formula.

NEW, RELIABLE RELIEF. The PAZO Formula is the only leading formula with these seven active ingredients to shrink and soothe hemorrhoid tissues. Research shows this new, superior combination brings symptomatic relief even to long-time pill sufferers.

CLINICALLY TESTED BY DOCTORS. The PAZO Formula actually proves to do more than just shrink hemorrhoids. It also relieves pain and itching promptly, fights infection, promotes healing, and lubricates membranes.

lating the West, politically and economically.

It is a frightening picture, one which many Americans will resent for different reasons, but as the London Tribune so succinctly explained . . . "It is the China with which we have to deal."

IF SEAN O'FAOLAIN had not been Irish, he never could have written "I REMEMBER 1 REMEMBER" (Atlantic-Little, Brown, $4.50). Irish fancy, Irish sensitivity, Irish love predominate in this collection of short stories. The very best, probably, are "Love's Young Dream," about an adolescent boy's reaction to two girls of different temperament, and "Two of a Kind," a Christmas eve story of a lonely, wondering sailor who chances to find his aged aunt who had run away to America years before.

HAVE A COPY in the attic of the first edition of "Narrative of the Adventures of Zenas Leonard," recounting his fur-trading with Indians in the Rocky Mountains in 1831-37?

It's worth $5,000.

Or a fine copy in original dust jacket of "Spoon River Anthology" by Edgar Lee Masters will bring up to $80.

"MORE GOLD IN YOUR ATTIC," by Van Allen Bradley, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News whose hobby is rare books (Fleet, $7.95) is a reference book and guide to 2,500 rare and valuable books. You may have some of them!

BUILDERS OF America's great 19th century fortunes were men of widely different interests and backgrounds, but they all possessed the intense desire to amass huge sums of money.

What of the men and women who inherited these fortunes?

In "THE INHERITORS" (Putnam, $5), John Tebbel lists the inheritors into three broad categories: the Wasters, who enjoy wealth for what it can buy; the Conservators and Expanders, who see money as a personal responsibility; the Lord and Ladies Bountiful, whose sense of social obligation leads them to spend money to benefit mankind.

Tebbel is the author of 14 previous books dealing largely with American dynasties.

RUTH C. IKERMAN, frequent contributor to Southland Magazine, is the author of a unique new cookbook that combines good recipes with related devotions and anecdotes. It's called "COOKING BY HEART" (Abington Press, 201 Eighth Ave. South, Nashville, Tenn. $2).

Says Mrs. Ikerman: "Most of us seem to need some type of recipe to use in our cooking. Perhaps we need some Bible verse to guide us to share with others, whether in exchange of cooking secrets with the new neighbors, or a taste treat to help someone conquer disappointment. . . Here then are some recipes along with Bible verses and prayers. May they suggest to you some ways to be happy Cooking by Heart."

BEAUTIFUL HOMES: Southland takes it readers into a different attractive Long Beach area home each week.

Brightly flowered, pelargoniums bloom for months at a time and find wide popularity as a ground cover.

YOUR GARDEN

Plantings That Check Erosion

YOU CAN minimize the erosion caused by the winter rains by planting a ground cover. This is especially true for hillside lots. Plants available are exceedingly colorful and serve both ornamental and utilitarian purpose.

Slopes, sadly enough, almost always produce a landscaping problem. They are continuously abused by the sun and wind. Cultivating them is difficult and seeds as well as seedlings are frequently washed away. An ideal solution to the problem, however, is to set out cuttings or divisions of colorful ground covers.

Mesembryanthemum, often called ice plant because of the glistening dots on the foliage, is highly valued for soil erosion control and the brilliance of the flowers. Trying to identify them botanically, however, is a hopeless task; there are close to 1,000 separate species, practically all being natives of South Africa.

THESE PLANTS are very much at home in the Long Beach area, and are perhaps more widely planted throughout Southern California as a ground cover for hillsides than any other comparable subject. They want full sun and lots of heat. The plants thrive in sterile soil and, most important of all, are drought-resistant.

By Bob Gilmore

Local nurserymen make no attempt to classify mesembryanthemum. The plants are sold according to the flower size and color; the following shades being available: orange, yellow, white, red turning to orange, crimson, rose, copper, light shell pink turning to dark rose, red, purple and lavender.

Another excellent, and exceedingly colorful, subject for slopes is the South African daisy, gazania. The plants are uniform in growth, approximating from 10 to 12 inches in height. The foliage is deep green; flowers appear in tones of yellow, white and orange.

A circle of small black dots in the center adds to their general appeal. Gazanias are sun lovers, quite hardy and well suited to dry locations.

FOR BLUE or lavender flowers, campanulas have much to offer. Variety garzanica really hugs the surface, growing just about four inches tall. It prospers in semi-shade as well as in sun. The blue flowers, which are star-shaped, cover the plants in summer and fall. A related variety, the Serbian Bellflower, offers lavender flowers and has a very spreading habit of growth.

Other colorful ground covers that succeed in this area include: trailing lantana, purple; polygonum capitatum, rose flowers contrasting with red and green foliage; lotus bertholletii, the crimson-toned "Parrot's Beak"; armeria vulgaris and pelargonium peltatum.

Try a Lawn Substitute

cover of green plants.

Many ground covers require less maintenance than do lawns. They need only occasional trimming back when they overgrow their bounds or infrequent shearing if they mound up too high. Moreover, their water requirements are considerably below those of most lawn grasses.

As a substitute for lawn, dichondra is most likely to please the man who feels there is no such thing as a lawn substitute. It forms a matting carpet that looks like lawn. Mowing isn't essential.

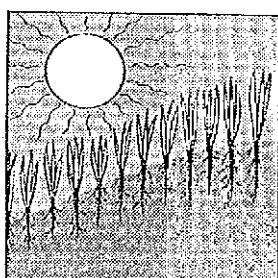

Some other close-cropped covers that can be substituted for a lawn—in fact if not in fancy—are carpet bugle, creeping thyme, ornamental strawberry and ivy. For a contour planting on a slope, a few of the covers which are adaptable are: creeping thyme, rockspray cotoneaster and old-fashioned periwinkle.

Show Will Stress Garden Ideas

Dry arrangements will bid with live flowers and foliage in displays at the World Flower and Garden Show.

By Joe Littlefield

SOME persons arrange flowers by the "book," follow specific rules of basic design and balance. Others arrange them to suit their moods or according to their innate sense of flower appreciation. Whichever way you prefer, you'll enjoy the interesting and unusual flower arrangements presented daily at World Flower and Garden Show, Feb. 22 through March 4, at Pan Pacific Auditorium, 7600 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles.

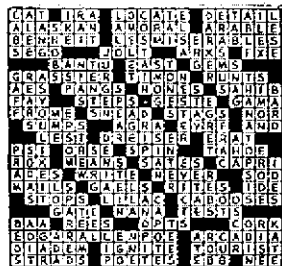

The show last year exhibited different types of landscape designed gardens to give home owners ideas how they could improve their gardens. The main thought centered on gardens for the average-size home lots, not for huge estates which are becoming fewer in number.

RIGHT NOW, however, you should get busy and finish planting bare-root roses, fruit trees, and shade trees. Some wholesale growers plant three fruit trees in large containers. This makes it easier to set out the already established trees, eliminates the home owner's decision of which fruit trees to select that grow about same size, yet bear fruit over an extended period of time. Additionally, it saves space, growing three types of fruit trees in one large hole.

We've also seen deciduous shade trees, three of same variety planted in a large container, handy for landscape planting. Check with your local nurseryman about this tree plan. If by chance they're not available in your locality, your nurseryman will help you select right kind of trees to plant, three in the same, but large hole. Trees are placed in a triangle shape and spaced from a foot to two feet apart.

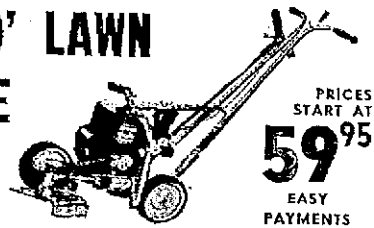

ANOTHER TRICK in saving space with a deciduous fruit tree is to dwarf it somewhat by cutting back approximately two-thirds the total length of the tree before planting it. All but three of the small side branches are removed. Those left are carefully selected in advance to start the framework of the tree. They are not all clustered within same general area on the trunk.

DON MAY
Our Neighbor's Chickens?

THIEVES broke into the Gay 90s restaurant, 2508 Palm Dr., Signal Hill, one night last week, looted a cigarette machine and jukebox, and carted off a large electronic secretary, a machine which records phone messages when the place is closed.

While police hunted for clues, proprietor Don May cracked: "My gosh, what did they want with my electronic secretary? It's pretty darn hard to hold on your lap!"

Don's sense of humor is one of the extra things the customers enjoy when they visit his two local restaurants, the Gay 90s on Signal Hill and the Leilani, 5236 E. 2nd St. The latter place, tropical in decor, specializes in fine Cantonese food, including a Celestial dinner ($7.50 for two persons) which is one of the most lavish and generous spreads in the Southland. Also featured there are such entrees as an 11-ounce teriyaki steak ($3.50) and barbecued Chinese spareribs ($2.75), served with soup du jour and large salad, baked potato or rice and beverage.

The Gay 90s is a big barn-like spot with sawdust on the floor, nickelodeons and odd-ball turn-of-the-century gimcracks hanging on the walls. Every Friday and Saturday night the Burlap Sisters (three old bags) entertain with old-time music and community singing. The menu includes a gambler's special top sirloin ($2.45), down-under Australian lobster tail ($3.45) and Our Neighbor's Chickens, fried, for $1.95. The latter is one of Don's gags. A nearby neighbor maintains numerous peacocks in his yard. Sometimes they escape and wander into the Gay 90s and Don kides his customers into thinking his delicious chicken entree is really fried peacock.

Also featured at the Gay 90s are pizza, light and dark Budweiser and Dago Red wine ("not famous but good") for 35 cents a glass.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE SUNDAY INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM, LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

And now a word for the sponsor.

Spoken by Robert Stabler, a former Long Beach newspaperboy and current president of Filmaster, Inc., producer of KITT's (channel 11) "Beachcomber" and NBC's (channel 4) "Death Valley Days."

Says Stabler:

"Selection of program choice should be returned to the advertiser with a complete disregard of how the program would effect a network's ratings.

"By the very nature of his position, the advertiser has to appeal to the biggest audience for his particular purpose. This might mean, in terms of numbers of viewers, a relatively small audience.

"But the most important thing it would mean would be better quality programs and more diversification."

What are Stabler's gripes?"

He feels that a half dozen men of the three major networks are too concerned with "alleged" ratings.

These men, not the advertisers, select and have produced programs they hope will bring them better ratings than their competitors.

The result—still according to Stabler—is that many of the programs are "pure slop." In order to achieve a high "alleged" rating, the network chieftain has had to ignore the quality of entertainment.

STABLER CITES THE defunct "Firestone Hour" as an example.

The music program was very satisfactory to the sponsor, but it didn't get high ratings. The network was unhappy with the program because its comparatively lower ratings dimmed its "showcase statistics" of more viewers than its competitors at the same prime-time hour.

So the network, not the advertiser, dropped the program.

"Any program," says Stabler, "should reflect the stature of the sponsor. The advertiser should have the right to obtain the program he thinks can best serve that stature purpose."

Who is Robert Stabler?

He was 6 years old when, with his family, he came to Long Beach in 1918. His mother, Mrs. Blanche Moore Stabler, still lives here in the Belmont Shore district.

At Lowell Elementary School, the boy was elected mayor when he was in sixth grade. The principal at the time was Douglas A. Newcomb, now superintendent of schools.

He was elected mayor at Jefferson Junior High, governor of athletics at Wilson High and captained the latter school's football team in 1935.

In his sophomore year at UCLA, Stabler was elected president of his class and suddenly found himself recipient of numerous letters from agents who wanted to book bands at campus functions.

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK had a musical sound to it. Stabler got himself a license from the American Federation of Musicians and became the nation's youngest licensed band booker. He handled 85 per cent of all social functions at UCLA.

His booking entry to the entertainment world led him to later become personal manager for such orchestra leaders as Freddie Slack, Johnny Richards, Ronnie Kemper and singer Ella Mae Morse.

He set up Capitol Records' international distribution organization with such success that he was promoted to director of advertising and public relations.

He resigned Capitol Records in 1948 when he met a man who, as a motion picture actor, had passed his peak.

The man was William Boyd who was to hit a new peak—one that surpassed the old—as television's Hopalong Cassidy.

STABLER BECAME a partner, vice president and general manager of 19 Hopalong enterprises, including the production of the TV programs which popularly rode the video range through 1951.

In 1954, after producing and selling several half-hour series,

NEW CAREER FOR CHEVALIER

Maurice Hopes for More TV Specials Like One Tonight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—"I would like to concentrate on becoming a good, new sort of actor," said the white-haired man with the enthusiasm of a teen-ager. "And to do good, warm TV shows not too often—perhaps twice a year."

The man planning a new career for himself was Maurice Chevalier, aged 73, and already well launched on a new tangent of a theatrical career that started 62 years ago.

"In 'Fanny' for the first time I did a character far away from Maurice Chevalier," said the performer, referring to the motion picture hit in which he neither sang nor wore a straw hat. "I think it was a good character and I found it enjoyable to create a man with a personality not my own. I have always played myself, and I think to add another character to that Chevalier foundation would make an interesting personality—no?"

CHEVALIER was in New York on one of those flying trips he makes several times a year to star in a television show. This one is NBC's "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," taped for a Sunday broadcast (today 7:30 p.m., channel 4).

Chevalier was a smash in "Gigi," the motion picture written by the composing team of Allen Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, who also wrote "My Fair Lady," "Brigadoon" and "Camelot."

During his stay, Chevalier lived in a suite atop a mid-town hotel. I saw him on an unseasonably warm winter's day and energetic, vigorous Chevalier was pacing up and down on a penthouse terrace singing the lyrics of Lerner-Loewe songs and admiring the view.

"It is nice," he said, breathing deep. "I like this place because it is like being at the prow of a ship coming into New York—high up and the city spread below."

WHEN THE SHOW was finished, Chevalier jetted back to London, where he has been seen in "The Castaways," a Walt Disney movie adaptation of a Jules Verne story.

"And then," said Chevalier, "back home to Paris for a rest, thank God."

For anyone, even one much younger than 73 years, the past year has been a busy one. This new career as a non-singing character actor has kept him constantly working. First there was "Fanny," followed by another film, "Jessica" (in which he plays a priest) and the Disney movie—plus a number of TV commitments.

"Between the pictures and the television," confessed Chevalier, "there has been no time for the stage, the one-man shows. But in the future I would like to get away from the stage. I would like to leave the stage at the moment when I am at the very top—now. Since World War II I have been all over the world with my one-man show and now I would like to stop traveling because it is too much work."

CHEVALIER paused and smiled.

"It seems the older I get the more affection I have for my profession. Two things are always in my first thoughts—my mother and my career. That is right. Love—you can have happy experiences in love only when it lasts a whole life. And that is usually only a mother's love and one's love of the career. The rest, with other kinds of love, must be very lucky to be happy."

Chevalier appears constantly amazed and grateful for the turn of events that gave this long career fresh impetus with the film, "Gigi."

"It seems to have brought me the affection of children all over the world," he remarked. "Young mothers tell their little ones that I am the man in 'Gigi' who thanked heaven for little girls, and the children who saw the picture think of me as a father or uncle."

AND CHEVALIER is also

gratified that he is once again closely associated with a song which racks up as a minor classic along with "Valentina," "Mimi," "Louise" and "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me."

"Thank Heaven for Little Girls" is a wonderful song and one which will be good in 50 years because it flows like pure water and is a charming idea," continued Chevalier.

What does the busy septuagenarian do when he has a few months off to rest?

"It has been a long time since I have had the time," he confessed.

"But I have a lovely home outside of Paris and when I stay home I see my friends and see the shows—I am a warm public audience and I do enjoy watching others perform, particularly the young ones."

Perhaps Chevalier's greatest thrill in recent years, however, was a series of French television shows in 1960 which showed what had happened to Paris over the years during which Chevalier has been a performer.

"It was called 'Maurice of Paris,'" he said with a proud smile. "No last name, and that was very wonderful and a great compliment, No?"

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Sponsor Needs More TV 'Voice'

Stabler formed Filmaster.

The firm's first contract was to handle the physical production of a western called "Gunsmoke." CBS-TV, which contracted for the job, was happy with the production and Filmaster turned out 156 sequences.

It also handled another western, "Have Gun, Will Travel," and later scored off the range with four dramas for "Playhouse 90."

It's all background which gives Stabler's opinions the authority of experience.

He strongly feels that the sponsor, not the network, should produce programs for television.

And he notes that such a move would not be unprecedented. For, according to him, advertisers in radio produced shows for 20 years.

SPECIAL

THE LOYAL OPPOSITION—Frank McGee narrates an hour-long examination of what a political party out of power does to get back into power at 6 p. m. on channel 4. Camera crews have spent a month covering Gov. Rockefeller, former Vice President Nixon, Sen. Goldwater, Rep. Halleck, Sen. Dirksen and GOP chairman Rep. Miller.

LERNER AND LOEWE—An hour-long musical salute to the theater and the hit composing team, at 7:30 p. m. in color on channel 4. Julie Andrews, Maurice Chevalier, Richard Burton, Robert Goulet and Stanley Holloway, all veterans of L&L musicals, will re-enact production numbers from "Brigadoon," "Gigi," "Camelot," "My Fair Lady" and others, but with the offbeat approach of numbers being sung by stars other than those most associated with them. (Incidentally, Holloway will star in a weekly comedy about an inherited butler on ABC next fall.)

THEATRE 62—Live color adaptation of the David O. Selznick movie "Spellbound" is at 10 p. m. on channel 4. Maureen O'Hara plays the Bergman role of lady psychiatrist who attempts to unlock the mystery of an amnesia victim (Hugh O'Brien in the Gregory Peck role) suspected of murder. Oscar Homolka is featured as an elderly psychiatrist.

MRS. J. F. KENNEDY . . . TV Decor Record

President's Wife Conducts TV Tour of White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy devoted her whole day recently to a television production that will show how she has done over the White House.

The First Lady, stepping over and around cables and lights, explained—while the cameras whirled—how various items of historical interest have been located and brought to the White House to give its furnishings character and authenticity.

The woman who has been responsible for it all, including repainting, repapering and refurbishing, posed for still pictures in the state dining room in front of a table set with the White House gold service for 30 people. Her plum-colored two-piece, wool dress contrasted with the off-white walls and the sculptured, light green carpet.

The program on which she will appear is scheduled for an hour on CBS and NBC Wednesday (channels 2 and 4 at 10 p.m.). It will be called "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy." CBS was authorized to shoot the TV show—the longest on which Mrs. Kennedy has appeared—on condition it share the product with other networks, White House officials said.

NEVER ARRESTED RIGHT MAN

'Mason' Policeman Plans Retirement

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)

—The most bungling cop in television soon will retire from the force.

Lt. Arthur Tragg, homicide sleuth of the "Perry Mason" show, has yet to arrest the right murderer in almost five years on the air. Each week he has rushed to the scene of the crime and invariably arrested the wrong person.

The real life Tragg would have been busted to patrolman and sent to pounding a beat in the boondocks.

Actor Ray Collins, who plays the inept Tragg, said he suspects this is the last year he will be around to annoy hero Mason "and it's just as well."

"IT'S TERRIBLE the way people stop me on the street to ask when, if ever, I'll pinch the right suspect. Others plead with me to stop being so mean to Perry."

But Tragg and/or Collins is not leaving the show because of his spotty record as a cop. His contract has expired.

"I signed a contract for five years," Collins said in his dressing room. "Now I have only two more shows to do and I won't be coming back next year. I'll miss the crew and cast."

"Ray (Perry Mason) Burr is like a son to me. The whole show is like one big family."

Collins, a veteran of 56 years in show biz, said he did not like to have viewers think of him as a heavy in the series.

* * * *

"I TRIED to get over the idea that Tragg liked and admired Mason," he sighed. "But at the same time Tragg had to be severe with him when Perry was up to his monkeyshines."

Perhaps the least professional element of TV's Tragg was the amount of time he sat around in court listening to Mason win cases instead of rounding up crooks.

Now that he is leaving the highly rated series, Collins plans to appear in a few movies and accept one-shot television roles.

The white-haired oldtimer has more than enough experience to qualify him for acting jobs. He has appeared in 78 major movies in addition to playing 900 roles in the theater.

* * * *

"SOME ACTORS worry about the character they play in a series," Collins grinned. "A lot of them might have been upset by the fact that Tragg was such an obvious bungler. But not me."

"I got a pay-check every week regardless of how many innocent people Tragg threw in jail."

"However, I did think Bill Talman (who plays DA Hamilton Burger in the show) should win a few cases. It would lend more suspense to the series. As it is, there never is any doubt that Perry Mason will win."

Maybe with another cop on the show, poor Talman will have better luck.

RAY COLLINS . . . Leaving TV Series

KAREN Steele portrays a swimsuit designer during 'Surfside 6' at 9 p.m. Monday, channel 7. She appears on the eve of an important buyers' meeting.

Yvonne De Carlo Stars in 'Follow the Sun'

Yvonne De Carlo wants no part of a television series in which she would be playing a "shady lady."

The sultry actress and Dennis O'Keefe co-star again today (Sunday) in a "Follow the Sun" drama at 7:30 p.m., channel 7.

They initially appeared together on the program last Nov. 5. She portrayed a former "B-Girl" and Dennis had the role of an ex-Marine.

The episode was such a success that the producers brought them back as the same characters for tonight's presentation.

THE PRODUCERS also started dreaming of a "spin-off," the process of developing a new television series from characters introduced in an old one.

But Miss De Carlo, who has played girls and women of fairly easy virtue in many a film, isn't spinning over the TV series' prospects.

"I just wouldn't be interested in doing a whole series in which I'd be playing a shady lady," she said. "Not even an ex-shady lady."

"Besides, I wouldn't be interested in co-starring with a man in a TV series—it would only be a little while before it became his series. That's the way it is in TV—the men get all the important breaks."

"A friend of mine explained that it was because women watch TV more than men—and they'd rather look at guys than dolls."

So Miss De Carlo will stick to making movies, and currently is hoping to get a lead in a new musical comedy slated for Broadway.

JACKIE Loughery, who won the Miss U. S. A. title in Long Beach's first International Beauty Congress in 1952, has the role of Jenny Hartfield on "Wagon Train" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4.

SPECIAL

MAN IN ORBIT — Scheduled at press time for approximately 4:30 a.m., liftoff of John Glenn will be covered by all three networks. Coverage will continue for about 6 hours during orbits and recovery. Channels 2, 4 and 7 will join the countdown at 3:30 a.m. If shot takes place, CBS will have a special review at 9:30 p.m. on channel 2.

HOWARD K. SMITH — Premiere. In first of his weekly series, former CBS newsmen will analyze and compare the relative strengths of the U. S. and Russia in propaganda and youth education. Guests, at 7:30 p.m. on channel 7, are author Arthur Trace and another former CBS newsmen, Edward R. Murrow, now director of the USIA.

WHITE HOUSE TOUR — Jackie Kennedy and Charles Collingwood escort viewers on an hour-long tour of the principal rooms on the ground, first and second floors of the White House, at 10 p.m. on channels 2 and 4. President Kennedy also will appear briefly. The CBS-taped show was made available to other networks at a request of the White House, but ABC turned down the $60,000 pro rata cost. (Show will be repeated Sunday, March 25, at 4 p.m. on CBS.)

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ TV Family Comedy Situation Bears Watching - - Or Does It?

By DICK KLEINER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—The coming of the family situation comedy show, "Room For One More," gives rise to a big question which troubles TV brass:

Is there really room for one more? Situation comedies are one of the most popular forms of TV entertainment. Whenever a new comedian or a stage or film personality is considered for a TV series, the first suggestion is always a situation comedy built around a family.

This year we've had variations on that theme starring Robert Young, Dick Van Dyke, Robert Sterling, Joey Bishop, Gertrude Berg, Bob Cummings, Cynthia Pepper, Shirley Booth, Peggy Cass and Leon Ames—to say nothing of a bunch of chipmunks, pussy cats and bears.

THE PROBLEM which confronts TV creative people is how to keep varying the basic situation. This season, we've had imaginative switches such as the family moving to the country, the father being a gag-writer, the setting moved back to the '20s, the focus being on the maid, the children being chimpanzees, etc.

But the variations are beginning to run out. Paul Lynde of the Perry Como Show says he's been offered dozens of shows, but they're all basically alike—everybody wants him to play a father who is a nut. He finally grabbed one where the father is OK, but the son-in-law is a nut. At least it hasn't been done before.

And so, as a service to TV executives, we here present a group of family situations which are new to television, and could become series material:

THE HEARTHSIDES. This is a typical family next door. Mommy and Daddy hate each other. Dear old Dad has been arrested six times for disturbing the peace when he belted Mom with (1) a frying pan, (2) a sauce pan, (3) a fresh mackerel, (4) a hockey stick, (5) a copy of the federal budget and (6) Junior. Mom, of course, fights back with courage. Suggested for the leads: Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds.

LIFE WITH FODDER. A nice, rural affair, set in the farm country. The emphasis will be on the young son and his pet puma. The animal's name is Grrr, and he follows the boy to school every day and eats the teacher. It's tough on the town's educational budget, but it makes an appealing story. Suggested to play the boy: Mickey Rooney.

THE FOLKS DOWN THE STREET. A perfect vehicle for a young starlet, this is the tender story of a teenage girl reaching womanhood in a typical American village. Clarice is 16 and never been kissed. Except by the boys in her senior class, a few juniors, the volunteer firemen, the Elks and Moose and the United States Army. We watch her first romances, her growing-up, her tender young breach of promise suits. Suggested for the lead: Barbara Stanwyck.

MOLLY AND ME. Here we have a young married couple, troubled by in-laws, beset by debts, concerned over whether to put chintz or poplin curtains in the fallout shelter. In short, average American kids. The gimmick is that Molly is a professional football player. Can she give up the thrill of the game for the quiet of a vine-covered slum? Suggested for the leads: Margaret O'Brien and Al Hirt.

THE FIVE OF US. This deals with a widow and her four daughters, bravely trying to make their way in a cruel world. The mother, who once sang at La Scala, now takes in laundry to make a living for her beautiful brood. The only trouble is she has no tub, so has to do the wash in a fish bowl. Hankies are OK, but sheets are a nuisance. Suggested for the lead: Zsa Zsa Gabor.

These, or reasonably accurate facsimiles, will all be on the home screen next fall. All you do is take an existing show, and twist it a bit. The TV brass need not worry—there will always be room for one more.

☞ Pan and Fan Mail ☜

I miss live TV.

It wasn't as slick and polished as it is now, but it had an excitement, an aura about it that furnished its own entertainment.

Even if a play wasn't good, it was worth watching. There was always the chance they would drop the cups or one of the actors who obviously arrived "partially pickled" would furnish amusement.

That may not be the right way to look at it, but it was fun.

E. Penasa, Westminster

I like live TV too, but partially pickled actors and dropping cups don't help make a bad play good—just worse.

I feel I should put in my two cents worth on the "Herschel Bernardi" idea of having only six hours of TV a day and monthly series.

I—and a half dozen of my relatives agree with me—think it would be a rotten idea.

There are a lot of people that can't go anywhere and, if it wasn't for TV, it would be rough on them.

They could go back to rocking and looking at the four walls.

I think a series that only came on once a month would be ridiculous. I hope you get thousands of these letters. TV isn't just for kids.

Vera Olson, Long Beach

I think it's a rotten idea too. Sounds like a sneaky plot to get rid of television columnists.

Since David Brinkley is so fond of tongue-twisters, why doesn't he try this one?

"Betty Batter bought some butter, but she said this butter is bitter and when I put it in my batter, it makes all of my better batter bitter. So she bought some better butter to put in her bitter butter batter to make all of her bitter butter batter better."

Miss Janet Thomas, Lakewood

OK, Janet. Now let's see you do it with oleo.

*****

There ought to be a law.

You wait all week for a good science fiction thriller and then two of the best thrillers are on at the same time.

Unsigned, Lakewood Postmark

You sound as bitter as Betty's batter.

*****

Have just been reading about the return of "The Law and Mr. Jones."

I was not in a position to see that program, but for months I was able to see and enjoy "Number Please" on ABC-TV at 2 p.m. week days.

This program, which I enjoyed as an intellectual challenge and considered educational as well as entertaining, was removed from programming and re-runs of Jane Wyman's program substituted.

I feel "Number Please" should be brought back in a better time slot where more of the family viewers could see it.

JOANNA BARNES and Fred Astaire admire a million-dollar doll that started as a doodle on his scratch pad during 'Alcon Premiere' at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 7. He portrays a business executive and she is his secretary.

Could you possibly do the same for this worthy program and bring it back like you did "The Law and Mr. Jones?"

Helen R. Allen, Long Beach

I didn't bring it back, Helen. The viewers did. And not enough viewers have complained about the removal of "Number Please." It looks like number up.

Hoot Gibson Berates TV Cowboys

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One-time cowboy star Hoot Gibson's cryptic criticism of modern television western stars:

"Trouble is, none of them wear spurs anymore."

Gibson, now 69, who was once top box-office among the hayburner set, is recuperating from surgery for an intestinal obstruction.

The "Hooter," says he always used a cow pony to ride, rather than a trick horse.

"When I went plunging down a hill, I wanted to be sure I had a horse that would get me to the bottom," Gibson said.

Gibson's career began as a stunt man in 1910 and lasted until the early 1940s. Before he hit it rich in Hollywood, he was an honest-injun cowpoke, running wild horses from Nevada to California markets.

Gibson now lives in Las Vegas where he is promoting an 18,000-acre development on the California-Nevada border.

PERSONALITY PARADE

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. I have heard that Hollywood is making a movie of Somerset Maugham's Of Human Bondage and that Marilyn Monroe is to have the role of Mildred. Is this fact or rumor?—Joanne Randall, Saco, Me.

A. Twentieth Century-Fox is toying with the idea of a re-make but there is some doubt as to whether Miss Monroe is capable of essaying so dramatic a role. She is more a comedienne.

Q. What is the authoritative opinion of Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery as a general? I understand he was a phony, built up as a morale sop for the British public in World War II.—L. Randall, Sacramento, Calif.

A. There are two major opinions on Montgomery's generalship. One holds him as one of the greatest generals of modern times. The other holds that General Auchinleck was the true hero of El Alamein, that Monty was responsible for the Dieppe blunder, the sacrifice of British paratroops at Arnhem, lack of forcefulness at Caen. One of the few things military historians agree on is that the American generals who fought alongside Monty in France considered him an outrageous "ham."

Q. Did Lenin ever say that war between the capitalist and Communist states was inevitable?—Fred Gershon, Newark, N.J.

A. Yes, he laid down that doctrine in his writings.

Q. Is there any hint of romance between actress Joan Fontaine and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Adlai Stevenson?—Melody Marshall, Springfield, Va.

A. No romance between these two — just a pleasant friendship based on mutual fondness and respect.

Q. Is it true that Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's Communist boss, is the most popular figure on Italian television?—Bernard Gerber, Newark, N.J.

A. One of the most popular TV shows in Italy is a special program called "Political Forum," featuring the country's various politicians. Togliatti, a veteran orator, always does well on this particular show, but in Italy the 2,500,000 people who own TV sets are mostly from the upper and middle classes and politically do not care for Togliatti. More than 50 per cent of the TV audience in Italy do not own TV sets, however. These people go to the nearest cafe for their viewing. They are in the lowest economic and educational bracket, and it is they who are most fond of Togliatti.

Q. Would you please tell me how old Olivia de Havilland is?—D.M., Postville, Iowa.

A. 45.

Q. What is Yves Montand's real name, and where was he born?—E. Nostrand, Houston, Tex.

A. Montand was born Ivo Livi in Monsumano, Tuscany, Italy, on October 13, 1921.

Q. Since the Korean War, how many U.S. draftees have been rejected for physical or mental disabilities?—Allen Unger, Miami, Fla.

A. According to John F. Hillyard, D.C. Director of Selective Service System, 2,596,788 registrants were examined at armed forces examining stations between August 1953 and October 1961. Of this number, 1,051,495 or 40 per cent were found unacceptable.

Q. Was Barbara Burns estranged from her mother when she recently committed suicide, and hadn't her father, Bob Burns, left her a large inheritance when he died?—E. Lambert, Lake Oswego, Ore.

A. Barbara hadn't seen her mother since 1957, had dissipated approximately $20,000 inherited from her father in 1956.

Q. Once and for all, do the people in Russia have bomb shelters or don't they?—Karl Ebeling, Washington, D. C.

A. Harrison Salisbury, former Moscow correspondent of the New York Times, recently traveled 12,000 miles through the Soviet Union and "failed to turn up evidence of a single Soviet bomb shelter." American reports of a large Soviet shelter program are based mainly on several studies by Dr. Leon Goure of the Rand Corporation who traveled through Russia in the summer of 1960, saw with "my own eyes bomb shelters in nine different Russian cities." Dr. Goure's recent book, Civil Defense in the Soviet Union, offers further evidence of the Russian bomb shelter program.

Q. Is it true that there will be a television tour of the White House in the near future with Jackie Kennedy showing the changes she has made in decor?—Mrs. Madeline Tyler, Portland, Me.

A. True. Scheduled for broadcast this Wednesday, it will be the first TV showing of the White House since 1952 when President Truman displayed results of a three-year renovation of the executive mansion.

Have you discovered artichoke hearts?

When you eat a fresh artichoke, it takes about ten minutes to get down to the tender heart. But blessings upon us, Birds Eye now brings you the hearts right off—frozen so you can enjoy them all year long. ■ Taken only from the choicest of artichokes, Birds Eye hearts are always a tender green delight. To fix, simply boil them gently for 7 to 12 minutes. Serve hot with butter, or chill in a marinade of oil and vinegar, as we have here. ■ Another idea: dip hearts into batter and bread crumbs seasoned with Parmesan cheese, then fry in  $\frac{1}{4}$ " of hot oil until crisp. ■ With all Birds Eye products, by the way, the idea is extra quality. That's why—Better Buy Birds Eye.

bringing up baby*

Hints collected
by Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

Sudden rebellion in the ranks? Even the best-behaved baby feels the need to rebel from time to time. And why not? A baby is a human being, entitled to a few human quirks. (Besides, this show of spirit means he's growing up.) So when your baby occasionally refuses to go along with his regular mealtime or naptime schedule, try to relax and let him relax before you feed or bed him down. If you don't force the issue, it will be easier to get baby back on schedule the next time around.

Baby will relish regular mealtimes if they're kept "looking-forward-to" times. The needed ingredients? A smiling atmosphere. A goodly variety of Gerber Strained Foods. There are more than enough to keep baby's mealtimes zestful.

Variety review with a delicious point of view. Gerber Strained Foods offer plenty of range for menu change. 10 luscious fruits, 9 garden-good vegetables, 9 savory meats, 5 extra flavor-y high meat dinners, 10 tasty vegetable-meat dinners, 4 scrumptious desserts, 6 fruit-licious juices. Each one designed with a specific nutritional need in mind. Sample menu made for lip-smacking:

Four tips to tame a rock-a-bye rebel.

(1) Nothing quite so relaxing as a rocking chair session. (2) A lullaby, sweet and low, still "hath charms to soothe." (3) A favorite cuddle toy somehow makes a crib seem cozier. (4) Grandmother offered a spot of warm milk to encourage drowsiness. Works today, too.

Specialties of the house. Don't forget these special foods for your baby: Gerber Strained Egg Yolks—delicate in flavor custard-y in texture, high in iron and vitamin A. Gerber Teething Biscuits—extra-hard to soothe tender gums, specially shaped for easy grasping. Gerber Cookies for toddlers—animal-shaped for fun, twice as much protein as most other cookies, B-vitamins in the icing.

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business...
our only business!"

CHICAGO. When is a woman most attractive? It all depends on your economic group. Professor Ernest Burgess of the University of Chicago, who conducted a 10-year study on aging and the aged, revealed recently that the wealthy American woman believes she is most attractive at 35, most confident at 38, in her prime at 40, old at 70. Women with less money believe they are most attractive at 25, most confident at 35, in their prime at 40, and old at 65.

SANTA MONICA. The Rand Corporation, Aerospace, and other "think factories" employed by the military are going "nuts" trying to solve this one: In the next 10 years more and more nations will have the nuclear bomb capability. In 1970, for example, suppose a submarine emerges from the Atlantic, fires an atomic bomb on Washington, D.C., submerges and scoots away. It could be a Chinese, Russian, Polish, or Arab sub. On which country do we retaliate?

MONTREAL. Scant mention in the American press, but for more than a year now, Quebec, Canada's French-speaking province, has talked independence and separatism. In Quebec, the Union Jack is regularly torn down, slogans for independence are scrawled on roadside rocks, groups of fighting young men shout for separation from Canada. They claim Quebec is Catholic and French, loses money in taxes paid to Ottawa; they want to decide for themselves whether or not to permit Bomarc bases on their territory. The Canadian Government looks the other way at all this commotion, hopes somehow it will magically disappear. It won't.

PANAMA. This country has become a haven for tax-dodging American corporations. More than 200 have set up offices here. Panama has no excess profits or capital gains taxes, and it does not tax profits that a Panama-based company makes on the outside. In addition, none of the officials or directors of a company has to live here. In the U.S., corporate profits are taxed at 52 per cent, and the dividends the corporation pays out to stockholders are then taxed again at individual rates.

HOW WE OUTSMART RED SPIES

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON.

ONE DAY last fall, a U.S. State Department official entered an office in one of our embassies behind the Iron Curtain. He strolled to the window, opened the blinds and stood looking into the street. Next he turned back to the desk and set an official-looking document on it.

Across the street, in a room two floors higher than the office, a crouching man watched eagerly. He lifted a pair of binoculars and studied man and document. Then he picked up a camera with a cannon-like telephoto lens, trained it on the desk, and began to photograph in precise detail the U.S. secret document.

It might have been a tremendous coup for Red spying—except for one flaw. The secret document was not a secret document. Wise to the ways of the Reds, the State Department man had carefully set a trap. He had planted a phony paper full of misinformation to mislead and confuse the spy's bosses.

This incident was only a phase in one of the deadliest, grimmest, most everlasting battles of the cold war. Every day, in all parts of the world, Communist spies are doggedly trying to penetrate our diplomatic posts, aiming with ingenuity and electronics to ferret out our vital secrets and steal our crucial documents. And every day, American agents are employing their wits and technology to protect them.

The real scope of this struggle for safeguarding secrets is little-known. It is being carried on by unheralded, highly-skilled counter-spies in the State Department Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs. This group of expert operatives works quietly, effectively, undercover in all corners of the globe. The true nature of their work and the dramatic history of their victories are being disclosed here for the first time.

Eighteen months ago, the American public got one of its rare inklings of this incessant warfare. Henry Cabot Lodge, then Ambassador to the United Nations, displayed to that body a replica of the Great Seal of the United States given to our Ambassador in Moscow by the Soviets. Lodge showed how Red agents had fitted it with a listening device.

This remarkable transmitter had no wires, no battery, and no power source. The Reds beamed an electronic signal at it from a distance. When someone in the room spoke, a diaphragm vibrated and modulated the signal. These modulations traveled back over the beam and could be "read" at the other end.

But it can now be revealed that security agents have discovered 129 more listening devices in embassies abroad in the past ten years. They are being turned up regularly, all over the world. They are found in embassies, consulates, even homes and apartments.

In Moscow not long ago, for example, the U.S. military attaché suspected his home had been bugged. He tore up a parquet floor and found four microphones, which he disconnected. Then he went on vacation. When he came back, he checked the floor again. All four mikes had been re-connected.

In Warsaw the U.S. Embassy moved into temporary quarters while a new building was being constructed. In the first half hour of occupancy, employees found two concealed microphones. In the next two days, they ripped out 17 more.

In Budapest, U.S. Chargé d'Affaires Horace B. Torbert Jr. has been forced to move his desk away from a window (see photo) because camera-armed spies were brazenly checking papers on his desk.

In San Jose, capital of Costa Rica, and in Nicosia, Cyprus—both supposedly friendly countries—agents found that embassy telephones had been tapped. Domestic Communists were believed responsible.

These cases of eavesdropping were relatively easy to detect because they were so blatant. But no one knows how many other microphones may still be operating. Security agents won't talk, but it is believed they know of many mikes into which they feed false information. Some indication of the size of the problem, however, can be gained from the bureau's appropriation. The State Department this year is spending $1 million to develop and purchase acoustical equipment to combat spying. And the bureau is increasing the size of its overseas staff to meet the mounting threat.

The spy threat is characterized by remarkable ingenuity and great sophistication. Spies and counter-spies no longer are quick-triggered men in slouch hats and belted trench coats. Rather, they are extremely gifted electronics experts, who have attained pioneering heights in miniaturization and concealment.

In one embassy, spies tucked a tiny receiver-transmitter into a doorknob. Operated by remote control from outside the embassy, this gadget could pick up conversations within the U.S. Ambassador's office and relay them to a listening post ten blocks away. The Reds could even turn the set off and on by radio signal.

In another instance, a transmitter was concealed inside the valve of a steam radiator. The device was sealed against moisture, and wires ran through the radiator and pipes to the furnace and then into a nearby building. And the radiator still functioned perfectly, so that no one would ever suspect.

One of the most common places to hide an electronic ear is a desk telephone. "The telephone is a very dangerous instrument," says the director of security, William O. Boswell. "You're so close to it all the time and it can be so easily tapped or bugged."

Boswell today is experimenting with a new device which would cancel out a mike hidden in a telephone. This gadget puts a constant low buzz into the mouthpiece and earpiece and drowns out conversation in the room. The buzz stops when the phone is lifted. (Surprisingly, agents say the phone is much less dangerous when in use. Personnel are trained to consider it bugged and to be on guard when they are talking.)

Even outside the embassies, secrets are not always safe. Reds now have a directional microphone that can be aimed like a rifle and can pick up conversation 200 feet away—even in a moving car.

Because of the spying threat, embassy employees must keep under constant surveillance all repair workers, all janitorial and maintenance employees, even routine visitors. They must carefully screen all foreign employees. In Iron Curtain nations, they must assume that all foreign employees are unsafe.

Last fall, Hungarian workmen were hired to put a new roof on the U.S. Legation in Budapest. One legation employee was obliged to stay on watch at all times to make sure no microphones were hidden.

In another Iron Curtain country, plasterers imbedded a microphone in a wall, covered it with a "breathing" plaster which allowed sounds to filter

IN BUDAPEST

IN MOSCOW

Eavesdropping eagle, which once hung in our Moscow embassy, was shown UN Security Council by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as evidence of Red spying. Cutaway shows how ingenious listening device was installed in the seal.

through. In still a third satellite, workers repainting the embassy exterior drilled a hole from outside, installed a microphone flush with the exterior wall.

But of all problems security agents face, the toughest is construction of new embassies in Iron Curtain lands. John Iams, an engineering technician, explains: "When they are doing the building, they have two or three or even four years to decide where they will put these things. They can cement them right in and spend as much time as they want to check them out and make sure they're working."

"For instance, they can build a building out of reinforced concrete, and hide their microphones behind the reinforcing rods. Then a metal detector, for instance, isn't much help to us."

How do security agents discover hidden microphones and other espionage inside our embassies? This is one of the world's best-kept secrets. The Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs has no comment. Some devices undoubtedly are stumbled upon by accident. Others are tracked down by the bureau's top-drawer technicians and complex equipment. But it is also believed the bureau is aided by a web of informers. For in spite of electronics and technology, counter-espionage still relies heavily on people.

Franistan on the Porterway

Thus—as two Embassy officials recently discovered in an Iron Curtain country—some of the most ancient arts still play a role in counter-intelligence. While in a public restaurant, the two found themselves under close scrutiny by a known Red agent. They concluded that he was lip-reading their conversation. They switched to double-talk and watched the bewilderment spread across the man's face.

"I wonder," said one of the Americans later, "how he explained to his boss the meaning of 'Franistan Double Truck on the Porterway.'"

Security men cite this example to show that the best weapons against espionage are alertness and loyalty of personnel. As the State Department agency most concerned with protection of our secrets—among the myriad other duties of the bureau are investigation of passport and visa frauds, munitions control, security of codes and couriers, safeguarding foreign dignitaries and personnel security—the bureau also trains State Department employees to be aware of espionage and guard against it.

"We can cope with the gadgets, no matter how complex they become," says Belton (Buck) Bryan, deputy administrator of the bureau. "But in the final analysis our security rests with people. Let me give you a case in point."

"An American girl clerk in one of our West German offices fell in love with a man she believed to be a U.S. businessman. She received a telephone call from him one day saying he was in a hospital in East Berlin. When she visited him, he asked her to deliver a roll of film to West Berlin."

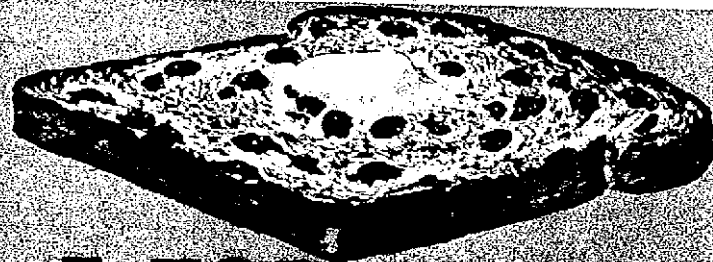

"Just outside the hospital she was picked up by Communist intelligence agents. They told her that her fiancé was an American spy. The price of his life was her cooperation in obtaining American secrets. She pretended to cooperate, but went instead to State Department security officers."

"We immediately investigated. The heartbroken girl learned that her fiancé was not a businessman but an extremely clever Red agent."

"She made a mistake, and she knew it," says Bryan. "Today her file shows an error for allowing herself to be entrapped. But there's also a commendation for courage and loyalty to the United States. She's still with us, and we're proud of her."

SUPPOSE you'd been earning $4,000 to $5,000 a week for years. Suddenly you were fired and no one would hire you at any figure remotely comparable to your previous salary. What would you do? How would you feel?

Ten years ago, when she was 29, screen star Linda Darnell found herself in that awkward and depressing predicament.

After 14 years at 20th Century-Fox, in which she'd starred in such films as Forever Amber, Anna and the King of Siam, My Darling Clementine, A Letter to Three Wives, and dozens of others, she was dropped along with Betty Grable, Jeanne Crain, Anne Baxter, Mitzi Gaynor, Terry Moore. The reason for the wholesale firings was television. In the early 1950s when TV was a novelty, people stopped going to the movies, and the studios were compelled to dump their high-salaried stars.

"No one expects to last forever in this business," Linda declares. "And you know that sooner or later when they can't use you, the studio's going to let you out. But still, when it comes, it's always a shock. After all, who wants to be retired at 29?"

"In my particular case, it was even more difficult, because at the time I was getting a divorce from my first husband, Pev Marley. Some actresses when they get dropped just hide out with their husbands until the storm blows over and times get better, but Pev and I had called it quits. So there I was with neither career nor husband.

"In addition the only thing I knew how to do was to be a movie star.

"I guess I could have gone into television and done a series," Linda continues, "but back then they weren't offering us the money we'd gotten in films, and besides I had a 4-year-old girl I'd adopted, and I just didn't want to do a TV series and work every day.

"I also thought that in a little while I'd get offers from other motion picture studios, but not many of them came along."

Mrs. Rheingold of 1954

What did come along for Linda, however, was an offer of marriage from Philip Liebmann, head of Rheingold Beer. They were married in 1954, but the marriage lasted little more than two years "because," Linda explains. "Philip wanted me to be a wife and hostess and give up my career, and I just didn't want to do that. After awhile performing gets into your blood. Being a hostess for Rheingold Beer just wasn't my idea of a happy life. I wanted to do some TV and stage work and movie work, and Phil was against it, so we got divorced and I married Robbie [Merle Robertson, a pilot for American Airlines].

"Robbie and I have been married for five years now, and anything I want to do is fine with him. And what I've wanted to do is to put together a night club act."

The act, which Linda introduced in Juarez, Mexico, last year with tenor Wayne Tucker supporting her, is primarily a musical one. To date, it's met with a fair response. Originally Linda started the act with a dramatic monologue from Mary, Queen of Scots. This is not exactly the type of act-opener night-clubbers are clamoring to see. In fact, one Las Vegas customer who caught her as Mary Queen of Scots shouted, "Off with her head." The act has been rewritten, however, stepped up to a more lively pace, and consists largely of Linda and Tucker singing duets and doing clever routines.

Linda then and now: above, the movie actress at 15 when she came to Hollywood; left, the nightclub performer of today.

Linda gets $10,000 a week for the act in Las Vegas and less elsewhere, and hopes to take it out on the road again unless she can make a few motion pictures in Italy—"a country I love and where I've already done two pictures."

As she approaches 40, Linda Darnell is reconciled to the fact that the Hollywood that once gave her stardom has disappeared for all time.

"Things are different," she says. "The big studios are dying, and of course, I'm sad. But after all, I've been very lucky."

Sunset Semester

"I came out to Hollywood from Dallas when I was only 14, the daughter of a poor clerk in the Dallas post office. I think I had one semester in Sunset High School and that's all. I had no great talent, and I never really wanted to be a movie star. But my mother had always wanted it for herself, and I guess she just projected through me. I have an older sister, Evelyn, who lives in Pasadena now. Mother started working on her for an acting career, but Evelyn was too smart or too lazy, I don't know which.

"I was more obedient, so mother had me modeling when I was 12 and working as a greeter at the fairs and expositions, and she really shoved me along. Spotting me in one contest after another. I was going to become a movie star, or Mom was going to bust in the attempt.

"I came out to Hollywood three times, and twice they sent me home because I was too young, but the third time I won a Jesse Lasky Talent Scout Contest and made the grade. I became a full-fledged screen star and worked my way up to $5,000 a week and then out.

"Now I'm trying a new branch of the business, supper clubs. You see, old movie stars never die. Like General MacArthur we just fade away, but I've still got a long way to go for the final fadeout."

GROTON, CONN.

AT A BUSY CORNER ON U.S. 1 here recently, a woman in a pink sedan cut sharply in front of a woman in a red car. There was a quick squeal of tires.

It was enough to make most drivers furious. The woman in the red car hit her brakes, stopped suddenly and then, instead of glaring, smiled sweetly at the woman who had cut her off.

A surprised policeman, Officer Charles Thompson, saw it all, jumped into his patrol car and shot off in pursuit. But he didn't chase the confused driver who caused the mixup. Instead, he went straight for the woman who had smiled so pleasantly.

At a safe place, he waved her to a stop. She looked surprised, then anxious. "Did I do something wrong?"

"No ma'am," replied Thompson. "You did something so right that you've just won yourself a pink ticket."

The driver, Jeannette Laprade, a beauty salon owner, looked dumfounded. "We're giving tickets now to good drivers, too," Thompson told her. "You not only made a good stop back there, but you showed great courtesy."

He affixed the "ticket," a small pink sticker, to her window. It read:

COURTEOUS DRIVER AWARD

Presented by the Police Department

Today, tickets like these are being issued all over America. Some 200 towns and cities now make it a policy to give good drivers a pat on the back. Some award pink window stickers. Others send the driver a letter signed by the police chief.

Fast-growing Groton (atomic submarines are built here) once had a bad auto accident record. But in three years since it began hunting for good drivers as well as bad ones (as part of an intensive safety campaign) it has soared to eighth safest of 244 U.S. towns with over 30,000 population.

Groton runs its safety drives for two weeks at a time and about six months apart. After each drive, according to Police Chief John Scroggins, there is a noticeable drop in accidents.

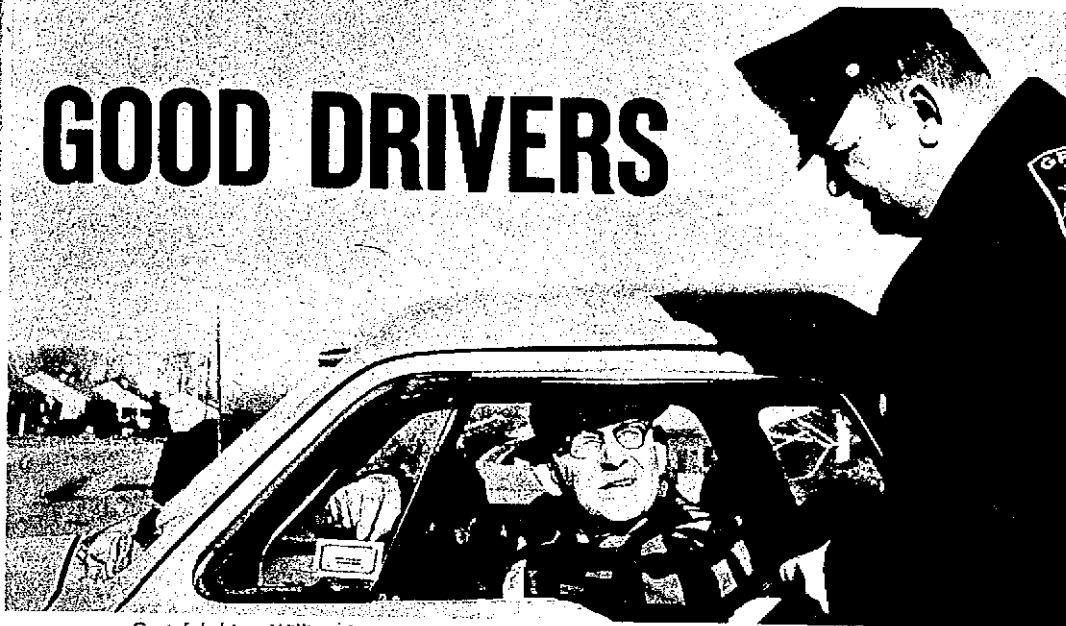

Apparently drivers are on their mettle during campaigns because a high standard of behavior constantly is being set. To date, more than 100 awards have been given (and winners' names have appeared in area newspapers). Only one has ever been refused.

What kinds of people and traffic situations produce

Beaming Jeannette Laprade gets sticker from Officer Charles Thompson. She stopped, didn't blow up when driver cut her off.

GOOD DRIVERS

Grateful driver William Simons points to courtesy award given him by Officer Walter Swan.

courtesy awards? To find out, I rode for two days with Groton police. Here's a taste of what I witnessed:

- Several cars shot by two pedestrians trying to cross a busy lane. But Fred Davis, a welder, came along, stopped and waved them across. "You've just won this," Officer Thompson told the baffled Davis and handed him his pink ticket.
- A driver trying to pull out of a gas station waited in vain to get onto U.S. 1. A line of cars had stopped and no one was letting him in. But Mrs. Thomas A. Bryce, of Richmond, Va., did. She got a pink ticket from Officer Walter Swan, who told her, "That was about the nicest courtesy one driver could pay another."

- Westbound on U.S. 1, we saw a life saved. John Anderson, a salesman, was driving alone when a puppy popped into the road. Anderson hit the brakes and the pup scampered to safety in a field. After presenting the award, Chief Scroggins told Anderson, "That could have been a child's life." The salesman beamed proudly.

Most drivers were delighted, surprised and enthusiastic at receiving their awards.

One Chamber of Commerce official, we learned afterwards, was so astonished that he phoned police headquarters to make sure that it wasn't a joke.

Some drivers were ready to argue until they found they were being commended, not ticketed for violations.

One woman, who got an award after avoiding a crash, commented, "Just wait until my husband comes home to supper! He says I'm a terrible driver. I'll ask him, 'Did you ever get one of these?'"

Caution and Courtesy

Drivers agree generally that the campaign actually has improved driving practices. I saw lots of people approach crosswalks with extraordinary care. I saw a good many people let others pass in situations that could have resulted in traffic jams. In addition, I saw many instances in which common courtesy to pedestrians became the rule rather than the exception.

And I saw some drivers who had gained that extra sense of impending danger that can prevent catastrophe.

One Groton motorist saw a car coming up behind him. "He's coming pretty fast," the first driver thought. "I'll pull off the road, just in case."

As he did so, the car roared right through a red light. An officer caught the offender, who obviously was drunk.

Officer Swan gave the cautious driver a sticker and told him, "You not only saved his neck, but your own, too."

The driver smiled. "Funny thing," he said, "Until you began this campaign, I never would have thought of checking my mirror to see how some other guy was going to make out."

VITAMINS

A recent public service study of Patent Medicines in one of New York's leading evening newspapers, devoted one entire installment to VITAMINS and disclosed many interesting highlights about the sale of Vitamins and Vitamin-Mineral combinations.

One of the startling revelations in this frank article was the wide variance of Vitamin prices.

The following three paragraphs taken from the series, as it appeared, are of particular concern to every family buying Vitamins.

"Any particular vitamin bottled under one label is, for all practical and therapeutic purposes, the same as if it bottled under another label. The fact is, most of the Vitamin concentrates consumed in America are produced by only a few companies.

"The list of ingredients in a Vitamin compound is one thing the consumer can almost always depend on to be correct. Any company which fails to label the bottle with the exact formula and amount (or unit strength) of each ingredient risks a seizure by the U. S. Government.

"Bearing that in mind, it is interesting to pick up a few Vitamin catalogs and compare the prices charged by different companies for the same Vitamin compounds."

Following publication of the installment we received hundreds of phone calls requesting copies of the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

This interest prompted us to tell the entire nation our story.

Hudson Vitamin Products has been serving doctors and nurses for over 25 years and now you, too, can purchase your Vitamins DIRECT from Hudson at savings up to 50% and more. Page after page in the Free Hudson Catalog shows tremendous dollar savings on Vitamins, Vitamin-Mineral combinations and Food Supplements.

Here is one example from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog: A very popular multiple vitamin that is taken once-a-day, regularly sells for about $3.10 per 100... the Hudson formula sells for only $1.50 per 100.

Here is another—a well-known high potency B complex formula with Vitamin C and minerals (similar to a brand nationally advertised at $4.40 per 100)... only $2.10 per 100 DIRECT from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

These are only two examples that you will find in our 48 page catalog that is simple, easy to read and has been a Vitamin buying guide for millions from coast-to-coast.

Write for the Catalog and show it to your doctor if you like—but, by all means, discover for yourself why Hudson has become a DIRECT MONEY-SAVING source for vitamins throughout the nation. All Hudson vitamin products are sold with a money back guarantee.

Bright side upside down cakes

Put the ripe juicy goodness of Del Monte Fruits together with the bright beautiful delight of Jell-O Gelatin, and set them on a pedestal of cake. Result: The most lavish looking and luscious tasting desserts you ever made. And believe it or not, they're very simple. Look...

Peach Upside Down Cake

1 package (3 oz.) JELL-O Lemon Gelatin
1 cup boiling water · 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.)
DEL MONTE Sliced Peaches · 1 baked
8-inch white cake layer

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Pour syrup from Del Monte Brand Sliced Peaches and add water to equal 1 cup. Add to Jell-O. Chill until slightly thickened. Place peaches in 8-inch layer pan. Add about 1 1/4 cups Jell-O, covering fruit. Place cake layer on Jell-O in pan, top side up. Pour remaining thickened Jell-O on cake, spreading over top and down sides. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold and serve with whipped topping, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Fruit Cocktail Crown Cake

1 package (3 oz.) JELL-O Raspberry Gelatin · 1 cup boiling water
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) DEL MONTE
Fruit Cocktail · 2 baked 9-inch white cake layers, or one baked
8-inch white cake layer, split

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Pour syrup from fruit cocktail, measuring 1 cup. Add to Jell-O. Scatter Del Monte Fruit Cocktail in each of two 9-inch layer cake pans, reserving some for garnish. Pour Jell-O over fruit in pans. Chill a few minutes until Jell-O just begins to thicken.

Place cake layers on Jell-O in pans, top side up. (If split 8-inch layers are used, place cut sides down on Jell-O in pans.) Chill until firm, about 3 hours. To serve, unmold one layer, inverting it onto a large plate. Unmold second layer and place on top of first, Jell-O side up. Garnish with whipped cream or prepared dessert topping and reserved fruit cocktail. Serve with additional whipped topping. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Golden Ring Cupcakes

2 packages (3 oz. each) JELL-O Lime
Gelatin · 2 cups boiling water · 1 can (1 lb.
4 1/2 oz.) DEL MONTE Sliced Pineapple ·
6 packaged individual sponge cake shells

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Pour syrup from Del Monte Pineapple and add water to equal 2 cups. Add to Jell-O. Chill until almost set. Place a pineapple slice in bottom of each of six 10-oz. glass baking cups. Add 1/3 cup thickened Jell-O to each. Top each with a sponge shell, flat side up. Fill in around sides of shells with remaining Jell-O. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold and serve with whipped topping, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED SENTIMENT

Victorianism is in the cards for Valentine's Day

by ROSALIND MASSOW

VALENTINE'S DAY, the annual 24-hour truce in the battle of the sexes, will be marked Wednesday by the goofiest barrage of sentimentality since the Romans started a day of Valentine love some 1,700 years ago.

This year's crop of Valentine cards will be larded with love and covered all over with sweet sentiment, just as in the Victorian era 100 years ago. The "I Love You" message, 1962 style, will come across with appliquéd vengeance. Layers upon layers of paper lace, bowers of roses, embossed cupids, swans and red satin hearts (see photos) will set the mood for romantic souls of all ages. Actress Tammy Grimes shows off the classic Valentine-card look on today's cover.

IN THE VICTORIAN ERA, when men and women wore their hearts on their ruffled sleeves, lovers documented their feelings on Valentine's Day with extravagantly ornamented cards. While many of these cards were manufactured, most lovers preferred to make their own. Young and old spent many winter evenings burning the candles low while tracing, cutting and pasting massive monuments to love and affection.

If the man or maid was weak at making up poetry, he could consult published tracts on love called "Valentine Writers" to help with the card's text. Special poetry was available for bachelors, old maids, tallow makers, misers, faithless lovers, coquettes and beloveds. Here's one example, intended to be used by a lovesick swain:

*Tho' faintly, feebly I reveal
A passion which I can't conceal
Yet may this little emblem prove,
To one beloved, a pledge of love.*

Another example is from a carpenter to his love:

*I saw, 'tis true, and I saw you,
And quickly felt love's pain
With tender smart fill up my heart
As SHAVINGS fill my PLANE.*

*Ah! then, let's JOIN, my valentine,
In fond affection true,
As I unite, compact and tight,
My DEAL-BOARDS with the GLUE.*

In recent times—up until a few years ago—"sick" and comic Valentines were most popular with all ages, but lately people have again been buying old-fashioned sentiment. Explains Mrs. Jeannette Lee, director of design for Hallmark Cards:

"There's been a renaissance in all kinds of antique things. I believe it's because people are seeking added security in these troubled times. They remember having seen ornate Valentines in their parents' or grandparents' homes and it reminds them of the good old days when all was serene."

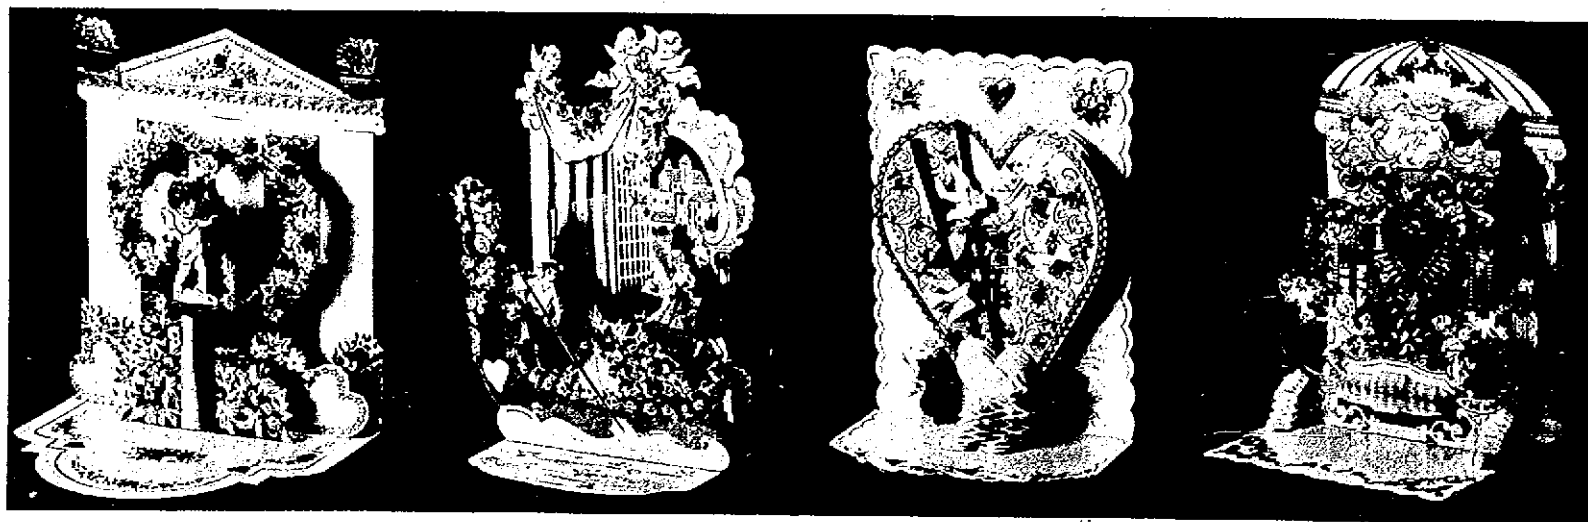

The origin of February 14 as the official day to declare one's love has never been fixed accurately, but the consensus is that a third century Roman physician named Valentine was responsible for all the fuss about hearts and flowers. Before he was sent to death for not renouncing his ideas on religion, he cured his jailer's daughter of blindness and then sent her a farewell note signed "Your Valentine."

IF YOU DON'T LIKE that explanation of the day, there are several others. Some people like to attribute the day to the Roman pagan festival of Lupercalia, a pre-Christian frolic in which young men and women celebrated a rather wild rite of Spring.

Other factions say that February 14 was a Roman festival day on which unmarried girls and boys drew lots for each other's company or that February 14 was the day the birds selected their mates.

Valentine's Day got its big start in the United States in the 1840s when a Mt. Holyoke College girl published cards for her classmates. Today card-makers claim that 600,000,000 cards are exchanged, a 50 per cent increase in the number of cards sent eight years ago. Dewy-eyed lovers will spend $48,000,000 on cards alone. You can bet your Valentine dollar that the cards you buy this year will be worth all their weight in gingerbread, fancy script, elaborate cut-outs and pure old-fashioned sentiment. Go Victorian! ■

Three delicious Swedish soups

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

It's hearty soup weather over most of the nation and we've taken our cue from Sweden, a country well-accustomed to coping with cold weather appetites via the soup tureen.

The first recipe uses beer as an ingredient, Swedish crisp bread as a thickener. The second is made with 5 kinds of vegetables and the third takes its flavor from fish and shrimp.

BEEF 'N BEER SOUP

- |                                   |                           |
|-----------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 2 cans (10½ oz. each)             | 2 teaspoons sugar         |
| condensed beef bouillon           | 1 can (12 oz.) light beer |
| 1 cup water                       | 2 egg yolks               |
| 8 dark Swedish crisp bread slices | ¼ teaspoon cinnamon       |
|                                   | Lemon peel twists         |

Pour bouillon, water and broken Swedish crisp bread into pan. Heat gently, using spoon to break bread into tiny pieces. Add sugar. Pour beer into bowl; beat egg yolks into it. Pour some bouillon mixture into beer; stir; return all to pan. Add cinnamon. Stir over low heat till just at boiling point. Float a twist of lemon peel on a piece of crisp bread in each bowl. Serves 4.

TUESDAY SOUP

- |                         |                           |
|-------------------------|---------------------------|
| 2 cans (10½ oz. each)   | 1 cup each cubed carrots, |
| condensed beef bouillon | parsnips, celery root,    |
|                         | turnips, potatoes         |
| 1½ cups water           | 1 teaspoon sugar          |
| 2 tablespoons barley    | Salt and pepper to taste  |

Combine bouillon and water; bring to boil. Add barley; cook 20 minutes. Add vegetables, sugar, salt and pepper. Simmer 35 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Makes 4 hearty servings.

SWEDISH SEAFOOD BISQUE

- |                                      |   |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine    | 10 sprigs fresh dill (optional)             |
| 2 medium onions, chopped             | 2 quarts water                              |
| 1 garlic clove (optional)            | 1 lemon slice                               |
| 1 carrot, cut up                     | 1 bay leaf                                  |
| 3 stalks celery with leaves, chopped | 10 peppercorns                              |
| 1 tomato, chopped                    | 1 tablespoon salt                           |
|                                      | 1 pound shrimp, uncooked                    |
|                                      | 3 pounds fish fillets (any firm white fish) |

Melt butter or margarine in large saucepan. Add onions and garlic. Simmer gently for a few minutes. Remove garlic. Add vegetables, dill and water. Bring to boil. Add lemon slice, bay leaf, peppercorns and salt. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add shrimp. Cover; cook for 5-7 minutes. Remove shrimp; peel; add to soup later. Cut fish into chunks; add; cook 10 minutes. Remove. Simmer stock 30 minutes longer; strain.

Bisque

- |                                   |                                    |
|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine | ¼ cup chopped fresh dill or chives |
| 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour   | 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten       |
| Fish stock                        | ½ cup heavy cream                  |
|                                   | 1 can (4 oz.) button mushrooms     |

Melt butter or margarine; stir in flour; stir in fish stock slowly; stir and cook until smooth and thickened. Combine dill, egg yolks and cream. Bring fish stock to boiling point; add slowly; heating vigorously. Add mushrooms, fish and shrimp. Serve immediately. Makes 8 servings. FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

Pie Crust Mix
1/2 cup sliced almonds, finely chopped
1 1/4 cups (15-oz. can) Borden's Eagle
Brand Condensed Milk
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. almond extract
1/2 cup whipping
cream, whipped

Mix pastry as directed on Betty Crocker Pie Crust Mix pkg. —except add chopped almonds with the water. Prick sides of pie crust only. Bake as directed for Baked Pie Shell. Cool. Combine Borden's Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (you must use condensed milk!), lemon juice, vanilla and almond extract. Stir until mixture thickens. Fold in whipped cream and spoon into coated shell. Top with Cherry Glaze (recipe below) or use your favorite brand of prepared cherry pie filling. Chill 2 to 3 hrs.

CHERRY GLAZE—2 cups (1-lb. can) pitted sour cherries, drained, 3/4 cup cherry juice, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tbsp. cornstarch, 2 to 3 drops red food coloring, if desired. Set aside drained cherries. Blend cherry juice with sugar and cornstarch. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and clear. Add cherries and food coloring; spread over cream filling. Chill.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 important vitamins and, in addition, supplies the therapeutic amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! It is this rich source of iron, combined with high-potency vitamins, including essential B vitamins in 3 to 5 times the minimum daily requirements, that make GERITOL such an effective strength-building tonic. In only one day,

GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests!

Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency anemia frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement—further confirmed by laboratory tests. Remember, ordinary maintenance vitamins can't do it! But the high-potency combination of vitamins plus iron in GERITOL can help you regain your strength and energy.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor and if this is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You must feel a noticeable difference in the first seven days... or your money back from the maker.

Before (top) and after: Japanese secretary displays results of her lunch-hour eyelid operation.

TOKYO.
"IN BY 12:00. OUT BY 12:15. Eyes rounded in 15 minutes. Be beautiful at lowest prices."

The above advertisement and hundreds more like it are part of the current Japanese boom in cut-price cosmetic surgery. This boom has now reached such proportions here that many of the 100 clinics specializing in plastic and cosmetic surgery are offering a lunchtime service at reduced prices.

Japanese secretaries, typists, and sales girls in search of Western-type beauty have the job performed in 15 minutes. Prices range from $20 to $40, depending upon the surgeon, and in no case does the operation take more than a half hour. Most are performed in 15 minutes.

The patient pays her money, is placed on an operating table, covered with a sheet. She is given an anesthetic. The surgeon works quickly turning the eyelids inside out, inserting three or four stitches. The girl is then gently slapped on the face, awakened, shown her new eye shapes, and escorted out while another customer is shown in. The whole thing is an assembly-line procedure.

In addition to eye jobs, Japanese plastic surgeons are performing the following cosmetic operations: Removing men's waistline bulges—$125; building up busts for flat-chested women—$100; new nose shapes—$75.

If you've got a spare $250, they'll turn you into a new man or a new woman in less than one week.

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

AT THE VILLAGE CHURCH in Kalinovka, Russia, attendance at Sunday school picked up after the priest started handing out candy to the peasant children. One of the most faithful was a pug-nosed, pugnacious lad who recited his scriptures with proper piety, pocketed his reward, then fled into the fields to munch on it. The priest took a liking to the boy, persuaded him to attend church school. This was preferable to doing household chores from which his devout parents excused him. By offering other inducements, the priest managed to teach the boy the four gospels. In fact, he won a special prize for learning all four by heart and reciting them non-stop in church. Now, 60 years later, he still likes to recite scriptures but in a context that would horrify the old priest. For the prize pupil, who memorized so much of the Bible, is Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist czar.

Man behind the man, shock-haired Mentor Graham taught Lincoln in New Salem.

The man who taught Lincoln

by HOMER CROY

ONE DAY, as we were driving in South Dakota, we had to pull into a drug-store. The name of the town turned out to be Blunt, on U.S. 14, 22 miles from Pierre.

I fell into conversation with the proprietor. As the conversation was dying, he remarked casually that this was the town where Abraham Lincoln's teacher had died. I could hardly believe my ears. Was it true that the man who had influenced Abraham Lincoln so greatly had died in an obscure, one-street Dakota town? I knew there had been a mystery about his teacher, Mentor Graham, who had suddenly and mysteriously disappeared.

The situation made me want to learn more about Abraham Lincoln's teacher, so I went to Pierre and, by inquiring, came finally to Will G. Robinson, secretary of the South Dakota State Historical Society. He told me a story that sent me hurrying back to Blunt to see the house where part of the story had taken place.

The story began in New Salem, Illinois. Here lived Mentor Graham, a born school teacher, in the day when a school teacher was one of the four important men in a town: the preacher, the doctor, the teacher, the lawyer.

In later life, Mentor Graham said he had taught about 5,000 boys and that Lincoln spoke the best English and had the finest sense of logic of any of them. Not only did Mentor Graham teach him, but Lincoln moved in and lived for six months with the Graham family. There was plenty of room—only six children. Somehow, Lincoln was able to study.

He especially wanted to study grammar. Teacher looked after that immediately. He sent Lincoln six miles to borrow a grammar book. And what a book that was! Its full and complete title was "ENGLISH GRAMMAR In Familiar Lectures, Embracing a New Systematic Order of Parsing, a New System of Punctuation, Exercises in False Syntax and a System of Philosophical Grammar, to which are added a Compendium, an Appendix, and a Key to the Exercises Designed for use in Schools and by Private Learners." No wonder Lincoln went through the Gettysburg Address without a bobble.

When Lincoln went off to Washington as President of the United States, Mentor went to see the inauguration. He didn't send his name in; he figured Lincoln would be busy and wouldn't want to be bothered by little people. He was sitting quietly in the audience when Lincoln, on the platform, began to crane his neck, then stood up and said, "Hello there, Teacher! Come up here with us."

Days of Trouble

It's at about this point that most histories leave Mentor Graham. But the rest of his story, I found, is even more fascinating—and inspiring.

The years passed; Lincoln was dead, and Mentor had retired. He looked forward to spending his final years in New Salem, where everyone knew him, where his silk hat and gold-headed cane were landmarks.

Then one day a nephew, James Graham, called on him and said he wanted to start a business in Kansas City. Would Uncle Mentor sign a note for him for $50? Mentor signed. Soon a lawyer showed up; the note was for $5000.

Mentor had family pride. He was so shaken, so humiliated that he wanted to go away where no one knew him and where he could start life over again. Yes, start life over again—he was only 83, he said. But where? At this time the government was giving away free land in the Dakotas: the government told you how you could raise wheat and become rich.

When Mentor and his son's family arrived at Blunt, they found a dry, desolate stretch of prairie. The family was so poor that it lived in a converted box-car on a railroad siding. After a time the son was able to rent a place, and the family started a boarding house.

The boarding house failed. Mentor's son entered up a claim and the family moved onto that bit of hardscrabble land. Mentor tried to plow, but the hands that'd never held anything heavier than a textbook were not up to it.

The family moved back to town where Mentor's joy was to teach the boys. Nearly always he carried a book, and, after a little character trait of his own, kept a finger to mark the place where he was reading, or the place where he wanted to teach the boys from. When the boys sighted him, they would come running, shouting, "Uncle Mentor! Uncle Mentor!" And there, with the boys eddying around him, he would teach.

End of a Man

One day—November 15, 1886, when he was 86—he started across the square, tall and angular and unstooped, in his threadbare suit. The boys spied him and came whooping.

They saw him pause. He seemed uncertain and confused; then he fell. When they got to him, he was crumpled on the ground, his finger in the book he was carrying.

The body was buried south of town; for years the grave lay barren and unnoticed. The wooden cross slewed out of shape. Tramps took over the house where the old gentleman had lived.

The Graham family back in Illinois became concerned over the neglect to Mentor Graham, and through the efforts of Mrs. Mary Graham Bradley, moved the body to Farmer's Point Cemetery three miles from New Salem. There it rests today:

MENTOR GRAHAM

1800 1886

Abraham Lincoln's
Tutor at New Salem

Under the leadership of Will G. Robinson, the people in South Dakota got busy. The Graham house was bought and became a monument.

And there it stands today, once the dwelling place of the man who taught Abraham Lincoln.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by SAMMY WALSH

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sammy Walsh, 52 and Boston-born, is currently one of Miami's most popular host-entertainers. Walsh started out in show-business as a dancer in 1927, later developed into a comic. He played the vaudeville circuit from coast to coast, appeared in such night clubs as the Latin Quarter, Jimmy Kelly's and the Chez Paree, toured the country with Martha Raye. Walsh has played comedy bits in the Frank Sinatra film, Hole in the Head, and the Jerry Lewis film, The Bell Boy. At the moment he makes his headquarters in a Miami restaurant-lounge where without any urging he entertains customers with such jokes as these:

A friend of mine received a one-cent refund check from the Internal Revenue Service. He took it to the bank, endorsed it, and asked for the cash. The teller looked at the check and said: "This is most unusual. Would you please wait a minute while I consult our vice president?"

A few moments later the vice president approached and agreed that the check was good. "How would you like it?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" my friend asked.

The vice president smiled. "Heads or tails?"

Two guys on a street corner began slapping each other with one finger.

"What are you two men fighting about?" asked a policeman.

"We're fighting about a woman," answered one of the combatants, "only she doesn't amount to much."

When I was born, my father wanted me to be a farmer, and my mother wanted me to be a doctor. So they had the nurse place a pitchfork and a stethoscope in my crib. They figured the tool I grabbed first would decide the issue. I fooled them both. I grabbed the nurse.

In a school located in a real tough New York neighborhood—you know, the kind where the kids carry zip-guns and switch blades—the teacher and her sixth-grade class were studying the life of Thomas Edison.

The teacher asked Butch, the school's number-one delinquent, what he considered Edison's most outstanding invention.

The young hood pondered for a minute, then answered: "The electric chair."

An entertainer looking for work called on a booking agent.

"What do you do?" the agent asked.

"Bird imitations," the fellow answered.

"Bird imitations," the agent roared. "For pete's sake, they went out with the Spanish American War. Who wants to see bird imitations on television?"

"Okay, okay," the guy said. "You don't have to scream your head off." Then he got up and flew out the window.

A baseball umpire suffering from constant headaches consulted a doctor. Naturally he was given a complete work-up.

The doctor then said to him: "You need glasses."

Immediately the umpire jumped to his feet, jerked his thumb and shouted: "You're out of the game, wise-guy, and what's more, it'll cost you a hundred bucks!"

A drunk staggered into a cab and when the driver asked, "Where to?"—the drunk pulled a photo from his pocket and handed it to the driver.

"This is no address," said the cabbie. "It's a picture of you in a bathing suit."

"Okay, okay," burped the passenger. "Then take me to the beach."

Russ-Peiping Conflict Aided Powers' Release

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia's decision to release U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers probably was inspired at least partly by concern in Moscow over its increasingly bitter political conflict with Red China.

U.S. officials Saturday said the latest move in the complicated diplomatic game now being played between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev gives new evidence that Khrushchev wants to improve relations with the United States when he can do so at little expense or inconvenience.

Thus in recent weeks he obviously has favored an increase of top-level exchanges of ideas as exemplified by the visit to Kennedy of Alexei Adzhubel, Khrushchev's son-in-law.

The reasons Khrushchev wants to improve Soviet-U.S. relations are, (1) the widening rift between Moscow and Peiping holds danger of a future threat to Russia's power position, and (2) Khrushchev fears the consequences of a U.S.-Soviet nuclear war and hopes to avoid any such catastrophe.

Those reasons received high priority in administration quarters Saturday as experts on Soviet behavior puzzled over the answer to the question: Why did Khrushchev agree now to approve the swap of Powers for Red spy Col. Rudolf Abel?

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said "The growing tension between the governments of Red China and Russia would tend to make the Russians more friendly with us."

Government informants said Soviet leaders seemed anxious to get Abel back to Russia just as the United States was anxious to recover Powers.

One striking aspect of the deal is similar to that which has characterized other Khrushchev moves. It cost him nothing in terms of real Soviet aims.

Secrecy Blankets Exchange, Return of U2 Pilot to U.S.

WASHINGTON (Sunday) (UP)—An Air Force transport plane from overseas landed at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., early today and two persons dressed in civilian clothes hurried off the aircraft — leaving spectators uncertain whether one was U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Air Force officers at Washington and the crew of the plane declined to discuss the identity of the passengers. The four-engine transport taxied up before the terminal building at Andrews. Two men in civilian clothes hurried down the steps, ran to a helicopter and were whisked away.

Spy Swap Hailed by West

LONDON (UPI)—Western Europe Saturday hailed the Powers-Abel exchange as a triumph of American diplomacy and one London newspaper said President Kennedy had handled the swap "with consummate theatrical skill."

Many Western European countries expressed belief the exchange would improve the international climate. The belief in Moscow among foreign diplomats was that the Soviets would reap a rich diplomatic and political harvest.

IN ROME, the Italian government went ahead with its plans to try Bulgarian 2nd Lt. Miluse Solakov on charges that he carried out a Powers-type aerial reconnaissance mission over NATO missile bases in southern Italy.

The British Foreign Office said it "welcomes" the release of Francis Gary Powers because of the possibility it will ease tensions. The London Evening News called it a political triumph for Kennedy.

It added that Powers could not be sure of the welcome he will get in America "because he confessed so fulsomely at his Moscow trial."

Prominent Nevada Pair Lost on Flight

ELKO, Nev. (UPI)—E. J. Questa, president of the First National Bank of Nevada, and hotelman Newton Crumley were overdue and feared lost Saturday night on a flight from Palm Springs, Calif., to Elko.

Crumley, piloting his seven-passenger Aero Commander, had been due in Elko late Saturday afternoon.

$900 MILLION FOR L.B. Huge Development Outlined in I, P-T

Growing with the vibrancy of a teen-ager, Long Beach will take on height and breadth this year in a big way, reports Ken Chilcote, Independent, Press-Telegram business editor in today's Business and Realty Section. And, he continues, the city is glowing in health—economic health—thanks to the great construction program.

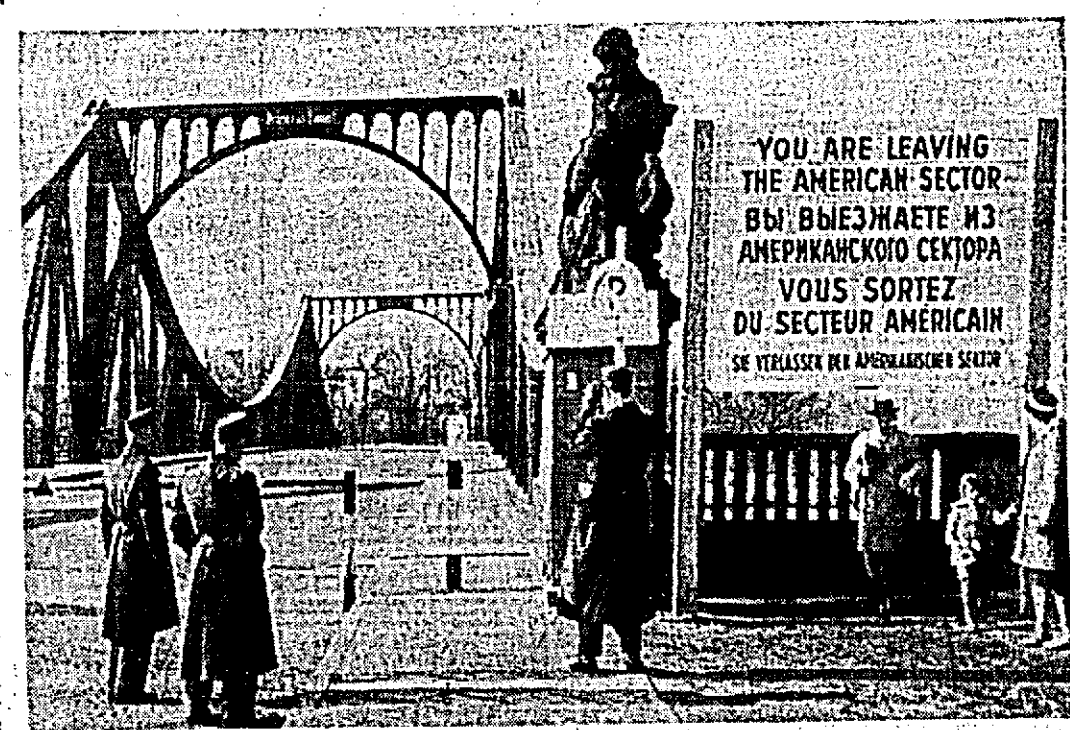

Private capital—not government aid—is behind this more than $900,000,000 outlay for developments in the Long Beach area. This bolstering of Long Beach economy already is being reflected in boosts in real estate values.

Illustrated in the section is the huge new project in the Port of Long Beach where 310 acres is being reclaimed from the ocean.

You will find listings of large luxury homes available in the Long Beach area on appealing terms; bits of chit-chat on business in the area and other stories on businessmen and their activities.

Whether you are hunting a home or interested in business, you will find interesting reading each Sunday in the Business and Realty Section.

The parents of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers left their Norton, Va., home by car Saturday night for a rendezvous with their son at an undisclosed location. A family spokesman declined to say where they were headed.

Germany Convicts Russ Spy

KARLSRUHE, Germany (UPI)—West Germany Saturday convicted a Soviet citizen of spying and sentenced him to four years in prison. The Soviet news agency Tass denounced the trial as "scandalous" and said guilt was never proved.

Valentin A. Pripolzev, 43, an engineer on a Soviet trade mission in Cologne, was found guilty of "treasonable activities and attempt to spy on state secrets." He was the first Soviet citizen to be sentenced by West Germany on spy charges.

FOUR DAYS ago the Soviet Union formally protested the scheduled trial in a note by Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov.

Calif. Congressman, Wife Hurt in Crash

COBLESKILL, N.Y. (UP)—A California congressman was in satisfactory condition in a hospital here Saturday after his automobile struck a tree during a snowstorm.

Rep. Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera, Calif., a Democrat, and his wife were injured Friday night in East Worcester when their car skidded on a curve.

Meanwhile, Powers' 27-year-old wife, Barbara, flew from Atlanta toward Washington Saturday night with her brother and a government official. On the way from her Milledgeville, Ga., home to Atlanta, her party switched cars apparently to keep her movements secret prior to taking the flight.

THE PILOT'S parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers, were accompanied by a State Department representative. Their departure was announced by the family attorney, Carl McAfee, about an hour after they left.

McAfee declined to disclose any further details. Earlier Saturday, the elder Powers had read to reporters a radio message from his son which said, "Stay put until I get back to the states..." He said the message was given to him by a State Department representative.

McAfee said there "is a remote chance" the reunion of the pilot and his family will take place at Norton or some other secluded Virginia spot. The last time Powers was seen by his family was during his espionage trial in Moscow in May 1960. He has served a year and nine months of a 10-year sentence.

FRIENDS noted there had been some criticism of the captured pilot in the community after Powers' trial testimony. "He didn't tell them anything they didn't already know," one friend said.

Crack Train Crashes Into Freight; 10 Injured

LIGONIER, Ind. (UPI)—A freight train jumped the tracks into the path of a New York Central passenger train speeding alongside it Saturday, injuring 10 persons and derailling 30 cars into a cornfield. There were no deaths.

The passenger train, "The Chicagoan," was carrying 70 passengers from New York to Chicago. The cornfield was littered with torn and smoking rail cars. New York Central officials said none of the injured was in serious condition.

Skindiver Lost Off Newport

NEWPORT BEACH (UPI)—A skindiver identified as William B. Betler, 25, of 10902 Devonshire Place, Garden Grove, was missing and presumed drowned Saturday night.

Two men who with Betler had rented skindiving equipment reported him missing. They said he had an hour's supply of oxygen when they last saw him.

A search of the surf was called off when the water became too rough.

Clearing Sky Seen Sometime Monday

More rain was dumped into Southern California during the night and even more is expected today.

But after that, the weatherman said almost confidently, "At last we can look down the barrel and see a little daylight."

Clearing weather was expected sometime Monday.

A laggardly storm front inched southward into the Long Beach area early today long after it had been expected originally.

That caused a drastic revision in predictions which had called for clearing weather today.

By midnight the total rainfall for the season had passed the 10-inch mark and the storm total was nearing 4 inches.

THE STORM front which moved through in the night was followed by another which was expected to strike Southern California late tonight.

An additional one to one and one-half inches of rain was expected to fall by early Monday morning. Some local areas were due for thunderstorms, the Weather Bureau said.

Floodwaters caused by the rain—which now has poured down in a marathon five-day performance—have left hundreds homeless and caused widespread damage.

AUTHORITIES stood by in flood-prone areas to help evacuate residents if necessary.

At least six deaths have been attributed to storm-caused accidents throughout the Southland and countless cars have been stalled. Small-craft warnings are up along the Southern California coast.

Storm-caused cable damage was blamed for a power failure that blacked out a Lakewood area for 41 minutes Saturday afternoon. The area affected is bounded by Deebay Avenue and Klondike Street and by Carson Street and Del Amo Boulevard.

Gusty winds are expected to accompany the rains today.

ACTOR Richard Boone called in a construction company Saturday night to help protect his $100,000 canyon home from mudslides. The actor lost a home in the 1955 fire. He stood by his Spanish-type mansion in the Santa Monica mountains while workers piled up sandbags to

Bonn Set for Reply to Soviet

BONN (UPI)—The West German reply to the Soviet memorandum of Dec. 27 proposing separate Bonn-Moscow talks on Berlin will be completed next week, the Foreign Ministry announced Saturday.

The reply was discussed in detail during a two-day conference between Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and his ambassadors to Washington, London, Paris, Rome, NATO and Moscow. The meeting ended Saturday.

The cabinet was expected to consider the draft reply in its Wednesday meeting, and the parliamentary foreign affairs committee will study it Thursday.

HANS KROLL, ambassador to Moscow, was expected to return to Moscow early this week.

Kroll is known to favor direct Bonn-Moscow talks but he has been instructed not to interfere in the current round of diplomatic soundings being conducted by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson on behalf of all the Western powers.

'Worst' Blaze Hits Ft. Wayne

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—The worst fire in Fort Wayne's history raged out of control in the downtown business section more than six hours Saturday before it was contained. Firemen said it could possibly last into Sunday.

Nine persons were injured, none critically, in the million-dollar blaze which started in a department store's warehouse store.

Hundreds of firemen and volunteers were called to duty as the flames spread through four large buildings.

prevent any possible slippage. Swimming pools throughout that area were filled with mud. Many canyon roads, such as Coldwater and To-panga were closed by slides.

By late Saturday, Ventura County had been hit hard by the storm with at least six inches of rain reported at all stations and as much as a foot of rainfall at some points.

Floodwaters forced evacuation of hundreds of persons from their homes in the county and closed roads.

WATER up to four feet deep was reported in the Nyeland Acres area near Oxnard and residents of the Live Oaks area in the Ventura River Valley were threatened with possible isolation after the Santa Ana Road bridge was cracked by high waters.

Matilija Dam in Ventura County overflowed Saturday for the first time in years.

Three homes in Encino were reported sliding slowly down a hill.

Driving conditions in the Long Beach area were made hazardous by poor visibility and a rash of minor accidents was reported. No streets were blocked off, however.

SUPERVISOR Warren Dorn urged persons to stay away from mountain areas and flood-control channels. Dorn is chairman of the county's three emergency departments. He said mudslides and rain-swollen rivers and flood channels are dangerous in some areas.

A dam in Frazier Park, eight miles west of Lebec on U.S. Highway 99, the Ridge Route, north of Los Angeles, was reported on the verge of washout. About 25 families were evacuated and twelve homes under construction in the area were endangered.

Wheelchair Patient Hit,
Driver Flees

A wheelchair patient at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital was injured critically Saturday when her chair was struck by a hit-run driver, Downey police reported.

Officers said Erva Eleanor Smith, 46, was in a crosswalk on Imperial Highway at Horton Avenue on her way to another part of the hospital when she was knocked from the chair and suffered a broken pelvis.

Arrested at his home around 4 p.m., two hours later, and booked on suspicion of hit-and-run driving was Ismael Mendoza Mendoza, 30, of 8732 Stewart and Gray Road, Downey. He is an employee of the hospital, police said.

Witnesses told officers that the victim was hurled from the chair when the vehicle struck it and that the chair lodged under the back bumper of the car. The suspect stopped, pulled the chair out from under his car, and drove off, officers stated.

OVER ALL conception of Long Beach World's Fair, scheduled for 1966 on Pier J, as conceived by artists of Aetron Corp. Preliminary fill work for Pier J is now under way in Long Beach Harbor. Triangular building at lower right, and tower stressing four freedoms of man, form center and theme of exposition.

Designers Complete '66 Fair Plans;
Envision Landmark to 4 Freedoms

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

The dream of a World's Fair in Long Beach in 1966 has reached the drawing boards, president Nelson McCook announced Saturday.

A team of designers has completed drawing board conceptions of how the fair may appear, when built on new Pier J in the Long Beach Harbor. The designs are keyed to the announced theme of the fair — "Planet of Man" — the fair — the "Planet of Man" — and the contemplated buildings are of the type that will become permanent additions to the city.

The keynote of the fair is expressed, McCook said, in a four-spined tower. Architects have designed this to rise 700 feet above the harbor, on the southeast tip of Pier J.

Each of the four spires represents a freedom — freedom of speech, freedom from want, freedom from hunger and freedom of religion.

"It is our hope that this tower will become as much of a landmark for the West Coast as the Statue of Liberty is for the east," McCook said.

Architects and designers of the Aetron Corp., who made the drawings released by McCook Saturday, envisioned the tower as rising from a great fountain, at one corner of a huge triangular show building.

Underneath it would be a giant, two-story aquarium.

Five domes rise from this J, which will be linked to the new Pier H and to established Pier A.

The design of the fair, as it is now envisioned, contemplates using an extension of Pier A, jutting southeast from Pierpoint Landing, as the amusement center. An international exposition is planned for Pier H.

McCook emphasized that the artist's conceptions now created are not necessarily the final plans.

"With several years in which to complete the detailing of this exposition," McCook said, "the plans we now have represent only a good start. They are subject to continual improvement."

As with the Seattle Century 21 exposition that opens this April, the designers envision a monorail or similar transportation system, running from downtown Los Angeles directly into the pier. Three helicopter sites are envisioned at various complexes on Pier

Teen Model's Dream Dies in Sordid Raid on Photo Ring

By SHERM WILLIAMS

A platinum-blond teen-ager — just budding into womanhood — sobbed her dreams away Saturday night in Juvenile Hall.

She cried for her mother, booked, then released on bail on charges of contributing to her daughter's delinquency.

And she wept for the modeling career she had wanted so badly that she had posed for nude and, vice officers say, markedly lewd photos.

The girl, her mother, Mrs. Katherine Roberts, 37, of 6025 Quinn St., Bell Gardens, and four other persons were arrested Friday when sheriff's vice officers smashed an alleged pornographic-photo-graph ring.

ALSO ARRESTED were Sharon Sue Morrow, 18, of Montebello, William Francis Miller, 54, of Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Andro Mardesch, of 334 17th St., San Pedro. Mardesch is 53, his wife 42.

Officers confiscated 5,000 photographs and negatives and 12 reels of allegedly obscene movies in the raids

in San Pedro, Bell and Bell Gardens.

The name of Mrs. Roberts' daughter was withheld because of her age.

Deputies said the young girl told them it began with her dreams of becoming a famous model. The dream was nurtured, she said by Miller.

TWO WEEKS ago a couple returned from an outing in San Gabriel Canyon and reported seeing a sex orgy being photographed in the woods. The couple took down an auto-license number and officers traced the car to Miller.

He was arrested at his home. Miss Morrow was with him. Miller who had a previous arrest in connection with the preparation of lewd films, and Miss Morrow, told officers that the Mardeschs and Mrs. Roberts were involved in the ring.

The Mardeschs were jailed on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and sex perversion. Mardesch also was booked on suspicion of preparing obscene materials.

MILLER, THE girl told officers, after winning the confidence of her mother, convinced them both he could help her become a model.

The mother, like the daughter, has platinum-blond hair. The girl looked older than her 16 years when arrested. The makeup on her face showed the almost tortured effort of a girl trying to arrive at a professional model's sheen.

THEN, SUDDENLY, tears came. The makeup was washed away.

A shy girl, struggling with sob, told juvenile officers about her dreams. She asked "She didn't realize," a deputy said. "She just didn't know."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Algerian Terror Attacks Kill 13

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—French security forces Saturday arrested 21 suspected members of the Secret Army Organization and seized a small arsenal of weapons in a house-to-house search through the teeming European workers' district of Bab-El-Qued.

But terrorists continued to take a heavy toll across Algeria. At least 13 persons were killed and 59 wounded in scattered attacks, raising the unofficial toll since Jan. 1 to 736 dead and 1,302 wounded.

The worst incident was in the port city of Bone in eastern Algeria where two plastic bombs leveled the prefecture offices. Thirty-seven persons, including 24 children drawn into the street by the first explosion, were injured, some of them seriously.

Romney to Seek Governorship

DETROIT (AP)—George Romney declared himself a Republican candidate for governor of Michigan Saturday, but refused to be drawn into a discussion of any possible presidential hopes two years hence.

Romney said he would request a leave of absence Monday as chairman and president of American Motors Corp., a $150,000-a-year job, to seek the $25,000 one now held by first-term Gov. John B. Swainson, a Democrat.

Charles Laughton Cracks Collarbone

NEW YORK (AP)—A cracked collarbone suffered in a bathtub fall in Flint, Mich., has actor Charles Laughton in the hospital here.

A spokesman for the Hospital for Special Surgery, where Laughton was moved several days ago from a hospital in Flint, said Saturday Laughton was doing well but was in considerable pain.

His collarbone is fractured, but the fracture "is not severe and there was no displacement," the spokesman added. He said it was not known how long the actor must remain in the hospital.

Laughton was on tour in his one-man show of readings when the accident occurred.

Gunmen Slay Patron, Whip 7

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two bandits—cursing and shouting obscenities—held up a restaurant early Saturday, shot a patron to death and pistolwhipped seven others.

The gunmen abducted two women patrons and forced them to accompany them when they fled, but released them a short time later. Police said the gunmen got away with $6,000 in cash and jewelry.

The dead man was Armand Rivard, 42, a circulation department truck driver for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner. He was shot in the back without provocation, police said.

Freighter Goes Broadside

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Ocean swells from a Pacific storm halted efforts Saturday to refloat the grounded Chickasaw and forced the vessel broadside to the beach.

The 439-foot vessel went aground on a reef off Santa Rosa Island during a heavy rainstorm Wednesday. The island is about 25 miles west of the California mainland. Breeches buoys have been strung to take off the ship's four passengers and 45 crew members if necessary.

RFK Relaxes in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Sunday) (UPI)—Robert F. Kennedy relaxed today in this western outpost in the shadow of Communist China after a busy weeklong visit to Japan where Communist efforts to ruin his good will mission flopped.

Kennedy flew in here Saturday, more than three hours behind schedule because of bad local weather conditions. His late arrival caused postponement until today of his scheduled courtesy call on the governor general of this British crown colony.

Jayne Limps Aboard Airliner

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jayne Mansfield limped aboard an airplane with her husband, Mickey Hargitay, Saturday en route from the Bahamas, where they spent a night marooned on an ocean reef.

They planned to fly to Dallas, Tex., to see their three children and her parents. The actress said she felt shaky after the Wednesday night ordeal that followed a boat accident. She suffered from insect bites, exposure and shock.

Guards' Slaying Stirs Furor

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Two Koreans caught in a restricted zone were shot and killed by U.S. security guards, bringing denunciations Saturday from Seoul newspapers.

A U.S. Army announcement said U.S. soldiers acted in line of duty Tuesday, when the shootings took place. The Army said one Korean refused to halt after repeated warnings and the other tried to escape while being searched for weapons.

Mao Sets Up 'Showdown' With Russia

LONDON (UPI)—Red China's Mao Tse-tung is organizing a major congress of Afro-Asian Communist leaders that may trigger a showdown with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev over his "soft" brand of international communism, Western experts said Saturday.

The congress has been called for March 5 in Peking—the same day the Soviet Communist Party's ruling Central Committee is scheduled to meet in Moscow.

DIPLOMATIC dispatches reaching here Saturday said leaders from Communist parties throughout Asia and Africa—as well as some Europeans—have been invited to attend the Peking congress.

Both congresses were reported to have put the explosive Sino-Soviet ideological dispute on their agendas.

Mao apparently intends to enlist the open support of other communist leaders, especially in Asia and Africa where Red Chinese influence has been very active lately.

The meetings were therefore believed to be preparing for a climax in the Sino-Russian dispute which could set the scene for a major showdown.

MAO, WHO has been seeking support in Asia, may get it from the Communists of North Korea, North Viet Nam, Indonesia and Japan. Indian Communists are divided because of Red China's aggression. Outer Mongolia recently came out in support of Russia.

Red China also may find support among Africans.

In Europe, Albania is the only known major foothold of Red China.

83-Year-Old

Woman Robbed

An 83-year-old woman lost at least $15 to a purse-snatcher Saturday, police reported.

Mrs. Ada M. Bachelder, 129½ Prospect Ave., told officers she was walking west on Division Street east of Prospect Avenue when the thief, described as a red-haired youth wearing a dark jacket, grabbed the purse from her arm and fled. She was not injured.

Off-Broadway Stage

Needs 19 Actors

Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., will hold readings at 2:30 p.m. today at the theater for parts in "Mr. Robert."

Eighteen men, 20 to 40 years old, and one girl to play a Wave, are needed.

Ticklish Grilling for Abel

By United Press International
When Rudolf Ivanovich Abel gets back to the Kremlin, he may face a ticklish question about his expense account. Namely, what happened to $5,000 he was supposed to have used for a pay-off in his espionage work in the United States but buried instead?

The budget director of Russia's espionage service may also want to inquire about how the balding "master spy" absent-mindedly gave an American newsboy one of his hollowed-out nickels used to conceal microfilm.

SUCH ANTICS do not quite fit the dime-novel stereotype of a trained and devoted secret police colonel running a spy network that collected U.S. defense and atomic secrets.

The mild-mannered man who was exchanged Saturday for U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers first entered the United States illegally from Canadian 1948. He set up headquarters in Brooklyn, running his spy organization from a photographic studio.

It was in 1957 that Abel had his first confrontation with U.S. law. He was seized and sent to the alien detention center at McAllen, Tex., for having entered the country illegally.

A search of his modest, unpretentious rooms sent agents rushing to telephone Washington. They had found a cache of spy tools.

HIS TRIAL took place in mid-October 1957, on three counts. One count could have carried the death penalty, but Abel was sentenced to 30 years.

'JUST ANOTHER JOE' Powers' Life Ruled by Love of Flying

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Fate has funny whims, sometimes, and in the case of Francis Gary Powers there were two decisive ones.

Both were airplane rides.

The first came when Powers was 14 years old. It made a brown-eyed, dark-haired boy see the true ambition of his life.

The second was at the age of 30. It made a good-looking, well-built man an international figure—and the center of a new storm of bitterness between the free world and the Communist.

—Associated Press Wirephoto

LATEST PHOTO

This photograph of U2 pilot Francis Powers was sent to his sister, Mrs. Wesley Melvin of Falls Church, Va., last Christmas. It was mailed from a Soviet prison.

Had it not been for that fateful first flight, Powers might have lived out his life as "just another Joe," known to few.

Powers, the son of a cobbler and onetime coal miner, grew up on a farm between Pound and Clintwood, Va. He loved to ride horseback and he loved the outdoors.

WHEN HE WAS 14, he paid $2.50 to take a ride with a woman pilot flying passengers on aerial joyrides from an airport at Princeton, V. Va. The boy got the greatest thrill of his young life. He got something else, too. When he reached home he blurted: "Daddy, I like it up there. It does something to you. It gives you something. Some day I'll have to go back up there and find out what it is."

Before he could do so, however, he had some growing up to do. And this he did, just about like any other boy.

He went to high school across the Virginia line in Grundy, played in the line on the football team, worked as a lifeguard, served on a firefighting patrol and was graduated 22nd scholastically in a class of 69.

Powers spent the next four years at Milligan College, Johnson City, Tenn., and again graduated 22nd, in a class of 59. The only other note he achieved was as a pretty fair sprinter in track meets.

THE OUTBREAK OF THE KOREAN WAR came at the end of his college career in 1950 and Powers enlisted in the Air Force. In time he became a second lieutenant and jet fighter pilot, but saw no action.

For the next few years there were only three events of any consequence. He was married in 1954 to the former Barbara Moore of Albany, Ga. In 1956 he took a civilian flying job and was sent to Turkey, ostensibly to fly a "weather research" plane. In May 1960 he was downed in Russia while flying a U2 reconnaissance craft.

Amid the hubbub over the incident, his friends and acquaintances through the years were pressed for their recollections of Powers. They could remember no anecdotes, nothing special. He was polite and pleasant, they said, but quiet.

Powers Spent Prison Time in Reading, Playing Chess

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers apparently spent a great deal of time in his Soviet prison cell playing chess and reading the books he wished he had read "in his younger days."

In an interview broadcast by radio station WGH here Saturday, Powers' father, Oliver Powers, discussed the contents of the more than 36 letters he received from his son during the spy pilot's 21 months in confinement.

THE ELDER Powers quoted his son as saying he spent a lot of time reading and that "the books he used to read he doesn't read now. He reads more refined books and says he likes them better and that he would have been better off to have read the books he is reading now in his younger days."

According to Powers, his son shared a Russian cell with another prisoner—a Lithuanian who his son said spoke four languages.

In his letter, the imprisoned pilot told his father he was trying to learn to speak Russian.

U2 Pilot Attacked as 'Weak'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A former national commander of the American Legion Saturday said he still thinks Francis Gary Powers "served his country badly" and is a "weak American."

The legionnaire, Newburgh, N.Y., attorney Martin M. McKneally, applied those labels to Powers after his spy trial, and reasserted his position Saturday when questioned by a reporter.

"He disowned his mission," McKneally said. "He said things prejudicial to the interests of his country. As a matter of fact, it's interesting to note that Col. Rudolf Abel said nothing."

McKNEALLY said Powers' mission was an honorable one. "I was one American extremely happy to think that our administration was using all of the methods that it could find to locate strategic bases of the enemy," he said.

McKneally, head of the legion in 1960, said he would have to study the record before expressing an opinion on whether Powers should be charged with misconduct.

"I have no right to rule on the merits of trading Powers for Abel," he continued. "A fruitful relationship between Russia and the United States is being hampered by fundamental differences in ideology and the Soviet's imperialistic designs, and Powers' release will not affect the situation one jot."

McKneally said "a very large number of people" feel as he does about Powers' testimony.

Indonesia Air Force Officers in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Air Vice Marshal Umar Dani of Indonesia arrived in Moscow Saturday night, apparently to negotiate an increased supply of military equipment to help in possible operations against the Dutch in West New Guinea. He was accompanied by a group of Indonesian officers.

Barbershop Singers to Vie Here Feb. 17

The Forte-Niners of Hayward, Calif., hailed as the "best in the Far West" and with a title to prove it, will headline the annual Harmony Fete in Municipal Auditorium's big Convention Hall Feb. 17.

Staged by the Long Beach chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, the 2½-hour program of song and comedy will get under way at 8:15 p.m.

The Forte-Niners won the championship of the Far Western District of the society at the convention in San Diego last October. The Far Western District includes California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Hawaii.

FIVE OTHER top-ranking quartets will match high and low notes with the Forte-Niners in the annual show. They are the Chordsmen of Whittier, the Devilaires of Glendale, Ariz., the Manhattans of Manhattan Beach, the Tonichords of Salt Lake City and the only girl quartet in the show, the Galaxies of Los Angeles.

In addition, the 30-voice male chorus of the Long Beach chapter and the 28-voice female chorus of the society's sister organization, the Sweet Adelines, will sing a number of songs.

PROCEEDS from the program will go toward sending deserving high school music students to Arrowbear, a summer music camp operated by Fred Ohlendorf in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Tickets may be obtained either in person or by mail from Russ Cunningham, 2377 Pacific Ave., Long Beach 6, or phoning Garfield 4-8113.

AF Will Close Officer School at Lackland Base

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force is preparing to close its administrative officer candidate school, which has turned out more than 40,000 second lieutenants. It has operated the school at Lackland Air Force Base here since 1945. The Air Force moved the school to Lackland from Miami Beach, where it first opened in 1942. Officials said enlisted men seeking Air Force commissions must go through an airman education-commission program after the school is shut down about the middle of 1963. Under the substitute program, candidates with 30 hours of college credit in selected subjects, such as engineering and technical fields, may compete for 400 places. The 400 will attend selected colleges at Air Force expense to obtain degrees, and receive 12 weeks of instruction at Lackland's Officer Training School.

Valuable Poodle Reported Stolen

CASE OF THE MISSING WHISKERS

Air Force Seeking Mothballs, Needles in Space

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, often harassed by public reports of flying saucer sightings, now has a mystery of its own making on its hands—the case of the missing whiskers.

The riddle grew out of the Air Force's recent unsuccessful attempt to spread a highly porous belt of 350 million hairlike copper fibers—something like week-old whiskers—2,000 miles about earth. The experiment was designed to study the possibility of a new, highly versatile jam-proof long-range radio communications system.

The test, called "Project West Ford," kicked off an international scientific argument months before the 75 pounds of tiny fibers—imbedded in mothballs inside a small canister—were shot aloft by a powerful rocket last Oct. 23 from California.

MANY American, Russian and other scientists voiced fears the experiment might interfere with optical and radio observations of the stars, or even manned and unmanned space flights.

The fibers, only 3/4ths of an inch long and much finer than human hair, were supposed to have been dispersed in space as the mothball chemical gradually evaporated, just as mothballs do in your clothes closet.

The idea was to form a belt of these soft fibers, or whiskers five miles wide and 25 miles thick around the globe, with individual fibers ultimately separated by a distance of a quarter of a mile to reflect radiowaves from earth.

In the past, the fibers have been described as needles—possibly because the Air Force dubbed the venture "Project Needles" in its early stages before scientists finally came up with the fine, soft fibers which bear little resemblance to rigid needles.

But—While the mothball package was released from the canister as planned, the copper whiskers, so far as can be determined, never were dispersed. There is evidence, however, that the package—contrary to plan—broke up into at least a half-dozen fragments which are now in orbit some 2,000 miles up, and hundreds of miles apart along the 40,000 mile long orbital pathway.

SO, AS A private-eye detective on a television show might say, the caper boils down to this:

(1) Did the mothballs fail to evaporate or (2) did the mothballs cooperate all right, only to have the whiskers themselves—for reasons yet unknown—remain locked in tight clusters which still could orbit the earth?

A further riddle is why the mothball-and-whisker package broke up into fragments.

The Air Force already has under study the possibility of making a new attempt to spread an experimental copper belt.

Soon after the launching, the M.I.T. scientists began patrolling the skies with three powerful radars.

At first there was no luck at all: no sign of any dispersed fibers; not even a sign of the canister as a whole.

Finally, on Nov. 3—10 days after the launching—M.I.T.'s radar picked up a small object orbiting about 2,000 miles up. All evidence suggested it was the lost package.

SEARCH ON FOR NEW TEACHERS

City's 'Talent Scouts' Off on Nationwide Hunt

By ROBERT WILCOX
Suitcases in hand, three "talent scouts" left Long Beach recently on the first leg of a carefully plotted nationwide search.

It was the signal that the hotly competitive spring quest for top teachers is in full swing.

In two weeks the "scouts"—all administrators traveling individually—will have talked to 1,000 seniors at 25 colleges from Ohio to Oregon.

During the sortie they hope to bag about 100 out of some 400 new teachers the Long Beach Unified School District will require next September.

DOGGING their footsteps, or perhaps ahead of them, will be similar minions from dozens of other Western school districts equally determined to nab the cream of the nation's 1962 crop of instructors.

Although the search is conducted in the interests of better education, the infighting can get fierce over outstanding prospects, each of whom may be considering offers from perhaps a dozen school districts.

Some representatives carry "quick sale" powers. ("Here's the contract, sign it.") Or the wavering prospect, in rare cases, may get an "out-of-thin-air" salary enhancement.

NEITHER of these tactics is available to the Long Beach emissaries, whose "catch"

must be approved by the Board of Education and who must stick to the district salary scale in negotiations.

(The stock Long Beach play is: "Think it over, Don't sign with anyone else for a week. Then let us know.")

Perhaps the greatest Long Beach selling lure, besides the district's reputation, is a series of pamphlets and brochures mailed to prospects ahead of time.

UNCHANGED since the early '50s is an appealing number entitled "You can REALLY LIVE and teach in Long Beach, California." Then there's the more recent two-color poster with a palm-bordered, ocean-foreground view of the Long Beach skyline and the simple question: "How Would You Like to Teach Here?"

The results of the three-pronged quest for the top 20 per cent of the nation's teaching graduates will start coming to the Board of Education next week with a host of names and records to process for approval or disapproval. But the success of the venture will be measured later on the performance of the instructors.

One test will be how many stay with the district. At the present time a remarkable two-thirds are accepted for tenure after three years.

DESPITE the nationwide recruiting (and there probably will be more sorties this year), the Long Beach district still hires most of its teachers locally.

Leading the college list by a wide margin is Long Beach State with 86 this year. Others are UCLA (15), USC (9) and Occidental (6). The statewide count is 154.

The richest out-of-state harvest comes from the lush Ohio Valley. Thirty-three Ohio teachers joined the Long Beach fold in 1961. Following were Illinois (25), Michigan (21), Indiana (17), New York (16), Wisconsin (14) and Oklahoma (13).

THE DISTRICT expects to replace about 10 per cent of its teachers each year due in part to what officials refer to as the 3 Ms—"Marriage, moving and maternity." As enrollment boomed, the precious supply of top-quality teachers reached a premium. Long Beach, which still spends only a few thousand dollars annually on recruiting, decided to go after the best. "The district feels that no teacher is too good for your child," said Odie Wright, deputy superintendent.

The publicity barrage, trips, and countless 20-minute interview sessions followed.

On the pupil "explosion" which caused it all, a district spokesman says:

"With climate and other advantages sending all these families to California, it was inevitable that sooner or later someone would have to send some teachers with them."

City College Schedules 3 Lectures

Three continuing public lectures will be presented this week by Long Beach City College General Adult Division. The schedule:

WEDNESDAY
Health Problems of the Senior Citizen — Dr. Robert Helms, "Malignant Skin Conditions," 2 p.m., Dewey High School auditorium, Eighth Street and Locust Ave.

Federal and State Income Taxation — J. A. Krancus, "Rental Income and Depreciation Methods," 7:30 p.m., Washington Junior High School auditorium, 15th Street and Pacific Avenue.

THURSDAY
Home Landscaping and Gardening — Ralph Shaw, "Selection of Plants and Plantings," 7:30 p.m., Hill Junior High School auditorium, 1100 Iroquois Ave.

Descanso Camellia Show Set

L. P.T. Los Angeles Bureau

The eighth annual Camellia Show at Descanso Gardens in La Canada will be held Feb. 24 and 25, according to Dr. William S. Stewart, gardens director.

Six member units of the Los Angeles Camellia Council will co-sponsor the 1962 show. Mrs. Caryl Pitkin of San Marino is council president.

The co-sponsors are Los Angeles Camellia Society, Temple City Camellia Society, Southern California Camellia Society, Orange County Camellia Society, Pomona Valley Camellia Society and Pacific Camellia Society.

WILLIAM F. GOERTZ of San Marino, show chairman, said anyone may enter camellias for competition with as small an entry as a single camellia being acceptable. Entries will be taken Saturday, Feb. 24, between 6:30 and 10 a.m. Judging will be from 10 a.m. to noon on that day.

The gardens will be open to the public from 6:30 a.m. to dusk on the opening day of the show and from 8 a.m. to dusk on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Descanso Gardens, a facility of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens, is at 1418 Descanso Drive, La Canada.

MARINA ATTRACTS TEACHERS

One of the spots out of city teachers like to visit when they teach and live here is the Marina. Sandra de Boer (left), of Long Beach, who teaches at Gompers, took Karen Guse from Illinois and Jonelle Fitz (right), from Pennsylvania, on a Marina tour. They were photographed in the Marina office. Miss Guse teaches at Holmes School; Miss Fitz at Gompers.

Home Gardeners Invited to Attend Demonstration of Tree Pruning

L. P.T. Los Angeles Bureau

Home gardeners are invited to attend the third annual tree pruning demonstration next Saturday at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia.

Don Woolley, chief horticulturist at the arboretum, and William (Doc) Thompson, horticulture instructor at

Mark Keppel High School, Alhambra, will demonstrate pruning at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Each demonstration will last about an hour. There is no charge.

The two horticulturists will explain how to prune a young tree so it can develop the strongest form to hold maximum production, and how to prune established trees to make it worthwhile to have fruit trees in the home garden.

Dr. William S. Stewart, director of the arboretum, said that in the event of inclement weather, the demonstrations will be postponed until Saturday, Feb. 24, at the same hours.

Dr. Stewart said that during February, the arboretum floral section should bring out blooms on tritiss gladiolus, gazanias, felicia, arctotis and cape marigold. Blooms should appear on acacia, eucalyptus and cassia trees.

Lunar Vehicle Tires Developed

By LEE CRAIG
Military-Aviation Editor

A 16-foot tire like no tire design ever seen on earth has been developed to carry the United States' first lunar vehicle for an exploration on the moon.

Produced by Goodyear, the tire—largest ever made—is a rubberized-fabric doughnut, supported by an intricate lacing of polyester cord spokes and strung from a lightweight aluminum or fiber glass disc to which the axle will be attached.

Weight of the vehicle's two huge tires and wheels has been limited to 125 pounds each. The world's largest "earth" tire, 10 feet in diameter, weighed 3,200 pounds.

The moon tire has been designed to operate with only a half pound of pressure per square inch. It will "envelop" such obstacles as six-foot boulders, jagged rocks or even volcanic glass, any of which may be found on the moon, according to present theories.

neers one of the most advanced instruments of its kind for developing and evaluating spacecraft control systems under conditions dynamically similar to those encountered in space.

The simulator consists of a round platform supported on a 10-inch-diameter spherical gas bearing — accurate to within 50 millionths of an inch — which literally floats on a film of gas about one-thousandth of an inch thick.

Thus the platform is free to rotate about any of its three axes with a near-frictionless motion, closely approximating that of a vehicle in space.

Aerojet-General Corporation, which originally developed JATO rockets (jet assist take-off) to provide extra push for heavily laden aircraft, has turned these units around to give JASTOP, jet assist stop.

Tests of the new application prove that it could be of value on wet or icy runways and for quick stopping in emergency landings on short, inadequate runways.

In nearby Hawthorne, Northrop's Norair division is working on a 1,200-pound satellite motion simulator so finely balanced that a fly landing on it would cause it to tilt.

The device will give engi-

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner... an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX textured Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Over 500,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 5,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all weather extremes.

Shot From a Gun KENITEX is guaranteed for 10 years against chipping, flaking or peeling... it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually "Shot from a Gun," KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls of the home. It is available in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor—at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Free Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by Talbert Painting Co.—licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low—convenient terms can be arranged. ## Ridder Trophy Won by Air Control Unit

The Herman H. Ridder perpetual trophy for all-around excellence was presented Saturday to Marine Air Control Squadron 18 at a "working" review of four reserve outfits at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Three hundred men stood at attention as Brig. Gen. Louis B. Robertshaw, commandant of Marine Air Reserve Training, Glenview, Ill., presented the trophy to the four reserve outfits at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station. The trophy was presented at a review of reservists Saturday at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

The citation accompanying the award to MACS 18 said: "For displaying highest activities by Gen. Robertshaw, Col. Hudgins and other high-ranking officers of the unit, and equipment maintenance through the year, and further, for excellence in basic training, drill attendance, military smartness and personal appearance of the unit." The trophy was presented to the unit by Brig. Gen. Robertshaw, commandant of Marine Air Reserve Training, Glenview, Ill.

WHICH ARE SMARTER—DOGS OR CATS?
(Asked at Fifth Street and Pine Avenue.)

DORA NORCROSS, 2000 Knoxville Ave., homemaker: Dogs, I think. When I visit homes where there are dogs, the dogs seem to know what is being said.

ELEANOR NORCROSS, 6310 Lewis Ave., homemaker: I have two dogs, so naturally I think they are the smartest.

GRACE BLUMBERG, 5959 E. Ocean Blvd., homemaker: Dogs. They are so faithful, and not so independent as cats. I have had one dog.

CLARENCE J. SESSIONS, 329 W. Ninth St., theater janitor: I say dogs. That's my opinion. We had dogs and cats back home in Pueblo, Colo., and the dogs were the smartest.

ANNA E. HARVEY, 135 Bonito Ave., private duty nurse: I think cats! I'm a dog lover, but I still say cats are smarter. They have minds of their own. They won't be bossed around like dogs are.

DAN CAVANAUGH, 9591 Adeline Ave., Garden Grove, finance company assistant manager: Cats. Because they can take care of themselves better than dogs.

HARVEY CAVANAUGH, 9591 Adeline Ave., Garden Grove, finance company assistant manager: Cats. Because they can take care of themselves better than dogs.

Senate Quiz Drops Red Questionnaire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senators conducting an inquiry into alleged military censorship have discarded a controversial questionnaire on Communism and may well abandon all such group testing, informed sources said Saturday.

They said the questionnaire, which created a furor after secretly being given to some Marines and airmen here, was now useless because of publicity.

Members of the subcommittee are expected to meet this week to discuss the controversy created by the Marine quiz and to decide where to go now in light of President Kennedy's action invoking executive privilege and directing State and Defense Department reviewers not to answer on specific speech deletions.

Undersecretary of State George Ball was said to be eager to appear to outline the State Department's policies. The department's role in censorship has been sharply attacked by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who claims speech changes reflected a "no-win" policy in the cold war.

Thurmond also wants the subcommittee to continue with the military phase of the censorship inquiry. Several witnesses are still to be heard, including Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff.

JFK Appears Victor in Power-Test Clash

By HARRY SHARPE
WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Kennedy clashed head-on with Congress last week in a test of executive power as old as the republic, and apparently won.

He also hinted strongly that he soon will order resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing, and he set up a U. S. military command in Communist-menaced South Viet Nam.

In the dispute with Congress the issue was this: Can a government official—in this case Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara—refuse to hand over secret information demanded by Congress? And how far can Congress encroach on the executive branch in extracting such information?

All chief executives since George Washington have faced the same problem.

The President, backing McNamara to the hilt, invoked the historic doctrine of executive privilege to deny the Senate preparedness subcommittee the names of Defense and State Department censors who purged specific military speeches of remarks allegedly damaging to administration foreign policy.

He said neither he nor McNamara could accede to "harassment of individuals who are only carrying out the policies dictated by their superiors."

The subcommittee, with Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., the sparkplug, is probing alleged administration gagging of some service officers who purportedly went to questionable extremes in denouncing communism.

THURMOND Some officers also have been accused of playing partisan politics.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., upheld the President's stand. But the Senate has the power to overrule him in which event there could be a court test.

Thurmond, who also has charged the State Department with not wanting to win the cold war, said he would have more to say later. Stennis meantime promised angry senators a full explanation of a Communist ideological quiz given 30 U. S. Marines, without the subcommittee's consent, by two Thurmond aides.

Marine Corps Commandant Gen. David M. Shoup protested that he was not consulted in advance and was denied a copy of the questionnaire. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., headed a Senate bloc demanding that this "gestapo procedure" be fully explained.

Thurmond counter-charged that the Defense Department had put the quiz in the worst light to besmirch and discredit him and "to take the heat off." But "the heat is on," he said, "and it's going to stay on. We are not going to be deterred from this investigation."

The senator accused news media, including the New York Times, the Washington Post, National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System, of one-sided coverage of the incident. He said he planned "some steps" to insure fairer coverage if action was not taken to improve TV coverage of the subcommittee's activities. He repeated that he will go before the Senate if necessary to bare the facts for the press and the public. "Nobody's going to muzzle me," Thurmond added.

The President told a press conference he would know within a month whether nuclear weapons tests would be resumed and would inform Americans in advance. He said a potentially dangerous situation had been created by Russia's secretly prepared series of 40 to 50 tests last fall while Moscow mouthed test ban proposals at Geneva.

Kennedy said this involved development of anti-missile-missiles and other critical questions, "and while we are amply strong for today and tomorrow,

we must consider the future."

He and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan proposed to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev raising the impending Geneva disarmament conference to the foreign ministers level in an effort to halt the test race. They also announced that Britain was making Christmas Island in the Pacific available for American tests while Britain will soon conduct underground tests at the U. S. Nevada proving ground.

The United States Friday fired its 13th underground test since Russia broke the voluntary test ban moratorium last year.

Responsible officials said the President was trying to maneuver Khrushchev into a box on the atmospheric test problem in an effort to achieve a real breakthrough toward an effective and well-policed test ban. They said Khrushchev most likely would cry "black-mail" when the pattern becomes clear. But Kennedy's course will underscore Russia's responsibility if the race continues.

The President established the South Viet Nam command as the most effective way to help the Asian country preserve its independence. No American troops will be committed, the Defense Department said, but the command will carry out certain operational responsibilities aimed at bolstering Viet Nam strength. Secretary McNamara is in full charge of the buildup. One defense official said the anti-Communist war was "one the West cannot afford to lose."

In other news spheres the United States orbited a Tiros weather satellite to help chart astronaut John Glenn's hoped-for journey into space this Wednesday. The President meantime asked Congress to create a corporation to finance private ownership of a communications-satellite system.

Argentina, under pressure from its military, joined other Latin American nations in breaking diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba. Within hours the suburban home of a U. S. embassy official was fire-bombed. Castro charged Argentina had bowed to Kennedy pressure.

In Saarbruecken, Germany, at least 299 coal miners perished in a mine explosion.

Pilot's Swap, Trip Covered With Secrecy

exchange, word of the swap reached President Kennedy. The chief executive had slipped up to the living quarters in the White House an hour before to await the flash from Berlin.

Until then, he had been attending a gay black tie White House dinner-dance.

NEWSMEN routed out of bed by Press Secretary Pierre Salinger got the word of the exchange.

The Soviet government announced to the Russian people by radio Moscow that Powers was freed in the hope of improving Russian-U.S. relations. But so far as the people were concerned, it was a one-sided gesture. Nothing was said about Col. Abel, since the Russians never admit that they have any spies operating in other countries.

The transfer was weeks in the negotiating stage. Apparently only officials at the highest level knew that fruitful dickering was under way.

ONCE THE negotiations reached the point where success evidently was sure, Kennedy signed a commutation for Abel and sent it to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, where the Russian was imprisoned. It was to take effect only when the prisoner exchange took place.

Reliable Soviet authorities said that Powers had been removed last Thursday from a prison at Vladimir, 110 miles northeast of Moscow.

Just how Powers reached the Berlin border was not brought out immediately. But U.S. sources said Abel was flown from Atlanta Wednesday, and wound up in Berlin Friday.

Freed far sooner than he apparently had dared hope, Powers quickly was whisked away from the Berlin bridge in a convoy of cars. He was rushed to a plane and soon was on the way home by air, to a reception to be shrouded in secrecy and uncertain official warmth.

Abel disappeared behind the Iron Curtain of communism. He had been serving a 30-year sentence as a spy convicted of stealing military and nuclear secrets from this country and slipping them to the Kremlin.

PRYOR, WHO was studying in West Berlin, entered East Berlin last August and vanished. Word seeped into the West weeks later that he was in prison, accused of espionage.

Pryor said Saturday night that he had orders from the U. S. government not to say anything until he returns to the United States. He was scheduled to land in New York at 1 a.m. EST today.

U.S. Scholar Pryor Bonus in Spy Swap

By United Press International
Frederic L. Pryor was the bonus in the Francis Gary Powers-Rudolph Ivanovich Abel spy trade.

Last Aug. 25, the tall, 28-year-old American scholar disappeared in the Communist maze of East Germany.

The son of an Ohio manufacturer, Pryor was destined to spend nearly six months there without seeing anyone except Communists before a quiet campaign by his family and the U.S. government paid off in his release.

PRYOR's twin brother, Millard Jr., said Frederic "probably knows more about East Germany's foreign trade than any other outsider."

Frederic had just completed his doctoral thesis for Yale University and was doing research on Communist foreign trade for magazine articles, according to Millard. Frederic was interviewing someone in East Berlin when he was arrested.

"There's nothing sneaky about this," Millard said. "This is a typical scholarly activity."

Born in Owosso, Mich., Frederic and his family moved to Mansfield, Ohio, in 1939. He went to Mansfield significant of any actual alteration so far, nor does it offer assurance that the whole trend may not blow up in some angry new conflict.

The United States, with reluctant British approval, seems to be on the verge of a decision to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere. Khrushchev has been maneuvering to prevent the United States from resuming or to make it pay a price if it does.

In Moscow Friday Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the Western powers once more that Russia wants Western troops withdrawn from West Berlin, or Soviet troops added.

IN LAOS, State Department officials have been encouraged by Russia's seeming willingness to support a compromise.

know," said businessman Sol Donovan corresponded many months ago about a possible exchange.

The elder Powers said Abel's wife was contacted in East Germany.

"We figured that it would be a big help if somebody was pulling for him (Abel) too," Oliver Powers said.

McAfee, who has represented the pilot's parents since he was brought down May 1, 1960, said efforts began in May — less than a month after the incident — to exchange Powers for convicted Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel.

McAfee said he and Abel's American attorney James B.

BEACH COMING
With MALCOLM EPLEY

THE stormy weather must have gotten to Pierre, the sage who sometimes predicts things to come in notes to this dept. Now he comes up with this one:

"Gov. Brown will put the question of a divided California before the Legislature next year. The dividing line will be the 37 degrees north latitude. The Honorable Sam Yorty, present mayor of Los Angeles, will become the first governor of Southern California."

It won't happen, but it might not be a bad idea.

ACCIDENTAL addition of an "e" to one word produced an interesting effect recently on a Long Beach City College term paper.

"This dame," the student wrote, "is recognized as the world's largest single source of hydroelectric power."

Further investigation reveals the author was not discussing the electrifying charms of a Mansfield, Monroe or Bardot, but was writing a sober research paper on the Grand Coulee Dam (e).

FROM Dorothy Curran, an addition to the discussion of the question as to where the west begins. She quotes Bernard de Voto's "The Plunder Province" as follows:

"The West begins where the average rainfall drops below 20 inches. When you reach the line which makes that drop—for convenience, the 100th meridian—you have reached the West."

If last week's weather continues, it seems this area will soon be disqualified as a part of the west.

RIDING the freeway in the rain the other day, Dick Racine came upon a true optimist.

This fellow had a seagoing 16-foot outboard motorboat on a heavy trailer. The trailer was pulled by a foreign compact car that looked about a fourth as big as the boat and trailer.

Moreover, he was out of gas, and was quite a menace to traffic in the heavy downpour. At the moment, it appeared he might be able to float the boat and give up the pulling job that was evidently too much for his little car.

THE reluctance of people of the Long Beach area to destroy old Christmas cards has resulted in a contribution of more than 100,000 of them—that's right, 100,000—to the program set up to send cards to needy people in faraway lands.

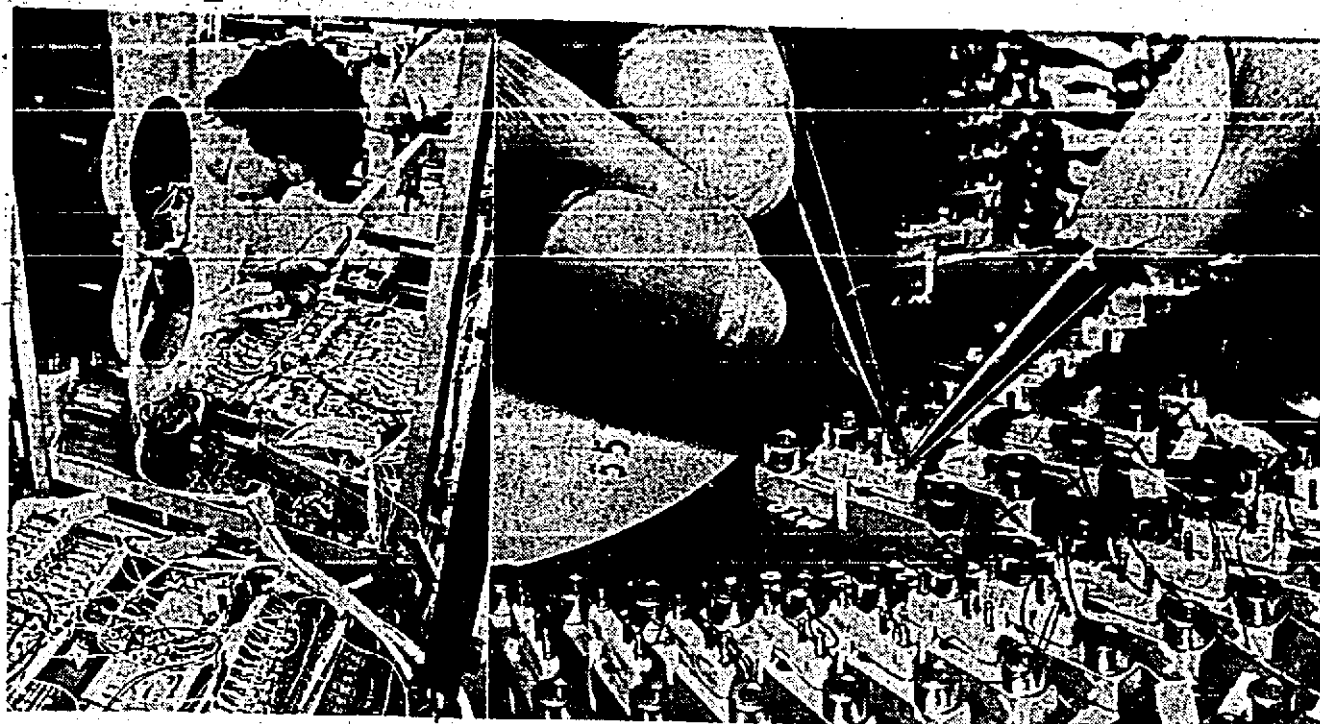

That's the report from Rev. O. A. Braskamp, whose appeal for cards has been carried in this dept. from time to time. It was from the items here that most of the old card "production" came, according to the good preacher, who is 77 years old and a hard worker in the good cause.

Rev. Braskamp's project here is a part of "Operation Handclasp" headed by a Redondo Beach minister, Rev. Clarence T. E. Walberg. Through the whole effort about 20 tons of used Christmas cards are shipped overseas each year.

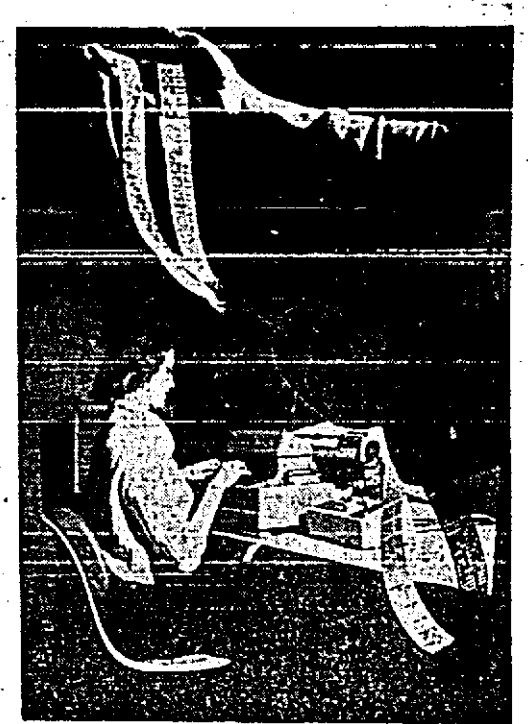

We're happy we've had a small part of it here. Once we ran the items, we were peppered with calls from people who remembered the general idea, but couldn't recall where to leave their cards. This proved quite a harassment for this dept.—mainly for my secretary, Anne Barrows—but it was worth it to help out a good cause.

AS I was saying the other day, people have a way of taking a joke seriously. So I've received a little note from Mrs. Thomas Dyer taking me to task for that item about the "friend" and the "real friend" in the two financial contribution categories of the Civic Light Opera Assn. She points out that the $25 giver might have found it many times more difficult to contribute than the $1000 contributor. True.

Computer's No Oracle--It's a 'Fast Idiot'

requiring tweezers to tie copper wires to "cells" of the memory unit. Seated at the console of the RECOMP III is Mrs. Gerri Griswold, 17211 Carfax Ave., Bellflower, punching out tape.

NO COFFEE BREAK NEEDED Electronic Marvel Starts at $65,000

By LEE CRAIG

The engineer types his name on a device resembling an electric typewriter. Almost instantly, the machine types back:

"Good morning, Mr. Jones. Can I solve a problem for you?"

This is how prospective customers are introduced to RECOMP II or III, the general purpose digital computer manufactured by North American Aviation's Autometrics-Industrial Products Division, 3400 E. 70th St.

THESE DESK-SIZE computers—selling for $65,000 and $95,000 respectively—mark North American Aviation's growth into the non-military market.

And even NAA Autometrics executives have been amazed at the constantly expanding applications in a variety of fields for their creation.

For example, Servo Mechanisms, Inc., of Santa Barbara, needed to duplicate environmental conditions at great altitudes, in order to test and improve their product.

Instead of building a costly altitude simulator, they used an Autometrics computer to construct a mathematical model of a simulator... in far less time and at comparatively small expense.

AT WOODS HOLE Oceanographic Institution, at Cape Cod, Mass., a Long Beach-built computer is used in processing such data as sea water density, salinity, specific volume and other information.

At West Point, one is used by cadets in analyzing tactical situations and other problems. And incoming tracking data for the current Ranger moon exploratory shoots is being interpreted by a locally made computer.

A COMPUTER is not an electronic oracle, engineers explain.

"We call it a 'fast idiot,'" one says, because—so far, anyway—it can neither learn nor remember by itself."

The computer performs its job by responding to a series of instructions given it, fed in through the input "typewriter" or by magnetic tape.

THESE COMMANDS can be incredibly lengthy and complicated, as when a computer is used to operate a milling machine which is cutting in three dimensions, in angles and curves, to create a part for, perhaps, a space vehicle.

The computer can be told which drill to use at each stage, where and how to deep to drill, when to cool the drill, when to apply a coolant and how to perform all other phases of the operation.

And if the engineer mistakenly gives the computer an order that can't be accomplished, the computer—having the milling machine's operating limits in its memory cells—reprovingly tells him he's goofed.

ONCE STARTED, however, the computer will keep the machine busy for 24 hours a day every day, without lunch, sleep or coffee breaks until it is told to stop.

One of these electronic brains at the Long Beach plant has been taught to shoot craps and how to deal a game of blackjack, following Las Vegas rules, of course.

With its mental processes unclouded by emotion, the machine usually wins.

THERE'S ONE case on record, however, where an Autometrics computer outsmarted itself.

This occurred in 1960 when Phillips Petroleum Co. leased a Recomp II for $2,495 a month to analyze operating characteristics at Phillips' Sweeney, Texas, plant and to figure out better ways of operating.

The little computer hummed and clicked happily for five months and results were spectacular, a 16 per cent increase in production.

Yet Phillips shipped it back to Autometrics.

Of the 16 per cent improvement, engineers had found that they could keep 10 per cent, merely by applying the lessons taught them by the computer.

The remaining 6 per cent gained by using the computer's fast reflexes to run the plant actually wasn't enough to pay the machine's rent, so back it went... covered with glory but homeless.

March of Dimes Far Short, Prompt Mail Gifts Urged

Less than half the $50,000 goal of the 1962 March of Dimes was realized in the January campaign, March headquarters announced Saturday.

Chapter Chairman Jimmie Dean appealed to persons planning to make contributions in donation envelopes mailed early last month to send in their gifts promptly so a final accounting may be made.

Dean said that if the envelopes have been mislaid, gifts may be sent to March of Dimes, 115 Pine Ave. Contributions also may be sent in envelopes left during the Jan. 30 Mothers March at homes where tenants were absent.

Total gifts to date amount to $33,636.

Issues on Ballot Explained; Here's No. 1--Offshore Wells

SKETCH OF PROPOSED OIL DRILLING ISLAND

Proposed oil drilling islands, off Long Beach, would look like the artist's sketch above. Prop. 1, to be voted upon in the Feb. 27 city election, provides for four such 10-acre islands between the harbor district on the west and the city boundary on the east. Islands would be at least

2,000 feet offshore from Ocean Boulevard. The islands would be ringed by shrubs and tall palms to screen oil drilling activity. Pumping units would be put underground. All operations to and from the islands would be conducted from the harbor district.

$1.7 Billion Pool Waits Exploiting

(Following is the first in a series of articles explaining the various propositions to be voted on in the special municipal election Tuesday, Feb. 27. Other articles will follow on succeeding days.)

By DON OHL

Proposition 1, the offshore oil drilling ordinance up for approval in the Feb. 27 city election, calls for the controlled opening of an oil field with an estimated $1.7 billion value.

The ordinance implements conditions laid down in a 1927 initiative ordinance which was amended in 1937 and 1956. This early ordinance prohibits oil development in the city and in the offshore area between the harbor district on the west and the city boundary on the east, but it provides that oil drilling sites can be set up with approval of the voters.

Following the guidelines laid down by the early ordinance, Proposition 1 provides for production of oil in this area from four 10-acre attractively landscaped islands, and from no other sites.

OFF-STREET PARKING Code Revision Draws Criticism

A proposed ordinance sharply increasing off-street parking requirements in the R-3 residential zone, already approved once by the City Council, is expected to draw fire Tuesday.

Vice Mayor Bert B. Bond said he will try to block the measure, at least until he investigates it further. He indicated that, like some other councilmen, he didn't know about the parking provision.

MAIN PURPOSE of the ordinance is to permit construction of more than four residential units in one building in an R-3 zone. But it also requires a parking ratio of 1 1/2 car spaces to 1 living unit in that zoning classification.

The present requirements are one-for-one in smaller buildings and only three parking spaces for a four-unit building.

A Long Beach builder, C. Earl Hindsman, charged that the proposed new ratio is unfair. In a letter to the Council he noted that even in the high-rise apartment zone R-5 only 1 1/2 spaces are required for each unit. In an R-4 zone, the minimum ratio in some areas is as low as one-for-two.

Hindsman also objected to other technical provisions of the new ordinance. He urged that present R-3 regulations be left unchanged.

Chamber Women Meet Thursday

A general membership dinner meeting of the Women's Division, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Petroleum Club, 3636 Linden Ave. Guest speaker will be Werner Ruchti, city planning director.

Guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Enrique Chanut of the Chile consulate.

Microwave Society to Hear Speaker

Frederick W. Brown will speak on "Communication Antennas for Microwave Frequencies" Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the meeting of the Microwave Society of Long Beach in the Bayshore Public Library, Bayshore Avenue and E. Second Street.

Schneider to Retire as L.A. Consul

Dr. Eduard C. Schneider, first German national to be sent to the U.S. in an official capacity after World War II, will retire as German consul general in Los Angeles April 30.

Dr. Schneider came to the U.S. in 1949 as German representative to the Marshall Plan.

He joined the German foreign service in 1953 and was consul general in New York before taking the Los Angeles post in September, 1956.

With conclusion of his service here Dr. Schneider will be retired from service.

Council's Calendar

City Council agenda items for Tuesday—

Letters from Apartment House Association and Chamber of Commerce endorsing propositions on Feb. 27 ballot.

Ordinance committee recommendation that technical amendments to electrical regulations be adopted.

Planning Commission recommendation for rezoning from R-1 to C-1 of marina area site of proposed hotel; petition with 25 signatures protesting the rezoning.

City prosecutor and police chief recommendation that proposed liquor license for premises at 1744 E. Broadway be protested.

Resolution authorizing city manager to lease space in Marine Bazaar Building to Crestline Division, Sigelwe Sanford Inc., for small boat sales.

Ordinance rezoning from R-2 to R-3 property north of Columbia Street between Del Mar Avenue and Long Beach Boulevard; permitting subterranean garages in R-4, R-3 and P use districts; amending regulations for R-3 use district; providing that vacated streets be given same zoning as adjacent property.

Continued hearing on proposed annexation of Buena Vista-Hawley Gardens area.

Continued hearing on proposed widening of Wesley Drive between Orange Avenue and Pacific Electric right of way.

Hearings on appeal from Planning Commission's approval of special permit for history office building at 401 W. First Street; on revocation of 1960 license of Lawrence W. Duff, 24 Chestnut Pl.

Plans and specifications for county-financed Alamitos Bay Pumping Plant; for improvement of Spring Street between Pioneer Boulevard and city boundary.

Proposed negotiated contract with Mueller Co. for furnishing specialized tools and equipment to Gas Department; contract award to Shepherd Machinery Co. for power-driven belt loader.

General development plan for Lincoln Park.

Proposed amendment establishing Loreta Wells, between Naples Plaza and Caribais Lane, as one-way street in southwesterly direction.

Resolution approving modifications in San Diego Freeway design; authorizing supplemental agreement with Joe Gull Holter, C.A., authorizing joint powers agreement with other local agencies regarding a common film and audio-visual circuit.

Reports on leaks in Public Safety Building; on request for street light at 1544 W. Cameron St. on trash collection complaint; on proposed widening of Wesley Drive.

Authorization for Dr. J. D. Llewellyn, city health officer, and Harry Ladat, administrative assistant, to attend conference Feb. 27 March 1 on San Francisco on rehabilitation of alcoholics.

SHE WALKS ON OIL WELLS

Virginia Marine is walking over oil wells on Pier A's Richfield Oil development, the type of oil operation proposed for four oil drilling islands off Long Beach. Once wells are drilled, the oil operations are conducted from below-surface channels. Only above-ground evidence of the wells is the markers.

L.B. Needs New Main Library

WHEN SCHOLARS SPEAK of the "legacy" which has been left by the world's older civilizations to our own, what do they mean?

They mean mainly the ideas and the histories, preserved between the covers of books.

Certainly, then, one of the most important features of our own legacy to future times, are stored for general use and contemplation.

We mean, of course, our system of libraries.

LONG BEACH, BUSY treating its growing pains in recent years, has not paid as much attention as it should to this aspect of community life.

The time has come for action.

Voters are asked to approve a $5,750,000 bond issue at the Feb. 27 election for construction of a badly-needed new main library for Long Beach.

THE PRESENT MAIN LIBRARY is an ancient, cramped building constructed in 1909 and remodeled back in 1937. It has 28,638 square feet of space, but studies show that a main library for a city this size should contain 150,000.

An enormous growth of population has put a severe strain on this limited library facility, and that issue at the Feb. 27 election for construction of a branch libraries. On the contrary. The main library is the trunk from which the branches are regulated; the need for a bigger main library has grown along with the need for branches.

THE MAIN LIBRARY is used more and more because of increased school enrollments, the generally greater interest in reading and study, and the existence of larger and larger numbers of adult students.

Library users are served by a facility which needs 500 seats for readers but has only 277, and which needs a capacity for 600,000 books but has only 138,000.

Many thousands of persons who want to use a library are discouraged from doing so at all.

PROP. 2 WILL GIVE LONG BEACH the library it deserves and needs.

'AFFAIRS OF STATE

State Budget May Grow Even Bigger

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Financial committees of the two houses of the California legislature are about to tackle Gov. Edmund G. Brown's record $2.83 billion budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

If they, and the Legislature itself, run true to form, the budget will be approved pretty much the way it was submitted except it probably will be even nearer the $3 billion mark when the lawmakers finish with it.

Brown presented the budget to the legislature during a two-day session in Sacramento. The full legislature will return March 7 for another 28 days on the budget, as well as a special session which will include a number of items.

The governor termed his budget "soundly balanced," but critics pointed immediately to the fact that some $141 million in bond money will be chunked into the budget to keep all the bills paid.

THE TWO DAYS of the session went very much according to the expected script. Democratic leaders in the two houses hailed Brown's budget as another showing of his fiscal responsibility, in that the document was aimed at taking care of needs in welfare and education. Republicans, on the other hand, called it wasteful and irresponsible. Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell, (R-Los Angeles), GOP candidate for the governorship, said the budget took the state further down the road to total socialism.

ASSEMBLY SPEAKER Jesse M. Unruh, (D-Los Angeles), on the rostrum for the first time, left no doubt that—also as expected—he would keep a sharp rein on the lower house. While most speakers only come off the rostrum to take the floor in a fight once or twice during a six-month session, Unruh was down in a squabble on his second day as speaker. Following criticism by Shell and Assemblyman John A. Buserud, (R-San Francisco), the elected leaders of the Republicans, on the budget, Unruh proposed the two accept membership on the Ways and Means Committee where they could study the budget. Both refused on grounds they would not be returning next year and the posts should go to members who will return and could make use of the experience. The Assembly voted 62-9 to add the two new members and Unruh was expected to make the appointments by mid-February. He said he might appoint Shell and Buserud, whether they wanted to be on the committee or not.

A BUILT-IN controversy was provided for the special session of the Legislature by the submission last week of a commission studying reapportionment of the state Senate. The group recommended that, in counties of more than 1.5 million, they be given one additional senator for each 1.5 million persons. This would mean three new senators for Los Angeles County. The report called for a limit for any one county of 10 per cent of the total senate membership. While the report was approved unanimously by the commission, three members entered exceptions. A Plumas County supervisor, Clair Donnenwirth, said the limit on senators should be three to a county. Frank G. Bonelli, Los Angeles supervisor, and spearhead of the reapportionment move, said the 10 per cent limit was "repugnant" and negated the theory of reapportionment.

ABSORBING SITUATION

DREW PEARSON

Moscow Reports Hint Nikita May Plan to Purge His Rivals

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is traveling in the Far West. His column is written today by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Chilling whispers from Moscow claim that Nikita Khrushchev, in what could be a prelude to a purge, has been calling for the execution of his Kremlin rivals.

This may be hard to believe of the leader who evicted Stalin's grisly corpse from its showcase and who has sought to relax terror at home and abroad.

Yet some State Department experts, experienced in the devious doings of the Kremlin, believe that Khrushchev actually has been trying to do away with his enemies for three years.

HE HAS been restrained, they say, by the politburo members who have a human preference for dying comfortably in bed. They want an end to settling Communist differences with a bullet in the back of the neck.

Powerful as Khrushchev is, the politburo so far has managed to hold him in check.

He made his first move against his rivals at the January 1959 Communist congress. At his belligerent anti-party activities.

Then he hurled a bombshell at them—the ominous word, "criminal"—which has portended purge trials in the past.

The Communist small-fry gleefully echoed the ugly word. But the politburo refused to back up his play. Its members paid lip service to his charges, but avoided the key word, "criminal."

Again last October, Khrushchev took the initiative in crying out against the anti-party faction's crimes. This led to an upheaval which is still rocking the Kremlin.

THIS RAISES the question, which Khrushchev is finding awkward to answer, as to what he was doing during Stalin's abuses. For he worked under the men he now accuses of crimes against the Russian people.

One day, some faceless comrade may take Khrushchev's place on the podium and denounce him as he has denounced Stalin. That comrade will not lack for evidence.

Overnight, the image of Khrushchev the Kind will go crashing into the dust. In its place will stand a blood-stained buffoon who gambled for his master in a clumsy cossack dance, then went out to do his deadly bidding.

For at the height of the Stalin terror, Nikita was not only Stalin's most obedient hate-monger; he prosecuted Stalin's purges with the frenzy of a fanatic.

Or, more likely, he was a fear-ridden man who knew

he could live only if others died to satisfy a monster's paranoia.

If a man ever climbed over corpses to success, that man is Nikita Khrushchev. One he stepped over may have been that of Stalin's own wife, Alliluyeva, who either committed suicide or was murdered in 1932.

She worked with Khrushchev in the same party cell. Likely she was the first to introduce him to Stalin. She was a gentle woman who opposed her husband's terror. But she made the mistake of criticizing his policies too openly.

Did Khrushchev reward her friendship by informing on her? One report, from an excellent source, says he did.

It may be significant, too, that Nikita predicted the murder of Trotsky, Stalin's chief rival, in Mexico four years before it happened in 1940. Khrushchev declared: "Let the ringleader of the gang, the ally of the German Gestapo, Trotsky, be absent at the trial in Moscow. The anger of our people, the sentence of justice will reach him anywhere."

Did Nikita himself help plan Trotsky's murder? Certainly he wasn't ignorant of the design.

As Stalin's overseer of the Ukraine, Khrushchev carried out the dictator's terrible vengeance. Those were the bloody '30's when Stalin was raging like a mad wolf against his enemies, both real and imagined. Millions were driven under the lash into slave labor camps. Hundreds of thousands were shot out of hand by the secret police.

WHEN THE Germans occupied the Ukrainian town of Vinnytsa in 1943, they unearthed grisly evidence of Nikita's work for Stalin. In the Park of Culture and Rest, they found 95 mass graves containing 10,000 bodies.

All had their hands bound behind their backs, bullet wounds in the back of the neck. From the earth in their mouths, it was clear that many had been buried while still alive.

Khrushchev gave the orders for that massacre.

Of late, Khrushchev has been making great play of his humanity. He would like to get rid of his rivals, but he may also have concern for his place in history.

That faceless Comrade who may one day denounce him may trouble Khrushchev's thoughts.

About Mr. Wilson's Typewriter

WASHINGTON—This is a story about a typewriter that has just come to the White House for exhibition to the public. To understand its significance, one must ask how many persons out of the many millions who use a typewriter every day do so over the years almost never make a mistake in typing.

Yet this is the feat which a President of the United States—Woodrow Wilson—performed, and the evidences of it are to be found in the many historic documents that he personally typed and which are on file in the Library of Congress.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY received the typewriter at a little ceremony the other day to which he graciously invited the writer, who last autumn had written Mr. Kennedy suggesting that, inasmuch as he was endeavoring to place on exhibition at the White House mementoes of every President, it might be desirable to get the Wilson typewriter from the American Red Cross. Sold as "surplus property," the typewriter had come into the possession of the late Adm. Cary T. Grayson, President Wilson's physician, who had loaned it to the Red Cross. It was found stored in an attic, and Gen. Gruenther, President of the Red Cross, made the formal presentation to President Kennedy in a brief ceremony attended also by Adm. Grayson's sons.

Mr. Kennedy displayed some facsimiles of President Wilson's typing, including the original of the message to Congress on the

Lack of Responsibility Gave Primaries to Grassrooters

THAT DOOR clanging shut last month in Fresno virtually closed the case for Democratic candidates in the June 5 "direct" primary.

The California Democratic Council picked its statewide slate: Governor Brown, Lt. Gov. Anderson, Atty. Gen. Mosk, Don Rose for secretary of state, Richard Richards for U. S. Senate, Controller Cranston, Treasurer Betts and four incumbent Democrats on the Board of Equalization.

An expert says this primary endorsing by the CDC virtually closes the primary. It "represents virtually the end of the intent of the direct primary."

The California Republican Assembly, the GOP parallel to the grass-roots, amateur and unofficial CDC, tends toward the same closure except that its much smaller size reduces its impact in that direction.

Direct primary, by definition, should allow any candidate to contest any other for any office with the electorate making the nominations. This still applies in theory. But the realistic politician who lacks pre-primary endorsement by either of these unofficial party groups has slight chance of success. So, in practice, the aspirant asks to be considered by the CDC or CRA endorsing conventions. Usually he says he will withdraw if he does not get the endorsement.

DR. FRANCIS CARNEY, University of California, Riverside, is our expert and the chronicler of a comprehensive study of Demo clubs and the CDC.

He says 85 to 90 per cent of contested primary races are won by CDC-endorsees. CDC, with an assist from Dr. Carney, contends however that alternatives to the clubs' takeover of endorsing may be worse. Party responsibility diminishes. Citizens at large vote without benefit of insight into qualifications. Their selections are hazardous.

Moral arguments begin to carry some weight, says Carney, when you assume that something good is to be gained by popular participation. In the past, this participation has dwindled into pressure group and lobbyist control of slates and candidates. Insofar as the CDC or CRA endorsements cut down on total participation, they tend to be bad. The CDC system would be bad at such time as its discipline should become complete. Carney does not anticipate this eventuality.

"The CDC is doomed to perpetual disappointment" in this respect, he says. Despite their endorsement, the candidate they elect is not their captive. He gets "socialized" by his colleagues and he has a much broader constituency to be responsible to. Typically, legislators do this and disappoint the party militants.

WITH A STATE membership estimated at 71,000, CDC's broader base tends to make for more representative choices in the same manner in which a broad and strictly open primary would. Club people would lose interest if their amateur organizations were abandoned. And if they do exist they must have some sense of power to hold them together and to vitalize the party.

In 1958's primary, Stanley Mosk, the CDC-endorsee, won nomination over Bob McCarthy for attorney general. McCarthy ran despite rejection by CDC. Mosk won 1,217,297 to 1,068,544. This shows the endorsement does not discourage the electorate from independence. It also would argue for candidates demonstrating the courage to buck to endorsed candidate.

IN THE SAME year, Cap Weinberger, the endorsed candidate of the CRA for attorney general, lost to Pat Hillings in the GOP primary's attorney general contest. The vote was 740,911 to 527,764.

There's something attractive about volunteer organizations which operate outside the official party organization, says Carney, especially when they produce meaningful contests between both major parties. But there also is something threatening about them—to the degree that their discipline should become complete, thus foreclosing the chances of any non-endorsed office seeker.

Heard Pat Brown, Opposes Him

EDITOR:

Now that the race for governor of California is well under way I must say Pat Brown is quite disgusting. I am under the age limit, so I hadn't given the governorship much thought. However, since I have listened to Pat Brown, not only his speech announcing he would run, but also other statements, I am sure I don't want him to win.

He obviously has his heart in the clouds when he says that all is right in California. I am just as patriotic as the next Californian, but I realize there certainly is room for improvement.

I AM ONLY a 9th grade student, but I'm not too young to recognize those sickening insults directed at Mr. Nixon. If he relies on insulting name-calling and a general tearing down of his opponent to win this election, then by all that is good in this state I sincerely hope he faces defeat. How can a grown man act like this? His actions and words have brought the level of this campaign down to two little boys fighting it out for president of the neighborhood group. I am very angry and wonder what other Democrats and open-minded Republicans think of this.

His Hat's Off to John Mansell

EDITOR:

I believe that John Mansell, city manager, should be commended for his actions during the recent bus strike threat. He exhibited great courage by the position he took, which resulted in a 60-day postponement of the walk-out.

His proposal to negotiations showed great foresight and were in the best interests of the public, the workers and the company. His offer to arbitrate the matter proved his leadership and responsibility as a public official.

It is refreshing to know that there still are men in public life who have the best interests of all the people at heart, without bias or prejudice. My hat's off to John Mansell, a real civic leader.

Over 700 of my fellow employees at Douglas use the Long Beach bus to and from work and they certainly were cheered when the settlement was announced.

EDITOR:

Thank you for Mr. Wallmeyer's fine cartoon in Thursday's Press-Telegram. He is always good at picturing the pith of the matter vividly and often has me smiling at his perspicacity. The paper can be mighty proud of him.

I'm torn between saying "It's Going to be a Rough One" and sending it to my sister who is on the staff of a daily in another city.

Language in the News

By Charles F. Burke and Robert Strompen-Davis

From a reader: "How do you pronounce the name of the Welsh town Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllandysiliogoch?" H. C. Rooney Jamaica, N.Y.

It is pronounced "hlan-vair-pooft-gwin-guft-gohgrec-khweern-droh-buff-hlan-dee-see-tyoh-go-goch." It has been said that the name is so long that by the time the train conductor has finished announcing it the train has pulled out of the station.

The reason the name is so long is that Welsh has a tendency to combine descriptive phrases into one word. It means "The Church of St. Mary in the Hollow of the White Hazel Tree near the Rapid Whirlpool by the Church of St. Dysilio by the Red Cave."

(Does some word in any language puzzle you? Put your question to "Language in the News" in care of this newspaper.)

JFK Conference Satirical, Witty

WASHINGTON — At his press conference last week President Kennedy took a couple of sardonic swipes at political opponents—humorous sallies which were reminiscent of Franklin D. Roosevelt in his prime. He showed not the slightest hesitancy to muss up Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. The New York governor had been critical of Kennedy's proposal for an urban development Cabinet post and had been even more critical of Kennedy for naming a head of the nonexistent agency. The President has selected a Negro, Robert C. Weaver.

When a reporter called all this to Kennedy's attention, the President was ready with a well-prepared stock of satirical comment.

"I was interested in the statement," said the President, "because as you know in 1956 and 1957 Gov. Rockefeller recommended the exact proposal that we recommended. The only difference—and I was recently examining his recommendations to President Eisenhower—was that he recommended that civil defense be included, but as we have placed civil defense under the military, that really is the only significant change. So he must have, for one reason or another, changed his point of view on it."

"The second reason," the President continued gleefully, "he criticized me was that I, in response to a question, said Mr. Weaver was going to be appointed. Obviously, the governor has forgotten that on March 12, 1953, when President Eisenhower sent up the proposal for the reorganization of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, on the 13th it came from the White House that he was going to appoint Mrs. Hobby to be the secretary, and the only reason that I was astonished that the governor then forgot it was that he then became her deputy. So it seems to be the situation is not altogether dissimilar. However, I did read with interest a column in the Times (New York Times) where Fulton-Lewis said nobody could get to the right of Barry Goldwater, but now I am not so sure."

THE PRESIDENT'S sallies drew laughs from the assembled reporters, a reaction which no one enjoyed more than John F. Kennedy. He laughed at his own jokes and tossed his head around in self-approbation much as Franklin D. used to do when he pulled a plum out of the press conference pudding.

Kennedy, also airily dismissed George Romney by asserting it was too early to comment on anything he had to say, he characterized the John Birch Society as alien to both the Republican and Democratic parties and in general comported himself with the zest and the aplomb of a sure-footed political leader.

Kennedy's use of broad humor and satire is something new. That the President possesses a sharp wit has long been known, but like most politicians he uses it sparingly. Any experienced traveler along the hustings knows that humor is a two-edged weapon which can cut the wielder as easily as the intended victim. Adlai Stevenson's quips, for instance, however delightful they may have been, were regarded with suspicion by large portions of the populace and in the long run cost him more votes than they gained.

THE PRESIDENT'S enjoyment of his own barbs at Rockefeller reflect, one supposes, his presently somewhat buoyant mood. Things are going reasonably well for Kennedy these days. The Cuban debacle has been written off as just one of those things, the President appears to be on top of his job, and all the public opinion indices show him maintaining an impressive popularity. In his mood, delivery, and mannerisms, he recalled the days when Franklin Roosevelt was talking of the Republicans "Martin, Barton and Fish" or Roosevelt's classic satirical campaign attacking all Roosevelts including his Scotch terrier, Fala.

PAINT JOB PUZZLE TO POLICE

'Phantoms' Clean Things Up

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI) — It was not an unusual request and the men in blue who work in Police Chief August J. Rauscher's office scarcely paid any attention when a stranger wandered in and asked to use the rest room. Permission was granted and the officers thought nothing more about it until the man returned a few moments later and announced with some indignation: "That room is a mess. It needs painting and plastering." More specifically, he noted the green paint was faded and peeling from the wall in spots. THE STRANGER then offered to paint the room. Thirty minutes later the man was back, dressed in coveralls and accompanied by two assistants bearing ladders, paints, brushes and other equipment. They immediately got to work, patching the cracks, painting over everything and when the rest room was spic and span, they moved into the halls where they continued their volunteer work. A call went in to Peter Calcagno, City Hall's painting foreman. "I DON'T KNOW of any painters in police headquarters," Calcagno said. He rushed over to investigate and found painters working busily on the third floor. "What are you doing here?" Calcagno asked. "Painting," said one of the trio, belaboring the obvious. Calcagno accepted that for what it was worth and departed. When their work was completed, the phantom painters abruptly left, presumably in search of more unkempt fields to conquer. The surprise visitors came several days ago and police still have no idea who they were.

IT HAPPENED ONE NIGHT

Tony Curtis Rise to Star American Success Story

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—I get letters frequently from people asking, in effect, "Can Johnny Anybody really become a movie star?"

Well, Bernie Anybody did—Bernie Schwartz of the Bronx—Tony Curtis. He's getting bigger constantly. And the way it happened to Bernie Schwartz is a story I like.

"About 12 years ago," says Bob Goldstein, an ex-New Yorker, now head of 20th Century-Fox in Europe, "I was in my office on Park Ave., scouting movie talent for Universal-International. I was listening to a ball game if you must know the truth."

"Suddenly I learned that Miss Joyce Selznik, an agent, was shuffling around outside with her new discovery, her latest anybody."

"HE HAD a lot of black hair drooping down over his forehead. It was not a beautiful face but it had a lean and hungry look and strong bones."

"He was wearing a sweat shirt and jeans, the uniform of the method actor. But he was not a method actor."

"He was just short of a suit."

"Miss Selznik introduced him as Mr. Bernie Schwartz. I flinched. Imagine it, 'Bernie Schwartz' as 'The Viking.' Maybe it is better not to imagine it."

"He was a very talkative young man and he doesn't seem to have changed a bit. He was unlike another young boy named Brando who came to see me and did not answer one question but just kept his head down looking at the floor."

"This floor was just like any other floor and I never could figure why Brando could not take his eyes off of it. After asking Mr. Brando eight or nine questions and seeing he was just wedded to that floor, I put my hand on his shoulder, thanked him, and said we should get together for more of these interesting chats."

"BUT BERNIE Schwartz, the Lochinvar of the Bronx, came in next day to read. I wouldn't say he delivered his lines like Sir Laurence Olivier, but in fairness I have never heard Sir Laurence speak like Bernie Schwartz. He had the accent of an immigrant taxi driver with a mouth full of hot bagel."

"Bernie passed his test with flying colors."

"I told my secretary to get in touch with Bernie Schwartz and instruct him to report in Hollywood."

"She hunted around and finally found our hero in the Bronx playing stickball. The man in the candy store called him."

"That's how Bernie got the message that took him to Hollywood, Janet Leigh, and that sweet smell of success."

"I gave him a seven-year contract at $125 a week. Bernie was beside himself, which as his critics say, has turned out to be his favorite position."

"Since 'Bernie Schwartz' was not the most dramatic label for this virile, muscular young actor, I wrote down a long list of names and held them against his face."

"Anthony Curtis seemed to fit. Since that noble christening, there have been so many Anthony Curtises in the Bronx you have to hunt high and low to find a Bernie Schwartz."

"On getting his first check-book, Tony took his father, mother and little brother to California. He met a young actress named Janet Leigh. The studio asked them not to get married right away. Tony and Janet got married right away. This demonstrated that Tony Curtis has a mind of his own. He has been forcibly demonstrating it ever since."

"Tony has lost a little but gained a lot on his climb. He has gained the poise, the self assurance, the power and the style of a star. I wish him well—and I'm with another

BROADWAY BOUND

Still glamorous at 43, Rita Hayworth holds the script of the play in which she will make her stage debut. It's "Step on a Crack," due on Broadway in the fall. Rita, who has been making movies since 1935, never has had formal dramatic training but is confident she can make good on the stage.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

Diahann Carroll posed three days in her "No Strings" costumes for a fashion layout—then learned the photos were ruined in the developing.

Duo at Harold's Show Spot: Shelley Winters and Ralph Meeker. . . . Eva and Zsa Zsa Gabor said, at the Tower Suite, they'd like to do a show together—but they didn't say positively. . . . The "Milk and Honey" cast is wearing new sweaters—knitted by Mimi Benzell's hairdresser, Sidney. . . . Roulette Records grossed a million in '61—thanks mostly to Joey Dee's twist disks.

Shelley Berman's so confident about his B'way show, "A Family Affair," that he installed a phone in his dressing room. . . . The Bill Holden-France Nuyen film will be titled "Satan Never Sleeps"—except in Europe, where it'll be "The Devil Never Sleeps."

Franciosa's a hot prospect for the "Period of Adjustment" film.

Red Buttons was offered a car for his cameo bit in "One, Two, Three," but rejected it—said it was a favor for his pal Jack Lemmon, who had to bow out. . . . Singer Robert Goulet has incorporated, and now owns 75 per cent of himself. . . . Johnny Mathis' hard-driving mgr., Helen Noga, is going into the book publishing business. . . . Comic Mort Shai's coming back to Basin St. East, and one wag says, "He'll have the old material—but a new wardrobe of sweaters."

EARL'S PEARLS: A good husband is one who feels in his pocket every time he passes a mail box.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Taffy Tittle says she's been buying furniture on the lie-awake plan: "I lie awake wondering how I'm going to pay for it."

Bob Hope took one of those H'wood tours of the stars' homes. "I discovered," he says, "that I've been living in the wrong house for two years." . . . That's early, brother.

More than your eyes have ever seen

'SeeSaw' Easy Stage Show Time Play, Tough Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two for the see-saw, was the play producer's dream—two characters, one set.

But such a setup can be a nightmare to a movie director. That's why Robert Wise has had to work overtime to fashion the screen version. He thinks he's got it licked.

"SeeSaw" is a change of pace for Wise. His last effort was "West Side Story," which crowded the screen with rumbling street gangs.

His new film is concerned only with two characters: a lonely New York bachelor girl and a lonely Midwestern man, who live in adjacent flats. Shirley MacLaine and Robert Mitchum play the roles originated on Broadway by Anna Bancroft and Henry Fonda.

How does Wise keep the two-character film alive?

"THE CHARACTER Shirley plays is so colorful and diverse that I'm provided with lots of fluidity and motion," the director said. "She is a good-hearted, generous person, full of schemes and projects."

"She is forever sewing, fixing up her apartment, trying dance steps. Both Shirley's and Bob's apartments are filled with bric-a-brac, dime-store stuff which can be of enormous importance when one or even two people play in a scene.

"Another big help is the telephone. Shirley and Bob use them constantly in the film. The sets are placed side-by-side, and we're using real phones. Thus we can film them conversing with each other at the same time, instead of cutting back and forth, as is usually done in phone scenes."

Hike in Auto Sales Spur General Economic Rise

By JACK LEFLER
Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The

automobile industry is barrel-rolling along the prosperity road at high speed.

And, if the pace is maintained, it can sweep much of the economy along with it.

Economic well-being in the industry is contagious. It spreads directly to makers of steel, rubber, glass, fabrics and many other manufacturers.

And heavy buying of cars shows that the consumers are well-heeled and that their purchases will lap over into the entire retail field.

SALES OF new passenger cars in January totaled 485,962, compared with 368,900 in January 1961. The total was the best for the month since 490,000 were sold in January 1957.

General Motors grabbed 54.8 per cent of the market with sales of 266,290 cars. Ford accounted for 28.6 per cent with 138,756. Chrysler 9.9 per cent with 48,204. American Motors 5.5 per cent with 26,937 and Studebaker-Packard 1.2 per cent with 5,900.

Only Studebaker-Packard sales showed a decline from January 1961. Its production had been shut down for six weeks by a strike of the United Auto Workers union. The strike was settled Thursday.

Dealers are optimistic about the outlook for the balance of the year. A survey by C. I. T. Credit Corporation at the National Automobile Dealers Association convention indicated a belief that 6.5 million cars will be sold this year.

With an inventory of nearly 1 million cars in dealers' hands, production this week was shaved to an estimated 128,000 from 138,409 last week.

Chrysler Corporation reported it made a profit of $11.1 million in 1961. The No. 3 automaker earned $31.6 million in the final quarter, erasing a $20.5 million loss in the first three quarters. Earnings in 1960 totaled $32.2 million.

Business as a whole took heart from the decision of the United Steelworkers union and steel producers to begin negotiations on a new contract next Wednesday. This earliest date in history was agreed upon under pressure from President Kennedy. The current contract expires June 20.

THE UNION let it be known that its greatest concern in reaching a contract agreement will be job security, which it will seek to attain by a shorter work week and longer vacations.

Steel production last week reached the highest level in 22 months with some extra buying attributed to hedging against a possible strike. Output totaled 2,446,000 tons, 2.3 per cent above the previous week.

A vast new vista for investment opened up when President Kennedy asked Congress to set up a profit-making communications satellite corporation.

A federally chartered corporation would own and operate the U. S. portion of an international system in which space satellites would be used to transmit commercial telephone, telegraph, television, data and other communications. An individual could buy a share at not less than $1,000.

Also in the investment realm, the stock market carried through a good rally that began last week with Blue Chip issues leading the way.

And Wall Street was agog over reports that the government would seek a tax fraud indictment against a prominent financial figure.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, investigating the entire securities business, was reported to have decided that new regulatory laws are needed. But action wasn't expected until after next January.

The Commerce Department reported business sales in 1961 increased by $8.4 billion to a record $738.9 billion. However, sales of $67.3 billion in December dropped behind the November level by $310 million.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York concluded that the economy has been moving

A LEADING economist, Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at New York University, told a conference of the American Bankers Association that the present economic climate requires caution. He said the outlook is clouded by uncertainties over war, whether the Cuban revolution can be kept under control in Latin America, whether a break between the right and left in France can be mended, and the effect of the European Common Market.

Briefly around the business scene: consumers' desire for services has soared in the last decade; they spent $132 million in 1960, up from $65 billion in 1950. . . . Sears, Roebuck and Company reported its sales for the 1961 fiscal year topped $4.5 billion for the first time. . . . The Pentagon has awarded $3 million in contracts for 12 million pounds of survival biscuits for community fallout shelters. . . . Warner Brothers Pictures paid $5.5 million for the screen rights to the musical hit "My Fair Lady" . . .

Hospitals' Bed Costs Compared

By DON BRACKENBURY
 L. A. Times Staff Writer

Cost per bed of the $1,224,393 chronic-disease unit at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital, Downey, is almost twice that of the 49-bed chronic-disease unit at Long Beach Community Hospital and more than twice that of a similar unit at Riverside County Hospital.

But Los Angeles County's Downey facility provides an intensive-rehabilitation program. Riverside County Hospital's program is limited, and Long Beach Community does not provide rehabilitative therapy.

These are the main points of a report to be submitted to the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

THE REPORT, ordered by the supervisors last September, is signed by L. S. Hollinger, the county's chief administrative officer; Conrad Fanton, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on County Construction; and John A. Lambie, county engineer.

Cost per bed is not as accurate a means of evaluating the expense as cost per square foot, the report declares.

It cites a State Department of Public Health publication, "Hospitals for California," which points out that square-foot cost reflects cost of the structure itself, whereas cost per bed "reflects to a substantial degree the level of medical service offered."

The 120-bed chronic-disease unit at Arlington was built by Riverside County in 1956-57 at a cost of $673,362. The 49-bed Long Beach Community Hospital unit was built in 1955-56 at a cost of $325,526.

To compare the costs, the report made adjustments for the increase in construction costs since the two facilities were built.

On an adjusted basis, the report says, the cost per square foot was $24.26 at Rancho Los Amigos; $22.50 at Riverside; and $24.31 at Long Beach Community.

The cost per bed, however, was $13,604 at Rancho, $5,948 at Riverside, and $6,975 at Long Beach.

"THE INCREASED cost per bed at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital is due primarily to the additional space necessary to provide for an intensive care rehabilitation program in effect at the institution," the report states.

Total of square feet per bed at Rancho is 396; at Riverside, 154; and at Long Beach, 136, according to the report.

A comparative analysis by the county engineer's office indicates that a large portion of Rancho's greater area per bed is due to provisions for therapy space and for personnel to operate and manage the rehabilitation program.

Further studies on housing for patients who do not respond to therapy and further investigations of cost are being made, the report concluded.

Rescuers Bring Two to Safety

SAN DIEGO (AP)—An elderly man and a teen-age boy were rescued from a cabin in the rugged Laguna Mountains Saturday by a Civil Air Patrol Jeep squad of nine men. Charles Clark, 65, who suffered a leg injury, and Phillip Steinmetz, 17, of El Cajon, had been in the cabin since Monday when their truck bogged down.

'CAP TEST FIZZLES

Olden Times Romps by 8

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The race that was supposed to be a preview of the big Santa Anita Handicap two weeks hence proved nothing more than a slapstick mud party Saturday as Rex Ellsworth's Olden Times slithered to an enormous eight and one-half length victory in the $60,050 San Antonio 'Cap.

Much of the chase's glitter was erased earlier in the day for the 33,209 drenched fans when highly-regarded Four-And-Twenty and T.V. Lark were scratched. The third part of the golden triangle, Prove It, showed the effects of a nine-month layoff and finished a less-than-sensational seventh in the reduced eight-horse field.

T. V. Lark was declared because of the ankle-deep mud which made the track look like a World War II battleground.

FOUR-AND-TWENTY was sidelined because of an abscessed foot, which his connections hastened to explain would not affect his appearance in the forthcoming $145,000 classic.

Since he was coupled with Prove It as the Ellsworth entry, Olden Times returned a mere $4.20.

The surprising Juanro, an Eastern import who had showed little in three California appearances, salvaged second money and as the longshot of the field (43-1) shoveled back $23 on the place end.

British Roman (18-1) was six and one-half lengths in arrears of Juanro, while The Axe II was fourth.

THE OLDEN TIMES-PROVE IT entry looked unbeatable in pre-race calculations. Olden Times was supposed to whip from his launching pad like a Cape Canaveral missile to kill off the anticipated early speed of Grey Eagle, while Prove It was to lay off the pace and then take over like a Mafia colonel when the front-runners ran out of gas.

The script went out the window when Olden Times killed off Grey Eagle and switched on his spare petrol tank. Fortunately for the Ellsworth forces, Olden Times was able to kick enough goo in the other boys' faces and have the whole stretch drive to himself while the others were getting slapped with mud.

PROVE IT OBVIOUSLY WAS in the race just for the exercise. He labored to hold third place, then quit on the stretch turn when he decided he didn't like the goo and was out of breath.

Ellsworth expressed surprise that Olden Times went the entire mile and one-eighth to his wire-to-wire victory on the slushy track.

"He's never won on this kind of track," said Ellsworth, "and he usually doesn't hang on that long. Surprising what will happen when you kick mud on the people behind you."

Anaheim's Alex Maese steered Olden Times and admitted "it was a ball."

"They told me not to get any mud on myself or the horse," clucked Maese. "They said get out in front and try to stay there. The other guy (Prove It) will help you if you need it. Olden Times was so full of run and he

Bruins Continue Big Five Runaway, Rout Tribe, 84-62

By JEROME HALL

UCLA is the only basketball team left afloat in the Big Five.

The Bruins pushed Stanford down a storm drain Saturday night and all but won the conference crown with an 84-62 decision.

It was startlingly easy. Now the Bruins, who are undefeated, are so far ahead they would have to lose four of their remaining seven games to finish second.

JOHNNY GREEN, the conference's leading scorer, came through with 32 points as the Bruins combined muscle with hustle in buffeting the only team that had a chance to press them down the stretch.

A capacity crowd of 2,200 (est.) at Santa Monica CC gym saw it.

So the team that was picked by the know-it-all sports writers to fight it out for last place may become the first team in six years to win the coast crown undefeated. The Bruins have beaten all the other Big Five teams by at least 11 points.

THE ONLY thing left in doubt is, are the Bruins really that good?

Though the Bruin coach doesn't want to discuss a championship, John Wooden had to admit "we're playing better ball than anybody else." The Bruins have won seven in a row since the L.A. Classic late in December. They have an 11-7 season mark.

The Bruins added a fifth man to their offense Saturday night. Sophomore center Fred Slaughter scored 17 points, his college high, and was easily the top rebounder on the court.

Stanford, which subdued USC by 11 points Friday night, was not as aggressive

'WORST CONDITIONS'

Murphy Nabs Wet Beach Run

By JOHN DIXON

Neither rain nor gale nor stormy sea can stay the Beach Run.

Despite what a venerable AAU executive termed "the worst circumstances I have ever seen for track competition," well over a hundred young gallants participated in the fourth Pacific Ocean Cross Country Championships along the Long Beach strand Saturday.

Times for each of the four long distance competitions were long distances from records, but the scanty-clad hardies were leaning into 30-mile an hour gale gusts, dodging storm debris and blinded by driving rain.

The wind-driven high surf along the course was warmer than the air—56 degrees.

Danny Murphy, highly-promising San Jose State freshman, won the featured 4.4-mile marathon in 24:32.0.

Former winner Pete Mundle of the Los Angeles Track Club was second in 24:37.40 yards back, while Mal Robertson, also of the L.A. Track Club, was another 60 yards to the rear.

Ned Sargent of the Culver City AC took fourth, and a shocking fifth was Mit Hunt, a basketball player from Millikan High competing unattached.

"THAT WAS terrible; it really got me; my stomach is full of cramps," gasped Murphy.

Murphy and Robertson trailed Mundle by 40 yards at the Belmont Pier turn-around point. Murphy gradually closed, finally catching up with almost a mile to go.

"I'll bet I ran that last mile in 4:45.0," Murphy groaned. "Pete is really tough."

Mundle's strategy was simply "build up the biggest lead I could, and hope it would scare him off. He's a good boy."

MURPHY, A 5-6, 122-pound 18-year-old, is aiming at a 10,000-meter berth in the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo. Last year at Mira Costa High he established national high school records in the two-mile (9:24.0), three-mile (14:31.1) and 5,000-meters (15:01.1).

"The longer the race the better I like it—except today," Murphy grinned over the top of his trophy.

Long Beach State's "A" team won the college four-mile relay in 25:38.8 with Darryl Taylor anchoring the baton to the finish with 150 yards left over.

A good Cerritos foursome won the junior college divi-

Danny Murphy, San Jose State freshman, doesn't look too happy after winning featured 4.4-mile Beach Run. Winds of up to 30-mph hampered runners.

16th Win in Row for Oregon State

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon State's Beavers eased ahead in the last seven minutes to defeat stubborn Portland 75-64 here Saturday night before 11,401 fans.

The win was the 17th in 18 games for the ninth-ranked Beavers and was their 16th victory in a row.

Veteran forward Jay Carty paced Oregon State's attack with 26 points.

AS REPORTERS bulleted questions, Snell interrupted, "What was the time?" Told that he broke the record, he remarked, "I'd like to get them all in my grasp." Now only the 1,500-meters is left among those in his category.

"My only strategy was to get out in front and stay there," he explained. "Indoor running is tough, but it's lots of fun."

"I might have run faster but I tied up in the final laps," Snell said, breathing easier than the quizzers. "My legs are sore—partly from the sharp turns, partly from pounding those boards. I was going all-out."

A PAIR OF old-timers who continue to rank among the world's best won the first two events.

Hayes Jones, Olympic Games-bronze medalist, captured the 60-yard high hurdles in a three-way photo in 7.3. Fran Cunningham and Ray Cunningham were given the same time.

Jones and Cunningham broke together, held the midway pace when Cunningham toed over the first hurdle, and scampered head-and-head to the tape. From the press disadvantage point, Jones looked no better than second.

1,000 Yd. Mark Set by Snell

By JOHN DIXON

Peter Snell, a halfback-sized surveyor from New Zealand, and Jim Beatty, a jockey-proportioned insurance adjuster from Los Angeles, played supermen in the Los Angeles Indoor Games Saturday night.

Snell, a 5-10½, 171-pound strongboy, set an indoor record of 2:06 in the 1,000-yard run.

Beatty, 5-5½, 126-pounder with one of the longest strides in the game, erased another magical mark by winning the mile in 3:58.9—the first indoor sub-4-minute mile in history.

Snell ran almost 15 yards faster than Ernie Cunniffe's old inside record of 2:07.9.

BEATTY catapulted Ron Delany's three-year-old record of 4:01.4 into oblivion with the dinosaurs.

Beatty gave advance notice exclusively to L. P. T. readers Wednesday when he predicted a 3:59.0 time. He missed by one-tenth.

Four L.A. Track Club stars were entered in the mile—Beatty, Jim Grelle, Laszlo Tabori and Dave Martin, plus Peter Close of the New York AC.

Tabori, Grelle and Beatty were each given a "rabbit" role by their coach, Mihaly Igloi, and they played the record tune to perfection.

TABORI SET the 440 pace, 59.1; Grelle led at the 880, 1:59.6; Beatty followed the stopwatch to the 1,320, 3:01.2. And then the race was all Beatty's.

The crowd of 13,134 gave the North Carolina native an ear-splitting come-on over the final laps, and he crossed the finish line in lonely splendor. Grelle was second in 4:07.1, Martin third in 4:15.1.

"It was just the way we planned it," Igloi said. "The team did it."

"I was very nervous before the race. I felt I was on the spot. We've been talking record for two weeks" said Beatty.

Beatty was voted "athlete of the meet."

Snell, a surprise winner of the Rome 600 meters in 1960, sprinted the first 440 in 53.0 and led by six yards, hurtled through the half-mile in 1:50.2 with a 10-yard edge, and hit the tape with a 12-yard margin over Bill Crothers of the East York (Toronto) Track Club.

Crothers also bettered the old record with a 2:07.4.

Snell, who recently established world outdoor records for the mile, half-mile and 800 meters in an eight-day power burst, actually covered the 880 Saturday one-tenth faster than Arnie Sowell's indoor record.

AS REPORTERS bulleted questions, Snell interrupted, "What was the time?" Told that he broke the record, he remarked, "I'd like to get them all in my grasp." Now only the 1,500-meters is left among those in his category.

"My only strategy was to get out in front and stay there," he explained. "Indoor running is tough, but it's lots of fun."

Trojans Bounce Back to Clip Washington, 75-68

By BOB SHIBLEY

Southern California's deflated Trojans took advantage of Washington's foul-hampered offense to register a 75-68 win over the Huskies Saturday night before 800 fans who braved the storm and reached the Loyola gym.

Not only did the triumph bring Troy's sagging Big Five conference record to 4-3, but it also halted a two-game losing streak for the once nationally rated Trojans.

Despite cashing in on 22 of 24 free throws, the Huskies were hit harder by fouls. Three Washington starters, including Bill Hanson, the league's second highest scorer, were ejected via the foul route almost before the second half passed the 10-minute mark.

Hanson, who went into the game with 22.9 average, scored 15 points. He saw only three minutes of action in the second half and sat out eight of the first 20 minutes. Roger Niva and Dick Reiten were the other Huskies whistled out.

THE TEAMS were tied six times in the first half and also exchanged the lead an equal number of times before the Trojans gradually pulled out to a 35-28 halftime lead.

USC led all the way in the second half, with Washington getting no closer than three points (37-34 and 39-36). Twice the Trojans hiked their margin to 10 points.

Despite Easley's superb performance, Washington obviously missed Hanson's talents, especially his rebounding, where USC held a 40-35 advantage.

The game's tempo was set in the first two minutes

Although Troy was in command throughout the second half, Washington remained in contention until the final two minutes until Gordon Martin and John Rudometkin each popped in two free throws to give SC a 72-64 advantage.

With Hanson of almost no value to the Huskies in the second half (he scored only 2 points and had only 1 rebound), the offensive load fell upon reserve center Dale Easley. He responded with 18 points, including 8-of-8 from the charity line.

Despite Easley's superb performance, Washington obviously missed Hanson's talents, especially his rebounding, where USC held a 40-35 advantage.

From the subject of women in athletics to ice hockey, the readers came in out of the rain and corresponded thusly:

"I am a faithful reader of your column and have been impressed by the number of women who write and tell you of the athletic talents of the gentler sex. I am in agreement with your belief that a gal can score best in the kitchen. However, there are enough letters sent your way by females who tout their own talents with a No. 3 iron instead of a steam one, or who seemingly are better qualified to roll a ball down the center alley than a baby carriage along the sidewalk, that I reluctantly concede the gals may have a point. So, I've been wondering if we couldn't come up with something that will kill two birds with one stone: Give the women a chance to display their athletic prowess and fill a vacancy on the local sporting scene. There is a big regatta coming to town May 19 in Marine Stadium—and included will be women-powered shells racing against some of San Diego's fairest. Officials wanted the gals to race San Diego in the same regatta two years ago, but the Long Beach cuties were conspicuous by their absence. Can you line up some of your comely readers to form a crew or two for that regatta? Do you think that some of these vociferous females can show us—instead of tell us—that they belong on the local sports scene?" (signed) Jim Mangan, Sports Information Director, Long Beach State College.

"(If our local Babe Didricksons act like they talk, your office should be jammed Monday morning both with Amazons and mail, Jimmy.)

"I DECIDED TO TAKE a bunch of young people to the Sports Arena for a recent hockey game and was told they were all sold out. However, if I got there at 6 p. m. I could get general admission tickets. We got there at 5:30 and were told they were sold out of those, too. There were 100 or more people who had driven in over 50 miles with the same information. Rather than disappoint my guests I tried the numerous ticket offices across the street and found I could buy reserved seats AND general admission, but at DOUBLE the price. Those hockey people take everybody for suckers and it's all wrong. They would have sold every ticket, anyway. Why?" (signed) A.D.A., 1015 E. Ocean Blvd.

(This deplorable practice has increased in pro sports each year. Law officers are handcuffed because the professional ticket office scalpers are within legal limits. The only possible way to run such ghoulies out of business is NOT to purchase tickets from them. In that way, they'd be stuck with batches of ducats purchased at regular prices from football, basketball or hockey offices.)

"One sport you seem to have forgotten in your column is ice hockey. I'm such a loyal fan that instead of grabbing the women's section, I now go for the sports section. The Blades have proven they can fill the Arena, now it's only fair they fill a mention in your most widely-read column." (signed) Mrs. J. Morey, 3469 Farnwood Ave.

(They filled a mention, ma'am, or did you miss that ticket gouge letter immediately above?)

"TO ALL NATIONAL LEAGUE SCOUTS—except the Dodgers: If one of you sign me to a Pacific Coast League contract, I'll be the best pitcher on the club and get to the majors this year. Then I will beat the Dodgers eight out of 10 times I face them. These are my cousins." (signed) Terry Hyland, 416 Elm Ave.

"(Terry, old friend, I've one thing to say in your behalf: If you ever make it to the majors, Jim Brosnan is dead as an author.)

"I appreciate your efforts in trying to get a rodco here, but why not try for something really BIG—the American Bowling Congress tournament! This is greater than the World Series or a heavyweight title fight. I mean it." (signed) B. A. McIntosh, Torrance.

(Maybe you do, but I don't. Anyway, you might check with Howard Jones of the Convention Bureau regarding the last pitch Long Beach made for the ABC event. The twist of the old knife still lingers in our backs.)

"Being an old horse player from way back and with nothing better to do while waiting for my wife to quit yapping, I tuned in KFOX radio at 6 p. m. for the race re-creations. Some top sheet sponsors the program. You should listen to the joker that calls the heats. He couldn't call a hoop race at Vasser. Joe Hernandez and Jim Healy haven't a thing to worry about. The part that sickens me is that the tout sheet has a winner in every race—except one, that of course was reserved for a limited number of $500 subscribers. The other seven could be bought for the nominal (?) fee of $25. Heck, with that kind of information, why bother to sell it? I'm the last guy to knock anyone making a quick buck, but you'd have to be fresh off the boat to fall for that cow." (signed) J. M., Long Beach.

(Being fresh off the boat myself, J. M., I'd sure like some of the action on that hoop race at Vasser!)

sion four-mile relay in 25:35.2, with Santa Ana second.

RONNIE THOMAS of Mira Costa High won over a mammoth prep mile field that was almost flooded out by rising waves. His time was 6:52.8.

Bob Baker, also of Mira Costa, nipped Ron Doyle of Downey for second. Both were credited with 6:57.0. High school runners competed unattached.

Lifeguards reported no drownings. Even the crabs were hiding from the weather.

Using Fusion Settles Into Dogged Hunt

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Back in 1955 an Indian scientist excited the world with a prediction that man would take the violent forces of the H-bomb in 20 years and enter upon a golden age of limitless power.

In the more than six years since, according to a recent bulletin of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), the excitement has died down and is unlikely to be rekindled anytime soon.

The search for hydrogen power has settled into a dogged laboratory exploration of various theoretical ideas for controlling and harnessing thermonuclear fusion (H-bomb) reactions.

The first hydrogen power plant apparently is still at least 20 years away — with emphasis on "at least."

THE 1955 PREDICTION was made by Dr. Homi J. Bhabha of India at an international conference in Geneva on peaceful uses of atomic energy. One source of such energy is the fusion of deuterium (heavy hydrogen) nuclei.

For every 5,600 ordinary hydrogen atoms in the world's oceans there is one atom of deuterium. A gallon of sea water contains more locked up energy than a gallon of gasoline.

So, said Bhabha, when controlled fusion reactions are achieved "the energy problems of the world will truly have been solved forever."

It came out that Russia, Britain and the United States all were trying to solve the problems standing in the way of hydrogen power. In 1957 new optimism was generated by reports of successes with a British apparatus called Zeta. The reports turned out to be wrong.

BY 1958, when a second world atoms-for-peace meeting was held at Geneva, it had become all too apparent, the IAEA recalled, that the problems were tougher and likely to take longer to solve than had been supposed.

Last fall, the IAEA sponsored an international conference at Salzburg, Austria, devoted solely to fusion research. The consensus was about the same as in 1958.

Scientists still were far from being able to ignite, contain and control fusion reactions. Prof. L. A. Artsimovich of Russia said that early optimism had "proved as unfounded as the sinner's hope of entering paradise without passing through purgatory."

HE SAID, "There can be scarcely any doubt that the problem of controlled fusion will eventually be solved." But, he continued, "We do not know how long we shall have to remain in purgatory."

A U.S. delegate, Dr. M. N. Rosenbluth, took satisfaction from the fact that scientists had not been able to find any reason why hydrogen power should be impossible.

"I believe the chances are very good," he said, "that in 20 years or so mankind will have solved the problem of controlled fusion if only he has not lost in the meantime the far more difficult struggle against uncontrolled fusion."

Rancho Gijiguas Bought for $1 Million

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — The historic 3,618-acre Gijiguas Rancho near here has been purchased for about $1 million by a self-described fugitive from subdividers.

"We wanted a place where my wife and five children can have room to ride and where we will be safe from subdividers' bulldozers," said the new owner. "That's what drove us away from Camarillo."

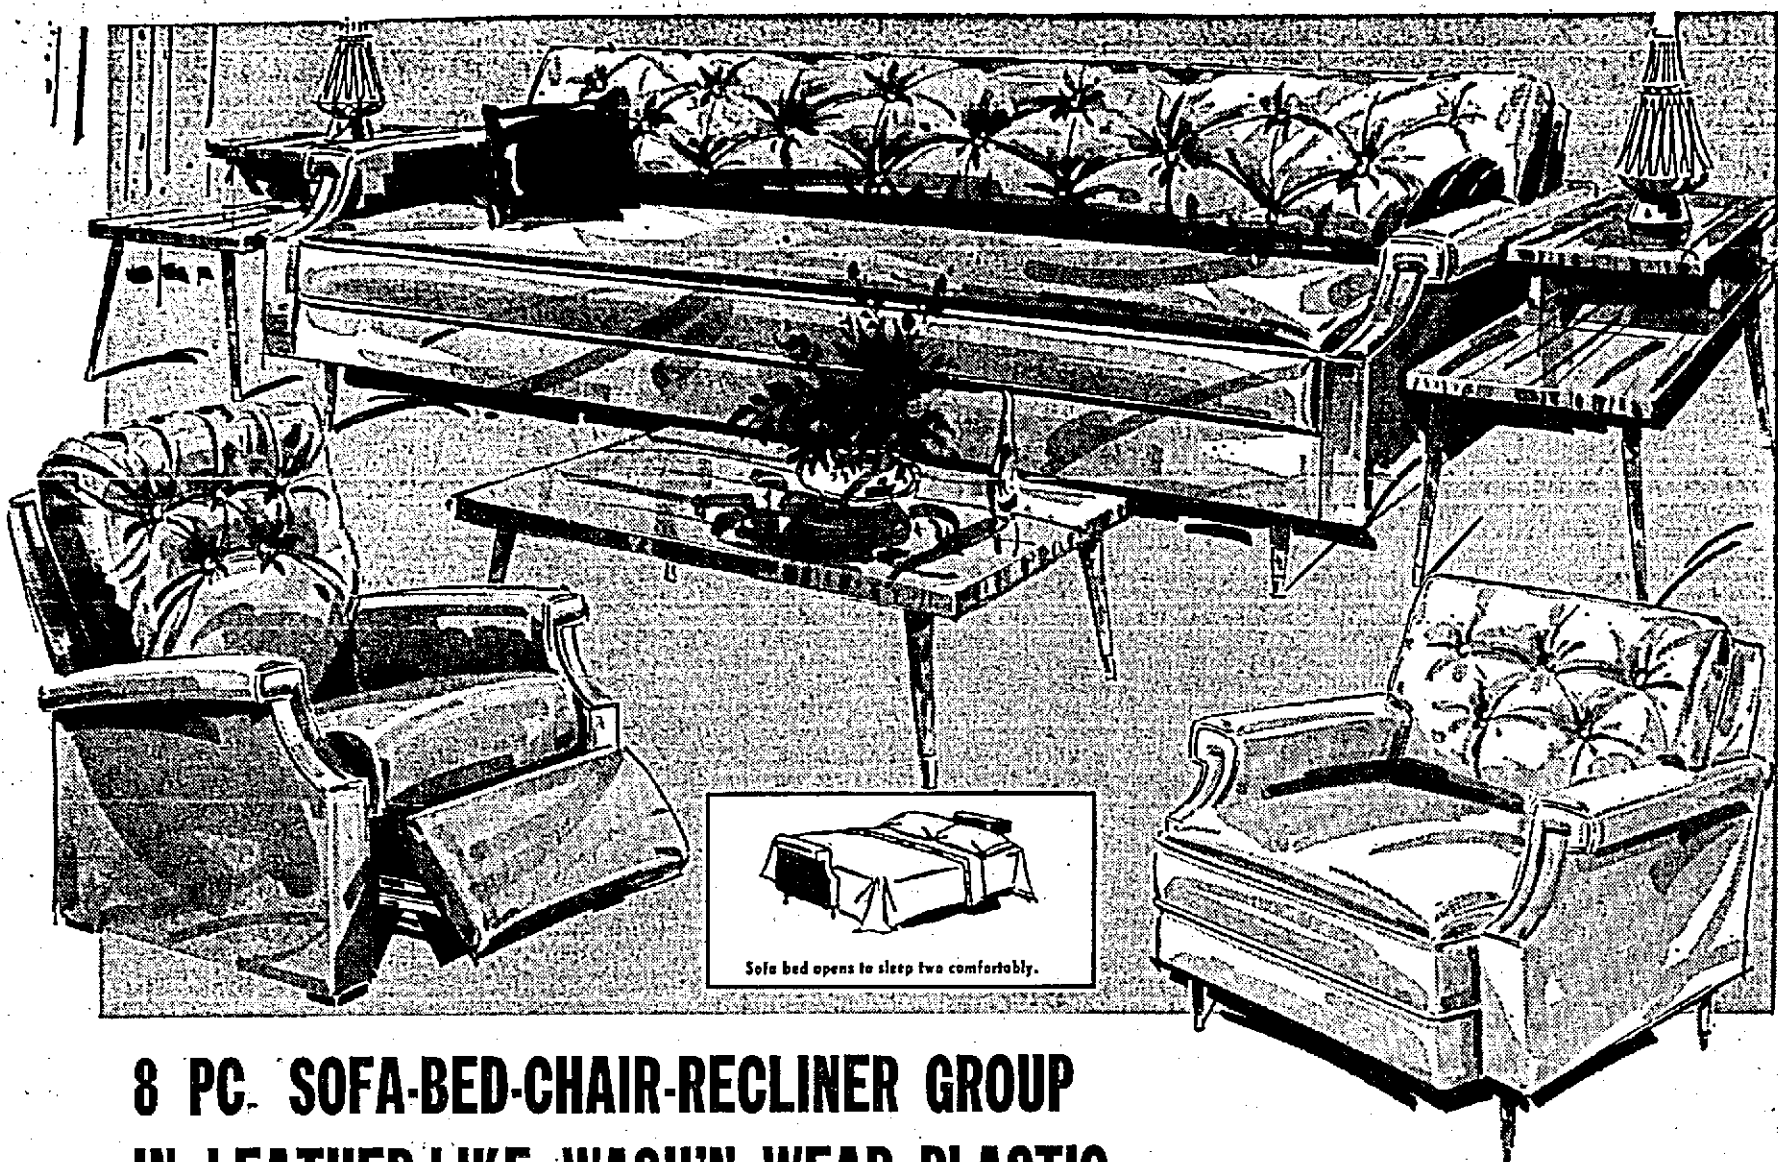

The rancho was sold to Stewart L. Abercrombie of Rancho Lomita in Camarillo, Calif., by Albert B. Ruddock of Montecito.

Long Beach Adding 310 Acres in Harbor

WORK UNDER WAY ON WORLD'S LARGEST MAN-MA DE PIER
Construction has started on the $19.1 million contract to build Pier J in the Port of Long Beach. It will contain 310 acres and will be the world's largest man-made municipal pier when completed in three years, in time to be the site for the World's Fair in 1966. Previously built piers, now in use, contain approximately 500 acres. The new construction project is outlined in shaded areas on this air photo of the harbor, taken from high above the breakwater, looking toward downtown Long Beach. Piers H and I will be constructed later. Pier G is the newest in the harbor and serves grain shipping.

Construction Program Paces Healthy Long Beach Economy

By KEN CHILCOTE
Independent, Press-Telegram Business Editor

Like a growing teen-ager, Long Beach will take on height and breadth in a big way this year. Stature will be added by multi-millions of dollars in construction on towering apartments, hotels and office buildings. Girth expansion is coming from the sea by adding 310 acres to Long Beach Harbor via dredging. And, like a growing teen-ager, Long Beach is a perfect picture of glowing health, economically that is, thanks considerably to the vast building program.

THE GREAT construction programs, some already under way and others slated to start as soon as working engineering plans are completed, and approved, all represent private fund outlays and not government projects used to bolster the economy of an area.

Douglas Aircraft Co.'s $7 million expansion at the Long Beach plant, well under way, will add millions to the growing local payroll. All Douglas jetliners for American and foreign airlines will be built here while government missile projects will be handled at other Douglas plants.

A 10-story office building, two big hotels and a 33-story apartment structure are among other major projects private capital is launching as the city's stature heightens.

NOT TO BE overlooked is the consistent month by month development of homes and apartments in Long Beach as well as commercial developments and remodeling programs. The Department of Building and Safety reported that for January, $5,585,990 in building permits were issued. This did not include any of the previously announced major construction projects. It did include 24 apartment buildings with 201 units, 25 single homes and five two-family dwellings. Additions and alterations accounted for $1,432,710 of the permits.

Adding the 310-acre development in the Port of Long Beach will see the greatest man-made municipal pier in the world constructed at a cost of $19.1 million.

THIS EXTENSION on the girth of the city gives Long Beach a great boost yet for the taxpayers it adds no burden. Oil money, collected from harbor wells, will be used for the project.

Construction of Pier J already has started with barges of rock from two

Furniture Factory for L.B.

Leasing of a 25,000 square foot facility in Long Beach by the Vickers Furniture Corp. was announced by James Vickers, president.

The firm has begun manufacturing upholstered living room furniture at the plant located at 2300 Curry Street in the North Long Beach section. The Vickers Co. is the first furniture manufacturer of this type to select a Long Beach location.

When in full operation the plant will employ approximately 100 persons. A subsidiary of the Vickers Corp., Accent Tables, Inc., will produce a line of occasional tables at the same plant.

Leasing arrangements were handled by Norman Masterman of the Bill Brooks Co., Realtors, Long Beach industrial property specialists, for Dr. Russell B. Clark, property owner.

From The Reef Restaurant, the present eastern extension of Pier A, the new pier will run 1,772 feet eastward. Then in a southerly direction it will extend 5,531 feet. Fronting toward the breakwater will be a 5,446 feet forward wall of the pier. Under the contract there also will be an extension to Pier F, which runs southeastward from Pierpoint Landing.

The huge Pier J is to be the site of the World's Fair here in 1966. It will take three years to complete the construction. Connolly-Pacific Co., has the contract.

Awarded Big Tile Order

The Long Beach plant of Mastic Tile Division of Ruberoid Co., of New York, will help provide 12,702,000 squares of vinyl flooring for use of the armed services in various facilities.

Announcement of the purchase of $738,367 of the flooring from Mastic was made by the Defense General Supply Center, Richmond, Va.

The tiles will be produced at two of Ruberoid's plants, here and in Newburgh, N. Y.

Realty Values Reflect Building Program Here

Healthy economy of Long Beach is reflected in the constant increase in demands for local real estate, reports the head of Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., the city's leading realty firm. Sales by the firm in January reached an all-time high for the month and exceeded last January by over 50 per cent.

Robert C. Westmyer, president, attributes the activity to the extra healthy business climate that prevails throughout Long Beach and the surrounding community. The many major high-rise buildings and local land developments now on the drawing board and the many under construction lends an air of enthusiasm for the growth and development of Long Beach, he said.

EVIDENCE OF confidence in the future of Long Beach real estate values is being expressed by numerous outside investors who have programmed in excess of $500 million for Marina and land developments along the coastline between Long Beach and Huntington Beach. These vast investments will have an accelerated effect on the speed at which realty values will grow throughout the greater Long Beach area.

Another factor of great influence to the growth of the Long Beach area has been the recent increase in supply of mortgage loan money that has begun to flow into the area. More and more lenders who previously had refused to make loans in the area are actively soliciting investment opportunities.

THIS IS A VERY healthy thing, according to Westmyer, because it indicates an optimistic outlook by people outside of Long Beach who are recognizing that Long Beach has a better growth potential than other communities where they had previously been investing mortgage funds.

Westmyer further stated that the year 1961 was a record year in sales for the Hodges Co. and it is their firm's anticipation that 1962 will exceed all past records by a minimum of 25 to 30%. "Indeed the future of real estate in Long Beach has never looked better and income producing property values shall certainly be on the rise throughout 1962," he adds.

False Alarm

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A grocer, observing a masked man standing outside, telephoned police. The man in the mask had a ready story for officers — a doctor taped him that way to heal a broken nose.

CLIPPED FROM FILM

In the filmed story on Sol Vista Homes, now being shown the public, this large living room is among the features "starred" in the movie. The film shows much of the surrounding area of the developments.

NOW PLAYING—

'The Sol Vista Story' Is Told in Color Movie

The Alco-Pacific Construction Co., builders of Sol Vista and tomorrow's appliances and top quality lighting fixtures.

Other features include rock wool insulation by Johns-Manville, acoustical ceilings, Armstrong Excelon tile and forced-air heating with thermostat control.

The homes are priced from $18,000 with FHA minimum down, VA, Cal-Vet and conventional terms are also available. The model homes are open every day from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., except until 6 p.m., Saturday.

From Long Beach go out Carson St. or Garden Grove Blvd. to Hwy. 39 and turn right to models.

"The movie, now playing at the Sol Vista Sales Office on Hwy. 39 three miles south of Garden Grove Blvd., shows the fabulous Orange County West area—schools, churches, industry, recreational facilities, surfing, etc. Above all, it describes construction features in detail, not to mention the quality interior features which have made Sol Vista, Southern California's "Full Measure of Value" homes, stated Al Solomon, president of the firm.

THE SOL VISTA luxury Series Homes were designed and color coordinated with the concept to be years ahead in both interior and exterior appeal. They feature genuine hardwood oak floors supported by a two inch tongue and grooved sub-flooring and set upon "raised" foundations. "The resiliency of oak floors gives restful comfort underfoot. And its high insulating quality prevents loss of heat, affording healthful protection against cold and dampness," states Mr. Solomon.

Regardless of price range, the homes include the "Medallion all electric kitchen" featuring the Frigidaire double oven, range and all important Frigidaire dishwasher. Also included is color coordinated range hood and light with electric fan, whirl-away disposals and natural ash hardwood cabinets.

SOL VISTA Homes also include dramatic floor-to-ceiling fireplaces of stone or brick with log lighter. The bathrooms have convenient pullmans with colored bath fixtures by American Standard. All models include a stall shower with safety glass door in the master-bedroom bath, in the master-bedroom bath, not to mention modern wiring sufficient to handle today's and tomorrow's appliances and top quality lighting fixtures.

A federal agency, the U.S. Small Business Administration, is cosponsor with LBSC's Division of Business.

Prof. Charles E. Wolff, the seminar coordinator, said its purpose is to help owners and managers of small businesses to be better administrators. It emphasizes administrative management rather than day-to-day operational problems.

SPECIALISTS on each topic will serve as guest lecturers. After the introductory session March 14, an analysis of the varied functions a manager must perform, the lecturers will deal with specific managerial duties.

Among the topics are financial planning, accounting and cost control, legal problems, dealing with people, credits and collections, advertising and sales promotion.

Prof. Wolff said additional advanced seminars may concentrate on specific subjects from the list covered by the general course. Whether additional courses will be offered depends on the interest stimulated.

FEE FOR THE course is $50. Applications and additional information can be obtained by calling Prof. Wolff or Dr. S. Austen Reep in the Division of Business, Long Beach State College.

"Today's manager of a small business must have a good grasp of all aspects of business operation," Wolff said. "The course will help him acquire this broad knowledge. It will try to help him achieve a more efficient and profitable organization by getting more done through other people. It will encourage him to use services from public and private sources, including the various free services of the Small Business Administration."

Prof. Wolff, who teaches marketing courses at LBSC, advised many small businesses while working as a marketing specialist and consultant for the Small Business Administration. He has held office in several advertising associations.

'Lakewood Center' Planned for Tokyo

There's to be a touch of Lakewood in Japan in the future.

Joseph K. Eichenbaum who saw his dream of converting farm fields into a thriving shopping and home development area became true in Lakewood, will leave Thursday to lead his "know-how" to a similar center in Tokyo.

J. K. EICHENBAUM
Japanese "Draft" Him

On a trip to Japan recently, Eichenbaum met a group of people who were in real estate development and they voiced a great interest in Lakewood Center, having read about it in Tokyo, Osaka and Kyoto newspapers.

EICHENBAUM was prevailed upon to extend his stay in Japan. He quickly saw that Tokyo, a vast metropolis, was on the verge of stragling itself with "downtown" congestion. Using Lakewood Center and his subsequent developments of Eastland and West Covina and the new Canoga Park facilities as models, he outlined how outlying communities adjacent to Tokyo and other large Japanese cities would make possible productive, economy-stimulating decentralization.

Name L.B. Realtors to Posts

Several members of the Long Beach Board of Realtors have been appointed to committees of the California Real Estate Association by Charles H. Brown, president, announced James A. Edmonds Jr., president of the local board.

Gene Hoffman is chairman of the Appraisal Division, Barbara Moss, secretary-treasurer of the local board, is chairman of the Multiple Listing Committee, and Joe Hodge is a member of this committee.

Reg. F. Dupuy is vice chairman of the legislative committee and Verne Morrill is on the committee. Gene Nebeker is vice chairman of the Public Relations Committee and Fred Rose is on this committee.

Other appointments are: Richard L. Hightstone and Richard Livora, Broker-Salesman Relations; Dave Graham, Budget & Finance Committee; Contribution & By-Laws and Program Planning Committee; Hazel Altemus, Convention Committee; Steve Seidell and Bob Westmeyer, Committee on Education; Alvin Stanley, Ethics & Professional Standards; Winnie Cross, Hazel Merriam, and James Tolbert, Greeters Committee; Chris Brown and J. C. Foster, Industrial Development & Commercial Division; William Ballard, Blue Book Committee; Steve Seidell, Jurisdiction Committee; Fae Matthews and Ralph Saffie, Membership; John Hightstone, Military & Veterans Affairs; H. No Down Required for Sunshine Home

S. V. Hunsaker, builder and developer, announced that Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes may be purchased with no down payment. Easy financing terms are available with monthly payments less than rent, he stated.

Huntington Beach Sunshine homes offer the home buyer a widely diverse selection of architectural elevations with all models offering floor plans designed to provide maximum living for the larger families.

THESE ATTRACTIVE homes have three and four bedrooms, two full baths, large two-car garage, and family room and are located adjacent to a park site and only minutes to the Southland's center.

Designed for the active family, the interiors have wall to wall carpet, floor-to-ceiling folding wardrobe doors, forced-air heat, all-copper plumbing and ample closet space. The compact modern kitchens have built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan over range, disposal and natural finish cabinets.

Ford Shows Big January

DEARBORN — Ford Division of Ford Motor Co. reported January retail sales of 134,000 cars and trucks—a 19 per cent increase over the same month last year and the second best January in history.

Matthew S. McLaughlin, division assistant general manager, said car sales totaled 111,400 and trucks 22,600.

Pushing Ford's January car sales to the 111,000 plus mark was a strong third 10-day period. Sales topped the previous period by more than 6,600 units.

McLaughlin, singling out rising sales of the division's new Fairlane series as a major factor, said model year-to-date Fairlane sales totaled nearly 54,000 units.

Moore Opens Another Office

Moore Realty, serving property owners in Long Beach and Lakewood since 1947, has opened another office at 3501 E. Fourth St. This office was opened to give better service to residents of east Long Beach, and makes the fifth office of the firm, said E. T. Moore.

Associates assigned to Moore's Belmont office are Muriel Hastings, Leonard Kreuger, Steve Hansen, Wadena Mezzenatta, Steve Powell, L. L. Miller, Clyde Warfield and Stan Swanson.

LARGE ROOMS FEATURED

Here is a view in one of the new Dutch Haven homes in Huntington Beach showing the large living room and dining area. The homes are priced from $14,950 and have exceptionally low terms.

Terms Start at $79.63 Month on Newest Dutch Haven Homes

One of the biggest "draw-ings cards" for sales at Dutch Haven's new Huntington Beach Unit 18 on Beach Blvd. and Unit 19 on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica, is proving to be Dutch Haven's low monthly payments, termed the lowest in Orange County and starting at just $79.63 including principal and interest. Dutch Haven prices begin at $14,950.

An official of Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of Dutch Haven communities, said that buyers have shown an equal measure of enthusiasm over other aspects of Dutch Haven's financing.

He cited the fact that there are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments and that title to land, fully protected by the Title Insurance & Trust Co., is included in the purchase of a Dutch Haven home. Improvements such as street lighting, sidewalks, streets, curbs, sewers and utilities are covered in the original cost.

VETERANS' move-in cost is only $95 on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at 5 1/4% interest rate are available.

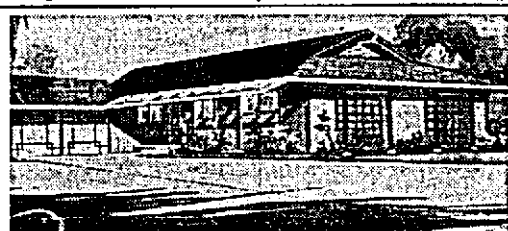

Choice location in the heart of the Southland's most rapidly growing city is also proving a definite sales advantage at Dutch Haven's Huntington Beach communities. An established city of long standing, Huntington Beach offers a full range of recreational advantages and outstanding—several of California's finest beaches just minutes away. A beautiful marina is under construction and facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking are excellent. Golf courses are nearby.

SEVERAL of the floor plans shown by Dutch Haven have won national recognition in home magazines. Among the 16 exterior elevations available are the Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been best-sellers at previous Dutch Haven communities. "American Home Series" residences are featured exclusively.

Custom features include frontyard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach: Drive east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd.—right on Beach Blvd. to models.

Four-Bedroom Plan Is Popular in New Golden West Estates

HAS DOUBLE PATIO

This model of a Golden West Estate has a patio in front and another in the rear. The front serves as an entrance. Pricing on the estates starts at $17,500.

Large and growing families are pleased to discover a spacious four-bedroom plan with separate family room at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice president of McCarthy Co. Buyers of the plan, which is offered in four different elevations, praise the modern "step-saver" kitchen, with breakfast bar and outside access door to rear of house, he said.

Situated less than 10 minutes from inviting beaches and the Long Beach Marina, the homes are offered in a choice of 22 different exteriors. Highlighting the plans is a unique double-patio design with spacious kitchen-dining-family room complex opening on both patios. The attractive front patio serves as an enclosed entranceway to the home.

GOLDEN WEST homes are offered with 35-year, 5 1/2 percent FHA terms. FHA down payments are from $800. Also offered are GI no-down-payment terms and conventional terms with down payments from $695. Pricing on the homes is from $17,500.

Modern kitchens offer handy breakfast bars, roomy natural ash cabinets, and Wilson Art sink tops with covered splashers. Every kitchen has direct access to garage or outside. Quality features of the home include sliding glass doors, forced-air heating with right (south) to furnished models.

Montgomery Park's Opening Sales Soar

Balanced Power homes in Montgomery Park drew a variety of exteriors. One and a half den (which can be used as a third bedroom if desired); another has three bedrooms, and the other, four bedrooms. All models have two baths.

Montgomery Park, on Harbor Blvd. just south of Bolsa Ave., offers the desirable combination of rural charm and downtown living convenience. All metropolitan facilities, such as public and parochial schools, churches, modern shopping malls and employment centers, are found within minutes of its central location, yet the homes are comfortably removed from urban congestion and noise.

Has Big Appeal to Home Buyers

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
"Close to everywhere" because of ready freeway access, Garden Park Estates and its "1962 Series" of all-new residences at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway, is close to virtually every family need. Here is one model offered.

Garden Park Estates and its newly presented "1962 Series" of all-new luxury homes at Knott Avenue and Garden Grove Freeway, also enjoys a top location in a prime, fast-growing residential area close to family requirements and via the free-ways, easy access to "every-where," officials of S&S Construction Co., the build-ers, point out.
Located in the midst of equally fine homes, Garden Park Estates is just 10 min-utes from the beaches, har-bors, marinas and golf courses, five minutes to Long Beach State College, and there are grade schools and a high school inside the walls of the community. It is close to major business and indus-trial centers.
THE "1962 SERIES" offers a wide and distinctive selec-tion of exterior elevations. Spacious plans are designed with three and four bed-rooms, dining area or fam-ily room and two baths. Typi-cal of the attention to qual-ity detail, clean, long lasting concrete driveways lead to the oversize two-car garages.
"Four way" financing of-fers veterans term of nothing down except impounds and closing costs with monthly payments from $97 includ-ing principal and interest, or Cal-Vet loans. Non-veterans have good conventional loans of 35-year FHA terms. Full prices are from just $17,450.
AMONG THE many, fine home features finding favor with discriminating home shoppers are handsome fire-places, sliding glass doors to the patio-garden, forced air heating, luxurious baths and decorator selected light fix-tures.
Kitchens have built-in wall oven and range with color-matched range hood complete with light and fan, dish-washer and disposer.

More than 800 families now occupy the "balanced life" precincts of Huntington Village, it was reported by Larry Shields of the development firm of Doyle & Shields. With full-session schools operating right in the Village, a golf course bordering it and Southern California's finest beaches only minutes away, Huntington Village residents enjoy a life in which education, recreation and home comforts are attractively balanced.

Just opening is Unit 9, the "Sea Breeze" series of three and four-bedroom homes which are available to non-vets for as little as $195 down, according to Sales Manager Dan Mytinger. Full prices, he said, are from $15,600 to $18,500.

HUNTINGTON HILLS
Attractive living room is in one of the furnished models at Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach, where, in addition to convenient new 35-year FHA loans, a new and unusually low veteran "move-in" of just $88 is announced.

Easy Terms for All in Huntington Hills

Huntington Hills, "Sea View" community in smog-free Huntington Beach, offers a distinctive selection of charmingly diverse and luxuriously appointed hillside homes for unusually moderate full prices and new, low financing terms according to W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co. Full prices are from $17,500, McCaffrey explained.

For veterans there is a total "move-in" of only $88. Non-veterans may purchase on the new 35-year FHA loans with monthly payments from $125 that include everything — taxes, insurance, principal and interest.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, McCaffrey said, there are two Huntington Hills residences ready for immediate occupancy. Complete with patios and pools, they are full priced at $20,990.

Level, terrace hillside sites are spacious, and the attractive homes are designed with three and four bedrooms, two baths and a large family room — plus a big two-car garage. Exterior elevations afford choice of California Ranch, Conventional or Contemporary stylings.

Handsome fireplaces, sliding glass doors, entry halls with floors of slate, forced-air heating, oak floors and acoustical ceilings are among the many popular appointments.

New Unit of Del Cerro
Luxury Homes to Open

All plans and all exteriors will be available again this weekend at Del Cerro when the Tustin community opens its newest unit, developers George M. Holstein and Sons reported.

Following a quick sellout of nearly every first unit home, the Del Cerro new unit will continue to offer three and four-bedroom homes from $22,500 with a total down payment of just $995.

The three and four-bedroom homes all have family rooms or convertible den-dining room and can be purchased in a choice of tasteful exteriors ranging from Hawaiian, Provencal, Traditional or Tustin ranch designs.

THE INTERIOR of the homes can be individualized to blend with buyer's choice of decor with four cabinet finishes, varied paneling, a wide selection of rich stone, brick or marble fireplaces, wallpaper, and floor selection all made available. Handsome shutters or shoji screens are

Along with the other custom-like advantages, the Del Cerro homes also include a choice of wool wall-to-wall carpet or enduring wood parquet floors. The pioneer building firm explained: "This allows buyers to carpet portions of the home and still enjoy hardwood floors in other rooms."

To reach Del Cerro from the Long Beach area, just stay on 17th Street in Santa Ana (Westminster Boulevard) to the San Diego Freeway on ramp. Stay on the San Diego Freeway south about two miles to the Red Hill turn-off. Then drive north on Red Hill to Del Cerro.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average salary for chemists and chemical engineers in 1961 was $10,000, according to the American Chemical Society.

Bolsa Park
Homes Built on Big Lots

Extra-large lots with room for storing a boat are offered at no added cost to homebuyers at Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach, said Ernie Merrill, sales director. Access to the lots is through a 20-foot paved alley. These "boat lots" include ample space for both a boat and swimming pool, Merrill added.

Featured at Bolsa Park are two custom four-bedroom plans with marble-type entry floors. One plan has all four bedrooms in an entirely separate sleeping wing, isolated from the work—and living areas.

BOLSA PARK development is the closest in Huntington Beach to Long Beach, Merrill said. Because the developers purchased their land some time ago, they are able to offer the homes at prices from $19,250—$3,000 to $4,000 less than today's higher land prices would dictate, it was stated. From Long Beach, the homes may be visited by following 7th St. (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

Americans Smoke
More Than Ever

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans smoked more than ever before in 1961.

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture estimated U.S. cigarette output and consumption, including exports, at a record 528 billion cigarettes, up 4 per cent over 1960. Smokers paid more than $6.9 billion for their cigarettes—$3.1 billion of which went into excise taxes.

Stardust's X-Ray House to Be Previewed Today

Considered the most fascinating and informative model home ever introduced in this area, the new Stardust "X-Ray House" will make its debut today, announced Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder. The X-Ray House Preview will mark the first showing of Stardust Homes' new models at their Huntington Beach development on Bolsa Ave.

The Stardust X-Ray House will feature 53 separate displays, and will permit homebuyers to see right to the heart of Stardust. Lifetime construction, Grant said. Special cutaways will allow viewers to look through the ceiling, the walls, and the floor, examining all the details which are usually hidden. Other displays will show portions of the house in various stages of construction, explaining in sequence how the components go together.

ALSO INCLUDED in the X-Ray House are manufacturers' displays illustrating features and advantages of the products which go into Stardust Homes. A number of these products — such as water heater, furnace, and garbage disposal — are displayed in cutaway models to show internal workings. "We feel that this helpful and interesting approach to selling homes will result in crowds larger than any ever seen in Southern California," Grant said.

Priced from $15,900, the new three- and four-bedroom, two-bath, Stardust homes are offered with veterans' $99 total move-in costs and non-veterans' $250 move-in costs. Monthly payments are $104 for veterans, $107 for non-veterans.

Diamond Demand at Record High

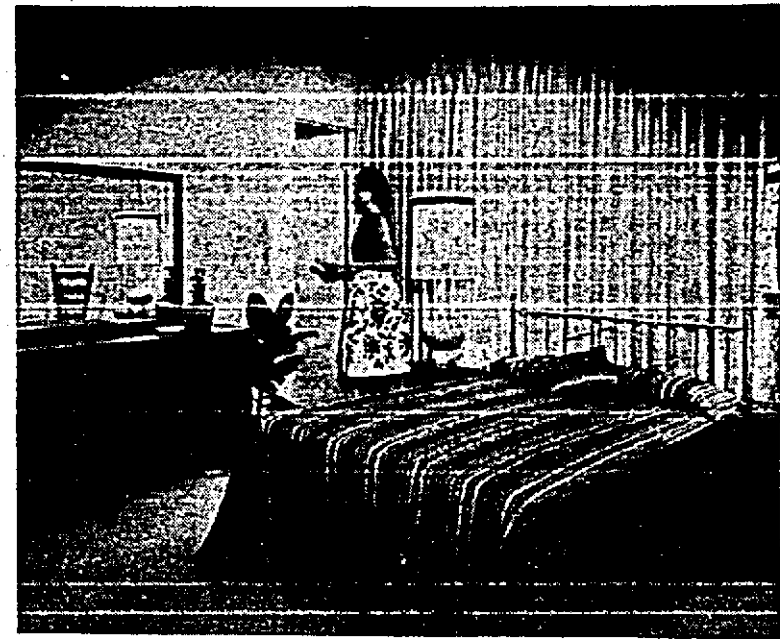

NEW YORK (UPI)—Demand for gem and industrial diamonds reached a record high of $266 million last year. This compares with $251 million in 1960. The rise reflects chiefly increased demand in the United States and Europe. Jack B. Krueger, sales manager of Moore Realty, will teach the four-week revolving course which will include eight night classes.

Private Labels Note Sales Increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—Private label liquor brands that generally sell from 10 per cent to 15 per cent under nationally distributed brands are causing headaches for major distillers. Although there are no official figures, it is reported these private brands currently account for a quarter of the total volume in New York and are increasing their share of the liquor market.

Westmont Bonus Room Boosts Value

Huntington Beach's newest big homes, the Westmont house with "Free Bonus Room" continues to meet with buyer approval at the newest unit of the development, builders George M. Holstein and Sons reported this week. The combination of quality construction, choice location and luxury features, plus the big 478-square-foot "free room" have made the Westmont community one of the fastest selling in the builder's 40 years of new home construction, the builders explained.

Large master bedroom suite with private bath, plus up to five other bedrooms can be buyer's choice at the new Westmont "Bonus Room" unit in Huntington Beach. Site is on Highway 39 about three miles south of Garden Grove Boulevard intersection. Prices start at $18,000.

Krusz to Talk Before Realtors

THE "BONUS ROOM" is ideal for den, sewing room, play or rumpus room, guest room, or large enough for two or three large extra bedrooms, sales head Ray Haff-dual pointed out. The big Bonus Room combines to give buyers up to 1778 square feet of living area for less than $18,000, the Westmont developers declared. Along with the low price, both FHA and VA terms are available.

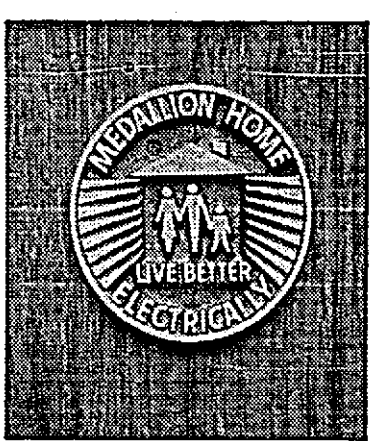

ALONG WITH the big "free room," the Westmont homes include wood shake roof, built in kitchens, real tile, showers, tile eating bars, fireplaces, paneling, silent light switches, and a selection of both three and four-bedroom homes with family room and the plus "Bonus Room." To reach the Westmont Bonus Room development from Long Beach, go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39 and turn South. Stay South about five miles from Huntington Beach State beach.

"WE BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT WE LIVE IN MEDALLION HOMES"

Building several hundred homes has proved to these partners the advantages of electric living. Both confirm their professional experience by choosing Medallion Homes of their own in which to live. "Cleanliness, of course, is a major reason," states Mr. Woodruff. "And cooler kitchens that are so much more convenient." Mr. Bennett sums up the Medallion Home as "...the modern image." He adds, "Most of our clients these days want to build to Medallion Home requirements." The trend is clear. Every day more and more expert builders display the Medallion Home Award. It's worth looking into. It means better living—electrically—for you and your family.

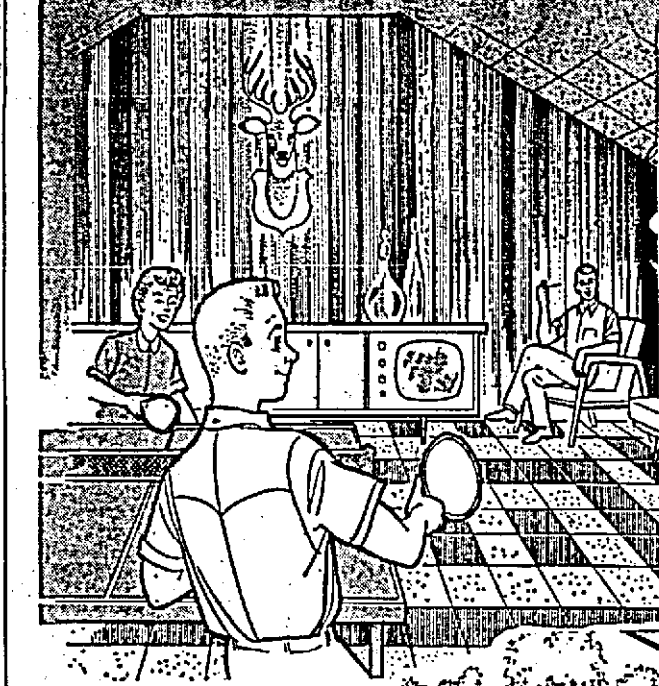

- Only one new home in five earns the Medallion Home Award. These are the qualifications:
1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.
  2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.
  3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty throughout the home.
  4. Flameless electric space and water heating.
- A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

Community Recreation Set Up for Families in Pacific Sands

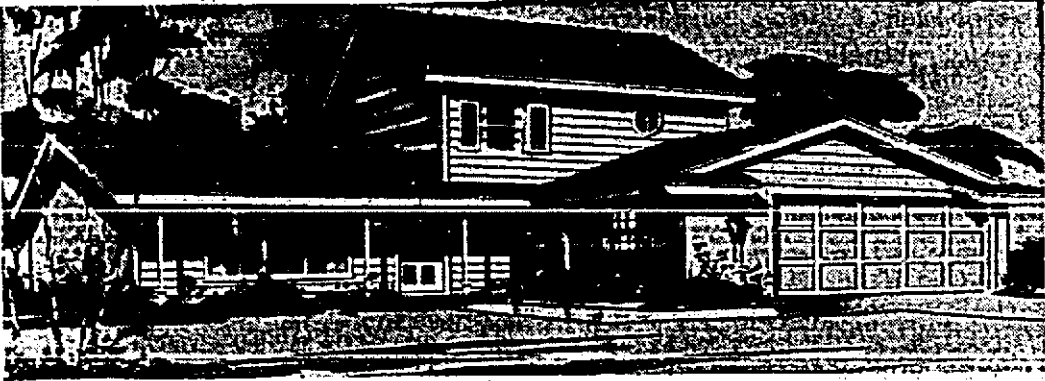

Now being planned at Pacific Sands, one minute from glass doors, oversized gas stoves, five minutes away from the ocean breeze-cooled Pacific Sands homes is the Long Beach Marina, with complete facilities for small boat enthusiasts. Five minutes away is fabulous Newport-Balboa Beach, a new supervised recreation area with extra-large pool, community canteen, tennis courts and shuffleboard, said Paul Rowland, sales manager for Walker & Lee, the development's sales agency.

Recently added to all Pacific Sands models are such features as table-top gas range and separate wall oven; ceramic tile around tub and shower; marble-top pullmans in both baths; living room paneling, and wall-to-wall carpeting in living-dining-family room area, hallway and master bedroom. Also newly available are heavy cedar shake roofs.

THE HOMES are offered with pricing as much as $5,000 below the market, the sales manager said. Valued at $18,000 to $25,000 on the current market, the homes sell for just $13,500 to $19,950, he said. Available are total move-in costs from $390. Land commitments made many months ago permit the present low price, he added.

Custom designed for beach-close living, the Pacific Sands homes offer outdoor beach showers designed for easy washing up after surf-side fun. Some models include special garage boat doors which permit moving a boat into the back yard for storage or maintenance.

PACIFIC SANDS homes are available in one and two-story models, and with two, three or four bedrooms. Features include ceramic tile counter tops, built-in gas range and oven, kitchen cabinets of natural birch, Waste King garbage disposal, break-

John Hersey, Buffums' fashion coordinator, will be the guest speaker at the Long Beach Advertising Club's annual "Ladies Day" luncheon meeting Feb. 15 in Lafayette Hotel.

Hersey will describe and illustrate, using a model, fashion changes from head to toe, in color, fabric and silhouette. His potpourri will include: the new feminine approach to fashion for spring; a new awareness of the form with figure skimming fit; in place of the "little nothing" dress, a "little something" dress, incorporating one of the new feminine flaps, ruffles, capes, boleros, flares, or fringe; accessories add important feminine touches... lower heels complement short hemlines... wider brims balance wide, swinging skirts... smaller handbags look newly feminine. Jewelry is finer, fluid, looks real; and wider belts accent the small waistline.

Hersey will show how all of these combine to make the most fashion excitement since the "new look."

Paul Gross, Buffums' ad manager, and Betty Walsh, ad manager of Walkers, will serve as co-chairmen for this event and urge wives and sweethearts to attend.

On Needles and Pins

By MARY ELLIS
I. P.T. Fashion Editor

Travilla (pronounced Tra-vee-yah), who will make an appearance here Saturday, is constantly on needles and pins. He likes it that way. "The point is, I'm stuck," said this Oscar-winning movie designer turned couturier, who has enjoyed meteoric success since opening his own salon at 853 N. LaCierga some six years ago. "I'm that wrapped up in my work."

COMPLETELY at home in the hubbub of his combination factory-salon, surrounded by bolts of fabric and movie star dress dummies, talking above the whirl of power sewing machines, he noted some of the reasons for potential tension.

"Each collection"—he does three a year—"is as much a gamble as putting your life savings on a table in Vegas," he pointed out.

Just follow one creation from sketch to finished product and you readily see why.

Each sample garment (such as those to be presented by the designer Saturday noon at the Children's Memorial Hospital showing in the Lafayette) averages $400 to $500 to perfect. Even if it retails for $125—OR, if buyers don't buy.

Multiply that by 70 to 80 pieces for each collection and, as Travilla puts it: "You have quite an investment!"

ALL SUCH designs are created behind closed doors in the inner sanctum of Travilla's haute couture salon.

No one sees the collection except himself and the people who work there until buyers jam the showrooms, 300 strong, to buy or reject.

"It's like starting a new venture three times a year," he noted. "Each time you can either die... right then and there... or you can make another business."

"No collection can have last year's look, it must have tomorrow's."

AND WHAT'S tomorrow's look? "There's no way to know," said the designer, who, with suave self-possession, keeps his eye firmly fixed on the aesthetics of fashion.

But some of his best ideas come when he's thousands of miles away from his sketch board—OR the fashion world. Like on his recent hunting-with-camera safari through the jungles of tumultuous Kenya, Africa.

From there he brought home color movies and stills to study color balance in the excitement of orangy rust war paint against chocolate skin, natural earth tones against lush foliage and primitive-

Month of Hearts-Achievement, New Purpose

By BEN ZINSER
L. P. Medical Editor

In the world of medicine there is no more exciting experience than surgical intervention in the ailing heart.

"Open-heart" surgery, the unhurried repair of a heart disengaged temporarily from the circulatory system, once was possible only in major medical centers. Ten years ago it was impossible anywhere.

But major heart operations, now feasible because of a device called a heart-lung machine, can be performed currently at several Southland locations.

The borders of surgery's last frontier—open-heart operations—have broadened to encompass Long Beach.

All major diagnostic and surgical procedures dealing with the heart can now be accomplished here. Heart research labs have sprung up. Research grants are going to Long Beach doctors.

Much of the credit for this progress must go to such organizations as the Long Beach Heart Association and Heart Guild, Inc.

THE BIG BREAKTHROUGH in major heart surgery came in May 1953 when Dr. John G. Gibbon Jr. of Philadelphia performed the first successful operation aided by a heart-lung machine. The patient: an 18-year-old girl with a leaky wall between her heart's upper chambers.

Heart-lung machines, for a long while, could be found only in the world's larger medical centers.

They are complicated devices. They withdraw the patient's blood, put oxygen into it, then return it to his body through a plastic tube inserted into an artery.

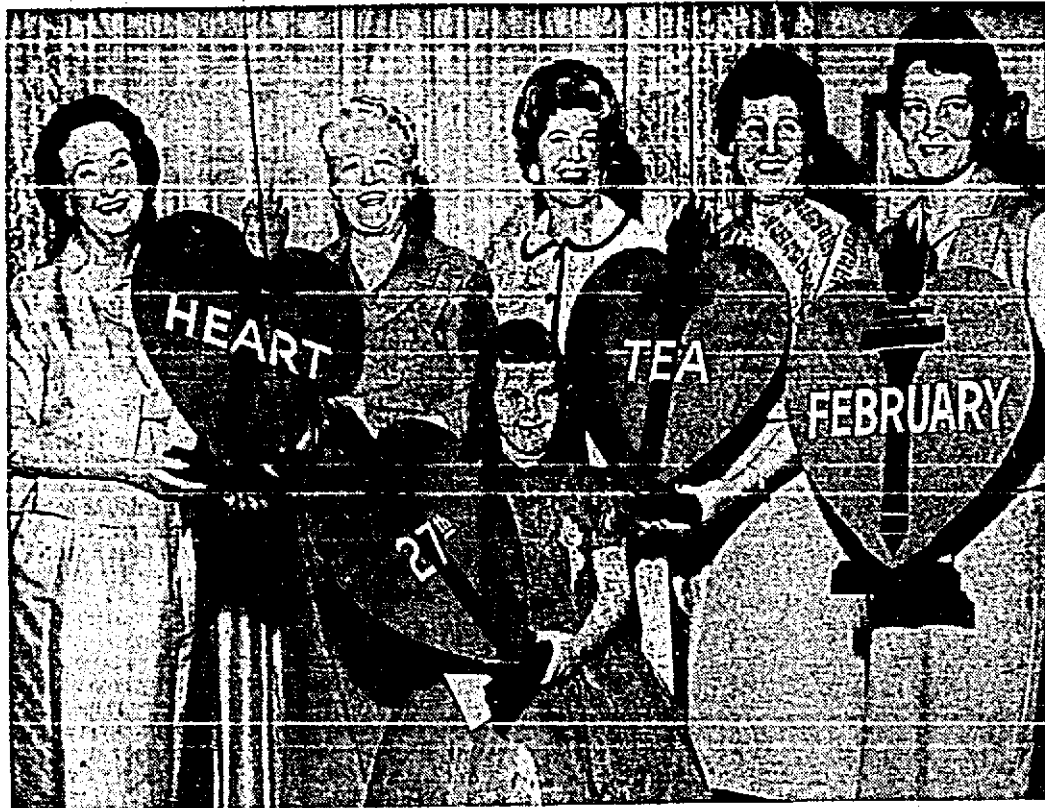

That sounds simple enough. But every minute the heart-lung machine must transport billions of delicate blood cells without breaking them. It must spread 10 to 14 pints of blood in a thin film over an area as large as a tennis court as it puts in oxygen.

In short, the machine must function as the patient's heart and lungs while surgeons repair the patient's natural heart, temporarily cut off from the body's circulation.

Some pumps film blood over rotating metal discs, or across metal screens. Others film blood along a plastic membrane, with oxygen moving into the blood through the membrane. Still others gently blow a stream of oxygen through a column of blood, and a special chamber "defoams" the blood of hazardous air bubbles before it is returned to the body.

ST. MARY'S Hospital pioneered the use of the heart-lung machine in Long Beach. Memorial Hospital also has one in operation now.

Besides heart-lung machines, many other devices are available here to assist in diagnosis and treatment of the heart patient.

TIYPIFYING MIRACLE of modern medical techniques, accomplished through research, is 8-year-old Sandra Haydon (center), first heart surgery patient at Memorial Hospital. Many are now aided through local heart fund drive. A major heart benefit tea will be sponsored by Women's Heart League Feb. 27. Announcing event are (from left) Mmes. George P. Taubman, in whose home affair will be held; J. Roscoe Howell, league president; Wesley R. Horton, Gus A. Walker and J. Thomas Hardesty, general chairman of affair.

Here's a rundown on heart facilities in the Long Beach area:

Surgery: Full facilities at St. Mary's and Memorial. Many types of vascular surgery, and some heart surgery, at Long Beach Community Hospital. Limited heart and blood vessel surgery at Veterans Administration Hospital. Heart-lung machine at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance.

Diagnostic: Catheterization (exploring the heart with a tube inserted through a vein) at St. Mary's, Memorial, VA, Harbor General. X-ray equipment for heart studies at St. Mary's, Memorial, Community, Osteopathic, VA, Harbor, Lakewood General, Woodruff Community, Bellwood. Dye-study equipment at Memorial, Osteopathic, St. Mary's, VA, Harbor General. Radioelectrocardiography of exercising patients at Osteopathic, to determine heart defects.

Special aids: Implantation of pacemakers (heart stimulators) at VA Hospital. External pacemakers used at St. Mary's, Osteopathic, Memorial. These devices restore unsynchronized hearts to normal rhythm.

Rehabilitation: Work Classification Unit at Memorial, to evaluate heart victim's capabilities for returning to work.

A Merry Example Spurs Heart Drive

Medical research is costly business. But medical research, dollar for dollar, has produced accomplishments as dramatic as any of the 20th Century.

Let's isolate one merry-eyed example in our own community. She is Sandra Haydon, 8 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haydon. In 1960 she became Memorial Hospital's first heart surgery patient. Now, completely recovered, she will lead a full and normal life.

February is Heart Month. With it comes the responsibility to support the annual concerted effort of the Women's Heart League, in conjunction with the Long Beach Heart Association, to raise funds for continued heart research.

IN ADDITION to going to national medical centers, funds locally collected are used to purchase latest equipment for hospitals here where patients, like Sandra, receive the most modern care.

Largest single benefit of the month sponsored by the league will be its silver heart tea on Feb. 27. It will take place at the spacious Park Estates home of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Taubman, 1429 La Perla.

INVITATIONS are being extended to hundreds of the city's foremost civic and philanthropic leaders to attend this significant affair.

Tea chairman is Mrs. J. Thomas Hardesty. Assisting her with day's elaborate plans are Miss Beatrice Hughes, Mmes. James Wood, Gus Walker, R. G. Akers,

A benefit brunch today, open to the public, will raise additional funds for Long Beach Heart Association drive. Brunch will be served from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Masonic Temple, 3610 Locust Ave. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Gus Lueking, William Todd, Lloyd Vaughan, Francis Heusel, Harry Newton, Lawrence Ruff and Glen Lucas.

Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell, league president, will welcome guests during the 2 to 5 p.m. tea hours. Assisting will be other league members Mmes. Wesley Horton, Dean Lucas, Brewster Gray, John Wyatt, William Rhorer, Larry Hunt and Walter Crawford.

Hill Fire Wives Set Installation

Ida Mae Beasley will be installed as president of the newly formed Women's Auxiliary of the Signal Hill Fire Department during a dinner Wednesday evening at the Hilltop Supper Club. Others assuming leadership posts: Barbara George and Jeri Barton.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT

Travilla Show Is Saturday

Children's Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will present resort-spring fashions by Travilla, famed California couturier, during a benefit luncheon Saturday in the International Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

The designer (see cover page), who commentates his own shows, will be presented by Mrs. Herbert Vail, show chairman.

Mrs. Robert Dilday, 3845 Pacific Ave., is in charge of luncheon reservations. Other committee members include Mmes. William Meyer, F. Reid Gilcrease, Melvin Masterson, Burl McCollm, Gus A. Lueking and Sally Phelan.

THE AUXILIARY, an organization of dedicated women who have raised more than a quarter million dollars the past 15 years, helps provide hospital care for needy children.

During the past year, the auxiliary has paid over $10,000 toward its memorial pledge of $12,000 for hospitalization of such youngsters.

Affiliate groups are the Nightingales, the junior group, Fiorellas, Northern Lights, Spinners, Bachelorettes and Emblem Club 106.

One of Travilla's creations will be presented a lucky winner during the luncheon. His line is carried locally at Schick's, Pine Avenue and Seventh Street.

EXCLUSIVE designs from Travilla line are previewed here by Mrs. F. Reid Gilcrease, committee member for Children's Memorial Hospital Guild's upcoming benefit luncheon Saturday at Lafayette Hotel.

Hadassah to Mark Silver Anniversary

Long Beach Chapter of Hadassah will celebrate its 25th anniversary next Sunday at 8 p.m. at Lakewood

Country Club. The program will include a narration, by Mrs. Maurice Harris, of Hadassah's 25 years of service and will honor past presidents of the chapter.

In 1956, because of increased membership, the Long Beach Chapter was made the governing body for smaller groups: Aviva, B and P, Rishona, Szold and Tikvah.

SO THAT members of all five groups and their husbands can see Hadassah's achievements during the years, Mrs. Harry Wolfe, program chairman, will show a documentary film, "50 Miracle Minutes."

On Needles and Pins

raw hues against the beauty of native skies.

These color tones will be theme of his fall-winter collection, for which he purchased, on the same trip, exciting new fabrics from Greece, Italy, Paris and North Morocco.

ADVENTURE has played an important role in Travilla's life since the days of his youth in birthplace Avalon, Santa Catalina, where—in like-father, like-son tradition—he earned his first money diving under tourist-laden glass bottom boats, performing such feats as eating bananas on the ocean floor.

(His father, Jack Travilla, world-famous swimmer, held the long-distance underwater swimming record to the day of his death. It has been broken only by frogmen.)

Designer Travilla's adventuresome spirit has taken him several times to Africa... also to Tahiti, where he painted natives and soaked up local color... and to the Mexican jungles, where he hunted alligators and ocelots.

His reason: "When I get away from the competitive world of fashion, all my old ideas are washed out of my system. And when I come back, without hardly knowing it, I start with a new approach."

THIS WAS Travilla's designing philosophy, even back in his studio contract days with Warner Bros. and 20th Century-Fox, where he dressed such stars as Joan Crawford, Susan Hayward, Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe, also won an Oscar and three Academy nominations. For the past five years he's designed half the fabulous "entrance gowns" worn by Loretta Young on her weekly television show.

HE BELIEVES that if more women would adopt Loretta Young's fashion philosophy, they would look more chic and have more fun doing so.

"Every woman should take time to look through clothes racks carefully, try on different silhouettes and avoid fashion ruts."

"Some of the very best dresses in my collection do worst in the store because they don't have hanger appeal," he moaned.

Result: "Sometimes I end up not selling my favorite creation."

Times Have Changed for Student

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles on the foreign exchange students studying at Long Beach high schools under American Field Service sponsorship.)

By MARY NETH
"Early to bed, early to rise," might make a man healthy, wealthy and wise in America—but never in the Argentine.

In that Latin country of mid-day heat, Ben Franklin's advice would be as out-of-step as a Long Beach siesta.

Dark-haired Albert Anthony Colavita, four-months here as an exchange student from Argentina, is pretty positive on this point.

To him, the American up-and-at-em-early schedule is plain topsy-turvy.

"Why, at home I never got up before 8 a. m. at the very earliest," he says. "Hopping out of bed at dawn and turning in at 10 takes a little getting used to."

AND THAT isn't all Albert's finding strange about the North American pattern of daily living.

Take meals for example. In Argentina there are four, not three, a day and the main one is served at noon, not in the evening.

"We go to school and work between sessions at the dinner table," Albert explains.

More Italian than Spanish, Argentine cooking leans heavily toward meat dishes and spaghetti. For lunch (dinner, that is) the menu generally consists of four courses: soup, a meat entree, spaghetti and dessert.

TO PREPARE the many course family repasts, Albert's mother spends a great deal of time in her kitchen. But don't pity her too much. She's equipped with a gadget most American women dream of, but few own—a maid.

But even with maids, Argentine housewives aren't on the go as much as their counterparts here. "There aren't so many women's clubs and groups at home. Women spend more time with their families."

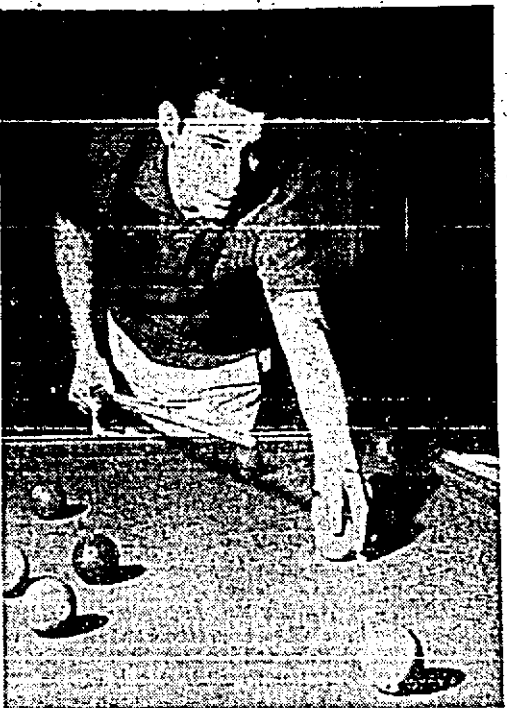

As to feminine status in the home, Albert thinks it's about the same in either country. "They give the orders in Argentina, just like they do here," he says.

ALBERT is staying with the Phillip Fawcetts, 1172 Cartagena Ave., while attending Poly High.

The son of Professor Pascual C. Colavita and Aurora F. de Colavita, of Mendoza, he already has graduated from high school and at 17 has completed a half year at a university in Argentina. On return home next year, he'll continue studies in physics.

HOW DID this dark-eyed senior feel about heading north to school? "I was worried," he says. "I didn't know what my foster family would be like and I had about American teens."

After being exposed to an export diet of Hollywood gangster films, Albert was prepared to do battle with gangs with chains and hoodlums with knives. "I even

—Staff Photo

TAKING A CUE from his American friends, Albert Colavita, Argentine exchange student, gets in quick game of pool before turning in early.

intended to take judo before I left, but I didn't have time," he says. "Hollywood movies don't show average America's family life."

As to his foster family, Albert's more than pleased. "They are wonderful — I couldn't be luckier."

ALL IN ALL, Albert is finding the U. S. more than lives up to his best expectations. He likes the friendliness among boys and girls. "At home we're more divided. Girls never go out alone, they are always accompanied by a cousin, brother, sister or parent."

He likes the informal classrooms. "In Argentina the teacher is more respected and also more feared and hated. There's lots of bitterness."

Best of all—and most surprising—Albert likes our TV commercials. "They're quite imaginative. We see the same programs but our commercials are terribly boring and silly."

THERE ARE somethings, however, that Albert wouldn't care to see adopted by his country.

He doesn't go for T shirts and bright sports wear for school. "At home boys wear suits and dark ties to class."

He's not a bit enthusiastic about the language. "How do you account for spellings such as flower and flour and knead and need. They don't make sense."

He doesn't like the American teen-age lack of interest in other places and peoples. "Argentina seems to be a big blank to the kids here. I've even been asked if we have telephones."

WHAT IS ARGENTINA like? "It's a bit of Europe transplanted to South America," says Albert. "There's a large middle class, about 60 per cent, most of the people are from Spain or Italy and the main industry is cattle raising or ranching."

But Albert's home is far from the pampas where the gauchos (South American cowboys) roam. Mendoza lies in the western provinces bordering Chile. "It's a fruit growing area," says Albert, "and the climate is very dry and hot."

Right now it's at its driest. Which proves that Long Beach is a mixed-up, hard-to-adjust-to place. "It's summer at home and here it's winter," says Albert, with a sigh.

PRINTED PATTERN M 429 SIZES 10-20
by Rembrandt

EASTER'S LEADING NEWS is the costume—easy, yet curved more closely to the figure, as in Printed Pattern M429. Alan Phillips of Rembrandt achieves this new shapeliness with side-long darts on the jacket, a clinging bias-cut for the bodice of the dress. Topping off the news is a crisp, stand-up collar that adds a touch of young piquancy. The Original is sheer wool—an ideal choice for the busy woman who leads many busy lives. Consider also silk-and-worsted blend, faille, surah, shantung, linen or cotton for Spring into Summer. Printed Pattern M429 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 dress requires 2 1/2 yards 45-inch fabric; jacket requires 1 1/2 yds. Send one dollar for Printed Pattern M429 to Independent Press-Telegram, Pattern Department, P. O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Please print plainly your name, address with zone, style number and size.

Sandra Dickie Says Lines

Five hundred guests gathered in First Baptist Church, to witness the marriage ceremony joining Sandra Lynn Dickie of Long Beach and Charles A. Anderson III of Whittier.

Parents of the newly married couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott Dickie, 5350 E. Broadway, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Anderson II, Whittier.

Escorted to the flower banked altar by her father, the bride wore a brocade gown with chapel train. Her fingertip length veil was held by a seed pearl crown and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of her bridegroom. She carried an orchid with stephanotis and hyacinths.

DRAMATIC CONTRAST was given the bride's white attire through the red brocade gowns worn by her attendants, Carolyn Price, maid of honor, and Sharon Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, Toni Monteleone, Linda Ruh, Patty Scarborough and Linda Slaughter, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was served by George Van Vleet as best man and ushering duties were performed by Scott Dickie, brother of the bride, Daniel Delaney, Don Hodge, Roy McDiarmid, Bob Pollard, Carl Skvarna and Paul Styskal.

A reception at Long Beach Yacht Club followed the vow exchange, with the newlyweds later departing on a brief honeymoon trip to Laguna Beach. They will leave shortly for Pensacola, Fla., where the bridegroom, newly commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Marine Air Corps, has been assigned.

The new Mrs. Anderson was graduated from Wilson High School and affiliated with Tri Delta and Amazon while a student at USC. Her husband, a graduate of USC where he was a member of the varsity football team, affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa.

Final Curtain to Close on 'Ozma of Oz' Saturday

The final performances of Frank Baum's lively fantasy for children, "Ozma of Oz," will take place at Long Beach City College auditorium Saturday at 10 and 11:30 a.m.

A limited number of tickets will be available at the box office the morning of the performances.

In addition to the treasured characters of Dorothy, the Cowardly Lion and Tin Woodman, the audience will meet a throng of other vivid characters including King Ruggedo, the abominable ruler of the Gnomes, wondrous Queen Ozma and the heroine of it all, Bellina, the little red hen.

College Pair in Ceremony

A romance which began on the campus of Long Beach State College culminated with the recent wedding of Judith Kish and Richard Buckerfield.

Vows were exchanged before more than 200 guests in a formal ceremony at All Saints Episcopal Church.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Kish, Brea, was attended by Jean Moody, maid of honor, and Susan Fletcher, Marcia Crabtree, Judie Matlock and Carole Horstmann, bridesmaids.

ATTENDING the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Buckerfield, South Gate, was Tom Peckenpaugh, best man. Ushers were Gordon Getz, Lloyd Stockwell, Jim Standrich and Gerry Jaquess. Wendy and Jill Gardener were flower girls.

While they continue their college studies the newlyweds are residing at 776 Bennett Ave.

WILD WAVES SAY

By Iola Masterson

I, P-T Women's Editor

NO MATTER what else they do or don't, Rotarians can't get in the doghouse over Valentine's Day. The service club men have a nifty package all wrapped, ready and waiting to give their wives that day.

For heart's day Wednesday they have invited their wives to meeting at the Elk's Club. Speaker will be that old smoothy, Dr. Frank Baxter, of television fame.

Dick De Golia is the hero who invigiled the good man into coming down here to Freeway's End. Apparently Dr. B. is going to champion the evil eye. At least, his topic will be, "A Valentine for Television."

TEA TOPPER will be Margaret (Mrs. H. L.) Beckley's dardjeeling date Wednesday. She will hostess a socially suave Valentine tea at her home, 4455 California Ave.

V-Day colors, pink and red, will be used in profusion. Assisting will be Edna Abrams, Margaret Stimson, Margaret Davis, Beryl Kuster, Bertha Wallace, Verla Browning, Margaret Wallace and Elizabeth Wallace.

THOSE wonderful mid-winter tans being sported by Carolyn and Don Raney and their children, Bruce and

Gail, weren't acquired on the desert but at Mammoth in the High Sierra, no less.

They returned Sunday from five days at the winter resort where it was warm, sunny — nevertheless skiable.

THERE ARE always a lot of boys at Norma and John Craig's home; their own and a goodly share of neighbors'. A main attraction currently is a fine new trampoline.

The other day a friend asked Norma how she was getting along with all the young athletes. "All right," she answered, "except Charlie broke his toe."

Momentarily confused about whether Charlie was Craig or neighbor and not wanting to disclose her ignorance, the friend adopted a safe attitude, sympathetically murmured, "Well, it's a good thing the boy didn't break his neck."

"What boy?", puzzled Norma. "Charlie's our dog."

APPARENTLY members of Minerva Club are willing to give a forthcoming project the old college try but they don't sound too confident of the outcome.

At least, Grace Smith tells us they are collecting pipe cleaners, coat hangers, cellophane bags, buttons, torn sheets and hose. This conglomeration of junk will be transformed into poodles when members meet Wednesday at SAE Chapter House, 1930 E. Ocean.

They'll put all this together under direction of Gertrude Bloom and the poodles will be for sale locally. Unless says Grace, they turn out looking like pipe cleaners, coat hangers and old sox.

NEWCOMER to the diaper set is Laraine Griffiths... Deonne and Dr. Bob's third baby (second girl), born Wednesday night at Com-munity.

THE GAL who doesn't want to work like a dog keeping her guests entertained should start them off with a good "mixer"... and not necessarily the kind from a bottle.

Phyllis Comiskey has tried this, says it works like a charm. Choose the titles of songs—as many as you have couples attending. They can follow a theme—like if it's a Valentine party, select the titles of love songs.

Now, write each song title on two slips of paper. Divide and keep them in separate heaps. When guests arrive have women choose from one stack—men from the other.

Gimmick is this. Each must go around humming tune until he or she finds dinner partner humming the same tune.

Humming must be confined to closed lips and just over the teeth type—no loud arias, please. The fact that many among your guests can't carry a tune to begin with or don't remember the melody to end with only adds to the hilarity.

Pat Nixon to Attend GOP Meet

It was learned late this week that Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the former vice president who now is candidate for the governorship of California, will be a special guest of the Long Beach Council of Republican Women, Federated, at a Valentine tea Wednesday.

The affair, to begin at 1 p.m. in the California Room of the Wilton Hotel, will honor new members.

William J. Teague, vice president of Pepperdine College, will be guest speaker. His topic will be, "The Crisis for America."

A VALENTINE program titled "Love and Marriage," will be presented by Betty Kimber and Jackie McFadden, Civic Light Opera favorites. They will be accompanied by Bill Clark.

In the presence of only immediate members of their families, Marte Paine and Richard C. Park exchanged wedding vows in a recent ceremony at California Heights Methodist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Myrtle L. Douthit, 1212 E. 10th St., chose an ensemble of soft cocoa brown fashioned of peau de soie and chiffon. Mrs. Robert Burton was her sister's matron of honor.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Wilson High and now a senior at Long Beach State College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Miller, Long Beach, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lois Jean, to John Douglas Williams Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Williams Sr., Bellflower.

The bride-elect was graduated from Jordan High and Long Beach State College where she was president of Alpha Phi Gamma, news editor of the Forty-Niner and a member of the Organizations and Publications Commission.

Her fiancé, a senior at LBSC, was former business manager of the Forty-Niner, editor of the yearbook and a past president of Alpha Phi Gamma.

Puckett-Hubbard Engagement Told

Engagement of Gloria Jean Puckett, a senior at

Long Beach State College, to Thomas D. Hubbard has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Puckett, Long Beach.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Poly High School. At State she has served as president and vice president of Delta Zeta and is a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

Her fiancé, son of Mrs. C. R. Neiland, Oxnard, and L. W. Hubbard, Bakersfield, was graduated from LBSC last year where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

Betrothed Couple Will Wed in June

A June wedding is planned by newly engaged

Elaine C. Small and William R. Bouley.

Announcement of their betrothal was revealed recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Small, San Francisco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bouley of Lakewood. A professional baseball player, he graduated from Wilson High and Long Beach City College. She is a model.

Linda Blackburn Will Join Brides

Engagement of Linda Ann Blackburn and Ernest L. Bontrager has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Blackburn, Long Beach.

A senior at USC, Miss Blackburn is a fourth generation Californian and granddaughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Louis P. Russell of Los Angeles.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bontrager, Modesto, was graduated from the College of Engineering, University of California at Berkeley.

Reveal Betrothal on Anniversary

Mrs. Kathleen Cooper has announced the engagement of her daughter, Carolyn Beatrice to Jeffery Charles Hubbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Hubbard.

News of the forthcoming wedding which will unite two Long Beach families, was revealed at the 50th anniversary of the bridegroom-to-be's grandparents,

Mr. and Mrs. George Magruder, Long Beach.

Both the bride-elect and her fiancé attend Long Beach City College where she is a member of Ramayana and he of Hammurabi. They are Poly High School alumni.

College Students Set August Date

College students Bonnie Leonett and Edwin T. Leach recently revealed plans for an August wedding.

Engagement of the pair was announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Leonett, Van Nuys.

Miss Leonett is a student at Valley State College. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Leach, formerly of Long Beach and now residents of Garden Grove, is a senior at UCLA. He was graduated from Wilson High School and received an AA degree from Orange Coast College.

Matthews-Russell Names Are Linked

Diana Lee Matthews' engagement to Robert Michael Russell has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Fae Matthews, Long Beach, and father, George R. Matthews also of this city.

The bride-elect was graduated from Poly High School and attends Long Beach City College where she is a member of Socorro Welfare Club.

Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Russell, Long Beach, also was graduated from Poly High and attends Long Beach City College.

A wedding in August is planned.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Resent Round Robin Route

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received a wedding invitation from a friend of mine whose son was being married. Written on the invitation was a note, "Say, Mable, this is for the whole family." Abby, our six children are all married and have children of their own, all living miles apart, and my friend expected me to get them all together. Just for her sake, I telephoned each one and not one would accept an invitation like that. My husband said he didn't blame them. Then he got stubborn and refused to go, so I had to stay home because it would have looked bad to go without him.

Now my friend is down on me. These people could well have afforded an invitation for each family. Was I wrong?

—BUSTED FRIENDSHIP.

DEAR BUSTED: I don't blame your children for not attending. Perhaps you should have called your friend and suggested she send each of your married children an invitation if she wanted them at the wedding. You and your husband should have attended. Why make a formal mountain out of an informal molehill?

DEAR ABBY: When a girl asks a boy to a girl-

ask-boy party, is she supposed to pick him up, pay for everything and see him home?—BIG ARGUMENT.

DEAR BIG: No. The girl asks the boy if he will ESCORT her. After that, the date is on him.

DEAR ABBY: My wife died a month ago and I am 57 years old. She was a good wife, and I know she wouldn't care if I got married again. I am a lonely man, and anyone who went through what I did would understand.

I met a woman at a drive-in. It was funny how we met. She is 52 and her husband has been dead for about four years. We sure did hit it off great! We want to get married. We know people will say we knew each other before my wife died, but that isn't true. We figure they will talk about us if we get married in two months or two years from now. I think we will make it three months, and let them talk. I would like your advice.—WANTS TO MARRY.

DEAR WANTS: The customary wait before remarrying is one year. But wait as long as your conscience dictates.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JANET: Marry him anyway. Every med student has a skeleton in his closet.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Chamber Music Class

PALOS VERDES — Marymount College has announced a class in chamber music to be held on campus each Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. under direction of Sven Reher, assistant professor of music.

Prof. Reher is considered one of the nation's leading violists and formerly was a member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

In addition to study of the literature of the chamber music orchestra, the newly formed group will present several concerts later in the season. String and woodwind instrumentalists as well as pianists are invited to enroll.

Tables are Topic for Tea

WHAT'S WRONG? Just everything. Hostess, posed by Mrs. E. A. Check, has totally ignored basic rules of table setting. Result: distress of guest Mrs. E. L. Hughes, who wishes she'd stayed home where knives, forks, spoons, cups and saucers are in practical order. No one would make these mistakes—but everyone can use some new ideas. Where to find them? The Alpha Phi Table Topic Tea, Saturday 1 to 4:30, Virginia Country Club.

EVEN A BRIDGE TABLE will do. Here, standing, Marcella Cole serves guests (left) Mrs. Andrew Cortright and Mrs. Ardith Melton at table featuring simple setting of "things on hand." Expert hostesses, all three agree that formal service and servants aren't needed to entertain guests.

"Making guests feel at home (even when you wish they were) is the secret of being a successful hostess."

So says Mrs. Andrew Cortright, homemaking instructor at Jordan High, who attacks the problems of entertaining with sense plus a sense of humor.

As one of the four judges for Tuesday's Table Topics Tea sponsored by Alpha Phi International, she's all for simplicity, good taste and doing with what's on hand.

"A table setting should enhance the food and set the party mood," says Mrs. Cortright. "A well thought-out setting can help make the difference between a distraught and relaxed hostess."

AND WHAT WOMAN hasn't at sometime been a little frantic when company was due?

Say she's worked like a demon, and now with guests at the door, her off-spring is howling, her husband has lost his tie clasp, there's something burning in the kitchen and she's just tripped over the family cat.

It's then that it takes super-feminine effort to whisk off an apron and greet company with poise—plus a smile.

And it's then, according to Mrs. Cortright, that knowing the proper (which is the practical) way to serve and make one's guests feel at home, can save the day and/or dinner.

FOR A LOOK at the ways one might arrange a table to best advantage Mrs. Cortright recommends attendance at the Alpha Phi tea.

"There'll be settings exhibited for every kind of table—formal and informal, elaborate and simple."

The tea will take place at Virginia Country Club from 1 to 4:30 p.m. with prizes offered for the most beautiful, most original and most functional in adult and children's table settings.

Judging the contest with Mrs. Cortright will be homemaking instructors Mrs. Ingrid Larsen, Poly High, and Marcella Cole, Lakewood High.

ORGANIZATIONS taking part in the contest are Quota Club, Woman's Auxiliary of County Medical Association, Los Altos Women's Club, Optometric Auxiliary, Lakewood Aid League, Lawyers' Wives, Long Beach Chiropractic Auxiliary, Women's Music Club of Long Beach, Dames, Coast Guard Wives, Children's Benefit League, Emblem Club, North Long Beach Junior Women's Club, North Long Beach Women's Club, Symphony Juniors, Los Altos Garden Club, Pilot Club of Lakewood, League of Women Voters, Rick Rackers, Alamitos Bay Garden Club, Opti-Mrs. Downtown Club, Lakewood Junior Women, Sandlarks, Ebell Juniors, Assistance League, Long Beach Symphony Guild and Pilot Club of Long Beach.

A prize of $50 will be awarded the group with the most popular setting and money from the event itself will be used for the Cardiac Fund and the housing fund at Long Beach State College.

WHAT'S NEW in settings? Mrs. Cortright believes the bright table runner which replaces both cloth and individual mats is probably the latest thing in arrangements. "This type of setting shows off both the dinnerware and lovely finish of the table top."

"We are lucky to live in California," continues Mrs. Cortright. "Here we have more variety of food and more foreign influence and thus the opportunity to use more originality and color in our settings."

Arrangements for the tea have been handled by Alpha Phi members Mmes. Ardith Melton, Bruce Heller, E. L. Hughes, Clarence Lundell, L. F. Perry and E. A. Check.

FORMAL INITIATION TO CLIMAX RUSHING

Liberal Arts

Rushing season continues this week for social clubs of the Long Beach City College Liberal Arts Division, with still more rush teas and open house programs on and off campus. Sororities will conduct formal initiation of new members Feb. 20.

Associated Women Students will sponsor a backstage reception following the "Evenings at Eight" performance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo Thursday. Diane Jankowski is in charge of arrangements.

Serving as an activities adviser this spring will be Mrs. Margaret Goodman-Malamuth of the English department. She is the stand-in for Mrs. Ella C. Lewis now traveling in Europe on sabbatical leave.

LBCC's dance band was selected for a guest appearance at the recent USC-UCLA basketball game. The group also has been a feature home games this season. Director is Richard L. Jones.

Jeff Valentine has been named spring semester president of 21-Plus. Other new officers are Art Olsen, Verline Matthews, Darline Bauer, Shirley Francis, Art Aufderhaur, Willa Farrell, Dorothy Williams, Bob Shotwell and Mary Ann Jacobson.

First issue of the Evening Viking, LAD evening student body newspaper, is scheduled for Feb. 26. New page editors are Chuck Jarred, Dennis Courtemarche, Cheryl Linscott and Michele Weiss. —Pat ESTELLE

Business, Technology

First ASB assembly of the semester at the Business and Technology Division will present Bob Mitchell's "Singing Boys" at 11 a.m. in the gymnasium. The group has appeared, with notable success, at many other Southland junior colleges.

Saturday night offers the first Co-Rec of the new term on the Pacific Coast Hwy. campus. Sponsors of the evening, which includes games and dancing, will be Electronic Technicians Association, Sigma and Associated Junior Retailers.

New officers of the Inter-Club Council are F. B. Landowski, president; Rolly Smith and Mary York.

Annual Luncheon

"Famous Men of February" will be the topic of Mrs. Frank R. Mettlich's talk at the Daughters of the American Revolution's reciprocity luncheon in Cavalier Room, Lafayette Hotel, Saturday.

The luncheon event, to take place at noon, is being held by five local DAR chapters with Los Cerritos DAR as hostess.

Mrs. Mettlich, San Diego, is state vice regent of the organization. Participating in the event will be Gaviota, Long Beach, Western Shores and Susan B. Anthony chapters.

Good Citizen pins and certificates will be presented to eight senior high school girls during the program.

Daughter's Dilemma Is Dubious at Best

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My 15-year-old daughter came home from school in tears yesterday, and, to put it mildly, I'm fit to bust! Her history teacher told her that if she did not stop flirting with the boys in her class she was going to have her go and talk to the principal.

Now, my daughter is very popular with the boys and has sense enough not to go steady. She is just nice to the fellows. She has assured me she does NOT flirt. I believe her, and I think it was highly unnecessary for a teacher to talk to her in such a way.

Her father and I are separated or I would have him tell that teacher a thing or two. Don't you agree this was uncalled for?—MRS. XY

DEAR MRS. XY: My dear lady, if I agreed with you that the teacher's reprimand was unnecessary, I'd be as ridiculous as you are in judging without knowing the facts.

Just because this girl is your daughter is no reason to believe that she is "above reproach," and certainly no reason to take her word against the teacher's when you haven't even talked to her.

I'm afraid your daughter is going to have a tough time of it if you bring her up to think that each time she is reprimanded she goes down in your book as "not guilty."

I doubt the teacher would dream up these charges. But I don't doubt daughter is going to have a rough time of it if you are going to resent her teachers correcting her.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

I hesitate to write this because I'm afraid you'll jump down my throat, but I'm worried.

Our daughter has recently become engaged to a young man who is one of nine children. He is always telling her what fun big families are and feeling sorry for her being an only child.

He has told her—in our presence—that he hopes they will have four boys and four girls. I think this is perfectly horrible, the mere thought of it, in these times of overpopulation.

When I have tried to discuss this with my daughter she just laughs. Personally, I don't think it a laughing matter, do you?—WORRIED MOM

DEAR WORRIED MOM:

I'm not going to "jump down your throat," but I am going to laugh a little. I imagine the young man's ideas will change when he comes face to face with economic problems, plus two or three little domestic ones running around the room.

But, most important of all, the matter of their family is strictly THEIR BUSINESS.—M.M.

Long Beach State's Newman Club will carry out a Valentine theme for its spring semester open house Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Soroptimist House. All LBSC students are invited, and after an introduction to the club's functions, there will be dancing and refreshments.

More dancing a little bit later when Delta Delta Delta stages the annual Seahorse Shuffle next Saturday in the College Dining Hall. Decorations will follow a seahorse theme and, sez our source of information, "there will be lots of twisting" at the girl-ask-boy affair. Proceeds go to the Tri-Delt fund which each year provides a scholarship for a deserving LBSC coed.

Also on the DDD front, five new members of the Teke's "Daughters of Diana": Linda Hickman, Ardie Ferrell, Thelma Thorpe, Linda Freeman, and Betty Bowman.

Robert Cornthwaite Began Japanese Dramatic Career in L.B. Film Next on Series

It was Howard Hawks who gave Robert Cornthwaite his first important break in the movies when he cast him as a scientist in "The Thing."

Cornthwaite, now appearing in "The Egg" at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave., is a former Long Beach resident who has achieved status in television and films after a career in little theater here. He attended City College and was a newscaster at KGER and KFOX before he went into the Air Force for four years.

HE RESUMED his studies at USC after his hitch and took his B.A. degree and a Phi Beta Kappa key at the university.

He has been directed by such men as George Stevens, Billy Wilder and Hawks.

"When you've been directed by them, you've really been directed," said Cornthwaite.

He has appeared in 20 films in the past decade—his latest being "All Hands on Deck," and he's been in nearly every major television series.

HE ENJOYS live stage work though, and that's one of the reasons he's appearing in "The Egg," a work which finds him on stage nearly every scene.

He will continue in the role of Emile Magis in the play directed by Dr. W. David Sievers Thursdays through Sundays for the remainder of this month at Magnolia.

AGO Slates Weinrich for Recital

Long Beach Chapter of American Guild of Organists will present Carl Weinrich in an organ recital next Sunday at 4 p.m. in First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue.

Since 1943 Weinrich has been director of music in the University Chapel at Princeton where he conducts a male choir of 60 voices. He has taught at various colleges including Wellesley, Vassar, Columbia and Michigan. In 1950 he was invited by Harvard University to give eight recitals as the Lamb Visiting Lecturer—the first time this lecture-ship had been awarded to a performer.

WITH MARCEL DUPRE and Albert Schweitzer, Weinrich has been called one of the three greatest living players of Bach's organ music.

His program next Sunday will include Bach's "Fantasy and Fugue in G Minor," Handel's "Fifth Concerto," Hindemith's "First Sonata in E Flat Minor," Franck's "Choral in B Minor," Sweetinck's "Fantasy in Echo Style," D'Aquin's "Noel," and Dupre's "Cortege and Litaney."

There is no admission charge; a free will offering will be taken.

Ballet Bill at LBSC Thursday

Celebrating its 25th anniversary season, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will be the "extra" attraction of the current "Evenings at Eight" season in Long Beach City College auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Sergei Denham directs the company of 75 dancers and musicians. Featured performers are Nina Novak, George Zorich, Helen Trailine, Juan Giuliano, Eugene Collins and guest ballerina Nina Vyroubova.

Thursday night's program will include "Les Sylphides," "Pas de Trois," "Sambros" and "Gaité Parisienne."

Though it was organized in Europe, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo took out its U. S. citizenship in 1938 and now claims to be the "oldest native-American ballet company."

DANCERS of the company are schooled in the tradition of the Russian Imperial Ballet, but many performers are American-born. The repertoire includes both classical ballet and the creations of contemporary choreographers.

A limited number of tickets will be available this week at the Liberal Arts Division bookstore fountain, 4901 E. Carson St., and at the box office Thursday.

Next regular "Evenings at Eight" program will present poet-humorist Ogden Nash Feb. 24 in "The Portable Nash."

COMPOSER
Eugene Zador's "Rhapsody for Orchestra" will have its world premiere Wednesday night when Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra performs in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. Laszlo Somogyi will conduct.

'Strip for Action'

Lindsay and Crouse's comedy, "Strip for Action," opens today at the Music Box Theater in Hollywood for a limited engagement before playing up the coast.

Limelitters to Appear at LBSC

The Limelitters, a vocal trio whose unique style rocketed the group to almost overnight popularity, will bring their folk songs to Long Beach State College Friday.

The 8:30 p.m. concert in the men's gymnasium is sponsored by Associated Women Students.

Singing and quipping in half-a-dozen languages, the threesome of Lou Gottlieb, Alex Hassilev and Glenn Yarbrogh present a program termed "alternately light and serious, old and new—as pleasant as an international blend of good coffee."

Tickets for the concert are on sale at Wallich's Music City in Lakewood, Humphreys in Long Beach, and in the LBSC bookstore.

Jose Greco in Spanish Ballet

Jose Greco and his Spanish Ballet will dance a new program for their six Los Angeles appearances on the Mary Bran Artist Series at Wilshire Ebell Theater at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 20 through 24. There will be a Saturday matinee.

LBAA Offers Art Lectures

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

During the centuries men have expressed their individual ideas, the history of their times and universal concepts through art. To help laymen as well as artists understand great art of the past 200 years, Long Beach Art Association is sponsoring a lecture series by Dr. Charles M. Thompson, "Attitudes and Images in the History of Painting."

First of the 10 sessions, Ancient Cultures to Greek and Roman, will be given Feb. 20 at 8 p.m. at the association's gallery in the Villa Riviera, 800 E. Ocean Blvd.

DR. THOMPSON, associate professor of art at Long Beach State College, is himself a well known artist with many exhibits to his credit. He will use color slides to illustrate concepts and make comparisons. Each session will be two hours long, with some time reserved for questions and answers.

Subsequent lectures, to be given every other Tuesday, will be: Medieval to Renaissance; Rembrandt and Vermeer; David (Neo-classic) and Delacroix (Romantic); Manet and Impressionism; Sensation, Symbol, Expression, Post Impressionist Directions; Cezanne and Hsia Kuei; Cubism; Expressionism; Surrealism and the Subconscious Source.

Cost of the series is modest—$10 for the 10 lectures. Admission to a single lecture is $2. LBAA members will pay only $6 for the series, and association membership is open to anyone interested.

Lecture reservations may be made by telephoning the gallery, which is open from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays, 1 to 7 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

ELAINE MALCO, Long Beach artist and art chairman of the Pacific Coast Club, has 10 paintings on display at the Shadow Mountain Club, Palm Desert. Seven are in Oriental style.

She writes: "I am so looking forward to Feb. 28 when I will demonstrate the Sumi style of painting which I studied while in Tokyo, Japan, completing the full course. Oriental art is dear to my heart."

"The exhibit is open to all members or guests of the Shadow Mountain Club—or anyone desiring to see the exhibit or demonstration just needs to state so at the club entrance."

Mrs. Malco and her husband, Leo, will leave early in April to spend six weeks in Tokyo and Hong Kong where she will continue her study of Sumi art.

A NOTE from Fran Soldini (whose handwriting is more abstract than her art) probably says: "On Feb. 6

"THE TEACHER," oil painting by Elaine Malco, is owned by Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rhine of Duke University, Durham, N. C.

I began teaching a class on Thursdays at the Downey Museum as a member of the museum staff.

"In January, my water color, 'Momentum,' was purchased by collector Percy Salato at M. H. De Young Memorial Museum, San Francisco. The painting is in the 41st annual California Water Color Society Show which will go next to La Jolla Art Center for the month of March. 'Momentum' will be replaced after this show by my water color, 'Green House,' for the CWCS traveling show which will tour U.S. museums for a year and a half."

A CHANGE of date for the master work of the month lecture at Long Beach Museum of Art: the program will be given Feb. 20 instead of the usual second Tuesday of the month.

The master work is "Madame Columbe as Venus" by Fragonard, 18th Century French painter. Mrs. Dean Godwin will outline the artist's life; the museum's educational curator, John Weeks, will relate the painting to its own era, to the current exhibitions and to contemporary trends. The lecture will begin at 10:30 a.m. and is open to the public without charge.

Concert Reminder

Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Lauris Jones, will feature works by Claude Debussy in the concert tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Long Beach City College Auditorium. This year marks the centennial of the French composer's birth.

Also programmed are "Symphony No. 8" by Beethoven and "Serenade to Music" by Vaughan Williams. The Camerata Chorale, directed by Robert L. Collins, will join in the latter work.

The LBCC box office will open at 7 p.m.

ing to its own era, to the current exhibitions and to contemporary trends. The lecture will begin at 10:30 a.m. and is open to the public without charge.

SEASCAPES in oil by California artist Howard McIntyre are on view in a one-man show at the Artists Co-op Gallery in Rolling Hills.

Located on the ridge of the Palos Verdes peninsula near Crenshaw and Silver Spur Road, the gallery is operated cooperatively by 30 South Bay painters, sculptors and graphic artists.

The McIntyre show will continue through March 4. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays; 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays.

THOMAS FERREIRA of Long Beach State College art department is one of 33 ceramists represented in the 18th annual Scripps College Invitational Ceramics Exhibition to be held in Long Art Building Feb. 20 through March 16. Gallery hours are 2 to 5 p.m.

Exhibiting ceramists are from Southern and Northern California and from 10 other states encompassing the East, Midwest, South and Southwest.

PROFESSOR Joshua C. Taylor, internationally recognized authority on modern art, will lecture on the current "Futurism" exhibit at Los Angeles County Museum Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the museum auditorium. His topic will be "Speed Without Motion; Where Were the Futurists Going?"

CITY CLAIMS PIANIST OF OUTSTANDING TALENT

By RACHEL MORTON
L. A. TIMES

It has been said: "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." We have right here, dwelling among us in Long Beach, a brilliant concert pianist with a long list of awards, honors and degrees of whom Mildred Norton, music critic, once wrote: "Here is a phenomenal new talent—virile, sensitive, strong. He has a commanding technical grounding and the musicianly address of an artist twice his years."

Julien Musafia, a strikingly handsome man with sadness in his dark eyes, was born in Bucharest, Roumania, and is at present head of the piano department at Long Beach State College. Unfortunately, he has been heard only once in Long Beach in a paid concert when he played magnificently the Liszt Concerto with the Long Beach Symphony. Next Friday evening in the Long Beach State College Little Theater he may be heard in a program for four-hand piano works with Michael Zearott, assisting artist.

JULIEN MUSAFIA was really a child prodigy. His older brother, aged 7, was being taught piano and sometimes, with his teacher, would play piano duets. After the teacher had gone, young Julien, aged 4, would sit at the piano and by ear play both parts; simplified, of course. He had absolute pitch. So his parents started him with piano lessons. After six months the teacher gave up, saying the child knew more than she did. He gave his first recital at the age of 6, playing two Sonatas by Beethoven, Opus 49. So phenomenal was his talent that a rare exception was made and he was given a scholarship at the Italian Conservatory in Bucharest at the age of 4½, although 12 years was the age limit.

Two Exhibits Opening in LBSC Galleries

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Viewers at the exhibit opening tonight in LBSC Art Gallery will have the sensation of visiting another time—the period of 1895 to 1914 revealed through posters of that era. It was a world of the double standard with proper ladies shown in mystery hats, high collars, gloves, and long skirts in contrast to "the other kind of women" who are depicted whooping it up in most outrageous décolletages.

Contemporary mankind is shown in many ways: as dandies, caricature types like a fat banker complete with heavy gold watch chain, or idealized pretentious athletes. The posters advertise drugs, perfumes, restaurants, theaters, and great public events. From the perspective of 50 years, they are engagingly funny.

THIS DEFINITIVE collection is also of serious interest, as this work was the beginning of the new art form which now overwhelms us from newspaper, magazine, billboard, and mailing-display advertising. Technically, the exploitation of lithographic processes excited the fine artists of the day like Toulouse-Lautrec, Gus Bofa, Steinlen, and Klinger. They experimented with the freedom of drawing with crayon, produced surface texture by stippling or the resistance of oil to water-based ink, explored the impact of broad areas of flat color.

Accessorizing the display are bentwood canal chairs from Thonet which exemplify the endless curving line

Opera Auditions

For its forthcoming performances of "La Cenerentola" (Cinderella) the Guild Opera Company of Southern California is holding auditions for baritone and bass roles. Auditions will be held in the auditorium of La Brea Junior High School 1316 N. Bronson Ave. Hollywood, Monday, 1 p.m. Only those singers who have had previous opera experience may apply.

Meredith Willson Conducts Concert

Meredith Willson, nationally acclaimed music master, will be guest conductor at Monday's Community Program in Municipal Auditorium.

The Recreation Department sponsored event will be keyed to the National Youth Fitness Program with each school within the district to be given a Youth Fitness theme record during the program.

The record "Chicken Fat," was composed by Willson who is a member of the National Advisory Commission on Youth Fitness.

The program is being co-sponsored by the Iowa Association of Long Beach which includes him as one of its favorite and most prominent sons.

THE LONG BEACH Municipal Band, directed by Charles Payne, will open the evening with a 45 minute band concert starting at 7:30 p.m. Marshall Craig, president of All-States Society, will act as master of ceremonies and Harry Ruffridge, president of Iowa State Society, will represent the Iowa Association of Long Beach.

Accepting the records for the school district will be Dr. Theron Freese, assistant superintendent of instruction and Dale Hoskin, director of municipal and school recreation.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Feb. 12-16:

Oswald Jacoby Easy Look Is Deceiving

Take a look at the North and South hands only. You are in six no-trump and have a couple of simple ways to make your contract. One way is to break the spades 3-3. That way you have five spade tricks, four club tricks and three in hearts. The other way is to play West for the queen of diamonds. This way you make two diamonds, three spades, four clubs and three hearts.

Now look at the East-West hands also. Both simple plays will fail, but there is a double dummy way to make the hand. You win the opening heart lead in your own hand, lead a diamond and rise with dummy's king, return a diamond to let West take his ace and eventually squeeze East so that he will either have to unguard his jack of spades or throw away his queen of diamonds.

Favor your Fabrics

by BETTY BLAKE
Fabric Care Counselor

Removing Ink Stains—An old-fashioned remedy for removing ink stains was to soak the garment in saw milk. In some cases, it may have removed the stain, but it often just compounded the trouble. Milk can leave a protein stain and that requires additional treatment. For fountain pen ink stains, wash out as much ink as possible and then treat with a dilute bleach—no more than two teaspoons to a cup of water. Rinse thoroughly. For ballpoint ink, rub the stain with a white handkerchief. If color comes off, soak the cloth in turpentine and ammonia. If that fabric care—Will it wash, will it clean, will it wear? CHEF OF THE WEEK

What a Busy Cook!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L.P.T. Food Editor

He's refreshing and spontaneous.

For example, Chef of the Week Dale Brown accompanied his wife to the nursery for the sole purpose of fetching a bag of peat moss.

Even before the moss deal had been transacted, he had acquired a 40-gallon aquarium complete with miscellaneous small fish.

Brown is that way about business, too. He starts one business—then another, and still another—yet keeps them all in first class repair.

They have evolved into "Dale Brown Enterprises" and run the gamut from a motorcycle dealership, two car lots—one for domestic and one for foreign cars—the Avon Credit Co., and an Autoette Electric Car Co., to the Circle Travel Service. Letty, Mrs. "B," conducts the latter.

DALE BROWN

BROWN first saw the light of day in The Dalles, Ore. At the age of 12, his family moved to Prescott, Ariz. It was there that he received his higher education before coming to Long Beach in 1936.

Quite naturally, he went into the same kind of business which had embellished his education funds. He assisted Fuzz Harris, the tailor, for five years.

His hobbies are accumulative. He started with boats and boat racing; and at the helm of his Class E, 16-foot racing runabout, not only has won several races, but has broken two world's records. His boat now lends the necessary impetus to his water skiing ambitions.

Brown is an avid gardener—and when the plants are in full bloom, they're his; when void of blooms, they're hers. And by the way, "he" and "she" met over the backyard fence. She had just arrived from London, England, her hometown. They find it hard to keep up with each other on the photography bit. They're both such avid enthusiasts.

A MEMBER of the Signal Hill Lions Club, Elks Lodge 888, and the Southern California Speed Club, he's an ex-commodore of the Boat Racing Association.

Our "chef" in no way could be considered a "Sunday cook." When one's planning dinner for two, says he, why not make it four, six, or more? On his frequent treks to the Colorado River, he's automatically appointed "the cook."

His recipe today is for Beachcomber Cantonese Spareribs.

BEACHCOMBER CANTONESE SPARERIBS
2 sides Farmer style spareribs
2 cups soy sauce
1 cup sugar
2 tsp. salt
2 tblsp. catsup

Trim ribs and marinate for an hour in mixture of soy sauce, sugar, salt, and catsup. Roast in 400-degree oven for approximately 30 minutes. Baste at least 3 times. Roasting time will vary with thickness of ribs. Serve with barbecue sauce. This is a recipe ideal for an outdoor barbecue.

TRAVELING MAKES A MAN WISER, BUT LESS HAPPY. — THOMAS JEFFERSON
HE THAT TRAVELS MUCH KNOWS MUCH. — THOMAS FULLER

WELL, JOHNNY, ALL THE PAPERS YOU'LL NEED ARE IN THERE, AND ALL THE FACTS YOU'LL NEED ARE IN YOUR HEAD!

I'LL BE IN LONDON TOMORROW IN TIME FOR OUR OFFICE. THERE TO BRIEF ME ON ANY NEW TWISTS!

YES! THEN PARIS: THAT AFRICAN OIL FIELD; THE MATTER IN HONG KONG! WE'LL BE IN TOUCH BY RADIOPHONE, OF COURSE!

YOU THINK IT'LL BE O.K. FOR MARLENE AND OUR BABY TO MEET ME IN PARIS?

OF COURSE! SHE'LL HAVE A BALL! AND YOU'LL WANT TO GET SOME CLOTHES WHILE IN LONDON!

HA HA! THIS BUSH SUIT IS HARDLY THE THING FOR A FORMAL BUSINESS CONFERENCE!

BY THE WAY, WHAT YOU SAID YESTERDAY, 'BE HONEST, AND TRUE TO THE PEOPLE OF OUR COUNTRY AND TO ONESELF, AND BE TOUGH ENOUGH TO STAY THAT WAY, NO MATTER WHAT!'

YOU'VE LIVED ALL YOUR LIFE SO FAR, BY THAT CODE! I JUST HOPE I CAN DO THE SAME! I SURE AM TO!

I'LL NEVER WORRY ABOUT YOU, JOHNNY!

HERE COMES THE FIRST MECHANICAL HORSE IN YOUR RELAY RACE TO LONDON!

GOOD-BY FOR NOW, ANNE! I'LL SEND YOU A POST CARD!

GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK, PARTNER!

TILL WE MEET AGAIN, PARTNER!

WELL, THERE HE GOES!

YOU'RE SO QUIET, DADDY! WHATCHA THINKIN' ABOUT?

JOHNNY! SO YOUNG AND YET SO FULL OF DRIVE! SO MUCH OF LIFE, VIOLENCE, WORLDLY EXPERIENCE ALREADY BEHIND HIM!

OUT ON THE ROAD I USED TO TRAVEL, NEVER COMPLETELY TRUSTING ANYONE, ALWAYS ALERT AND WATCHFUL, READY TO GAMBLE A KINGDOM ON A GUESS — BUT ON AN INFORMED GUESS!

AH, I SHOULD FEEL OLD, STAYING HERE BEHIND, BUT SOMEHOW, KNOWING THERE'S EVEN ONE MAN LIKE JOHNNY QUICK, TO CARRY ON FOR OUR SIDE... WHY, I HAVEN'T FELT SO GOOD FOR YEARS!

DOMESTIC ANIMALS SHOW PLEASURE AND CONTENTMENT IN SUCH WAYS AS PURRING, WHINNYING, OR TAILWAGGING

FOR ANIMALS, LIKE THEIR HUMAN BRETHREN, HAVE VARIED WAYS OF DISPLAYING THEIR FEELINGS

PERHAPS THE MOST EXPRESSIVE OF ALL WILD CREATURES ARE MEMBERS OF THE MONKEY TRIBE...

BOREDOM, JOY, ANGER, FEAR, AFFECTION, INDIFFERENCE, AND A WHOLE GAMUT OF EMOTIONAL EXPRESSION IS REGISTERED ON THESE QUIANT FACES

SO HUMAN DO THEY APPEAR, AT TIMES THAT WE GET AN UNCOMFORTABLE FEELING AS WE WATCH IN FASCINATION

ANIMALS SEEM AS INDIVIDUAL IN PERSONALITY AS THE HUMAN, RACE, AND ASSERT THEMSELVES IN MUCH THE SAME WAY

THE HIGH INTELLIGENCE AND ADAPTABILITY OF THE MONKEY HAS MADE HIS KIND EASY TO TAME AND TRAIN

HOWEVER, THIS TRAINING OFTEN OBSCURES THE CREATURES REAL PERSONALITY, WHICH IS QUITE APART FROM HIS ROUTINE PERFORMANCE

ACME MATTRESS FACTORY BIGGEST FIRM OF KIND IN AREA

Started in 1932 in a small 30-by-60-ft. building, Acme Mattress Factory, 3425 E. Anaheim St., has grown into the largest plant of its kind in the entire South Coast area.

Quality workmanship and service, plus the use of the best materials available, have been the key to success for the firm owned by Marion Wyatt.

Besides the big factory and showroom at 3425 E. Anaheim St., Wyatt's firm now has a commercial fumigating plant at 1349 Loma Ave.; cotton processing plant at 2750 Dawson Ave., and a spring plant at 1325 Newport Ave.

The four plants cover more than 50,000 square feet and employ 45 people.

Using all of the very newest in equipment with the latest machine for each job to insure good workmanship, Wyatt recently installed a $12,000 bordering and mattress ventilating machine. "This will give added life to every mattress we produce," explains Wyatt.

With the most complete renovating plant in the Southland, Acme has among its customers, the U. S. Government, many large steamship lines, hotels and apartments.

The Acme cotton processing plant is the only one of its kind in Long Beach and supplies upholstery firms and other bedding manufacturers throughout the area.

The spring plant houses a wood-working shop to make and insure quality frames used in Acme products. Most springs are hand tied to assure uniform work.

The main factory on Anaheim St. houses the mattress making equipment, sales and showroom. There is also a foam rubber fabricating department in this unit.

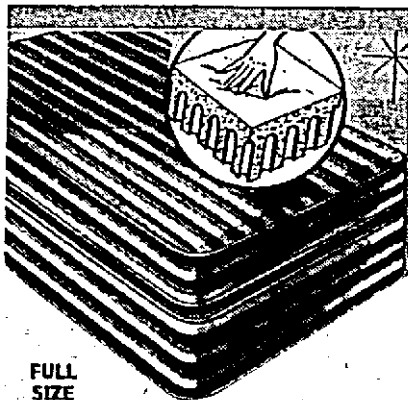

Buyers may obtain mattresses and box springs of any size and from extra soft to very firm. Pillows, custom headboards and studio couches also are manufactured to any size by Acme.

The foam rubber department fabricates all types of cushions, mattresses, pillows and other foam rubber products for upholstery and mattress use.

According to Mr. Wyatt here are 5 reasons why Acme-built mattresses are better, last longer and cost less:

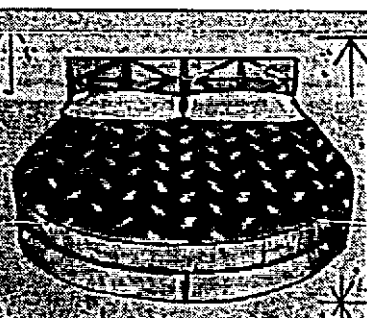

1. Grade "A" padding and steel construction used throughout.
2. Over 30 years' experience in the mattress construction business.
3. Well-trained and experienced personnel.
4. Volume buying allows us to pass savings on to you.
5. 30 years' experience serving government agencies, hospitals, private and public institutions.

OUR COVER

Twenty-one newly graduated nursing students, wearing the insignia of Registered Nurse, now are ministering to the bed-ridden at Long Beach Memorial Hospital. Our cover shows one of these Florence Nightingales, Lora Carpenter, meeting 4-year-old Richard Thumure, 2463 W. 236th Place, Carson, and play therapist Mrs. Grace Smith in the hospital's pediatrics ward. The little fellow seems to enjoy her presence, and no wonder: Lora is typical of the young nurses now on staff duty at Memorial. For more about these attractive young career women, see Page 7.

You Ask—We Answer

By Haslin

Q. Was there, originally, a specific dance called the jitterbug? U. G.

A. No. Jitterbug has been defined as "a general term for unconventional, often formless and violent, social dances to syncopated music, generally in 4/4 time." A dance encyclopedia says that the best-known early forms of jitterbug include the Charleston, Black Bottom, Shag, and Lindy Hop. In the early 1940s these forms were consolidated in the Lindy (short for Lindy Hop). As jitterbug popularity continued, new combinations were invented and dancers began to use steps from all parts of the world.

Q. Is Charlton Heston the actor's real name? A. K.

A. The actor was born Charlton Carter, son of Russell and Lilla Charlton Carter, on Oct. 4, 1924, in Evanston, Ill. The Carters were later divorced. After his mother's remarriage, to Chester Heston, Charlton Carter adopted his stepfather's surname and has retained it.

Q. Who was "the girl with the midnight eyes"? F. N.

A. Maxine Elliott (1871-1940), one of the world's most beautiful actresses, was termed "The Lady of the Midnight Eyes" by Whistler, the famous artist. Her eyes were described as "a luminous, mysterious, deep-blue."

Q. Why is ice skating more difficult in extremely cold weather? S. E.

A. When ice is not too cold, it melts by pressure alone. Skaters may then glide on the thin film of water which pressure of their skates produces, and which refreezes as soon as pressure is removed. In extremely cold weather the ice surface does not melt under the skates and gliding becomes difficult.

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on BOONE and BONE. — B.B., R.B., Long Beach.

B.B., R.B.: BOONE, a celebrated American name, gained lasting fame in our great country's frontier history. However it was celebrated in Europe centuries before America was discovered. The Boone ancestor was Humphrey, the Sire de Bohun, who entered England with his compatriots in the Norman French conquest of 1066. Bohun's name was from an ancestral warrior title meaning "Messenger-protector." The Bohun manorial estate was near Carentan, Normandy. As a reward for his services, William the Conqueror gave Bohun the great manor of Talesford in Norfolk, England, where he and his descendants lived for generations. The Bohuns, who later used the surnames Boone and BONE, afterward acquired the Earldoms of Hereford, Northumberland and Essex. Their coat-of-arms has three red seashells between two gold lions on a diagonal gold and silver stripe across a blue shield. The famous frontiersman Daniel Boone was of this lineage. His father emigrated from Exeter, England, to North Carolina, in 1750. Bone is also traced to "bone" meaning "good one" in early Britain. The Bone shield is gold, emblazoned with a blue cross.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on McCONAHAY and McCONKEY. — M.M., Long Beach; Mrs. M.K., Torrance.

M.M., M.K.: McCONAHAY and McCONKEY go back many centuries to the ancient Gaelic Irish clan MacDhonnchaigh, meaning "Sons of the brown warrior." The letters "Dh" were silent in the Irish pronunciation, producing "Macconghaigh, the Mac-MacConahey and MacConkey. Mc and Mac were interchangeable. These families were recorded in Cork, Sligo and Clare in the Middle Ages. Pennsylvania tax records of 1765 list an ancestor, David McConaughy.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on RARDON. — H.R., Compton.

H.R.: RARDON is from Riordan, a celebrated Irish name. This family are from Offaly in southeast Erin, where they are recorded as far back as the 10th century. Their ancestor was Riogbardon O'Carroll who died in battle in 1058. Riogbardon, meaning "Royal ballad singer" was bequeathed to descendants called the O'Riordans and Rardons.

Going to Mexico?

If you're heading for Mexico this year, two paperback books just published will make your trip more enjoyable.

"A Short History of Mexico," a Dolphin Original by J. Patrick McHenry (Doubleday & Co., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, 95 cents) will give you just the background you need when you visit historic spots, as well as to help you understand the people. McHenry, a free lance artist-writer, has lived in Mexico for 10 years.

"Mexico: Where Everything Costs Less" by Norman D. Ford (Harian Publications, Green Lawn, N. Y., $1.50), locates bargain spots for tourists for jewelry and other Mexican goods and describes 50 unusually attractive communities for low cost, interest-filled vacationing and retirement.

Are Nurses Younger Now?

By Ben Zinser

Independent Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

FROM KEUKA PARK, N. Y., to Santa Barbara, from St. Louis, Mo., to Whitby, Ontario, the young nurses flock to the nation's first space-age hospital in Long Beach.

Here, at Memorial Hospital, many a young nurse makes the transition from nursing school to her first job as an RN—Registered Nurse.

Twenty-one newly graduated nursing students have joined the Memorial staff in the past few months.

Working alongside experienced nursing personnel, the young nurses have quickly become a part of the health team.

ALTHOUGH MOST of the nation suffers from a shortage of registered nurses, Memorial Hospital, through an aggressive recruiting program, has been able to maintain an adequate nursing staff.

Henry Clock, president of Memorial's board of directors, says that some Los Angeles hospitals have closed wards because of a nurse shortage. But in contrast, Memorial has constantly made more patient beds available since it opened in June 1960. One day, in the week preceding last

Christmas, Memorial had 453 patients. (The hospital is rated as a 400-bed facility.)

The young nurses number less than 10 per cent of the hospital's 209 registered nurses. All told, there are 350 persons in the nursing department.

RECENT GRADUATES and their schools:

Patricia Grant and Ann Louise Ernst, California Hospital School of Nursing, Los Angeles; Betty Gilden and Barbara Muth, Knapp College, Santa Barbara; Janet Wilson, University of Colorado School of Nursing, Denver; Elizabeth Hurd, Kathleen Love and Margaret Strange of St. Mark's Hospital School of Nursing, Salt Lake City, Utah; Deborah deLuce, Katherine Segar and Ann Martin, Keuka College School of Nursing, Keuka Park, N. Y.; Ena Cook, Ontario Hospital, Whitby, Ontario; Carol Fleming, Loyola University School of Nursing, Los Angeles; Alice Adams, Lutheran Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Mo.; Margaret Rea and Barbara Van Gronigen, Santa Rosa College School of Nursing; Linda Lou Bartgis, Bishop Johnson College of Nursing, Los Angeles; Gail Salisbury, Riverside City College School of Nursing; and Lois Stewart, Lora Carpenter and Colleen Janes, all of Long Beach City College.

Margaret Rea, 1961 graduate, is one of 21 new Memorial Hospital nurses.

Three young nurses—Colleen Janes, Linda Lou Bartgis and Barbara Van Gronigen—take notes as assistant floor manager, Mrs. Sonja Allgood (right), gives report.

Gail Salisbury, a graduate of School of Nursing at Riverside City College, turns on radio for patient.

Lora Carpenter of Long Beach City College helps young Russell Hawkins with breakfast in Memorial Hospital's pediatric department.

Carol Fleming fills syringe for hypodermic injection of medication for a patient in the intensive surgical unit at Memorial Hospital.

The Indians of George Catlin's Old West

A PICTURESQUE era in history that is forever gone—the Old West before the covered wagon and the development of photography—is preserved on canvas by George Catlin, who has become famous as the artist-historian of the American Indian.

Catlin began his great adventure into the trans-Mississippi West in 1830 when Meriwether Lewis introduced him to Indians of various tribes. But his most remarkable field trip was made in the summer of 1832 when he traveled up the Missouri

River more than 2,000 miles to Fort Union at the mouth of the Yellowstone, aboard the first steamboat to reach that remote point. He painted the earliest known portraits of the warlike Western Sioux, Cheyenne and Blackfoot tribes, as well as the farming tribes on the Missouri. It was during this expedition that he began to paint Indian villages and village life and hunting scenes, as well as landscapes of the Indian country.

While painting, he collected fascinating information on Indian life and customs that appeared in his very popular two-volume work, "Letters and Notes on the Manners, Customs and Condition of the Indian Tribes of North America," first published in London in 1841 and reprinted many times.

On subsequent trips by canoe and portage, and one with an expedition of the Dragoons, he continued to paint at every opportunity. Before he died, he had executed literally hundreds of paintings of the Old West.

INTERNATIONAL CAT GETS A NEW POLE

Slidin' Sam's at It Again!

Written and Illustrated
By Richard W. Emery

Step right up for a look at the world's most famous cat—

The International Cat—

The incomparable, death-defying, fire-house-brass-pole downsliding cat known throughout America, and Europe, and Africa, and far-off New Zealand and Australia—INTERNATIONAL! I say—

Sam—that's his name!

Slidin' Sam!

The boast of the City of Long Beach!

The pride of the Long Beach Fire Department!

The most especial treasure of City Fire House Six!

NOW LADIES and Gentlemen, four years ago nobody, I mean nobody, in all the world had heard of Slidin' Sam. He was a nothin', a nobody-cat, a catcher of rats on the Long Beach water front.

But the firemen down at Station Six gave him a hand, Ladies and Gentlemen! Out of the greatness of their hearts they offered food and shelter to this nothing-cat, this yellow-eyed prowler with the spangled tail, and they named him Sam. And Sam slept under their warm bunks away up there on the high second floor of Fire House Six.

Now the quickest way down from away up there was to slide down the 20-foot brass pole and that's the way the brave fire laddies slid when the bells banged and the Cap'n shouted.

And in his fright at all that fearsome racket, this nothing-cat, this rat-catcher Sam, learned something that has made him to this day and hour the most distinguished cat on all the earth.

SAM LEARNED how to slide that pole!

It was only a whisper around the town at first—"Have you heard about the cat at Fire House Six?" But the reporters and photogs heard it and they saw Sam and shouted and screamed to the four corners of the globe and Sam made Page One and TV and the photo syndicates and magazine covers (in color, yet) and from all the world the letters came pouring in to Fire House Six!

For three years this intrepid cat took those death-defying life-slides and then—Ah, sad thing!—the department abandoned the old two-story building. That was a year ago, friends—and the lads of Station Six have all this time been staying in their new fire house and it's only one story high and it has no brass pole.

It has no pole!

AND SLIDIN' SAM has been ashamed, so ashamed he can hardly catch his rats, because he's had no pole to slide on, and all the while the letters pour in from people asking "How's Sam?"

Fire laddies near tears have had to write back, "Sam's not sliding, no pole!"

Well, Ladies and Gentlemen, this shameful fix which has cast a shadow over our fair city is about to be taken away forever because there's good news today and here it is:

Slidin' Sam will have a pole again! The brave laddies at Fire House Six have the chief's okay and the pole will be put there just for Sam, in time for the big dedication ceremony of the new $107,000 Fire House Six. That's 11 a. m. Feb. 19 at 835 Windham Ave. in the heart of the harbor district.

And internationally, Ladies and Gentlemen, the folks'll be glad to hear Sam's slidin' again!

Fan mail has come from far points as Slidin' Sam's fame spread. Above, Capt. Harold Wick of L. B. Fire Station Six holds double handful of cat's mail. New one-story station will soon have special pole for Sam.

Slidin' Sam demonstrates the feat which made him famous, sliding down the fire-house pole. He'll soon be sliding again.

She's Campus Valentine Queen

Jan Hassell, Long Beach City College Valentine Queen, looks over travel folders and dreams of long-awaited trip to Europe—a dream that will come true in June.

By Don Drury

VALENTINE QUEEN of Long Beach City College, 1962 model, is Jan Hassell of 4446 Stanbridge Ave.

The 19-year-old sophomore, who also reigned over the recent Sweetheart Prom, was chosen for her dual honor by the Associated Student Body Cabinet, LBCC Liberal Arts Division.

The very model of the popular, photogenic campus coed, Jan is also the dedicated sponsor of a club for youngsters and hopes for a career in municipal recreation.

A high-stepping flag twirler with the LBCC Viking Band, she is also an art student, musician and ardent collector of travel guidebooks—and plans a long-awaited tour of Europe this summer.

QUEEN JAN, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hassell, is a brown-eyed brunette, 5-6 and 124 pounds. At City College she has been a member of Kassal (women's honorary service group), Entre Nous (women's social club), the Associated Women Students advisory board and the college band.

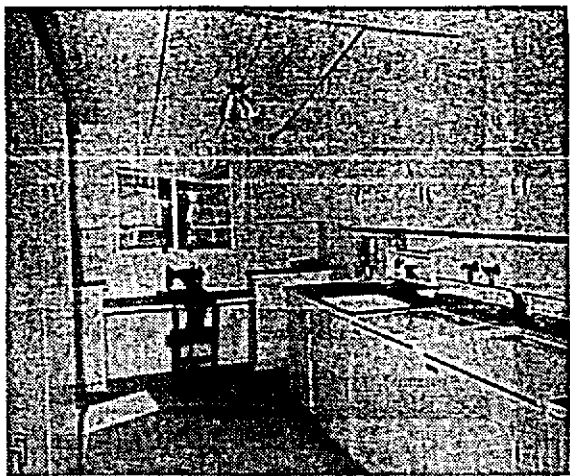

At Lakewood High School she was an officer of the Girls' Club, flag girl, member of the Welfare Club, and a member of the school orchestra—in which she played both the violin and the piano, though not simultaneously.

Her outside interests include music, travel, and her sponsorship of a seventh grade girls' club at the Los Altos YWCA. She is also a sports fan, with special emphasis upon basketball and her favorite basketball player, Jerald Dick of the LBCC varsity. (Sorry, men, you'll have to wait for the next Valentine Queen. This one is definitely not available.)

Following graduation from City College in June, Jan plans that summer trip to Europe and will then enter Long Beach State College in the fall.

 Queen Jan has keen interest in art studies, can be seen on campus with sketch pad.

Washer, drier and storage are provided in a service porch which has been added to Pete Ward residence.

IN AN AVERAGE home, a service porch is a small addition to the kitchen that holds a washer and dryer and perhaps a few shelves for storage. When Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ward, 11661 Puryear St., Garden Grove, decided to build a service porch, they decided to do so on a deluxe scale.

Directly adjacent to the kitchen, the room is over 20 feet long and more attractive than most kitchens. Washer, dryer and sink combined with plenty of work space line one wall. Full sized closets ready to hold ironed clothes line the opposite wall. Cupboards in which to put hard-to-store items line the upper walls of the room.

A SEWING machine with a window above for good light is at one end of the room. On either side are work areas atop full sized chests of drawers. Cupboards are above both chests.

A desk is at the far end of the room where there is also another window. Expertly designed by Ward, the room is excellent for any home, particularly one where small children make launder-

ing and sewing every-day routine. — BY STELLA GEORGE

ONE OF THE most fascinating homes in Southern California is that belonging to Mr. and Mrs. James Sippelle, 2530 E. 21st St., Signal Hill. A split level structure, the home wanders down a hill, overlooking the city in the distance. Custom designed by an expert, it is a crown upon the hillside which it stands.

Soaring outward from the family room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sippelle, this balcony viewed through a glass wall seems almost to be flying. Below, the living room. Steps, right, lead to entry hall.

Glass walls in the kitchen orient themselves to the very center of the downtown section of Long Beach.

The street level front door opens to a wide entry hall. Straight ahead is the family room kitchen area, at the far end of which glass walls meet at a point which orients itself to the center of downtown Long Beach. Beyond the glass walls, a porch extends to another arrow point.

While the entire home is a flawless balance of symmetry and design, individual rooms are imaginative and unusual in shape. The decorating scheme is planned accordingly.

EFFICIENCY plus is the keynote in the streamlined kitchen. The working area is arranged so that one can stand in the center and have every needed item within arm's reach. A low, white, sit-down bar with formica top extends to one end of the kitchen, separating the latter from the family room adjoining. Woodwork is all solid walnut, rich in color and texture, a sharp and attractive contrast to the white formica. Chairs around the bar are of a greenish golden color. Floors in both rooms are impregnated cork with a long-wearing vinyl top finish.

The family room is furnished with an eye to easy maintenance as well as good looks. The couch is of champagne color; a small piano from Japan is of walnut. A rust carpet which the Sippelles brought from Morocco provides a gay color accent. A built-in desk takes up little room and avoids clutter.

Four steps up from the family room are two doors, one leading to the garage and the other to a blue powder room. Four steps down, on the kitchen side, lead to a triangular living room. Carpeting on the steps and in the living room is of natural, hand-knotted wool, almost white in color. A free standing metal fireplace is in one corner. Furniture is casual—avocado chairs, an inlaid table from Morocco, and little or no bric-a-brac.

THE ENTIRE far wall of the living room is glass, overlooking the magnificent view in the distance. Oatmeal linen drapes bear out the impeccable taste used in the interior decorating.

To the left of the entry hall is a stairway which leads to the bedroom and playroom downstairs. In the master bedroom, directly beneath the living room, fine, simple furnishings add to the size of the room. A bathroom adjoins the bedroom. Brown-gold color tones are used on the long dressing table-wash basin area. A sunken tub, with a planter in the background, looks out through a picture window to the city beyond. Two walls are mirrored, adding to the size of the already large room.

BEDROOMS for the Sippelle girls are unique in design and color. The far walls of both rooms are of glass, like other rooms in the home. In one room pure white is accented with pink; in the other room with blue. The blue is a vivid, Copenhagen shade, carried out in hand-painted wall murals and fluffy throw rugs. The deep pink wall murals in the other room resemble huge lace doilies—pretty and feminine.

The girls' bathroom is equipped to serve also as a laundry, with washer and dryer convenient. Nearby is their playroom, and here again is the glass wall with the view beyond.

The landscaping is in the preliminary stages, but plans, which include a lower level swimming pool, are underway. Because of the unusual site, the lack of landscaping is not complete detracts in no way from the elegance of the home.

Dramatic roof of this 3-bedroom ranch style home provides low lines but permits high interior ceilings, features obtained without any basic structural changes.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Dramatic Effects Have Utility

By Jules Loh

TWO FEATURES result from the striking roof line of this modest ranch-type home: a striking exterior and something rare in modern homes—a ceiling in the dining area eight inches higher than the customary eight feet.

"There was plenty of good reasoning behind the tall ceiling in grandfather's house," said architect Samuel Paul, who designed House of the Week B-77.

"The only reason most present day homes have lower ceilings is for the sake of economy. But this home—I call it the 'Jeanette'—retains the higher ceiling in the living area at no extra cost; in fact at a saving."

The living room-dining ensemble has been indented from the bedroom wing with the higher ceiling resulting, as well as an extra deep roof overhang on this portion of the house.

THE SAME sweeping roof, with no intersecting parts,

Good zoning is the hallmark of this 1,524-square-foot layout. Closet space includes a wide storage wall between family room and garage. Traffic flow is good.

Functional and casual family room, viewed here from kitchen, boasts native stone fireplace with raised hearth and storage wall with built-in TV and book shelves.

extends down over the protruding garage producing a long, low effect.

There are other interior features which provide a lot of house for the 1,524 square feet of living area in this model: first notice its excellent zoning and traffic circulation.

Formal entertaining can be done enjoyably in the extra large living room with its front patio, but for extra large gatherings a folding wooden door can be opened to the family room providing one grand sweep of indoor-outdoor expanse.

THE HOUSE contains three bedrooms and 2½ baths. The half-bath is located off the laundry room, which makes it convenient not only to the family room but to children playing outdoors as well.

Dimensions of B-77 are 30 feet 8 inches deep on the bedroom side, 36 feet deep on the garage side, and 69 feet wide. Paul recommends a plot to take full advantage of exterior features and design.

The living area of B-77 is designed to fill functional as well as casual daily living needs. The family room features a native stone fireplace with a raised hearth which is part of a storage wall for bookshelves, cabinets and built-in TV and phonograph. A glass wall, with sliding doors, separates the room from the terrace.

The kitchen likewise was planned for plenty of space but few steps for the housewife. The work area is U-shaped, probably the most efficient design of them all.

Another feature is location of the laundry on the living level. And still another feature is the long work counter in the laundry, something housewives clamor for but seldom get.

The mud room in B-77 has its own closet for raincoats, boots, umbrellas and other gear, and the room can be entered from the garage as well as from the rear terrace.

IF THE OWNER wishes, the right wall of the dining room can be made of brick, carried right through the glass wall and integrating the rear garden with the formal dining area—an extra touch of elegance for those who prefer it. Another classy touch is the terrace off the 14 foot 2 inch by 11 foot master bedroom.

Not shown in the floor plans is an 885 square foot cellar which provides other storage opportunities as well as a future recreation room if desired. The 460 square foot garage is not included in the 1,524 square feet of living area. The garage door, incidentally, can be put on the front of the house if the owner desires or his lot design requires it.

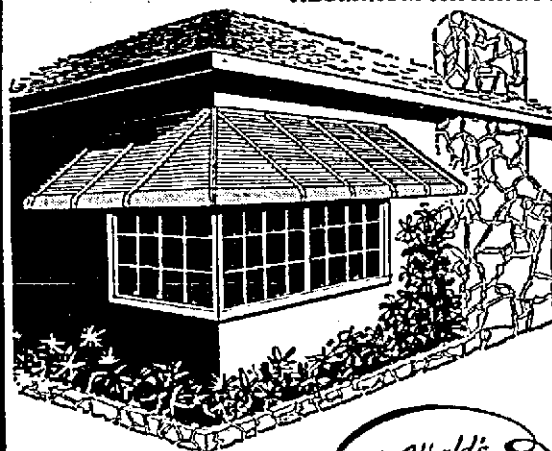

To obtain plans, address Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-77.

NOW...DEFENCIN: A NEW MORE EFFECTIVE ANSWER TO ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM PAIN

New muscle-relaxing tablet works through the muscle fibres... gives more effective relief from pain of minor arthritis, rheumatism, body aches and stiffness in the 8 major areas of pain.

Today there has been a breakthrough against the pain and muscle stiffness of minor arthritis and rheumatism. Scientists have developed a new kind of medicine that you can take frequently, according to directions, for prolonged relief.

This medicine works by a new principle—through the muscle fibres themselves. It has been tested extensively on patients suffering from arthritis, rheumatism, body aches and stiffness in the 8 major areas of pain and has proved dramatically superior in bringing relief.

In case after case, pain and stiffness were relieved. Twice as many patients found relief, compared to those who took the most widely used pain tablets. Many patients found the new medicine acted faster, or relief lasted longer, or was more complete. They could reach, lift, walk, bend and move with greater ease and freedom.

This new medicine is DEFENCIN—a two-layer tablet with prescription-type ingredients—now available without prescription.

Here is an explanation of how DEFENCIN works, what it does, and its three-action relief.

Arthritis and its chain of pain

The pain of arthritis or rheumatism is not a simple matter. It is like a chain with many links. Muscles, joints and nerves make up these links.

When muscles around the painful joint stiffen and "lock" they restrict joint movement. Every time we do move, it hurts. This pain, in turn, irritates nerves, making the pain still worse.

Muscles, joints, nerves—this is the chain of pain of arthritis and rheumatism.

The key that unlocks the chain

Aspirin, common pain tablets and ordinary non-prescription "arthritis" pills are designed essentially to blunt pain. They act primarily in one way... give only part-way relief, do relatively little for muscles, joints or nerves. They don't have the key that unlocks the chain.

DEFENCIN does. It goes to work in minutes, right at the source of the trouble, relaxing tight, tense muscles that aggravate the pain of minor arthritis and rheumatism. DEFENCIN checks pain impulses as well as soothes nervous tension due to pain. It attacks pain and stiffness at its source, unlocks the chain of pain.

And, while there is no known cure for arthritis and rheumatism, you can take DEFENCIN frequently according to directions for continued relief of pain and stiffness.

A unique new three-action formula

Each DEFENCIN tablet contains:

(1) An exclusive muscle relaxant that quickly acts through the muscle fibres—relaxes muscle tension, loosens stiffness, reduces pain at the source, and helps restore movement.

(2) An effective pain reliever that eases pain from the affected joint areas for hours.

(3) A nerve calmer to relieve the nervous tension that accompanies and aggravates painful conditions.

How DEFENCIN has helped others

People with body aches and stiffness in all 8 areas listed below—from arthritis and rheumatism to simple "Charlie Horse"—have taken DEFENCIN under the supervision of doctors in clinical tests.

The results of these tests bear repeating:

Compared to the most widely used pain tablets, DEFENCIN helped twice as many of these people. For many it acted faster, or relief lasted longer, or was more complete. In most cases, people found they could move, walk, stoop, bend with greater freedom. In some cases, all symptoms were completely relieved.

For more effective relief get DEFENCIN.* Sold in drugstores —$1.00 for 24 tablets.

WHICH OF THESE MUSCLE OR JOINT PAINS DO YOU HAVE?

Arthritis, rheumatism and related pains can strike anywhere in your body... most often causing painful conditions listed below. New DEFENCIN can relieve pain and stiffness in any of these areas.

1. Stiff back—pain in muscles especially in the small of the back. Over-exertion can cause stiffness here.
2. Stiff shoulder—pain in muscles that raise and lower the arm.
3. Stiff neck—pain in muscles that bend and turn the head.
4. Sore elbow—pain in muscles around the joint that flex the arm. Arthritis often attacks here.
5. Sore hip—pain in muscles of hip often extends down back of thigh.
6. Stiff knee—pain in these muscles may keep whole leg stiff.
7. Stiff wrist—pain in muscles that move the wrist and hand. These muscle areas are quite susceptible to rheumatism.
8. Cramped leg—pain in the leg muscles. When they stiffen, it hurts to move your ankle.

Science Stressed

By Harry Karns

Education Research Associates

YOUR CHILD is growing up in an age of science. Whether or not he intends to make science his career, he will be required to take some science courses in school; he'll need some understanding of science to appreciate and cope with the world around him.

Science plays an ever greater role in the business office, where intricate machines are coming into wider use, and in the home with its increasingly complicated appliances. Scientific terms are common in news stories, in fact, a scientific development often is the big news story of the day.

Small wonder there's an ever-stronger stress in modern schools on scientific subjects.

You should and can heighten the interest of your child in science.

Here are some suggestions:

First, get him involved in solving some simple scientific questions that touch his daily life.

Why does bread rise?

Why is the lawn green?

What makes a ball curve?

What makes the car go?

Second, discuss science stories in the news—stories about a storm, a sputnik in orbit, the discovery of a precious metal, new trees for the park, a school for space pilots, a new vaccine.

When the stories raise questions you and your child cannot answer, launch a research project.

You'll find, by the way, that he'll respond more quickly and work with greater enthusiasm if you join him as a fellow scientist than if you assume the role of taskmaster giving him an assignment.

Third, help him develop a science vocabulary. His science texts contain many words which he does not use in his normal day-to-day activities. Mastering these words is essential to doing well in science.

He should keep a special section in his notebook in which to list and define the new words of his scientific vocabulary. He will learn these words by reviewing them, talking about them, and using them both orally and in writing.

Fourth, take him on trips to important science centers. Visit an observatory, an oil refinery, the botanical gardens, a science lecture.

Finally, encourage him to consult authorities.

Help him meet a chemist, an astronomer, a botanist. The living, breathing man who has achieved success in science will inspire interest that could never be aroused by the printed page.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in this "Grade Card" column.)

JUST A FEW short years ago the phrase "unfinished furniture" would call to the minds of most people a collection of dreary softwood bric-a-brac shelves, end tables and book shelves stacked, one on the other, in an equally dreary store. Today, ready-to-finish furniture is specified by many decorators, builders and architects for residential and commercial interiors.

Advantages of this brand of ready-to-finish are that it is not only inexpensive and usually well-constructed but it is standardized in size and readily available. Easily applied stains and finishes furnish a broad range of customized color selection usually available only in the most expensive finished lines.

In the years since World War II a revolution has taken place in the industry which has brought quality, hardwood ready-to-finish furniture in a dazzling choice of handsomely constructed shapes into the homes and offices of growing numbers of discriminating people.

Woodland of California, Torrance, is one maker of unfinished furniture that takes pride in the custom features of its quality construction among which are double secured tops, detailed drawer sides, locked divider construction, locked-joint drawers and corner blocks tops of Conolite, having such properties as resistance to heat, stain, alcohol, etc., are available on all items at a small additional cost.

READY-TO-FINISH furniture is adaptable, not only in the home by, or for, the homemaker, but can be custom-finished to the mass needs of hotels, motels, apartments and modern offices at a low cost. It is particularly suitable for use where space utilization is an all important factor as in mobile homes, small apartments, motels and in children's and teen rooms.

A lion's share of credit for making these chic decorator pieces available to those who are style conscious and on a limited budget goes to the principals of Woodland of California, Ben and Phil Duben, George Toben and Al Ganulin.

Inexpensive, easy to build and fun to use, these simple items of school equipment can add pleasure to playtime.

By William Meyerriecks

TODAY'S PROJECT: Easy-to-build blackboard, easel and desk-and-seat combination, build one or all three from plans.

Probably because it's such a big thing in their young lives, most children love to play school.

This is especially true of girls, of course, because they can play back all those profound things they've heard the teacher say. But even boys enjoy it — simply because it's fun to draw with chalk at a blackboard, or paint, or pretend you're sitting at a school desk when really you're in your own basement.

THE EQUIPMENT shown in the illustration furnishes

all the props necessary to support hours of educational play which not only will entertain but will help prepare preschoolers for their first year of learning or improve the work of older children already in the elementary grades.

All are simply constructed and could be made using only hand tools. The blackboard surface is plain hardwood painted with an easily applied chalkboard coating.

TO ORDER: Specify Play School Equipment Plan S-44 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

'Realms of Gold'

Those who know her best find Miss Blanche Collins, city librarian, enthusiastically devoted to her job.

By Irma McCall

SEARCHING a thesaurus for the word best describing Miss Blanche Collins, head of Long Beach libraries, one could stop at "enthusiastic." She likes her many-faceted work, is deeply interested in people, and enjoys unusual hobbies. Of course, her current enthusiasm is the desire for a new library building.

In a room bright with morning sunshine and colorful with her favorite Oriental art, soft-spoken Miss Collins rules her "realms of gold."

As a Mills College undergraduate she assessed her major interest: books and boys and girls. Although lacking a magic computing machine she came up with the perfect answer—be a children's librarian!

The slender, gray-eyed native daughter found that only Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh offered the necessary courses. There she earned a Master of Arts degree in library science. Long Beach seemed the ideal town and here her dream came true when she began as children's librarian at Alamitos Branch Library.

SHE WAS LOATH to leave such a fascinating assignment but was advanced to be a branch librarian. Then she was offered a truly challenging job, especially for a woman: Head of the science and industrial department at the main library.

"Work in no other department could be more stimulating or gratifying," declares Miss Collins. "The general public has no conception of the help a good library can give to business and professional men and women. For example, during World War II, a man asked for material on how to start a small business."

Fun Fare for a Kid's Party

Bunny-Bun sandwiches are fun fare for a youngsters' party. Orange cup cakes and hot cocoa complete menu.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHILDREN delight in having a party and February is a month that abounds in party occasions: Lincoln's Birthday, Valentine's Day, Washington's Birthday. Or treat the youngsters to a party "just for fun."

For party fare, try Bunny Bun sandwiches. The bright orange ears combine cheese and mustard for extra zest. The face is of egg salad, made expressive with sliced olive eyes. A smiling celery mouth, long pickle-silver whiskers, a fat carrot bow tie, and a Cheddar-cheese vest complete the picture. Add potato chips and carrot sticks in a radish ring to each plate to round out this nutritious main dish.

Complete the color scheme with orange cup cakes. Cocoa topped with tiny marshmallows is a favorite party beverage. And candy and apples round out the party touch.

Bunny-Bun Sandwich

- 4 hamburger buns
- Softened butter
- Prepared mustard
- 4 thin slices Cheddar

cheese

Egg Salad Recipe below:

- 2 large carrots
- Piece of celery
- 2 large stuffed olives
- 1 sweet pickle

It takes one whole bun to make one bunny sandwich. Split a bun in half. Spread each half with softened butter. To top half, add a light spreading of prepared mustard. Round off corners of cheese to fit bun. Cut ears from two sides so as to have an equilateral triangular shaped piece left in the center. Use this triangle for his vest, broad base at neck line, point at bottom. Spread bottom half of buttered bun with about 3 tablespoons of egg salad spread. This is the face. Use slices of olives for eyes, piece of celery for mouth, thin strips of pickle for whiskers. Cut a slice of carrot lengthwise. Fashion into a bow tie. Cut 2 little strips of carrots. Place a strip in center of each ear. Assemble the bunny on dinner plate. Let ears extend over the edge if necessary. For 4 funny faces:

Egg Salad Spread

- 4 hard-cooked eggs, diced
  - 1/4 cup finely-chopped celery
  - 3 tbsps. mayonnaise
  - 2 tps. prepared mustard
  - 1/4 tsp. salt
  - Black pepper to taste
- Combine all ingredients in a bowl. Mix lightly. Enough filling for 4 bunny faces. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

Orange Cup Cakes

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 1/2 tps. baking powder
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tps. orange extract
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup milk

Measure and sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Cream together butter, sugar, and orange extract. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, blending until smooth. Fill greased cup cake pans (or line cup with fluted paper liners) half full. Bake in 375° F. oven 18 to 25 minutes or until done. Cool; swirl Fluffy White Frosting over tops. Sprinkle with coconut and chocolate cake decorations. 18 medium cup cakes.

Fluffy White Frosting

- 1 egg white
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tps. white corn syrup
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. orange extract
- 1/2 cup miniature marshmallows

Combine in top of double boiler egg white, sugar, water, corn syrup, and salt. Beat with rotary beater about one minute. Place over rapidly boiling water. Beat until mixture forms peaks when beater is raised (5 to 7 minutes). Remove from boiling water. Add orange extract and marshmallows. Continue beating until thick enough to spread. Enough for 18 cup cakes.

$5 for Your Recipe

ICE CREAM Mince Pie was the choice of Mrs. Henry P. Nepveu, 2324 Stearnlee Ave., Long Beach 15, as a favorite dessert and it won a $5 prize for her as the best recipe of the week. Mrs. Nepveu's recipe:

Ice Cream Mince Pie

- 18 graham crackers
  - 1 qt. vanilla ice cream
  - 1/4 cup sugar
  - 1 cup drained mince meat
  - 1/2 cup melted butter
  - 1/4 tsp. rum flavoring
- Crush crackers. Mix sugar and melted butter. Press into pie pan and chill for 45 minutes. Stir ice-cream to soften. Fold in mince meat and flavoring. Place in shell which can be baked a few minutes and then chilled.

Send your favorite recipe to: Recipe Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12. If published, it will win a $5 prize. Men are invited to submit recipes, too.

Caravansaries of the Old West

By Belle C. Ewing

SCATTERED throughout the California deserts are the remains of old post-houses, places of refuge for early day pioneers. One of the most famous of these caravansaries was at Warner's Ranch, or Warner's Hot Springs, as it is sometimes known. The old inn is still standing, although the crumbling walls of adobe are melting away, merging with the earth from which they were born. It is now a meeting place for creeping things, and at dusk questing bats come forth from the time-worn building. The trees shiver in the evening wind, and one can almost hear the ghosts of yesterday—Spanish trail breakers, black-robed padres, mule skinnners, sheriffs and bad men—talk of "the good old days."

Warner's Ranch is about 50 air miles northeast of San Diego. It lies in a pleasant valley at an elevation of 3,000 feet. The valley is surrounded by mountains, some of them rise up quickly to 6,000 feet. Less than five miles away is Lake Henshaw. Warner's ranks with Yuma as the scene of exciting events during the days of emigrant travel.

THE RANCH was named for Don Juan Largo Warner—Long John—who before he became a "Californio" was a young New Englander. Like many another blue-eyed adventurer he answered the call of the West in 1830. In 1844, he obtained a grant of 41,000 acres of land from the Mexican governor of California, and the ranch has borne his name ever since.

Until the arrival of the Spaniards the valley had been a sleepy place, with Cupeno Indians living at the hot springs, near which they had planted fields. Wild game, roots, seeds, acorns and pinon nuts gave them plenty of food and they had led contented lives.

So from the earliest days the ranch was destined to become a haven for desert travelers and a scene of constant activity. Its natural situation was responsible for this. The formation of the rugged foothills on the western side of the desert allowed but three exits, or avenues of escape, from the waste of shimmering sands.

One of these passes was through the Borrego Valley. This route was used by Captain Juan Bautista de Anza when he broke trail into California from Mexico in 1774. The easier route through Vallecito and the Ranch was discovered by Don Pedro Fages in 1782. This route from

Squat OK as Postural Habit

By Ben Zinser

Independent Press-Telegram Medical-Science Writer

IF YOUR CHILD prefers squatting, Indian-like, to sitting, let him.

The crouching position is an excellent postural habit, says Dr. Charles Weer Goff of Yale University in a report in Clinical Orthopaedics.

Squatting is far preferable to sitting on the ground, knees together and feet wide apart, says the doctor.

Furthermore, the doctor doesn't particularly care for chairs for children.

In primitive times, he points out, the only chairs were for the old king or queen.

Sitting in a chair may hasten the tightening of the child's hamstring muscles and back structures to cause a tendency to backache, he says.

NUTRITION experts have examined the food likes and dislikes of college freshmen and come up with these findings:

- Corn is the only vegetable liked well enough to be accepted frequently by over 90 per cent of students.
- Other best-liked vegetables, in descending order: raw tomatoes, green beans, peas, carrots, raw cabbage.
- Least acceptable vegetables: rutabagas and turnips.
- Best-liked fruits, in descending order: strawberries, apples, peaches, pears, grapes.
- Most popular meats: beef, fowl, pork, fresh fish.
- Least liked meats: lamb and glandular organs.

The Journal of the American Dietetic Association says the food preferences were determined by a study of 120 students, mostly freshmen, at South Dakota State College.

IF NUCLEAR warfare comes, here's one way to tell when you're getting a significant dose of radiation:

Run a hard rubber comb through your hair and then try to pick up a little piece of paper with the static charge imparted to the comb.

Do this every hour while sitting in the fallout shelter. When the time comes that the comb doesn't pick up the paper, then you've got a 10-rad dose.

Says Dr. Marshall Brucer, chairman of the medical division at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies:

"You know you don't want more than 100 rads, so you've got about nine hours left to make a better shelter."

Nylon combs won't work.

AN AUTHORITY on allergy—Dr.

Ethan Allan Brown—praises a new book about the subject—"How to Master Your Allergy," by Harry Swartz, M. D.

In a book review in Current Medical Digest, Dr. Brown says that "the style is lucid . . . and the presentation of material is uncomplicated."

The book, written for the layman, includes 12 appendices. There are lists of trees which cause hay fever, tables of mechanical and electronic aids and a chart that identifies cosmetics which can cause allergic reactions.

The 288-page book, which costs $5, is published by Thomas Nelson & Sons, 19 E. 47th St., New York 17, N. Y.

A HUMAN mother usually sets down her baby on its back, but a gorilla mother lays her offspring on its tummy. Who's right?

Both mothers are, believes Dr. Nora E. R. Archer of England.

She observed the gorilla trait in the Basle, Switzerland, Zoo while watching the gorilla Achilla handle her 8-week-old baby. The gorilla mother always laid down her offspring in a prone (on stomach) position. And when the baby gorilla wriggled and landed supine (on back), Achilla would pick up the baby and turn it over.

Head-raising and head-control come earlier in the prone than in the supine position, the doctor says. For this reason, the gorilla mother's choice is the wiser. It's necessary for the animal to get about on its hands and legs early in its development.

In the case of the human, the supine position favors use of the senses, particularly the eyes, at the expense of early muscular development.

As Dr. Archer puts it in the British Medical Journal: The human baby is busy weaving himself a brain.

countless thousands of ice-locked miles opened by dog teams. They have hauled ammunition and supplies during wars, rescued downed fliers from the Greenland Icecap, carried mail, supplied prospectors and trappers, toiled for their Indian and Eskimo masters, and helped the Canadian Mounties "get their man."

The sled dog learns assignments easily. When he is about eight months old he is harnessed with experienced dogs. At first he thinks he is playing, but shortly he understands what he is to do. And, if trained slowly and kindly, he learns to like his work. Some sled dogs have the speed, initiative, and intelligence necessary for a lead dog, while others prefer the "point" position behind the lead dog or the "wheel" posts near the sled. A good driver learns his dogs' temperaments and capacities and places them where they do best. The dogs are usually fitted with leather boots to protect their paws from jagged ice, but the nails are left free for traction. With tractor-trains and airplanes now handling much of the tonnage in blizzard-swept countries, the sled dog fancy has turned to the winter sport of dog-sled racing, although a good many of the natives and the Mounties depend at least in part on sled dogs.

A QUESTION frequently asked is, "Are sled dogs unpredictably savage?" The purebred sled dogs—Alaskan Malamutes, ideal for heavy pulling, Siberian huskies, fastest of all, and Samoyeds, favorites in certain arctic regions—make devoted family pets. If maltreated or crossed with wolves, ferocity enters in. According to W. G. Fraser, head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the haphazard sled dogs of the Eskimos and Indians are a menace by instinct. But these dogs are not purebred. Fraser, after getting his new breeding program at Fort Norman on the Mackenzie River going strong, hopes to replace privately owned teams of the natives with purebred Siberian huskies. Only responsible dog-team operators will qualify as buyers.

Old West

Yuma later became the Butterfield Stage Road.

WITH THE coming of pioneer Americans, Warner, Jackson, Pegleg Smith and a score of others, the Butterfield Stage route was used. Gen. Kearney, while en route to California in 1846 to aid in the Mexican War, led his straggling band of soldiers through Vallecito and Warner's.

Prospectors were intrigued by tales of desert gold; of sudden wealth, of Pegleg Smith's lost bonanza. They, too, laid plans at Warner's bought food, mules and tools, and then went down through San Felipe Pass to the desert, no one knows where.

Into this valley came cattle thieves, "bad men" and just plain robbers. They all stopped at Warner's. Men with serious purposes also passed through on their way to the Pacific Coast. The first wagons to cross the Colorado desert from Yuma to the ranch were those of the Mormon Battalion, early in 1847. It was the beginning and end of a dangerous trail, the story of which is endless and as vivid as the desert in spring.

Warner's Ranch is now a popular resort. Visitors come from all over the world to bask in the warm sun, and bathe in the hot mineral waters.

Native materials were used in Warner Ranch pioneering, as exemplified in old corral, at right, of native timber.

Safflower Is a 'First'

WESTERN-GROWN safflower seed, 3,500 tons of it, rested in the hold of the Sirie, as the Italian freight pulled out of the harbor here early in October bound for Kobe, Japan. She was the first vessel to leave from the new, $2.5 million Long Beach grain terminal and her cargo was destined to be made into cooking oil.

Safflower is a thistle-like plant about 3 feet tall, has coarse branching stems and a round blossom of crimson hue.

Safflower is being grown on the farms of California and Arizona. For centuries it was grown in Europe, Africa, Asia Minor and Egypt. The brilliant flowers make a rich dye. In early Egyptian history, silk was colored with this dye and used to wrap about the mummies.

In the United States the seeds are made into an oil for cases of heart condition and hypertension. The product has adhesive qualities and is used in varnishes and paints. Farm animals are fed on the meal of the ground-up seeds. And last but not least, its dainty tints help make up the rouge used by milady around the world.

—G. HURLBURT.

Past Restored

Visiting many German theaters is like stepping back into the gracious past when royalty patronized the arts in elegant settings. Handsome baroque decor has been discovered under crumbling plaster in Passau's "Kleines Hoftheater": whitewashed 150 years ago, the murals were forgotten long ago. Authorities have ordered the theater renovated and restored in the original whimsical scheme of cupids and rosebuds. Located at the confluence of the Danube and Ilz, Passau has been called one of the "seven most beautiful towns in the world."

RIGIDENT HOLDS FALSE TEETH TIGHT... with UTMOST PERSONAL COMFORT!

You can laugh, you can eat, you can talk again without a worry of slipping dentures, when you know that Rigident Denture Retainer is on the job, holding your dentures firmly, yet comfortably, right where they belong.

Rigident is a pharmaceutical powder that took four years of research and five years of consumer testing before it met Wickman Pharmaceuticals highest standards of performance and quality.

If you haven't tried Rigident, you soon will, because other denture retainers simply do not do all of the things that Rigident does, and you will keep trying one after the other until eventually, you do try Rigident. And you will stay with Rigident... because Rigident restores your ability to enjoy hard-to-chew foods in a normal, healthful diet. Rigident is unaffected by temperature, cold foods do not harden Rigident, nor hot foods soften it. Rigident absolutely will not sluff out, so you can enjoy again both hot and cold foods at the same meal, with tight, comfortable dentures.

Your dentures will stay put for 18 hours or more with just one easy application of Rigident. Rigident's "comfort cushion" of tiny air bubbles assures you utmost comfort, all day long, and helps protect you from denture breath by preventing food particles from slipping under dentures. Rigident will not warp your dentures; will not burn your gums.

So try Rigident! If it doesn't do the things we say it will do, send back the unused portion and we will gladly refund your money!

Dorothy Digs

Now is the time in the Long Beach area to prune roses. It is also an excellent time to tone up the soil by contributing a little soil sulphur (2½ lbs. to 100 sq. ft.)

which you work lightly into the soil, and a little iron sulphate which you scatter on top of the soil in the root growing area — just one or two ounces to each full size rose bush. Then water thoroughly.

Next comes a clean-up spray with a lime-sulphur-oil emulsion. This is the great event of the year for your rose bed. Spraying at this time, when the bushes are newly pruned, destroys rose enemies in the form of overwintering insect life and checks fungus diseases such as blackspot, mildew and rust. Be sure to spray the soil generously too, in order to destroy the fungus spores, and insect life hibernating there through the winter months, ready to begin destructive activity in the spring.

Start your fertilizing program soon enough so that your roses have nitrogen available when they start their first burst of spring growth.

'Realms of Gold'

ness. Imagine our satisfaction when he returned a year later so successful that he inquired how to begin an import-export business."

Former City Librarian Edwin Castagna recognized Miss Collins' unusual gifts by appointing her assistant librarian in charge of branches at a time of expansion. She delighted in planning and supervising construction of six fine branches.

She accepts only part of the laurels, however, because her staff and architects spend literally hundreds of hours in conferences with her. She particularly liked this phase of her job.

Naturally, Miss Collins reads, but not as much as she desires.

"One of my delights and also a pressure point is trying to keep up with new books," she admits. "At least I dip into as many as possible. I have no favorite type of reading—just enjoy them all."

AN EXPERT equestrienne, she drilled and paraded with the Lancerettes on her black horse, Chico. When freeways jangle the nerves, she finds refreshment with rider groups sponsored by the American Forestry Association who camp in real wilderness areas.

She recalls one narrow escape at night on a narrow Washington State mountain switchback. Suddenly a white horse ahead lost his footing, threw the rider and hurtled toward Blanche. Only by jerking her horse forward was she saved from catapulting down the mountain.

Her less hazardous hobbies include collecting foreign dolls and pitchers. Prize doll is King Edward VIII, brilliant in scarlet jacket, fur shako, and ready sword. Her dolls have enlivened many exhibits and she hopes to give the collection to the new library, if and when.

Among her 125 miniature pitchers from five continents, many of them gifts from traveling friends, she values most the pottery pitchers from South America.

"When I became city Librarian," she says emphatically "and realized the desperate need for an adequate main library, I knew my major task. With a wonderful staff ever ready to help and a group of citizens committed to work until we succeed, I am well compensated for all the time and effort I spend on this important project."

NORTH from Tel Aviv, the road cuts through the alkali desert that is so much of Israel.

Centuries of neglect had transformed this one-time "land flowing with milk and honey."

Two-thirds of the way to Haifa we turned off and headed between the lightly rolling hills and scrub trees towards the sea. The Mediterranean seethed and roared loudly. Then, rising from its shore, the arches of a Roman aqueduct stood against the sky, almost intact after 2,000 years.

This is Caesarea and was the capital of Herod, a once magnificent city where archaeologists have unearthed a hippodrome for chariot races, an amphitheater and some exquisite statuary on the site of a mosaic-floored court house. For hundreds of years Byzantines, Crusaders, Moslems and Turks fought for this place, and on the sea wall above the beach a Turkish fortress still stands atop Roman ruins. That's all there is, except for some chunks of Roman columns lying around.

And the country club, of course.

LONG before Herod's day, the site had been a lovely one. It became the dream of the late Baron James de Rothschild to establish here a golf course and hotel development. When he died his family pursued the project, and like everything else the Israelis say they're going to do, it is rapidly becoming a reality.

The golf club is already here, a scenic rolling course with a modern hilltop clubhouse from which most of the yardage can be seen in one sweeping glance. There are genuine Corinthian capitals for o.b. markers, and they say that at least every tenth divot has a Roman coin concealed in it.

The next step in this project is construction of a 100-

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"... whether it is better to go to Tahiti by ship or by plane?"

I WOULD go by plane. Unless you're on one of the 'round-the-South Pacific cruises. (The luxury jobs are Matson and P&O-Orient Lines.) You can get in and out three times a week by plane. But the liners only stay overnight.

I'd certainly consider the luxury ships, though. Tahiti can wear out on most couples in a few days. Unless you know how to relax.

For planes: South Pacific Air Lines flies in once a week from Honolulu. Excellent service, good crews, safe planes and a fine new airport.

TAI, a French line, flies in twice—once from Honolulu, once from Los Angeles. Long-range jets, French food and service.

TEAL, the New Zealand line, comes in from Fiji via American Samoa with prop jets. Good service, good food, crews well-trained in the South Pacific. The connection line would be Pan American at Samoa.

"... some information on hotels?"

Hotel Tahiti and Hotel Taone are new and have the best food. (There's only one good place to eat in Papeete. That's Chez Chapiteau, which is a good, medium-priced French restaurant.) Hotels run about $20 a day for two without meals.

The Tiki Tapu is a bungalow hotel in a little better price range, $7 per day.

"... whether you need special shots or any precautions?"

No. These are healthy is-

More words cannot begin to describe the special Cruise-Tours offered by P&O-Orient Lines departing for ALASKA and the Pacific Northwest in May aboard their magnificent ocean-liners.

The luxurious cruises offer all the exciting fun and adventure of the Far West at the best time of the year—including Seattle's spectacular World Fair. Make your reservations NOW!

This is the time of the year to visit the Orient. Japan is at its best in March, April and May, with its awe-inspiring display of cherry blossoms. And Tokyo is only 15 hours away by jet.

lands. No malaria. Water is okay to drink. You might watch out for coral poisoning. The Tahitian cure for a coral cut is to squeeze lime juice on it and expose it to the sun for an hour or two.

"What is there to do?"

YOU CAN SWIM a little in the morning. You rent fins and a snorkel and push off without touching the bottom. There's a stone fish here. If you step on him, the spines will put you in the hospital for a month.

Shopping is just fair. Shell necklaces are the best. Lunch, take the afternoon nap and save your energy for the evening dancing. All hotels and the wild evening at Quinn's and Lafayette. (Bar Lea is beginning to be all-Tahitian and you can get into trouble there.)

Save a couple of days and fly to Bora Bora on the flying boats—an hour and a half. The Hotel Bora Bora is luxury. The lagoon is the most beautiful in the world. This is far better than the standard overnight tour to Moorea.

One day to go around the Island of Tahiti—Tahiti Nui Tours is good. Ask for Max Provost. (I'd rent a car from him. More fun to go around by yourself.)

You need transport, anyway. You can rent Vespa scooters.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR is on the itinerary of the 34,000-ton luxury liner Caronia which departs New York on Jan. 25, 1963, for a 92-day, 22 port round-the-world cruise of 29,000 miles.

Passengers will have the opportunity to contrast the fascinating cultures of 17 countries, including Japan, Indonesia, Thailand, India, Israel and Italy, Borneo, and even Acapulco. A comprehensive program of shore excursions and inland tours at the various ports of call already is being arranged.

AIR FRANCE has ordered seven more medium range Caravelle jets for 1963 delivery, which will bring the French line's fleet of Caravelles to 40. Air France also has 17 Boeing 707s in service on its long-range routes.

Russia's Nemesis?

By Vera Williams
Independent Press-Telegram Book Editor

THE BOOK Nikita S. Khrushchev insisted the French remove from their exhibition in Moscow is now in an American edition after fabulous success on the Continent and in the Far East. It is "CHINA AND THE SHADOW" by Tibor Mende (Coward-McCann, $5), an eyewitness of the Oriental colossus.

Mende, professor of political science at the University of Paris and an eyewitness of Red China's emergence as a modern power, describes how the Communists transformed China from a prostrate, almost colonial nation into a giant who is not only ready for a battle to-the-end with the West, but has begun to challenge Soviet Russia for leadership of the Red Revolution.

His account of China's economic failures, the brutal enslavement of 650,000,000 people and the destruction of traditional Chinese culture are so pungent and forthright that the Communists could not even tolerate its exhibition under glass.

He tells how a vast labor force was mobilized overnight to bring about an industrial-agricultural revolution under the direction of lating the West, politically and economically.

It is a frightening picture, one which many Americans will resent for different reasons, but as the London Tribune so succinctly explained . . . "It is the China with which we have to deal."

IF SEAN O'FAOLAIN had not been Irish, he never could have written "I REMEMBER I REMEMBER" (Atlantic-Little, Brown, $4.50). Irish fancy, Irish sensitivity, Irish love predominate in this collection of short stories. The very best, probably, are "Love's Young Dream," about an adolescent boy's reaction to two girls of different temperament, and "Two of a Kind," a Christmas eve story of a lonely, wondering sailor who chances to find his aged aunt who had run away to America years before.

HAVE A COPY in the attic of the first edition of "Narrative of the Adventures of Zenas Leonard," recounting his fur-trading with Indians in the Rocky Mountains in 1831-37?

It's worth $5,000.

Or a fine copy in original dust jacket of "Spoon River Anthology" by Edgar Lee Masters will bring up to $90.

"MORE GOLD IN YOUR ATTIC," by Van Allen Bradley, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News whose hobby is rare books (Fleet, $7.95) is a reference book and guide to 2,500 rare and valuable books. You may have some of them!

BUILDERS OF America's great 19th century fortunes were men of widely different interests and backgrounds, but they all possessed the intense desire to amass huge sums of money.

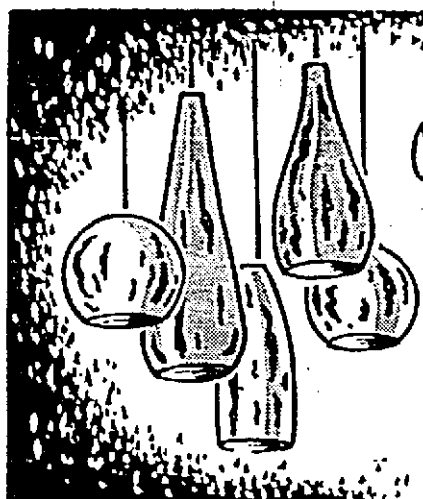

What of the men and women who inherited these fortunes?

In "THE INHERITORS" (Putnam, $5), John Tebbel lists the inheritors into three broad categories: the Wasters, who enjoy wealth for what it can buy; the Conservators and Expanders, who see money as a personal responsibility; the Lord and Ladies Bountiful, whose sense of social obligation leads them to spend money to benefit mankind.

Tebbel is the author of 14 previous books dealing largely with American dynasties.

RUTH C. IKERMAN, frequent contributor to Southland Magazine, is the author of a unique new cookbook that combines good recipes with related devotions and anecdotes. It's called "COOKING BY HEART" (Abington Press, 201 Eighth Ave. South, Nashville, Tenn. $2).

Says Mrs. Ikerman: "Most of us seem to need some type of recipe to use in our cooking. Perhaps we need some Bible verse to guide us to share with others, whether in exchange of cooking secrets with the new neighbors, or a taste treat to help someone conquer disappointment. . . Here then are some recipes along with Bible verses and prayers. May they suggest to you some ways to be happy Cooking by Heart."

Brightly flowered, pelargoniums bloom for months at a time and find wide popularity as a ground cover.

YOUR GARDEN

Plantings That Check Erosion

By Bob Gilmore

YOU CAN minimize the erosion caused by the winter rains by planting a ground cover. This is especially true for hillside lots. Plants available are exceedingly colorful and serve both ornamental and utilitarian purpose.

Slopes, sadly enough, almost always produce a landscaping problem. They are continuously abused by the sun and wind. Cultivating them is difficult and seeds as well as seedlings are frequently washed away. An ideal solution to the problem, however, is to set out cuttings or divisions of colorful ground covers.

Mesembryanthemum, often called ice plant because of the glistening dots on the foliage, is highly valued for soil erosion control and the brilliance of the flowers. Trying to identify them botanically, however, is a hopeless task; there are close to 1,000 separate species, practically all being natives of South Africa.

than any other comparable subject. They want full sun and lots of heat. The plants thrive in sterile soil and, most important of all, are drought-resistant.

Local nurserymen make no attempt to classify mesembryanthemum. The plants are sold according to the flower size and color; the following shades being available: orange, yellow, white, red turning to orange, crimson, rose, copper, light shell pink turning to dark rose, red, purple and lavender.

Another excellent, and exceedingly colorful, subject for slopes is the South African daisy, gazania. The plants are uniform in growth, approximating from 10 to 12 inches in height. The foliage is deep green; flowers appear in tones of yellow, white and orange.

A circle of small black dots in the center adds to their general appeal. Gazanias are sun lovers, quite hardy and well suited to dry locations.

FOR BLUE or lavender flowers, campanulas have much to offer. Variety garzanica really hugs the surface, growing just about four inches tall. It prospers in semi-shade as well as in sun. The blue flowers, which are star-shaped, cover the plants in summer and fall. A related variety, the Serbian Bellflower, offers lavender flowers and has a very spreading habit of growth.

Other colorful ground covers that succeed in this area include: trailing lantana, purple; polygonum capitatum, rose flowers contrasting with red and green foliage; lotus bertholetii, the crimson-toned "Parrot's Beak"; armeria vulgaris and pelargonium peltatum.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Prune roses now, if you haven't already.

Don't attempt to work up a seedbed for a new lawn if the ground is too wet. You'll wind up doing twice as much work.

Most dormant pruning should be completed in February. Shrubs and trees that flower in spring, however, should not be pruned until after bloom.

Soil improvement is a good winter job. Use manure, peat, leaf mold to lighten heavy soils, bulk up light ones.

Try a Lawn Substitute

THESE PLANTS are very much at home in the Long Beach area, and are perhaps more widely planted throughout Southern California as a ground cover for hillsides

If you love a picture-book lawn, but grumble and groan about keeping it that way, perhaps you're missing the point. Try planting a lawn substitute—a ground-hugging cover of green plants. Many ground covers require less maintenance than do lawns. They need only occasional trimming back when they overgrow their bounds or infrequent shearing if they mound up too high. Moreover, their water requirements are considerably below those of most lawn grasses.

As a substitute for lawn, dichondra is most likely to please the man who feels there is no such thing as a lawn substitute. It forms a matting carpet that looks like lawn. Mowing isn't essential. Some other close-cropped covers that can be substituted for a lawn—in fact if not in fancy—are carpet bugle, creeping thyme, ornamental strawberry and ivy. For a contour planting on a slope, a few of the covers which are adaptable are: creeping thyme, rockspray cotoneaster and old-fashioned periwinkle.

Show Will Stress Garden Ideas

Dry arrangements will bid with live flowers and foliage in displays at the World Flower and Garden Show.

By Joe Littlefield

SOME persons arrange flowers by the "book," follow specific rules of basic design and balance. Others arrange them to suit their moods or according to their innate sense of flower appreciation. Whichever way you prefer, you'll enjoy the interesting and unusual flower arrangements presented daily at World Flower and Garden Show, Feb. 22 through March 4, at Pan Pacific Auditorium, 7600 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles.

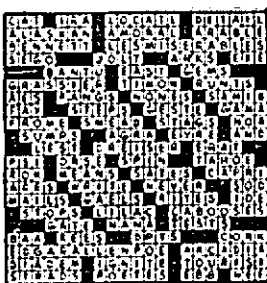

The show last year exhibited different types of landscape designed gardens to give home owners ideas how they could improve their gardens. The main thought centered on gardens for the average-size home lots, not for huge estates which are becoming fewer in number.

RIGHT NOW, however, you should get busy and finish planting bare-root roses, fruit trees, and shade trees. Some wholesale growers plant three fruit trees in large containers. This makes it easier to set out the already established trees, eliminates the home owner's decision of which fruit trees to select that grow about same size, yet bear fruit over an extended period of time. Additionally, it saves space, growing three types of fruit trees in one large hole.

We've also seen deciduous shade trees, three of same variety planted in a large container, handy for landscape planting. Check with your local nurseryman about this tree plan. If by chance they're not available in your locality, your nurseryman will help you select right kind of trees to plant, three in the same, but large hole. Trees are placed in a triangle shape and spaced from a foot to two feet apart.

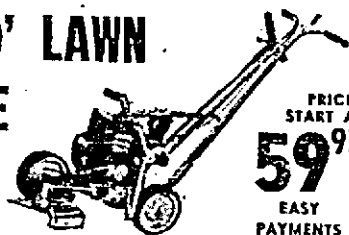

ANOTHER TRICK in saving space with a deciduous fruit tree is to dwarf it somewhat by cutting back approximately two-thirds the total length of the tree before planting it. All but three of the small side branches are removed. Those left are carefully selected in advance to start the framework of the tree. They are not all clustered within same general area on the trunk.

Our Neighbor's Chickens?

THIEVES broke into the Gay 90s restaurant, 2508 Palm Dr., Signal Hill, one night last week, looted a cigarette machine and jukebox, and carted off a large electronic secretary, a machine which records phone messages when the place is closed.

While police hunted for clues, proprietor Don May cracked: "My gosh, what did they want with my electronic secretary? It's pretty darn hard to hold on your lap!"

Don's sense of humor is one of the extra things the customers enjoy when they visit his two local restaurants, the Gay 90s on Signal Hill and the Leilani, 5236 E. 2nd St. The latter place, tropical in decor, specializes in fine Cantonese food, including a Celestial dinner ($7.50 for two persons) which is one of the most lavish and generous spreads in the Southland. Also featured there are such entrees as an 11-ounce teriyaki steak ($3.50) and barbecued Chinese spareribs ($2.75), served with soup du jour and large salad, baked potato or rice and beverage.

The Gay 90s is a big barn-like spot with sawdust on the floor, nickelodeons and odd-ball turn-of-the-century gimcracks hanging on the walls. Every Friday and Saturday night the Burlap Sisters (three old bags) entertain with old-time music and community singing. The menu includes a gambler's special top sirloin ($2.45), down-under Australian lobster tail ($3.45) and Our Neighbor's Chickens, fried, for $1.95. The latter is one of Don's gags. A nearby neighbor maintains numerous peacocks in his yard. Sometimes they escape and wander into the Gay 90s and Don kids his customers into thinking his delicious chicken entree is really fried peacock.

Also featured at the Gay 90s are pizza, light and dark Budweiser and Dago Red wine ("not famous but good") for 35 cents a glass.

TV Tour of White House

(See Page 5)

TELEVISION LOG OF THE SUNDAY INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM, LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

And now a word for the sponsor.

Spoken by Robert Stabler, a former Long Beach newspaperboy and current president of Filmaster, Inc., producer of KTTV's (channel 11) "Beachcomber" and NBC's (channel 4) "Death Valley Days."

Says Stabler:

"Selection of program choice should be returned to the advertiser with a complete disregard of how the program would effect a network's ratings.

"By the very nature of his position, the advertiser has to appeal to the biggest audience for his particular purpose. This might mean, in terms of numbers of viewers, a relatively small audience.

"But the most important thing it would mean would be better quality programs and more diversification."

What are Stabler's gripes?

He feels that a half dozen men of the three major networks are too concerned with "alleged" ratings.

These men, not the advertisers, select and have produced programs they hope will bring them better ratings than their competitors.

The result—still according to Stabler—is that many of the programs are "pure slop." In order to achieve a high "alleged" rating, the network chieftain has had to ignore the quality of entertainment.

STABLER CITES THE defunct "Firestone Hour" as an example.

The music program was very satisfactory to the sponsor, but it didn't get high ratings. The network was unhappy with the program because its comparatively lower ratings dimmed its "showcase statistics" of more viewers than its competitors at the same prime-time hour.

So the network, not the advertiser, dropped the program.

"Any program," says Stabler, "should reflect the stature of the sponsor. The advertiser should have the right to obtain the program he thinks can best serve that stature purpose."

Who is Robert Stabler?

He was 6 years old when, with his family, he came to Long Beach in 1918. His mother, Mrs. Blanche Moore Stabler, still lives here in the Belmont Shore district.

At Lowell Elementary School, the boy was elected mayor when he was in sixth grade. The principal at the time was Douglas A. Newcomb, now superintendent of schools.

He was elected mayor at Jefferson Junior High, governor of athletics at Wilson High and captained the latter school's football team in 1935.

In his sophomore year at UCLA, Stabler was elected president of his class and suddenly found himself recipient of numerous letters from agents who wanted to book bands at campus functions.

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK had a musical sound to it. Stabler got himself a license from the American Federation of Musicians and became the nation's youngest licensed band booker. He handled 85 per cent of all social functions at UCLA.

His booking entry to the entertainment world led him to later become personal manager for such orchestra leaders as Freddie Slack, Johnny Richards, Ronnie Kemper and singer Ella Mae Morse.

He set up Capitol Records' international distribution organization with such success that he was promoted to director of advertising and public relations.

He resigned Capitol Records in 1948 when he met a man who, as a motion picture actor, had passed his peak.

The man was William Boyd who was to hit a new peak—one that surpassed the old—as television's Hopalong Cassidy.

STABLER BECAME a partner, vice president and general manager of 19 Hopalong enterprises, including the production of the TV programs which popularly rode the video range through 1951.

In 1954, after producing and selling several half-hour series,

NEW CAREER FOR CHEVALIER

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
Maurice Hopes for More TV Specials Like One Tonight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—"I would like to concentrate on becoming a good, new sort of actor," said the white-haired man with the enthusiasm of a teen-ager. "And to do good, warm TV shows not too often—perhaps twice a year."

The man planning a new career for himself was Maurice Chevalier, aged 73, and already well launched on a new tangent of a theatrical career that started 62 years ago.

"In 'Fanny' for the first time I did a character far away from Maurice Chevalier," said the performer, referring to the motion picture hit in which he neither sang nor wore a straw hat. "I think it was a good character and I found it enjoyable to create a man with a personality not my own. I have always played myself, and I think to add another character to that Chevalier foundation would make an interesting personality—no?"

CHEVALIER was in New York on one of those flying trips he makes several times a year to star in a television show. This one is NBC's "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," taped for a Sunday broadcast (today 7:30 p.m., channel 4.)

Chevalier was a smash in "Gigi," the motion picture written by the composing team of Allen Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, who also wrote "My Fair Lady," "Brigadoon" and "Camelot."

During his stay, Chevalier lived in a suite atop a mid-town hotel. I saw him on an unseasonably warm winter's day and energetic, vigorous Chevalier was pacing up and down on a penthouse terrace singing the lyrics of Lerner-Loewe songs and admiring the view.

"It is nice," he said, breathing deep. "I like this place because it is like being at the prow of a ship coming into New York—high up and the city spread below."

WHEN THE SHOW was finished, Chevalier jetted back to London, where he has been seen in "The Castaways," a Walt Disney movie adaptation of a Jules Verne story.

"And then," said Chevalier, "back home to Paris for a rest, thank God."

For anyone, even one much younger than 73 years, the past year has been a busy one. This new career as a non-singing character actor has kept him constantly working. First there was "Fanny," followed by another film, "Jessica" (in which he plays a priest) and the Disney movie—plus a number of TV commitments.

"Between the pictures and the television," confessed Chevalier, "there has been no time for the stage, the one-man shows. But in the future I would like to get away from the stage. I would like to leave the stage at the moment when I am at the very top—now. Since World War II I have been all over the world with my one-man show and now I would like to stop traveling because it is too much work."

CHEVALIER paused and smiled.

"It seems the older I get the more affection I have for my profession. Two things are always in my first thoughts—my mother and my career. That is right. Love—you can have happy experiences in love only when it lasts a whole life. And that is usually only a mother's love and one's love of the career. The rest, with other kinds of love, must be very lucky to be happy."

Chevalier appears constantly amazed and grateful for the turn of events that gave this long career fresh impetus with the film, "Gigi."

"It seems to have brought me the affection of children all over the world," he remarked. "Young mothers tell their little ones that I am the man in 'Gigi' who thanked heaven for little girls, and the children who saw the picture think of me as a father or uncle."

AND CHEVALIER is also

gratified that he is once again closely associated with a song which racks up as a minor classic along with "Valentina," "Mimi," "Louise" and "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me."

"Thank Heaven for Little Girls" is a wonderful song and one which will be good in 50 years because it flows like pure water and is a charming idea," continued Chevalier.

What does the busy septuagenarian do when he has a few months off to rest?

"It has been a long time since I have had the time," he confessed.

"But I have a lovely home outside of Paris and when I stay home I see my friends and see the shows—I am a warm public audience and I do enjoy watching others perform, particularly the young ones."

Perhaps Chevalier's greatest thrill in recent years, however, was a series of French television shows in 1960 which showed what had happened to Paris over the years during which Chevalier has been a performer.

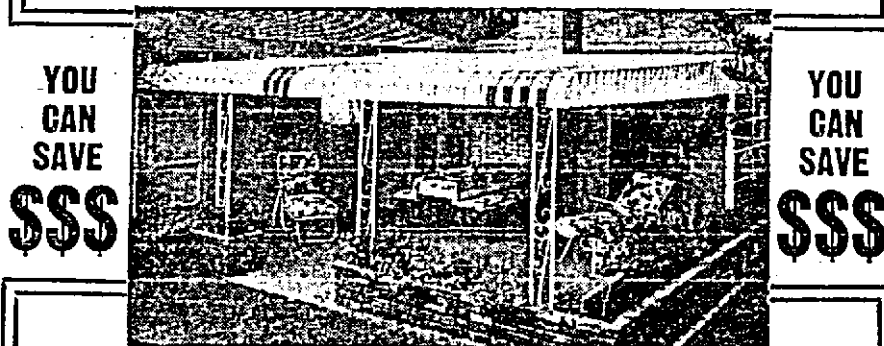

"It was called 'Maurice of Paris,'" he said with a proud smile. "No last name, and that was very wonderful and a great compliment, No?"

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Stabler formed Filmaster.

The firm's first contract was to handle the physical production of a western called "Gunsmoke." CBS-TV, which contracted for the job, was happy with the production and Filmaster turned out 156 sequences.

It also handled another western, "Have Gun, Will Travel," and later scored off the range with four dramas for "Playhouse 90."

It's all background which gives Stabler's opinions the authority of experience.

He strongly feels that the sponsor, not the network, should produce programs for television.

And he notes that such a move would not be unprecedented. For, according to him, advertisers in radio produced shows for 20 years.

(Incidentally, Holloway will star in a weekly comedy about an inherited butler on ABC next fall.)

THEATRE 62—Live color adaptation of the David O. Selznick movie "Spellbound" is at 10 p. m. on channel 4. Maureen O'Hara plays the Bergman role of lady psychiatrist who attempts to unlock the mystery of an amnesia victim (Hugh O'Brien in the Gregory Peck role) suspected of murder. Oscar Homolka is featured as an elderly psychiatrist.

MRS. J. F. KENNEDY . . . TV Decor Record

President's Wife Conducts TV Tour of White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy devoted her whole day recently to a television production that will show how she has done over the White House.

The First Lady, stepping over and around cables and lights, explained—while the cameras whirled—how various items of historical interest have been located and brought to the White House to give its furnishings character and authenticity.

The woman who has been responsible for it all, including repainting, repapering and refurnishing, posed for still pictures in the state dining room in front of a table set with the White House gold service for 30 people. Her plum-colored two-piece, wool dress contrasted with the off-white walls and the sculptured, light green carpet.

The program on which she will appear is scheduled for an hour on CBS and NBC Wednesday (channels 2 and 4 at 10 p.m.). It will be called "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy." CBS was authorized to shoot the TV show—the longest on which Mrs. Kennedy has appeared—on condition it share the product with other networks, White House officials said.

NEVER ARRESTED RIGHT MAN

'Mason' Policeman Plans Retirement

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)

—The most bungling cop in television soon will retire from the force.

Lt. Arthur Tragg, homicide sleuth of the "Perry Mason" show, has yet to arrest the right murderer in almost five years on the air. Each week he has rushed to the scene of the crime and invariably arrested the wrong person.

The real life Tragg would have been busted to patrolman and sent to pounding a beat in the boondocks.

Actor Ray Collins, who plays the inept Tragg, said he suspects this is the last year he will be around to annoy hero Mason "and it's just as well."

"IT'S TERRIBLE the way people stop me on the street to ask when, if ever, I'll pinch the right suspect. Others plead with me to stop being so mean to Perry."

But Tragg and/or Collins is not leaving the show because of his spotty record as a cop. His contract has expired.

"I signed a contract for five years," Collins said in his dressing room. "Now I have only two more shows to do and I won't be coming back next year. I'll miss the crew and cast."

"Ray (Perry Mason) Burr is like a son to me. The whole show is like one big family."

Collins, a veteran of 56 years in show biz, said he did not like to have viewers think of him as a heavy in the series.

"I TRIED to get over the idea that Tragg liked and admired Mason," he sighed. "But at the same time Tragg had to be severe with him when Perry was up to his monkeyshines."

Perhaps the least professional element of TV's Tragg was the amount of time he sat around in court listening to Mason win cases instead of rounding up crooks.

Now that he is leaving the highly rated series, Collins plans to appear in a few movies and accept one-shot television roles.

The white-haired oldtimer has more than enough experience to qualify him for acting jobs. He has appeared in 78 major movies in addition to playing 900 roles in the theater.

"SOME ACTORS worry about the character they play in a series," Collins grinned. "A lot of them might have been upset by the fact that Tragg was such an obvious bungler. But not me."

"I got a pay-check every week regardless of how many innocent people Tragg threw in jail."

"However, I did think Bill Talman (who plays DA Hamilton Burger in the show) should win a few cases. It would lend more suspense to the series. As it is, there never is any doubt that Perry Mason will win."

Maybe with another cop on the show, poor Talman will have better luck.

RAY COLLINS . . . Leaving TV Series

KAREN Steele portrays a swimsuit designer during 'Surfside 6' at 9 p.m. Monday, channel 7. She appears on the eve of an important buyers' meeting.

Yvonne De Carlo Stars in 'Follow the Sun'

Yvonne De Carlo wants no part of a television series in which she would be playing a "shady lady."

The sultry actress and Dennis O'Keefe co-star again today (Sunday) in a "Follow the Sun" drama at 7:30 p.m., channel 7.

They initially appeared together on the program last Nov. 5. She portrayed a former "B-Girl" and Dennis had the role of an ex-Marine.

The episode was such a success that the producers brought them back as the same characters for tonight's presentation.

THE PRODUCERS also started dreaming of a "spin-off," the process of developing a new television series from characters introduced in an old one.

But Miss De Carlo, who has played girls and women of fairly easy virtue in many a film, isn't spinning over the TV series' prospects.

"I just wouldn't be interested in doing a whole series in which I'd be playing a shady lady," she said. "Not even an ex-shady lady."

"Besides, I wouldn't be interested in co-starring with a man in a TV series—it would only be a little while before it became his series. That's the way it is in TV—the men get all the important breaks."

"A friend of mine explained that it was because women watch TV more than men—and they'd rather look at guys than dolls."

So Miss De Carlo will stick to making movies, and currently is hoping to get a lead in a new musical comedy slated for Broadway.

JACKIE Loughery, who won the Miss U. S. A. title in Long Beach's first International Beauty Congress in 1952, has the role of Jenny Hartfield on "Wagon Train" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4.

SPECIAL

MAN IN ORBIT — Scheduled at press time for approximately 4:30 a.m., liftoff of John Glenn will be covered by all three networks. Coverage will continue for about 6 hours during orbits and recovery. Channels 2, 4 and 7 will join the countdown at 3:30 a.m. If shot takes place, CBS will have a special review at 9:30 p.m. on channel 2.

HOWARD K. SMITH — Premiere. In first of his weekly series, former CBS newsmen will analyze and compare the relative strengths of the U. S. and Russia in propaganda and youth education. Guests, at 7:30 p.m. on channel 7, are author Arthur Trace and another former CBS newsmen, Edward R. Murrow, now director of the USIA.

WHITE HOUSE TOUR — Jackie Kennedy and Charles Collingwood escort viewers on an hour-long tour of the principal rooms on the ground, first and second floors of the White House, at 10 p.m. on channels 2 and 4. President Kennedy also will appear briefly. The CBS-taped show was made available to other networks at a request of the White House, but ABC turned down the $60,000 pro rata cost. (Show will be repeated Sunday, March 25, at 4 p.m. on CBS.)

TV Family Comedy Situation Bears Watching - - Or Does It?

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—The coming of the family situation comedy show, "Room For One More," gives rise to a big question which troubles TV brass:

Is there really room for one more? Situation comedies are one of the most popular forms of TV entertainment. Whenever a new comedian or a stage or film personality is considered for a TV series, the first suggestion is always a situation comedy built around a family.

This year we've had variations on that theme starring Robert Young, Dick Van Dyke, Robert Sterling, Joey Bishop, Gertrude Berg, Bob Cummings, Cynthia Pepper, Shirley Booth, Peggy Cass and Leon Ames—to say nothing of a bunch of chipmunks, pussycats and bears.

THE PROBLEM which confronts TV creative people is how to keep varying the basic situation. This season, we've had imaginative switches such as the family moving to the country, the father being a gag-writer, the setting moved back to the '20s, the focus being on the maid, the children being chimpanzees, etc.

But the variations are beginning to run out. Paul Lynde of the Perry Como Show says he's been offered dozens of shows, but they're all basically alike—everybody wants him to play a father who is a nut. He finally grabbed one where the father is OK, but the son-in-law is a nut. At least it hasn't been done before.

And so, as a service to TV executives, we here present a group of family situations which are new to television, and could become series material:

THE HEARTHSIDES. This is a typical family next door. Mommy and Daddy hate each other. Dear old Dad has been arrested six times for disturbing the peace when he belted Mom with (1) a frying pan, (2) a sauce pan, (3) a fresh mackerel, (4) a hockey stick, (5) a copy of the federal budget and (6) Junior. Mom, of course, fights back with courage. Suggested for the leads: Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds.

LIFE WITH FODDER. A nice, rural affair, set in the farm country. The emphasis will be on the young son and his pet puma. The animal's name is Grrr, and he follows the boy to school every day and eats the teacher. It's tough on the town's educational budget, but it makes an appealing story. Suggested to play the boy: Mickey Rooney.

THE FOLKS DOWN THE STREET. A perfect vehicle for a young starlet, this is the tender story of a teenage girl reaching womanhood in a typical American village. Clarice is 16 and never been kissed. Except by the boys in her senior class, a few juniors, the volunteer firemen, the Elks and Moose and the United States Army. We watch her first romances, her growing-up, her tender young breach of promise suits. Suggested for the lead: Barbara Stanwyck.

MOLLY AND ME. Here we have a young married couple, troubled by in-laws, beset by debts, concerned over whether to put chintz or poplin curtains in the fallout shelter. In short, average American kids. The gimmick is that Molly is a professional football player. Can she give up the thrill of the game for the quiet of a vine-covered slum? Suggested for the leads: Margaret O'Brien and Al Hirt.

THE FIVE OF US. This deals with a widow and her four daughters, bravely trying to make their way in a cruel world. The mother, who once sang at La Scala, now takes in laundry to make a living for her beautiful brood. The only trouble is she has no tub, so has to do the wash in a fish bowl. Hankies are OK, but sheets are a nuisance. Suggested for the lead: Zsa Zsa Gabor.

These, or reasonably accurate facsimiles, will all be on the home screen next fall. All you do is take an existing show, and twist it a bit. The TV brass need not worry—there will always be room for one more.

Pan and Fan Mail

I miss live TV.

It wasn't as slick and polished as it is now, but it had an excitement, an aura about it that furnished its own entertainment.

Even if a play wasn't good, it was worth watching. There was always the chance they would drop the cups or one of the actors who obviously arrived "partially pickled" would furnish amusement.

That may not be the right way to look at it, but it was fun.

E. Penasa, Westminster

I like live TV too, but partially pickled actors and dropping cups don't help make a bad play good—just worse.

I feel I should put in my two cents worth on the "Herschel Bernardi" idea of having only six hours of TV a day and monthly series.

I—and a half dozen of my relatives agree with me—think it would be a rotten idea.

There are a lot of people that can't go anywhere and, if it wasn't for TV, it would be rough on them.

They could go back to rocking and looking at the four walls.

I think a series that only came on once a month would be ridiculous. I hope you get thousands of these letters. TV isn't just for kids.

Vera Olson, Long Beach

I think it's a rotten idea too. Sounds like a sneaky plot to get rid of television columnists.

Since David Brinkley is so fond of tongue-twisters, why doesn't he try this one?

"Betty Batter bought some butter, but she said this butter is bitter and when I put it in my batter, it makes all of my better batter bitter. So she bought some better butter to put in her bitter butter batter to make all of her bitter butter batter better."

Miss Janet Thomas,
Lakewood

OK, Janet. Now let's see you do it with oleo.

There outa to be a law.

You wait all week for a good science fiction thriller and then two of the best thrillers are on at the same time.

Unsigned, Lakewood
Postmark

You sound as bitter as Betty's batter.

Have just been reading about the return of "The Law and Mr. Jones."

I was not in a position to see that program, but for months I was able to see and enjoy "Number Please" on ABC-TV at 2 p.m. week days.

This program, which I enjoyed as an intellectual challenge and considered educational as well as entertaining, was removed from programming and re-runs of Jane Wyman's program substituted.

I feel "Number Please" should be brought back in a better time slot where more of the family viewers could see it.

JOANNA BARNES and Fred Astaire admire a million-dollar doll that started as a doodle on his scratch pad during "Alcoa Premiere" at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 7. He portrays a business executive and she is his secretary.

Could you possibly do the same for this worthy program and bring it back like you did "The Law and Mr. Jones?"

Helen R. Allen, Long Beach

I didn't bring it back, Helen. The viewers did. And not enough viewers have complained about the removal of "Number Please." It looks like number up.

Hoot Gibson Berates TV Cowboys

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One-time cowboy star Hoot Gibson's cryptic criticism of modern television western stars:

"Trouble is, none of them wear spurs anymore."

Gibson, now 69, who was once top box-office among the hayburner set, is recuperating from surgery for an intestinal obstruction.

The "Hooter," says he always used a cow pony to ride, rather than a trick horse.

"When I went plunging down a hill, I wanted to be sure I had a horse that would get me to the bottom," Gibson said.

Gibson's career began as a stunt man in 1910 and lasted until the early 1940s. Before he hit it rich in Hollywood, he was an honest-injun cowpoke, running wild horses from Nevada to California markets.

Gibson now lives in Las Vegas where he is promoting an 18,000-acre development on the California-Nevada border.

Sunday—The music of Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, who have been responsible for the melodies in such productions as "Gigi," "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," will be featured in a one-hour special at 7:30 p.m. in COLOR on channel 4. Guest stars include Maurice Chevalier, Julie Andrews, Richard Burton, Robert Goulet and Sterling Holloway.

Monday—"Everybody Sing," a weekly half hour with organist Gaylord Carter, makes its debut at 8:30 p.m. on channel 13.

Tuesday—"Alcoa Premiere" at 10 p.m. on channel 7 stars host Fred Astaire in a dramatic role as a business executive tired of being one. Joanna Barnes provides the romantic interest.

Wednesday—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who has spent a great deal of time having the White House redecorated and many rooms restored, conducts a TV tour of the executive mansion at 10 p.m. on channels 2 and 4. President Kennedy briefly joins the tour.

Thursday—"CBS Reports" at 10 p.m. on channel 2 presents the last of three interviews with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. In this one, Ike discusses global and domestic problems of the chief executive.

Friday—"Telephone Hour"

PERSONALITY PARADE

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. I have heard that Hollywood is making a movie of Somerset Maugham's Of Human Bondage and that Marilyn Monroe is to have the role of Mildred. Is this fact or rumor?—Joanne Randall, Saco, Me.

A. Twentieth Century-Fox is toying with the idea of a re-make but there is some doubt as to whether Miss Monroe is capable of essaying so dramatic a role. She is more a comedienne.

Q. What is the authoritative opinion of Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery as a general? I understand he was a phony, built up as a morale sop for the British public in World War II.—L. Randall, Sacramento, Calif.

A. There are two major opinions on Montgomery's generalship. One holds him as one of the greatest generals of modern times. The other holds that General Auchinleck was the true hero of El Alamein, that Monty was responsible for the Dieppe blunder, the sacrifice of British paratroops at Arnhem, lack of forcefulness at Caen. One of the few things military historians agree on is that the American generals who fought alongside Monty in France considered him an outrageous "ham."

Q. Did Lenin ever say that war between the capitalist and Communist states was inevitable?—Fred Gershon, Newark, N.J.

A. Yes, he laid down that doctrine in his writings.

Q. Is there any hint of romance between actress Joan Fontaine and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Adlai Stevenson?—Melody Marshall, Springfield, Va.

A. No romance between these two — just a pleasant friendship based on mutual fondness and respect.

Q. Is it true that Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's Communist boss, is the most popular figure on Italian television?—Bernard Gerber, Newark, N.J.

A. One of the most popular TV shows in Italy is a special program called "Political Forum," featuring the country's various politicians. Togliatti, a veteran orator, always does well on this particular show, but in Italy the 2,500,000 people who own TV sets are mostly from the upper and middle classes and politically do not care for Togliatti. More than 50 per cent of the TV audience in Italy do not own TV sets, however. These people go to the nearest cafe for their viewing. They are in the lowest economic and educational bracket, and it is they who are most fond of Togliatti.

Q. Would you please tell me how old Olivia de Havilland is?—D.M., Postville, Iowa.

A. 45.

Q. What is Yves Montand's real name, and where was he born?—E. Nostrand, Houston, Tex.

A. Montand was born Ivo Livi in Monsummano, Tuscany, Italy, on October 13, 1921.

Q. Since the Korean War, how many U.S. draftees have been rejected for physical or mental disabilities?—Allen Unger, Miami, Fla.

A. According to John F. Hillyard, D.C. Director of Selective Service System, 2,596,788 registrants were examined at armed forces examining stations between August 1953 and October 1961. Of this number, 1,051,495 or 40 per cent were found unacceptable.

Q. Was Barbara Burns estranged from her mother when she recently committed suicide, and hadn't her father, Bob Burns, left her a large inheritance when he died?—E. Lambert, Lake Oswego, Ore.

A. Barbara hadn't seen her mother since 1957, had dissipated approximately $20,000 inherited from her father in 1956.

Q. Once and for all, do the people in Russia have bomb shelters or don't they?—Karl Ebeling, Washington, D. C.

A. Harrison Salisbury, former Moscow correspondent of the New York Times, recently traveled 12,000 miles through the Soviet Union and "failed to turn up evidence of a single Soviet bomb shelter." American reports of a large Soviet shelter program are based mainly on several studies by Dr. Leon Goure of the Rand Corporation who traveled through Russia in the summer of 1960, saw with "my own eyes bomb shelters in nine different Russian cities." Dr. Goure's recent book, Civil Defense in the Soviet Union, offers further evidence of the Russian bomb shelter program.

Q. Is it true that there will be a television tour of the White House in the near future with Jackie Kennedy showing the changes she has made in decor?—Mrs. Madeline Tyler, Portland, Me.

A. True. Scheduled for broadcast this Wednesday, it will be the first TV showing of the White House since 1952 when President Truman displayed results of a three-year renovation of the executive mansion.

Have you discovered artichoke hearts?

When you eat a fresh artichoke, it takes about ten minutes to get down to the tender heart. But blessings upon us, Birds Eye now brings you the hearts right off—frozen so you can enjoy them all year long. ■ Taken only from the choicest of artichokes, Birds Eye hearts are always a tender green delight. To fix, simply boil them gently for 7 to 12 minutes. Serve hot with butter, or chill in a marinade of oil and vinegar, as we have here. ■ Another idea: dip hearts into batter and bread crumbs seasoned with Parmesan cheese, then fry in  $\frac{1}{4}$ " of hot oil until crisp. ■ With all Birds Eye products, by the way, the idea is extra quality. That's why—Better Buy Birds Eye.

Hints collected
by Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

Sudden rebellion in the ranks? Even the best-behaved baby feels the need to rebel from time to time. And why not? A baby is a human being, entitled to a few human quirks. (Besides, this show of spirit means he's growing up.) So when your baby occasionally refuses to go along with his regular mealtime or naptime schedule, try to relax and let him relax before you feed or bed him down. If you don't force the issue, it will be easier to get baby back on schedule the next time around.

Baby will relish regular mealtimes if they're kept "looking-forward-to" times. The needed ingredients? A smiling atmosphere. A goodly variety of Gerber Strained Foods. There are more than enough to keep baby's mealtimes zestful.

Variety review with a delicious point of view. Gerber Strained Foods offer plenty of range for menu change. 10 luscious fruits. 9 garden-good vegetables. 9 savory meats. 5 extra flavor-y high meat dinners. 10 tasty vegetable-meat dinners. 4 scrumptious desserts. 6 fruit-licious juices. Each one designed with a specific nutritional need in mind. Sample menu made for lip-smacking:

Four tips to tame a rock-a-bye rebel.

(1) Nothing quite so relaxing as a rocking chair session. (2) A lullaby, sweet and low, still "hath charms to soothe." (3) A favorite cuddle toy somehow makes a crib seem cozier. (4) Grandmother offered a spot of warm milk to encourage drowsiness. Works today, too.

Specialties of the house. Don't forget these special foods for your baby: Gerber Strained Egg Yolks—delicate in flavor custard-y in texture, high in iron and vitamin A. Gerber Teething Biscuits—extra-hard to soothe tender gums, specially shaped for easy grasping. Gerber Cookies for toddlers—animal-shaped for fun, twice as much protein as most other cookies, B-vitamins in the icing.

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business...
our only business!"

CHICAGO. When is a woman most attractive? It all depends on your economic group. Professor Ernest Burgess of the University of Chicago, who conducted a 10-year study on aging and the aged, revealed recently that the wealthy American woman believes she is most attractive at 35, most confident at 38, in her prime at 40, old at 70. Women with less money believe they are most attractive at 25, most confident at 35, in their prime at 40, and old at 65.

SANTA MONICA. The Rand Corporation, Aerospace, and other "think factories" employed by the military are going "nuts" trying to solve this one: In the next 10 years more and more nations will have the nuclear bomb capability. In 1970, for example, suppose a submarine emerges from the Atlantic, fires an atomic bomb on Washington, D.C., submerges and scoots away. It could be a Chinese, Russian, Polish, or Arab sub. On which country do we retaliate?

MONTREAL. Scant mention in the American press, but for more than a year now, Quebec, Canada's French-speaking province, has talked independence and separatism. In Quebec, the Union Jack is regularly torn down, slogans for independence are scrawled on roadside rocks, groups of fighting young men shout for separation from Canada. They claim Quebec is Catholic and French, loses money in taxes paid to Ottawa; they want to decide for themselves whether or not to permit Bomarc bases on their territory. The Canadian Government looks the other way at all this commotion, hopes somehow it will magically disappear. It won't.

PANAMA. This country has become a haven for tax-dodging American corporations. More than 200 have set up offices here. Panama has no excess profits or capital gains taxes, and it does not tax profits that a Panama-based company makes on the outside. In addition, none of the officials or directors of a company has to live here. In the U.S., corporate profits are taxed at 52 per cent, and the dividends the corporation pays out to stockholders are then taxed again at individual rates.

HOW WE OUTSMART RED SPIES

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON.

ONE DAY last fall, a U.S. State Department official entered an office in one of our embassies behind the Iron Curtain. He strolled to the window, opened the blinds and stood looking into the street. Next he turned back to the desk and set an official-looking document on it.

Across the street, in a room two floors higher than the office, a crouching man watched eagerly. He lifted a pair of binoculars and studied man and document. Then he picked up a camera with a cannon-like telephoto lens, trained it on the desk, and began to photograph in precise detail the U.S. secret document.

It might have been a tremendous coup for Red spying—except for one flaw. The secret document was not a secret document. Wise to the ways of the Reds, the State Department man had carefully set a trap. He had planted a phony paper full of misinformation to mislead and confuse the spy's bosses.

This incident was only a phase in one of the deadliest, grimmest, most everlasting battles of the cold war. Every day, in all parts of the world, Communist spies are doggedly trying to penetrate our diplomatic posts, aiming with ingenuity and electronics to ferret out our vital secrets and steal our crucial documents. And every day, American agents are employing their wits and technology to protect them.

The real scope of this struggle for safeguarding secrets is little-known. It is being carried on by unheralded, highly-skilled counter-spies in the State Department Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs. This group of expert operatives works quietly, effectively, undercover in all corners of the globe. The true nature of their work and the dramatic history of their victories are being disclosed here for the first time.

Eighteen months ago, the American public got one of its rare inklings of this incessant warfare. Henry Cabot Lodge, then Ambassador to the United Nations, displayed to that body a replica of the Great Seal of the United States given to our Ambassador in Moscow by the Soviets. Lodge showed how Red agents had fitted it with a listening device.

This remarkable transmitter had no wires, no battery, and no power source. The Reds beamed an electronic signal at it from a distance. When someone in the room spoke, a diaphragm vibrated and modulated the signal. These modulations traveled back over the beam and could be "read" at the other end.

But it can now be revealed that security agents have discovered 129 more listening devices in embassies abroad in the past ten years. They are being turned up regularly, all over the world. They are found in embassies, consulates, even homes and apartments.

In Moscow not long ago, for example, the U.S. military attaché suspected his home had been bugged. He tore up a parquet floor and found four microphones, which he disconnected. Then he went on vacation. When he came back, he checked the floor again. All four mikes had been re-connected.

In Warsaw the U.S. Embassy moved into temporary quarters while a new building was being constructed. In the first half hour of occupancy, employees found two concealed microphones. In the next two days, they ripped out 17 more.

In Budapest, U.S. Chargé d'Affaires Horace B. Torbert Jr. has been forced to move his desk away from a window (see photo) because camera-armed spies were brazenly checking papers on his desk.

In San Jose, capital of Costa Rica, and in Nicosia, Cyprus—both supposedly friendly countries—agents found that embassy telephones had been tapped. Domestic Communists were believed responsible.

These cases of eavesdropping were relatively easy to detect because they were so blatant. But no one knows how many other microphones may still be operating. Security agents won't talk, but it is believed they know of many mikes into which they feed false information. Some indication of the size of the problem, however, can be gained from the bureau's appropriation. The State Department this year is spending $1 million to develop and purchase acoustical equipment to combat spying. And the bureau is increasing the size of its overseas staff to meet the mounting threat.

The spy threat is characterized by remarkable ingenuity and great sophistication. Spies and counter-spies no longer are quick-triggered men in slouch hats and belted trench coats. Rather, they are extremely gifted electronics experts, who have attained pioneering heights in miniaturization and concealment.

In one embassy, spies tucked a tiny receiver-transmitter into a doorknob. Operated by remote control from outside the embassy, this gadget could pick up conversations within the U.S. Ambassador's office and relay them to a listening post ten blocks away. The Reds could even turn the set off and on by radio signal.

In another instance, a transmitter was concealed inside the valve of a steam radiator. The device was sealed against moisture, and wires ran through the radiator and pipes to the furnace and then into a nearby building. And the radiator still functioned perfectly, so that no one would ever suspect.

One of the most common places to hide an electronic ear is a desk telephone. "The telephone is a very dangerous instrument," says the director of security, William O. Boswell. "You're so close to it all the time and it can be so easily tapped or bugged."

Boswell today is experimenting with a new device which would cancel out a mike hidden in a telephone. This gadget puts a constant low buzz into the mouthpiece and earpiece and drowns out conversation in the room. The buzz stops when the phone is lifted. (Surprisingly, agents say the phone is much less dangerous when in use. Personnel are trained to consider it bugged and to be on guard when they are talking.)

Even outside the embassies, secrets are not always safe. Reds now have a directional microphone that can be aimed like a rifle and can pick up conversation 200 feet away—even in a moving car.

Because of the spying threat, embassy employees must keep under constant surveillance: all repair workers, all janitorial and maintenance employees, even routine visitors. They must carefully screen all foreign employees. In Iron Curtain nations, they must assume that all foreign employees are unsafe.

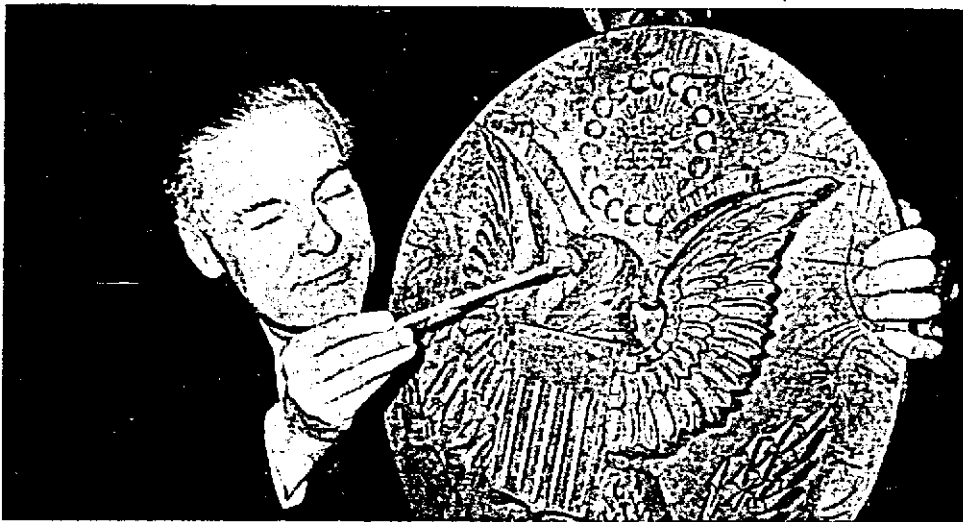

Last fall, Hungarian workmen were hired to put a new roof on the U.S. Legation in Budapest. One legation employee was obliged to stay on watch at all times to make sure no microphones were hidden.

In another Iron Curtain country, plasterers imbedded a microphone in a wall, covered it with a "breathing" plaster which allowed sounds to filter through. In still a third satellite, workers repainting the embassy exterior drilled a hole from outside, installed a microphone flush with the exterior wall.

IN BUDAPEST

But of all problems security agents face, the toughest is construction of new embassies in Iron Curtain lands. John Iams, an engineering technician, explains: "When they are doing the building, they have two or three or even four years to decide where they will put these things. They can cement them right in and spend as much time as they want to check them out and make sure they're working.

"For instance, they can build a building out of reinforced concrete, and hide their microphones behind the reinforcing rods. Then a metal detector, for instance, isn't much help to us."

How do security agents discover hidden microphones and other espionage inside our embassies? This is one of the world's best-kept secrets. The Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs has no comment. Some devices undoubtedly are stumbled upon by accident. Others are tracked down by the bureau's top-drawer technicians and complex equipment. But it is also believed the bureau is aided by a web of informers. For in spite of electronics and technology, counter-espionage still relies heavily on people.

Franistan on the Porterway

Thus—as two Embassy officials recently discovered in an Iron Curtain country—some of the most ancient arts still play a role in counter-intelligence. While in a public restaurant, the two found themselves under close scrutiny by a known Red agent. They concluded that he was lip-reading their conversation. They switched to double-talk and watched the bewilderment spread across the man's face.

"I wonder," said one of the Americans later, "how he explained to his boss the meaning of 'Franistan Double Truck on the Porterway.'"

Security men cite this example to show that the best weapons against espionage are alertness and loyalty of personnel. As the State Department agency most concerned with protection of our secrets—among the myriad other duties of the bureau are investigation of passport and visa frauds, munitions control, security of codes and couriers, safeguarding foreign dignitaries and personnel security—the bureau also trains State Department employees to be aware of espionage and guard against it.

"We can cope with the gadgets, no matter how complex they become," says Belton (Buck) Bryan, deputy administrator of the bureau. "But in the final analysis our security rests with people. Let me give you a case in point.

"An American girl clerk in one of our West German offices fell in love with a man she believed to be a U.S. businessman. She received a telephone call from him one day saying he was in a hospital in East Berlin. When she visited him, he asked her to deliver a roll of film to West Berlin.

"Just outside the hospital she was picked up by Communist intelligence agents. They told her that her fiancé was an American spy. The price of his life was her cooperation in obtaining American secrets. She pretended to cooperate, but went instead to State Department security officers.

"We immediately investigated. The heartbroken girl learned that her fiancé was not a businessman but an extremely clever Red agent.

"She made a mistake, and she knew it," says Bryan. "Today her file shows an error for allowing herself to be entrapped. But there's also a commendation for courage and loyalty to the United States. She's still with us, and we're proud of her."

SUPPOSE you'd been earning $4,000 to $5,000 a week for years. Suddenly you were fired and no one would hire you at any figure remotely comparable to your previous salary. What would you do? How would you feel?

Ten years ago, when she was 29, screen star Linda Darnell found herself in that awkward and depressing predicament.

After 14 years at 20th Century-Fox, in which she'd starred in such films as Forever Amber, Anna and the King of Siam, My Darling Clementine, A Letter to Three Wives, and dozens of others, she was dropped along with Betty Grable, Jeanne Crain, Anne Baxter, Mitzi Gaynor, Terry Moore. The reason for the wholesale firings was television. In the early 1950s when TV was a novelty, people stopped going to the movies, and the studios were compelled to dump their high-salaried stars.

"No one expects to last forever in this business," Linda declares. "And you know that sooner or later when they can't use you, the studio's going to let you out. But still, when it comes, it's always a shock. After all, who wants to be retired at 29?"

"In my particular case, it was even more difficult, because at the time I was getting a divorce from my first husband, Pev Marley. Some actresses when they get dropped just hide out with their husbands until the storm blows over and times get better, but Pev and I had called it quits. So there I was with neither career nor husband.

"In addition the only thing I knew how to do was to be a movie star.

"I guess I could have gone into television and done a series," Linda continues, "but back then they weren't offering us the money we'd gotten in films, and besides I had a 4-year-old girl I'd adopted, and I just didn't want to do a TV series and work every day.

"I also thought that in a little while I'd get offers from other motion picture studios, but not many of them came along."

Mrs. Rheingold of 1954

What did come along for Linda, however, was an offer of marriage from Philip Liehmann, head of Rheingold Beer. They were married in 1954, but the marriage lasted little more than two years "because," Linda explains, "Phillip wanted me to be a wife and hostess and give up my career, and I just didn't want to do that. After awhile performing gets into your blood. Being a hostess for Rheingold Beer just wasn't my idea of a happy life. I wanted to do some TV and stage work and movie work, and Phil was against it, so we got divorced and I married Robbie [Merle Robertson, a pilot for American Airlines].

"Robbie and I have been married for five years now, and anything I want to do is fine with him. And what I've wanted to do is to put together a night club act."

The act, which Linda introduced in Juarez, Mexico, last year with tenor Wayne Tucker supporting her, is primarily a musical one. To date, it's met with a fair response. Originally Linda started the act with a dramatic monologue from Mary, Queen of Scots. This is not exactly the type of act-opener night-clubbers are clamoring to see. In fact, one Las Vegas customer who caught her as Mary Queen of Scots shouted, "Off with her head." The act has been rewritten, however, stepped up to a more lively pace, and consists largely of Linda and Tucker singing duets and doing clever routines.

Linda then and now: above, the movie actress at 15 when she came to Hollywood; left, the nightclub performer of today.

Linda gets $10,000 a week for the act in Las Vegas and less elsewhere, and hopes to take it out on the road again unless she can make a few motion pictures in Italy—"a country I love and where I've already done two pictures."

As she approaches 40, Linda Darnell is reconciled to the fact that the Hollywood that once gave her stardom has disappeared for all time.

"Things are different," she says. "The big studios are dying, and of course, I'm sad. But after all, I've been very lucky.

Sunset Semester

"I came out to Hollywood from Dallas when I was only 14, the daughter of a poor clerk in the Dallas post office. I think I had one semester in Sunset High School and that's all. I had no great talent, and I never really wanted to be a movie star. But my mother had always wanted it for herself, and I guess she just projected through me. I have an older sister, Evelyn, who lives in Pasadena now. Mother started working on her for an acting career, but Evelyn was too smart or too lazy, I don't know which.

"I was more obedient, so mother had me modeling when I was 12 and working as a greeter at the fairs and expositions, and she really shoved me along. Spotting me in one contest after another. I was going to become a movie star, or Mom was going to bust in the attempt.

"I came out to Hollywood three times, and twice they sent me home because I was too young, but the third time I won a Jesse Lasky Talent Scout Contest and made the grade. I became a full-fledged screen star and worked my way up to $5,000 a week and then out.

"Now I'm trying a new branch of the business, supper clubs. You see, old movie stars never die. Like General MacArthur we just fade away, but I've still got a long way to go for the final fadeout."

GROTON, CONN.

AT A BUSY CORNER ON U.S. 1 here recently, a woman in a pink sedan cut sharply in front of a woman in a red car. There was a quick squeal of tires.

It was enough to make most drivers furious. The woman in the red car hit her brakes, stopped suddenly and then, instead of glaring, smiled sweetly at the woman who had cut her off.

A surprised policeman, Officer Charles Thompson, saw it all, jumped into his patrol car and shot off in pursuit. But he didn't chase the confused driver who caused the mixup. Instead, he went straight for the woman who had smiled so pleasantly.

At a safe place, he waved her to a stop. She looked surprised, then anxious. "Did I do something wrong?"

"No ma'am," replied Thompson. "You did something so right that you've just won yourself a pink ticket."

The driver, Jeannette Laprade, a beauty salon owner, looked dumfounded. "We're giving tickets now to good drivers, too," Thompson told her. "You not only made a good stop back there, but you showed great courtesy."

He affixed the "ticket," a small pink sticker, to her window. It read:

COURTEOUS DRIVER AWARD

Presented by the Police Department

Today, tickets like these are being issued all over America. Some 200 towns and cities now make it a policy to give good drivers a pat on the back. Some award pink window stickers. Others send the driver a letter signed by the police chief.

Fast-growing Groton (atomic submarines are built here) once had a bad auto accident record. But in three years since it began hunting for good drivers as well as bad ones (as part of an intensive safety campaign) it has soared to eighth safest of 244 U.S. towns with over 30,000 population.

Groton runs its safety drives for two weeks at a time and about six months apart. After each drive, according to Police Chief John Scroggins, there is a noticeable drop in accidents.

Apparently drivers are on their mettle during campaigns because a high standard of behavior constantly is being set. To date, more than 100 awards have been given (and winners' names have appeared in area newspapers). Only one has ever been refused.

GOOD DRIVERS

Grateful driver William Simons points to courtesy award given him by Officer Walter Swan.

courtesy awards? To find out, I rode for two days with Groton police. Here's a taste of what I witnessed:

- Several cars shot by two pedestrians trying to cross a busy lane. But Fred Davis, a welder, came along, stopped and waved them across. "You've just won this," Officer Thompson told the baffled Davis and handed him his pink ticket.

- A driver trying to pull out of a gas station waited in vain to get onto U.S. 1. A line of cars had stopped and no one was letting him in. But Mrs. Thomas A. Bryce, of Richmond, Va., did. She got a pink ticket from Officer Walter Swan, who told her, "That was about the nicest courtesy one driver could pay another."

- Westbound on U.S. 1, we saw a life saved. John Anderson, a salesman, was driving alone when a puppy popped into the road. Anderson hit the brakes and the pup scampered to safety in a field. After presenting the award, Chief Scroggins told Anderson, "That could have been a child's life." The salesman beamed proudly.

Most drivers were delighted, surprised and enthusiastic at receiving their awards.

One Chamber of Commerce official, we learned afterwards, was so astonished that he phoned police headquarters to make sure that it wasn't a joke.

Some drivers were ready to argue until they found they were being commended, not ticketed for violations.

One woman, who got an award after avoiding a crash, commented, "Just wait until my husband comes home to supper! He says I'm a terrible driver. I'll ask him, 'Did you ever get one of these?'"

Caution and Courtesy

Drivers agree generally that the campaign actually has improved driving practices. I saw lots of people approach crosswalks with extraordinary care. I saw a good many people let others pass in situations that could have resulted in traffic jams. In addition, I saw many instances in which common courtesy to pedestrians became the rule rather than the exception.

And I saw some drivers who had gained that extra sense of impending danger that can prevent catastrophe.

One Groton motorist saw a car coming up behind him. "He's coming pretty fast," the first driver thought. "I'll pull off the road, just in case."

As he did so, the car roared right through a red light. An officer caught the offender, who obviously was drunk.

Officer Swan gave the cautious driver a sticker and told him, "You not only saved his neck, but your own, too."

The driver smiled. "Funny thing," he said, "Until you began this campaign, I never would have thought of checking my mirror to see how some other guy was going to make out."

VITAMINS

A recent public service study of Patent Medicines in one of New York's leading evening newspapers, devoted one entire installment to VITAMINS and disclosed many interesting highlights about the sale of Vitamins and Vitamin-Mineral combinations.

One of the startling revelations in this frank article was the wide variance of Vitamin prices.

The following three paragraphs taken from the series, as it appeared, are of particular concern to every family buying Vitamins,

"Any particular vitamin bottled under one label is, for all practical and therapeutic purposes, the same as if it bottled under another label. The fact is, most of the Vitamin concentrates consumed in America are produced by only a few companies."

"The list of ingredients in a Vitamin compound is one thing the consumer can almost always depend on to be correct. Any company which fails to label the bottle with the exact formula and amount (or unit strength) of each ingredient risks a seizure by the U. S. Government."

"Bearing that in mind, it is interesting to pick up a few Vitamin catalogs and compare the prices charged by different companies for the same Vitamin compounds."

Following publication of the installment we received hundreds of phone calls requesting copies of the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

This interest prompted us to tell the entire nation our story.

Hudson Vitamin Products has been serving doctors and nurses for over 25 years and now you, too, can purchase your Vitamins DIRECT from Hudson at savings up to 50% and more. Page after page in the Free Hudson Catalog shows tremendous dollar savings on Vitamins, Vitamin-Mineral combinations and Food Supplements.

Here is one example from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog: A very popular multiple vitamin that is taken once-a-day, regularly sells for about $3.10 per 100...the Hudson formula sells for only $1.50 per 100.

Here is another—a well-known high potency B complex formula with Vitamin C and minerals (similar to a brand nationally advertised at $4.40 per 100)...only $2.10 per 100 DIRECT from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

These are only two examples that you will find in our 48 page catalog that is simple, easy to read and has been a Vitamin buying guide for millions from coast-to-coast.

Write for the Catalog and show it to your doctor if you like—but, by all means, discover for yourself why Hudson has become a DIRECT MONEY-SAVING source for vitamins throughout the nation. All Hudson vitamin products are sold with a money back guarantee.

Bright side upside down cakes

Put the ripe juicy goodness of Del Monte Fruits together with the bright beautiful delight of Jell-O Gelatin, and set them on a pedestal of cake. Result: The most lavish looking and luscious tasting desserts you ever made. And believe it or not, they're very simple. Look...

Peach Upside Down Cake
1 package (3 oz.) JELL-O Lemon Gelatin
1 cup boiling water • 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.)
DEL MONTE Sliced Peaches • 1 baked
8-inch white cake layer

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Pour syrup from Del Monte Brand Sliced Peaches and add water to equal 1 cup. Add to Jell-O. Chill until slightly thickened. Place peaches in 8-inch layer pan. Add about 1 1/4 cups Jell-O, covering fruit. Place cake layer on Jell-O in pan, top side up. Pour remaining thickened Jell-O on cake, spreading over top and down sides. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold and serve with whipped topping, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Fruit Cocktail Crown Cake
1 package (3 oz.) JELL-O Raspberry Gelatin • 1 cup boiling water
1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) DEL MONTE
Fruit Cocktail • 2 baked 9-inch
white cake layers, or one baked
8-inch white cake layer, split

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Pour syrup from fruit cocktail, measuring 1 cup. Add to Jell-O. Scatter Del Monte Fruit Cocktail in each of two 9-inch layer cake pans, reserving some for garnish. Pour Jell-O over fruit in pans. Chill a few minutes until Jell-O just begins to thicken. Place cake layers on Jell-O in pans, top side up. (If split 8-inch layers are used, place cut sides down on Jell-O in pans.) Chill until firm, about 3 hours. To serve, unmold one layer, inverting it onto a large plate. Unmold second layer and place on top of first, Jell-O side up. Garnish with whipped cream or prepared dessert topping and reserved fruit cocktail. Serve with additional whipped topping. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Golden Ring Cupcakes
2 packages (3 oz. each) JELL-O Lime
Gelatin • 2 cups boiling water • 1 can (1 lb.
4 1/2 oz.) DEL MONTE Sliced Pineapple •
6 packaged individual sponge cake shells

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Pour syrup from Del Monte Pineapple and add water to equal 2 cups. Add to Jell-O. Chill until almost set. Place a pineapple slice in bottom of each of six 10-oz. glass baking cups. Add 1/2 cup thickened Jell-O to each. Top each with a sponge shell, flat side up. Fill in around sides of shells with remaining Jell-O. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Unmold and serve with whipped topping, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED SENTIMENT

Victorianism is in the cards for Valentine's Day

by ROSALIND MASSOW

VALENTINE'S DAY, the annual 24-hour truce in the battle of the sexes, will be marked Wednesday by the goofiest barrage of sentimentality since the Romans started a day of Valentine love some 1,700 years ago.

This year's crop of Valentine cards will be larded with love and covered all over with sweet sentiment, just as in the Victorian era 100 years ago. The "I Love You" message, 1962 style, will come across with appliquéed vengeance. Layers upon layers of paper lace, bowers of roses, embossed cupids, swans and red satin hearts (see photos) will set the mood for romantic souls of all ages. Actress Tammy Grimes shows off the classic Valentine-card look on today's cover.

IN THE VICTORIAN ERA, when men and women wore their hearts on their ruffled sleeves, lovers documented their feelings on Valentine's Day with extravagantly ornamented cards. While many of these cards were manufactured, most lovers preferred to make their own. Young and old spent many winter evenings burning the candles low while tracing, cutting and pasting massive monuments to love and affection.

If the man or maid was weak at making up poetry, he could consult published tracts on love called "Valentine Writers" to help with the card's text. Special poetry was available for bachelors, old maids, tallow makers, misers, faithless lovers, coquettes and beloveds. Here's one example, intended to be used by a lovesick swain:

*Tho' faintly, feebly I reveal
A passion which I can't conceal
Yet may this little emblem prove,
To one beloved, a pledge of love.*

Another example is from a carpenter to his love:

*I SAW, 'tis true, and I saw you,
And quickly felt love's pain
With tender smart fill up my heart
As SHAVINGS fill my PLANE.*

*Ah! then, let's JOIN, my valentine,
In fond affection true,
As I unite, compact and tight,
My DEAL-BOARDS with the GLUE.*

In recent times—up until a few years ago—"sick" and comic Valentines were most popular with all ages, but lately people have again been buying old-fashioned sentiment. Explains Mrs. Jeannette Lee, director of design for Hallmark Cards:

"There's been a renaissance in all kinds of antique things. I believe it's because people are seeking added security in these troubled times. They remember having seen ornate Valentines in their parents' or grandparents' homes and it reminds them of the good old days when all was serene."

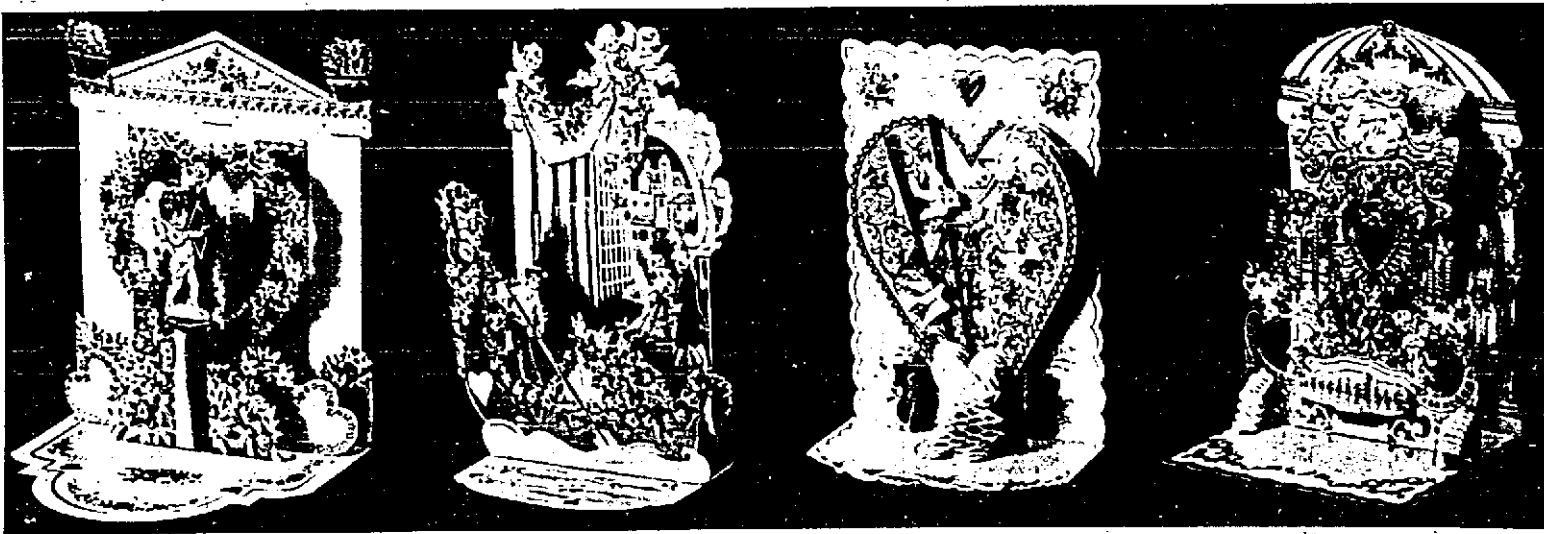

The origin of February 14 as the official day to declare one's love has never been fixed accurately, but the consensus is that a third century Roman physician named Valentine was responsible for all the fuss about hearts and flowers. Before he was sent to death for not renouncing his ideas on religion, he cured his jailer's daughter of blindness and then sent her a farewell note signed "Your Valentine."

IF YOU DON'T LIKE that explanation of the day, there are several others. Some people like to attribute the day to the Roman pagan festival of Lupercalia, a pre-Christian frolic in which young men and women celebrated a rather wild rite of Spring.

Other factions say that February 14 was a Roman festival day on which unmarried girls and boys drew lots for each other's company or that February 14 was the day the birds selected their mates.

Valentine's Day got its big start in the United States in the 1840s when a Mt. Holyoke College girl published cards for her classmates. Today card-makers claim that 600,000,000 cards are exchanged, a 50 per cent increase in the number of cards sent eight years ago. Dewy-eyed lovers will spend $48,000,000 on cards alone. You can bet your Valentine dollar that the cards you buy this year will be worth all their weight in gingerbread, fancy script, elaborate cut-outs and pure old-fashioned sentiment. Go Victorian! ■

Three delicious Swedish soups

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

It's hearty soup weather over most of the nation and we've taken our cue from Sweden, a country well-accustomed to coping with cold weather appetites via the soup tureen.

The first recipe uses beer as an ingredient, Swedish crisp bread as a thickener. The second is made with 5 kinds of vegetables and the third takes its flavor from fish and shrimp.

BEEF 'N BEER SOUP

- |                                   |                           |
|-----------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 2 cans (10½ oz. each)             | 2 teaspoons sugar         |
| condensed beef bouillon           | 1 can (12 oz.) light beer |
| 1 cup water                       | 2 egg yolks               |
| 8 dark Swedish crisp bread slices | ¼ teaspoon cinnamon       |
|                                   | Lemon peel twists         |

Pour bouillon, water and broken Swedish crisp bread into pan. Heat gently, using spoon to break bread into tiny pieces. Add sugar. Pour beer into bowl; beat egg yolks into it. Pour some bouillon mixture into beer; stir; return all to pan. Add cinnamon. Stir over low heat till just at boiling point. Float a twist of lemon peel on a piece of crisp bread in each bowl. Serves 4.

TUESDAY SOUP

- |                         |                           |
|-------------------------|---------------------------|
| 2 cans (10½ oz. each)   | 1 cup each cubed carrots, |
| condensed beef bouillon | parsnips, celery root,    |
| 1½ cups water           | turnips, potatoes         |
| 2 tablespoons barley    | 1 teaspoon sugar          |
|                         | Salt and pepper to taste  |

Combine bouillon and water; bring to boil. Add barley; cook 20 minutes. Add vegetables, sugar, salt and pepper. Simmer 35 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Makes 4 hearty servings.

SWEDISH SEAFOOD BISQUE

Stock

- |                                      |   |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine    | 10 sprigs fresh dill (optional)             |
| 2 medium onions, chopped             | 2 quarts water                              |
| 1 garlic clove (optional)            | 1 lemon slice                               |
| 1 carrot, cut up                     | 1 bay leaf                                  |
| 3 stalks celery with leaves, chopped | 10 peppercorns                              |
| 1 tomato, chopped                    | 1 tablespoon salt                           |
|                                      | 1 pound shrimp, uncooked                    |
|                                      | 3 pounds fish fillets (any firm white fish) |

Melt butter or margarine in large saucepan. Add onions and garlic. Simmer gently for a few minutes. Remove garlic. Add vegetables, dill and water. Bring to boil. Add lemon slice, bay leaf, peppercorns and salt. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add shrimp. Cover; cook for 5-7 minutes. Remove shrimp; peel; add to soup later. Cut fish into chunks; add; cook 10 minutes. Remove. Simmer stock 30 minutes longer; strain.

Bisque

- |                                   |                                    |
|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine | ¼ cup chopped fresh dill or chives |
| 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour   | 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten       |
| Fish stock                        | ½ cup heavy cream                  |
|                                   | 1 can (4 oz.) button mushrooms     |

Melt butter or margarine; stir in flour; stir in fish stock slowly; stir and cook until smooth and thickened. Combine dill, egg yolks and cream. Bring fish stock to boiling point; add slowly; beating vigorously. Add mushrooms, fish and shrimp. Serve immediately. Makes 8 servings. FROM PARADE'S TEST KITCHEN

ALMOND CRUST CHERRY CREAM PIE

ALMOND CRUST CHERRY CREAM PIE

1 stick Betty Crocker Instant Mixing Pie Crust Mix    1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup slivered almonds, finely chopped    1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 cups (15-oz. can) Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk    1/2 tsp. almond extract
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped

Mix pastry as directed on Betty Crocker Pie Crust Mix pkg., except add chopped almonds with the water. Prick sides of pie crust only. Bake as directed for Baked Pie Shell. Cool. Combine Borden's Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (you must use condensed milk!), lemon juice, vanilla and almond extract. Stir until mixture thickens. Fold in whipped cream and spoon into cooled shell. Top with Cherry Glaze (recipe below) or use your favorite brand of prepared cherry pie filling. Chill 2 to 3 hrs.

CHERRY GLAZE—2 cups (1-lb. can) pitted sour cherries, drained, 1/2 cup cherry juice, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tbsp. cornstarch, 2 to 3 drops red food coloring. If desired. Set aside drained cherries. Blend cherry juice with sugar and cornstarch. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and clear. Add cherries and food coloring; spread over cream filling. Chill.

BETTY CROCKER INSTANT PIE CRUST MIX makes the homemade-perfect crust! We make our Pie Crust Mix for you in sticks for these special reasons: 1. Contains so much shortening we mold it like butter. 2. Gives you exact measure. Each stick makes a big 9" crust. 3. Makes mixing easy with instant hot water method.

BORDEN'S EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK makes the smooth, creamy filling. This luscious pie filling needs no cooking, because you make it with magical Eagle Brand Condensed Milk. Eagle Brand is a blend of whole milk and sugar pre-cooked to a rich creaminess. Gives pie fillings velvety smoothness... rich, full flavor without any fuss.

50¢ REFUND!

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?

If you take vitamins, get enough rest, yet still feel tired—you may need more than ordinary vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to iron-poor, Tired Blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 important vitamins and, in addition, supplies the therapeutic amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! It is this rich source of iron, combined with high-potency vitamins, including essential B vitamins in 3 to 5 times the minimum daily requirements, that make GERITOL such an effective strength-building tonic. In only one day,

GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests!

Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency anemia frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement—further confirmed by laboratory tests. Remember, ordinary maintenance vitamins can't do it! But the high-potency combination of vitamins plus iron in GERITOL can help you regain your strength and energy.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor and if this is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You must feel a noticeable difference in the first seven days... or your money back from the maker.

Round eyes in 15 minutes

Before (top) and after: Japanese secretary displays results of her lunch-hour eyelid operation.

TOKYO.

"In by 12:00. Out by 12:15. Eyes rounded in 15 minutes. Be beautiful at lowest prices."

The above advertisement and hundreds more like it are part of the current Japanese boom in cut-price cosmetic surgery. This boom has now reached such proportions here that many of the 100 clinics specializing in plastic and cosmetic surgery are offering a lunchtime service at reduced prices.

Japanese secretaries, typists, and sales girls in search of Western-type beauty have the job performed in 15 minutes. Prices range from $20 to $40, depending upon the surgeon, and in no case does the operation take more than a half hour. Most are performed in 15 minutes.

The patient pays her money, is placed on an operating table, covered with a sheet. She is given an anesthetic. The surgeon works quickly turning the eyelids inside out, inserting three or four stitches. The girl is then gently slapped on the face, awakened, shown her new eye shapes, and escorted out while another customer is shown in. The whole thing is an assembly-line procedure.

In addition to eye jobs, Japanese plastic surgeons are performing the following cosmetic operations: Removing men's waistline bulges—$125; building up busts for flat-chested women—$100; new nose shapes—$75.

If you've got a spare $250, they'll turn you into a new man or a new woman in less than one week.

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

AT THE VILLAGE CHURCH in Kalinovka, Russia, attendance at Sunday school picked up after the priest started handing out candy to the peasant children. One of the most faithful was a pug-nosed, pugnacious lad who recited his scriptures with proper piety, pocketed his reward, then fled into the fields to munch on it. The priest took a liking to the boy, persuaded him to attend church school. This was preferable to doing household chores from which his devout parents excused him. By offering other inducements, the priest managed to teach the boy the four gospels. In fact, he won a special prize for learning all four by heart and reciting them non-stop in church. Now, 60 years later, he still likes to recite scriptures but in a context that would horrify the old priest. For the prize pupil, who memorized so much of the Bible, is Nikita Khrushchev, the Communist czar.

Man behind the man, shock-haired Mentor Graham taught Lincoln in New Salem.

The man who taught Lincoln

by HOMER CROY

ONE DAY, as we were driving in South Dakota, we had to pull into a drug-store. The name of the town turned out to be Blunt, on U.S. 14, 22 miles from Pierre.

I fell into conversation with the proprietor. As the conversation was dying, he remarked casually that this was the town where Abraham Lincoln's teacher had died. I could hardly believe my ears. Was it true that the man who had influenced Abraham Lincoln so greatly had died in an obscure, one-street Dakota town? I knew there had been a mystery about his teacher, Mentor Graham, who had suddenly and mysteriously disappeared.

The situation made me want to learn more about Abraham Lincoln's teacher, so I went to Pierre and, by inquiring, came finally to Will G. Robinson, secretary of the South Dakota State Historical Society. He told me a story that sent me hurrying back to Blunt to see the house where part of the story had taken place.

The story began in New Salem, Illinois. Here lived Mentor Graham, a born school teacher, in the day when a school teacher was one of the four important men in a town: the preacher, the doctor, the teacher, the lawyer.

In later life, Mentor Graham said he had taught about 5,000 boys and that Lincoln spoke the best English and had the finest sense of logic of any of them. Not only did Mentor Graham teach him, but Lincoln moved in and lived for six months with the Graham family. There was plenty of room—only six children. Somehow, Lincoln was able to study.

He especially wanted to study grammar. Teacher looked after that immediately. He sent Lincoln six miles to borrow a grammar book. And what a book that was! Its full and complete title was "ENGLISH GRAMMAR In Familiar Lectures, Embracing a New Systematic Order of Parsing, a New System of Punctuation, Exercises in False Syntax and a System of Philosophical Grammar, to which are added a Compendium, an Appendix, and a Key to the Exercises Designed for use in Schools and by Private Learners." No wonder Lincoln went through the Gettysburg Address without a bobble.

When Lincoln went off to Washington as President of the United States, Mentor went to see the inauguration. He didn't send his name in; he figured Lincoln would be busy and wouldn't want to be bothered by little people. He was sitting quietly in the audience when Lincoln, on the platform, began to crane his neck, then stood up and said, "Hello there, Teacher! Come up here with us."

Days of Trouble

It's at about this point that most histories leave Mentor Graham. But the rest of his story, I found, is even more fascinating—and inspiring.

The years passed; Lincoln was dead, and Mentor had retired. He looked forward to spending his final years in New Salem, where everyone knew him, where his silk hat and gold-headed cane were landmarks.

Then one day a nephew, James Graham, called on him and said he wanted to start a business in Kansas City. Would Uncle Mentor sign a note for him for $50? Mentor signed. Soon a lawyer showed up; the note was for $5000.

Mentor had family pride. He was so shaken, so humiliated that he wanted to go away where no one knew him and where he could start life over again. Yes, start life over again—he was only 83, he said. But where? At this time the government was giving away free land in the Dakotas: the government told you how you could raise wheat and become rich.

When Mentor and his son's family arrived at Blunt, they found a dry, desolate stretch of prairie. The family was so poor that it lived in a converted box-car on a railroad siding. After a time the son was able to rent a place, and the family started a boarding house.

The boarding house failed. Mentor's son entered up a claim and the family moved onto that bit of hardscrabble land. Mentor tried to plow, but the hands that'd never held anything heavier than a textbook were not up to it.

The family moved back to town where Mentor's joy was to teach the boys. Nearly always he carried a book, and, after a little character trait of his own, kept a finger to mark the place where he was reading, or the place where he wanted to teach the boys from. When the boys sighted him, they would come running, shouting, "Uncle Mentor! Uncle Mentor!" And there, with the boys eddying around him, he would teach.

End of a Man

One day—November 15, 1886, when he was 86—he started across the square, tall and angular and unstooped, in his threadbare suit. The boys spied him and came whooping.

They saw him pause. He seemed uncertain and confused; then he fell. When they got to him, he was crumpled on the ground, his finger in the book he was carrying.

The body was buried south of town; for years the grave lay barren and unnoticed. The wooden cross slewed out of shape. Tramps took over the house where the old gentleman had lived.

The Graham family back in Illinois became concerned over the neglect to Mentor Graham, and through the efforts of Mrs. Mary Graham Bradley, moved the body to Farmer's Point Cemetery three miles from New Salem. There it rests today:

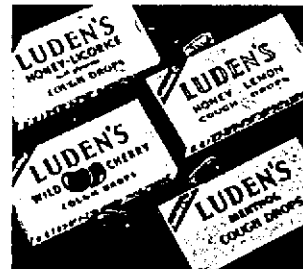

MENTOR GRAHAM
1800 1886
Abraham Lincoln's
Tutor at New Salem

Under the leadership of Will G. Robinson, the people in South Dakota got busy. The Graham house was bought and became a monument.

And there it stands today, once the dwelling place of the man who taught Abraham Lincoln.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by SAMMY WALSH

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sammy Walsh, 52 and Boston-born, is currently one of Miami's most popular host-entertainers. Walsh started out in show-business as a dancer in 1927, later developed into a comic. He played the vaudeville circuit from coast to coast, appeared in such night clubs as the Latin Quarter, Jimmy Kelly's and the Chez Paree, toured the country with Martha Raye. Walsh has played comedy bits in the Frank Sinatra film, Hole in the Head, and the Jerry Lewis film, The Bell Boy. At the moment he makes his headquarters in a Miami restaurant-lounge where without any urging he entertains customers with such jokes as these:

A friend of mine received a one-cent refund check from the Internal Revenue Service. He took it to the bank, endorsed it, and asked for the cash. The teller looked at the check and said: "This is most unusual. Would you please wait a minute while I consult our vice president?"

A few moments later the vice president approached and agreed that the check was good. "How would you like it?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" my friend asked.

The vice president smiled. "Heads or tails?"

Two guys on a street corner began slapping each other with one finger.

"What are you two men fighting about?" asked a policeman.

"We're fighting about a woman," answered one of the combatants, "only she doesn't amount to much."

When I was born, my father wanted me to be a farmer, and my mother wanted me to be a doctor. So they had the nurse place a pitchfork and a stethoscope in my crib. They figured the tool I grabbed first would decide the issue. I fooled them both. I grabbed the nurse.

In a school located in a real tough New York neighborhood—you know, the kind where the kids carry zip-guns and switch blades—the teacher and her sixth-grade class were studying the life of Thomas Edison.

The teacher asked Butch, the school's number-one delinquent, what he considered Edison's most outstanding invention.

The young hood pondered for a minute, then answered: "The electric chair."

An entertainer looking for work called on a booking agent.

"What do you do?" the agent asked.

"Bird imitations," the fellow answered.

"Bird imitations," the agent roared. "For pete's sake, they went out with the Spanish American War. Who wants to see bird imitations on television?"

"Okay, okay," the guy said. "You don't have to scream your head off." Then he got up and flew out the window.

A baseball umpire suffering from constant headaches consulted a doctor. Naturally he was given a complete work-up.

The doctor then said to him: "You need glasses."

Immediately the umpire jumped to his feet, jerked his thumb and shouted: "You're out of the game, wise-guy, and what's more, it'll cost you a hundred bucks!"

A drunk staggered into a cab and when the driver asked, "Where to?"—the drunk pulled a photo from his pocket and handed it to the driver.

"This is no address," said the cabbie. "It's a picture of you in a bathing suit."

"Okay, okay," burped the passenger. "Then take me to the beach."
